REGISTRATION DROP SAME IN DENTISTRY

Reasons Given as General Economic Trend
of Year

"The decrease in registration at the Dental College is approximately the same as in any other faculty. The drop is in no way due to any stiffening of the entrance requirements," Dean Secombe told The Varsity. "They have not been changed since 1927." In the Dean's opinion the general financial conditions were the cause of any falling off in enrolment.

The dental profession is no more overcrowded than the medical profession. The general influx into the professions after the war when the registration was as high as three hundred, when compared with the present registration of 178, might give the impression of overcrowding.

GAME FAST FROM START

Blues Show Spectacular Form in Initial Game
of Year

By John T. Stubbs

In the U. of T. O.H.A. senior opener at the Varsity Arena last night, the students dropped a tough decision to the Torontos on a 2 to 0 score. After holding the highly-rated ex-Marlboros scoreless throughout the first and second periods, the Blues were playing one man short with Williamson in the penalty box when Oliver flipped it past Shipp on a pass from Farrant after ten minutes of play in the last stanza. Davidson noticed the second counter on a lone rush with a minute and a half to go just after Cunningham had failed to beat Durman all alone in front. It was a tough game to lose after battling so hard all the way. Shipp was sensational in the nets for Varsity and saved many a sure goal.

As the game opened the winners opened a swarming attack, storming the Varsity nets with four shots which Shipp kept out. Then McPherson, at centre for the students, started an attack all his own and had the Torontos guessing for awhile but after he cooled off the club turned the tide back again. Farrant came close to a score when he beat the defence, but he lost his balance on the shot and it went wide of the open net. Again Shipp had to stop a three man attack alone as the Blue rearguard failed to function. Lampert went to the cooler and Varsity sent four men up but failed to score, finding finish inside the Blue line. Williamson joined Lampert in the penalty box for tripping Davidson. Mann also took his turn for tripping. As the period closed both teams bored in but could not score.

TRINITY SUFFERS FIRST SET-BACK

Forestry Eleven Breaks Up Winning Streak

SCORE 5 TO 1

Trinity received their first setback of the current season when the hard plunging Forestry eleven took them into camp by a 5-1 score on the Trinity campus yesterday afternoon. The half time score of 0-0 represents the play, although the Forestry line seemed slightly superior to that of Trinity.

In the second half, beautiful interference opened gaps in the Trinity line through which Edwards and Haggie made big gains. The big break for the Woodcutters came in the fourth quarter when a ten yard plunge by Carlson following A'Court's blocked kick, laid the ball on the seven yard line. Edwards took the ball on the next play and went over for a touch, which Forestry could not convert. From the kickoff after the touchdown, Trinity pressed hard, and their sole point resulted from A'Court's kick to the deadline.

Edwards, returned to the city last night, was undoubtedly the best man on the field, being good for 6 or 8 yards every time he carried the ball. Haggie and Carlson were also outstanding for Forestry. A'Court overshadowed Edwards slightly and showed shed for Trinity.

THE DECLINE OF PARTY POLITICS

In recent years the United States of America has become a huge political laboratory, where the rest of the world has been able to watch the most interesting and unique experiments in politics take place, and from the results of such experiments has been able to decide which course would be the best to follow for their own particular case. But of late these experiments have taken on forms that would be far more suitable in a psychiatric hospital. When people blindly and eagerly declare themselves willing to be ruled by corrupt and dishonest men, when wise-cracking and jingoistic oratory is enough to put a man in a position where he controls the destinies of thousands of lives, then there is something radically wrong with either the people themselves or the form of government that allows such conditions.

But the United States seem to be opening their eyes to the fact that good and clever men will give you an honest and wise government. The voter of today is beginning to realise that if he wants the best results from his franchise he must vote for the man whom he believes will give him the fairest and cleanest administration, regardless of his party, race, or religion.

In the recent New York elections, the fact that Major LaGuardia, a Republican and an Italian, was given the mayoralty of a Democratic city whose heterogeneous population contains a decided minority of Italian citizens, is a heartening sign that party politics are at last disappearing. The days when a man voted Conservative and Liberal because his grandfather before him happened to vote that way, are disappearing. The voter is beginning to see that his problems are far, far different from those his forefathers had to face. He must realise that the political party he supports can do no good if the men within that party are incapable of shouldering their responsibilities.

Up to the Democratic landslide last November, the rest of the world had given up hope that the people of United States would ever pull themselves out of the deep and boggy rut into which they had voluntarily fallen. The country was definitely Republican and despite exposure after exposure of corrupt and incapable government, seemed in a fair way of remaining so forever. But the Roosevelt victory put a new light on the affair. Immediately Roosevelt carried out reforms that made the country Democratic-crazy and Democratic candidates in every state carried all elections their way.

And then we come to New York City. The second largest metropolis in the world, it had for twenty years been governed by Tammany Hall, a Democratic organisation. An investigation into the government of the city showed what had been suspected for a long time; that New York City was being run by one of the most corrupt, extravagant, and inefficient administrations that had ever undertaken the management of a modern city. Was New York going to vote Democratic because it always had, and retain this sort of government, or was it to turn about and vote for a man, who although a Republican, had proven himself to be one of the most fearless, honest and incorruptible men that had ever represented New York State in the House of Representatives? True, the Democrats to save their face, introduced another candidate, but the likelihood of there being any great change in administration by his election, was very small. The fact that LaGuardia was overwhelmingly elected speaks well for the sanity of the New York electorate.

The world today can thank the depression for showing up in their true light the type of men that sat in the driver's seat and held the reins of the world's political chariot. The depression has made the average voter government-conscious, and for that we must be thankful. It has created a situation where corruption and vice practised on a large scale by government officials, will lead to almost immediate detection and action, and finally, and perhaps most important of all, it has done its best to teach the people to lay aside their archaic prejudices and vote for the man, not the party. Whether it has been successful remains to be seen, but in any event its lesson will have had a long and lingering effect on the present generation.

Art, Music and Drama

Toronto Operatic Society

Last night the Toronto Operatic Company presented The Mikado to a disappointingly small but adequately enthusiastic audience.

Usually, a performance of this kind should be approached with a slight twinge of fear and a clearly-printed libretto. Fortunately, both could be dispensed with, for the occasion—the performance was eminently satisfying.

The play is the usual delicious Gilbert and Sullivan fare—Gilbert's wittiest and gayest satire, and Sullivan's most charming and light hearted tunes. If you are fond of them, you will love The Mikado.

Several characterisations in this production are outstanding. Covert Massie dominates the stage in his role of Pooch-Bah. A great mountain of a man, his eye-filling presence coupled with the sonority of his utterances is an irresistible combination. Every moment he is on the stage definitely is his. He is especially good in his invocations to his highly-insulted family pride, and nothing can quite equal his appeal, "O my protoplasmic ancestor." Alfred Kidney makes a very likeable Ko-Ko, skilful in his mingling of exaggerated pathos and humour. His gaiety and spirit are infectious. Besides filling a role to perfection, he makes an excellent job of his directing.

Arthur Bartlett gives an excellent characterisation of Nanki-Poo and is at all times satisfying. His voice is clear and true, showing to particular advantage in the solo, "A Wandering Minstrel, I", and several of the duets.

While his entrance is fairly inauspicious, Larry Eckardt gives a brilliant interpretation of the Mikao. He is an artist in the fields of facial contortion and voice manipulation.

The women characters are far less impressive than the men. Only one, Beth Arnott Ellis, as Katisha, has a voice of sufficient clarity or depth to make any impression. Her interpretation of her character is more profound than any other woman in the cast. The others are very decorative but uninspired. Jean Evans is a pretty Yum-Yum, but offers nothing more than an element of graceful inconsequence to the entire production.

The opera is excellently produced, with beautiful costumes and scenery. The manipulation of the fans throughout is really fascinating and lends a certain charm to each movement. The choruses are well done, particularly those of the School Girls, who flit about daintily in true butterfly fashion.

If you like your operas feather-light and gay, be sure to see The Mikado.

Eaton Auditorium

Next Monday and Tuesday, November 20 and 21, Teresina will appear at the Eaton Auditorium.

Teresina is an authentic Spanish dancer who has made numerous tours throughout Europe, America, Africa, and the East. She began her career as a dramatic actress but since 1928, when she gave her first solo concert with the Salle Pleyel in Paris, she has become exclusively a Spanish dancer.

Teresina has been hailed by the severest critics in leading European cities as the most impressive Spanish dancer of the time. In her own country she was given a reception which was unquestionably the greatest ovation ever accorded a dancer.

Students will be given an opportunity to see Teresina perform next Monday and Tuesday nights at a specially reduced admission price.

With the Theatres

Tivoli—

The management of the Tivoli are to be congratulated on their discrimination in bringing the film version of The Emperor Jones to Toronto. It is not only unique among screen presentations: it is outstanding. Paul Robeson, in the title role, has done one of the most magnificent pieces of acting in the history of the films, and the supporting cast has been excellently chosen and directed. There is scarcely a flaw in the whole production. The scenario, adapted from O'Neill's play by Du Bose Heyward, is remarkably discriminating, and its tempo never lags for a second. The final scenes, in which Jones struggles through the jungle pursued by the inescapable throb of a negro drum, build up suspense, and something more than suspense, with an almost nerve-wracking effectiveness. C. L. C.

Shea's—

The production for this week at Shea's is a musical comedy starring Bebe Daniels. There is all the action, colour, crooning and romance which you expect when you see this popular screen star and this time she is really good. By way of variety she romps through a snappy workout in the gym, makes love, pulls wisecracks and sings. The story is rather amusing, a soldier insults her and later finds himself as her secretary, which would embarrass anyone. The conclusion is as expected.

The eight-act vaudeville on the stage is a rather successful attempt at a comedy, interspersed with several good songs.

B.J.M.

Imperial—

The Imperial management present this week one of the finest shows we have seen for some time in Toronto. The feature is Sinclair Lewis' Ann Vickers. Although we found the reading of the book handy in order to bridge a couple of spots where the censors could not face reality, on the whole the picture is a faithful summary of the novel. The leading roles are very well interpreted by Irene Dunne and Walter Huston while Edna May Oliver excels herself in a character.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Talk about a "real game"! That struggle between St. Hilda's and St. Mike's on the basketball floor last night merits the title. For a change there was a good crowd there too and what's more they did not have a chance to be bored once during the whole game. Continual whistle-blowing for penalties (well-deserved, unfortunately) slowed things up a little but the score was close enough to keep everyone on tip-toe.

The combination play of St. Mike's, the winners, was not up to par but this was counteracted by the wonderful shooting of Callie Dunn on the forward line, who was right on every time she received the ball. Agnes Gardner on the defence line played an outstanding game also and stopped more than one score. It was anybody's game though, as the 20-17 score indicates and the St. Hilda's team fought gamely to the end.

Tomorrow night in the Lillian Massey gym, Vic Seniors meet Meds at seven o'clock. Vic Seniors, as far as we know now, appear to have the stronger team but we are looking to Meds to give them some strong opposition even though they are handicapped by lack of practice. A Meds basketball team will be seen in action tomorrow night at Vic gym in a scheduled game against St. Mike's. Why not turn out and support your team? Besides you are sure to have a good time.

ST. MIKE'S TAKES OPENING SET-TO BY 20-17 SCORE

St. Mike's were successful last night in defeating St. Hilda's in a scheduled women's basketball game by a score of 20-17 at O.C.E. gym. A large crowd witnessed the closely contested game which was exciting throughout. Penalties for charging and overguarding were frequent. The first half ended with St. Hilda's on the right side of a 9-15 score. Passing by St. Mike's was not up to form but in the second half of the game they held their opponents to only one basket. Agnes Gardner and Callie Dunn were outstanding for St. Mike's.

in a period of prosperity when the need for it is least evident."

Asked if he believed that political influence would hamper the operation of such a bank, the professor replied, "I regard the question of business and financial interference in government quite as undesirable as the so-called political interference; but there is a chance that with adequate safeguards a central bank, like the Board of Railway Commissioners, may be independent of day-to-day political frustration."

Professor A. F. W. Plumtree, also of the Economics Department and a member of the Royal Commission, likewise stressed that the idea of a central bank is not a cure-all for our economic difficulties. "As I have said elsewhere, it would be possible to devise a central bank of whose creation I would approve," he said. "I can see no reason for hesitating in the establishment of a central bank, but of course it should not be looked upon as a cure for this depression or for economic ills in general."

"I doubt that the taking over of the note issues of the chartered banks would give a Canadian central bank any instrument of control which it would not otherwise possess," was Professor Plumtree's reply to The Varsity's query as to the advisability of the bank issuing notes.

up some fast, exciting hockey for the cheering fans. McClelland broke through but couldn't get his shot away. Dr. Duke McCurry was calling them close and letting nothing go. Jeffrey for Varsity with Oliver and Grivel for the Toronto club sat it out with the time keepers for a while. Hendry almost broke into the scoring column with a hard close in shot. Varsity was robbed when they took two slam shots in front when their opponents were a man short. The play reversed and Shipp was called on to save a hot one. Both teams were travelling fast and back checking hard. A fight ensued when McPherson rounded the defence alone to beat Durnan in the Toronto nets and was walloped by Lampport, who failed to draw a penalty. The puck stopped on the line underneath Durnan as he fell. The Blues were gaining confidence as they realised their ability to stop the red, green and yellow clad speed aces.

In the last period both teams missed great chances by inches. The downtown team had an edge on speed and finish around the nets that kept Shipp hopping to clear after stopping the shots. McPherson and Jeffrey on the lighter Varsity front line gave Durnan something to worry about several times. Williamson received an undeserved penalty when he knocked Farrant over inside the Varsity blue line. Then the Torontos turned it on in a desperate effort to score. They sent five forwards up again and again but the students held them out. Just before Williamson came back Farrant banged a pass out from the corner to Oliver who shot for the opening score. Varsity came back strong but could not get the puck past Durnan who played a stellar game in the nets. Cunningham was alone in front and got his pass but Durnan came out and kicked the shot aside. Davidson picked up the loose puck and tore down the left boards, boring in on Shipp in a great effort for the second goal with a minute and a half to go. Twice after that the losers bored in only to have their shots miss the mark in front as the game ended 2-0 for the Torontos.

Varsity had the majority of the shots with 33 passes at Durnan to the 29 shots from Torontos on Shipp. The winners drew five penalties to Varsity's three. Speed and finish on combination efforts and a stronger defence made the difference that gave the Torontos a win in the dying moments of the encounter.

Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, White and Campbell; wings, Hendry and McPherson; centre, McClelland; subs, Rey, Jeffrey, Cunningham, Williamson and McCartney.

Torontos — Goal, Durnan; defence, Whittaker and Kitchen; wings, Farrant and Davidson; centre, Oliver; subs, Lampport, Grivel, Shill, Mann and Goldie.

SCHOOL BLANKS KNOX 23 TO 0

S.P.S. swamped Knox last night on the back campus in a rugby league game by a score of 23-0. The game was played in thick slush and although the footing was slippery, few errors marred the game.

School were much faster than the Knox team and demonstrated a better type of rugby.

U.C. WINS BOXLA FIXTURE 12 TO 7

In a crucial game for Group 1 boxla leadership last night in the big gym, Hart House, Knox were forced to accept defeat at the hands of the strong U.C. team by a score of 12-7. After the half, which ended 5-4 for U.C., Knox appeared unable to maintain the fast pace and permitted U.C. to win by a comfortable margin. The score at half time was 5-4 for U.C.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Drop over to the Stadium this afternoon at 2.30 and watch an interesting battle. University College and Victoria are going to fight it out in a grudge game for their group title in the Mulock Cup series. Both these outfits want into the playoffs but only one of them can get there. U.C. have been bolstering up their lineup with a few supposedly outside stars and the Scarlet and Gold enthusiasts don't like it a bit. The Red and White executives say that these players haven't been able to get out and qualify. Maybe so but why were they able to get out all of a sudden for the last scheduled game? We are not taking sides in this issue but it is plainly an example of what has happened so often in the past and will continue to happen so long as the Athletic Directorate allows the interfaculty rules to remain so wide open for such offences. Vic should take their lot with a grain of salt and fight it out, as they no doubt will. It is going to be a game worth watching. Vic has been depleted with injuries and the fact that they sent so many men up to the intercollegiate teams this year cuts down their chances. They outplayed U.C. in their first encounter but the Red and White twelve came back and reversed the count very decisively in the return game to tie up the group.

Last night Warren Stevens' hockey squad did themselves real proud in their first scheduled game against the former Marlboro all-star club made up for the most part of last year's junior aces. It was a big surprise for the Torontos when they began to see a scoreless tie in the offing. Varsity is counted as the weakest sister in the seven team group but they certainly had the Torontos' measure for most of that game and the Torontos have been called as the strongest outfit of the group. From the performance they dished up last night they don't look as though they stand much of a show with the Nationals, now from West Toronto. And even at that with all their speed and a margin in finish and combination, the winners weren't two goals better. If they have designs on that good old Allan Cup they will have to start faster than they did last night. Give those Blues credit for getting out there and fighting them to a standstill for two periods and ten minutes of another.

By the way, take a look at McGill's prospects for this season. If they aren't in the picture for the dominion title somewhere we miss our guess. They went a long way last year and this year they look stronger still. Nels Crutchfield is rated as one of the best amateur players in the east and that means Canada. With him on the first front line is Jack McGill of former fame with the Redmen, and Elie, who starred for the University of Montreal six last winter. U. of M. will not be entered in the intercollegiate series this time so it's a home and home series between Varsity and McGill. The Redmen's second string is powerful too. It is made up of Farquharson, Robertson and Farmer. McHugh is in the nets with Morris Powers of last year's team available if necessary, but out due to the pressure of studies in his final year. Meiklejohn is back on the defence and a new man named Hall from Alberta teams up with him. Shaughnessy will be eligible this year for a rearguard position too, but has not been out yet because of his grid activities. This looks like a strong squad and if it is not over-rated too much should be counted on to go a long way both in the intercollegiate and Q.H.A. McGill trimmed Verdun handily last week for a starter in the city series in Montreal.

Warren Stevens hopes to have all his football claimants to an intercollegiate crown in shape for the sudden death game with Queen's here next Saturday. Five men have been on the injured list since last Saturday's game but they all should be in uniform by the end of this week again. Dawson hurt his knee, Hennessy fractured his thumb, McQuigge's leg was still doubtfully stiff, Copp's knee was not yet healed and Taylor was off with an appendage hurt too. And Lou Hayman expects Ishbister back in harness for the game here tomorrow with Loyola College in the intercollegiate intermediate playoff between the central and eastern group winners.

nations which are watching eagerly for developments. Thus it is that, with our wonderful systems of communication, we receive two contradictory reports.

"The Germans are unusually poor foreign propagandists. They show a decided lack of appreciation of the effect of things like this recent election on the public opinion of other countries. But Hitler is too well acquainted with conditions not to know that any steps towards immediate war would be sheer madness."

The truth is that Hitler's plans concerning his policy of international relations are being guarded closely, for the present, as a secret. The recent visit of Reichminister Goering to Rome is regarded as an indication that Premier Mussolini will be the first to be invoked regarding the resumption of contact with the other nations.

Hitler is quoted as saying, "The rescue of the fatherland will be your compensation," when thanking the people for their unanimous support. "November twelfth will remain forever one of the greatest days of German history. Far beyond the fondest hopes, the whole nation placed itself as one man behind its leader, thereby exhibiting to the world the miracle of a result of your enforced departure?"

"I certainly have no grudge against the German people—the yare splendid and were very kind to me during my 10 years in Germany. As for the government—there's very little use in worrying about that because, you see, I fooled them a little. The News had written me that I was to be transferred to Japan to handle the Tokyo bureau, so that when the German government kicked the chair out from under me—I was just getting up anyway."

Mr. Mowrer's reference to the chair referred to his enforced resignation from the chairmanship of the Berlin foreign correspondents' association. The Nazi powers, annoyed by the candor of his 1932 dispatches, had demanded his resignation, but the press association refused to accept his resignation.

They then employed the "hostage" system and arrested the elderly Jewish correspondent of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, Dr. Paul Goldberg, keeping him confined until Mr. Mowrer acceded to their demand for his resignation.

The Imperiaettes open the stage show with a football skit and from a masculine viewpoint they are a lot easier to look at than the Varsity team. Two comedy acts and a very good dancing team precede the Mills Brothers' headline act. This harmony team live up to all advance notices (which is in itself quite unusual), and prove to you all they have is four splendid voices and a guitar.

The only jarring note is a flag-waving, musical overture in celebration of Armistice Day, but a good cartoon and a laphazard news reel round out three hours' splendid entertainment.

Hollywood—

On the whole we would say go to the Hollywood this week if you feel like going somewhere and don't quite know exactly. We were there last night. Mind you, the feature is really nothing to wire home about unless you have money to throw around. We always did think Carole Lombard the least bit stagey. We don't know Gene Raymond; but he was pretty good. The best acting was by a fellow called Arthur Hohl in a minor part called Steve. And the title, Brief Moment, has about the amount of relevance we have come to expect from movie titles.

But wait. That's only half the show. The rest of it was something like we've never, never seen before. Instead of a jumble of disjointed shorts with a mediocre comedy and some sport shots from last year or maybe the year before showing ski-jumping at Lake Placid, they've got hold from somewhere of a sort of grand medley affair, combining all manner of lighter movie entertainment. It started off with the inevitable Jack Pearl, but after him came the pleasantly vibrant voice of Phil Harris, who led his Coconut Grove orchestra for us.

KREISLER TICKETS FOR STUDENTS

The management of Massey Hall has been able to extend to university students the opportunity of obtaining tickets at reduced rates for the violin recital by Fritz Kreisler in Massey Hall tonight (Tuesday, Nov. 14th). All tickets except those selling at $1.00 are for sale to students at fifty cents reduction.

Those interested kindly apply to desk in Hart House entrance hall between 12 and 2 or 5 and 6 today.

VOLLEYBALL WIN

Last night in the upper gym, the Senior Vic volleyball artists defeated the Senior U.C. squad after a hard battle by the scores of 15-4, 8-15 and 15-10. Long runs by both sides featured the games and left the result in doubt at every point in the match. Vic's superior passing and spiking proved to be too much for the hard fighting college men.

LACK OF INTEREST HINDERS NATIONAL LENDING LIBRARY

Dr. Locke Deplores Delay in Founding Institution at Ottawa

NEEDED IN RURAL PARTS

Necessary if Literary Movement in Canada to Advance

Dr. Locke, head of the Toronto Public Library, when questioned by The Varsity as to the probability and practicability of the establishment of a National Lending Library at Ottawa, stated that it was lack of interest, rather than lack of funds, which prevented such an establishment.

"We of the city take too much for granted—we do not realise the utter isolation of people in rural districts, who have no access to books. It is loneliness which fills the insane asylums," Dr. Locke continued, "and neighbourless people, too poor to afford books, have their thoughts turned increasingly inward. They are in far worse state than the three little pigs, when they are confronted with the big bad wolf of communism." The establishment of a national lending library on the lines of the National Central Library of England, is considered necessary if the literary movement in Canada is to move successfully forward. To a certain extent, the Toronto library fulfils this need, mailing thousands of books, not only to rural Ontario, but to the prairie provinces. Dr. Locke received a letter from a Saskatchewan farmer, who had a farm, four boys, and no means of getting books for them, while the riff-raff of the city streets have the privilege of reading and educating themselves.

"If this is a democracy, it is surely necessary to educate the people intelligently without books, never seeing a newspaper, can have no real knowledge of world thoughts, and events. There is no line of social demarcation in books—they can know Lloyd George better than their nearest neighbour, there is no need for them to be lonely." A travelling library system would partly alleviate the distress caused by lack of books, but it could only operate on certain set routes, missing those people who are isolated farther north.

Dr. Wallace of the University Library, did not see much hope for the immediate establishment of a national reference library. "Canada ranks with Siam and Abyssinia, in that they are the three countries in the world without a national reference library," stated Dr. Wallace. "We are not as particularly literary people, there are many homes in Toronto without a

ATHENIAN IDEAL BASIS OF STOKOL

Professor Coventry Lectures on Czecho-Slovakia Organisation

EQUALITY IS PRINCIPLE

"The Czecho-Slovakia Sokol Community or Organisation is an educational association," stated Professor Coventry in the course of his lecture last evening in Convocation Hall.

Professor Coventry outlined the history of the Sokol movement from the time of its inception in 1862 to the present day. He explained that from small beginnings seventy-three years ago it has thrived until its membership consists of between six and seven hundred thousand men, women and children.

Its fundamental basis is the Athenian ideal of citizenship. Its principle is insistence on the equality of human life. It emphasises the importance of education and physical development.

The most interesting portion of the address was a description of the Sokol festival itself. Every six years the largest is held at Prague, with others at intervals of two years in the smaller cities. Lasting through June and July, the festival consists chiefly of physical training displays. A number of slides illustrating these activities were included in the lecture.

At the close of the festival of 1932 an elaborate pageant was presented, depicting the athletic and cultural life of Ancient Greece, which were held up as a standard for the Sokol to aim at.

The form of the movement today is essentially the same as when it was founded, though the scope of its activities has been considerably enlarged. It has preserved a tradition of the highest moral and physical standards among its members, and membership in the Sokol community is considered a source of moral inspiration.

INTERCOLLEGIATE WOMEN WILL DEBATE FASCISM

Debating Team from Toronto
Will Go to McGill
University

The women's intercollegiate debate will take place on Thursday, December 7. The motion before the House will be "Resolved that Fascism is the salvation of, and not a threat to, the progress of civilisation." Each of the four colleges in the debating union, McGill, McMaster, Queen's and the University of Toronto will send one team away, while another will remain at home to meet one of the visiting teams. The affirmative side of the motion will be supported by the home teams, as always, with the visitors upholding the negative. McGill will send a team here, and the Toronto team will go to Queen's. The Toronto team at Queen's will be Margaret Farmer, St. Hilda's; Eleanor Burrows, Victoria; the home debaters are Margaret Lister, St. Hilda's, and Margaret Gillooley, St. Joseph's.

C.C.F. REGIME TO ADVANTAGE OF ENGINEERING

Resolution is Favoured by
S. P. S. Debating Society

HIGHER SALARIES

At Present Engineers not Fully Compensated Due to Competition

In a debate held last night in the Debates Room at Hart House on the subject, "Resolved that in the opinion of this House, professional engineering would be more desirable under the conditions as proposed by the C.C.F. than under the conditions now existing," Mr. King and Mr. Johnson, speaking for the resolution, won the decision. The meeting was held by the S.P.S. debating society.

Mr. King claimed that the C.C.F. plan of state control would result in higher salaries for engineers and that under the present system engineers do not receive the full product of their labour due to excessive competition. "There would be less waste in time, energy and materials. There would be greater security of employment, more opportunity for exercising one's personal opinion and less patronage."

Mr. Johnson pointed out that the long working hours common under a competitive system would be eliminated. "Government control of industry would make for stability as a competent national planning body could eradicate many of the evils of capitalism." Moreover, an engineer would receive more sympathetic consideration from the government than from a private corporation operating solely for profit.

Mr. Fair, the first speaker for the negative, stated that a planned economy would place too much responsibility on engineers, resulting in longer hours and harder working conditions. There would be much less chance for advancement on merit due to patronage and personal grievances.

Mr. Jerrel, also for the negative, advanced the view that the engineer was becoming more and more an executive. The instability of governments is well-known. Long term projects would be progressing under

Many Surprises, Goals Are Prizes Old Story Rises in New Disguises

By Martin B. Loeb

The M. and P. Society, at least those meek and mild freshmen who have ambitions to explore that field of stray thoughts known even to the uninitiated as Mathematics and/or Physics have quaint ideas. Imbued with the spirit of fairly tales and musty myths, these poor unfortunates tried to substantiate that famous story of the calf in U.C. Tower. They procured the calf all right and all the plans were made, but a hitch occurred in that they robbed the night watchman and sort of got his goat. Undaunted, as only the very young can be, they arranged a party, they cowed the calf and hid it behind the Museum door and then gave the goat (the one which they received from the U.C. night watchman) as a prize, to be won by none other than Miss Lydia Newton. Miss Newton, when cross-examined, was in somewhat of a quandary as she did not know whether to transfer to Guelph and take up agriculture or remain as is and call it Calculus, because that's what bucks her most. The goat tried to remain anonymous but we found out its name was Cuthbert.

The surprise party (a super-prize party) was held at Malloney's Art Galleries and the music was amply supplied by Les Wilson and his Ambassadors. The president of the famous Society is Aberdeen Robins, at which we might remark that he is a true son although he was very generous. Marie Thompson seemed to be the guiding spirit of the very successful dance and was hostess to some hundred and forty people, including some who were more scientific than honourable.

Miss Mabel James can thank her lucky stars for a dog; and thereby hangs a tale, not very securely however. On closer examination the dog, gained in a contest which consisted in finding one's way among the clouds, was not very real nor hot and by some obscure mechanism was able to wobble its tale, pardon me, its tail indefinitely.

For those who have that particular slant and can get the right angle on things, the Mathematics and Physics Society seems to be something to which there should be no minus quantities. But woe is me, we had a swell time, which ended at a typewriter to the tune of "Comin' thru the Rye".

ITALIAN SYSTEM MAKES LABOUR DUTY TO STATE

Everyone Must Contribute to the Good of the State

ONLY WORKERS VOTE

Every Business Has Guld to Look After Its Own Interests

"Under the new Italian system, work becomes a duty to the State," stated Professor E. Goggio yesterday when asked by The Varsity to explain Mussolini's latest political move.

Territorial representation has been abolished under the guild plan, he said. Instead, every business and profession in Italy now has its guild to look after its interests. From these guilds are appointed representatives to the National Council of Corporations. Then a national ticket is drawn up and the people vote to accept or reject the whole ticket.

Thus only the workers have representation. It becomes impossible for the individual to work only for the advancement of his own interests. Everyone must contribute to the good of the State.

Within themselves the guilds or syndicates are independent. The employees' syndicate of a certain industry decides the rates and conditions under which their members shall work. However, if they disagree with the employers' syndicate, a representative of the central government is called in to arbitrate, or the matter may be taken before a Court of Labour. Strikes and lockouts in this way become unknown, and are in fact prohibited.

In Italy there is no idea of one man

U.C. CLASS PARTY

Jack Slatter and his Radio Commission Orchestra are to provide the music for the first party of the class of 3T6 of University College. The sophomores will hold their dance at the Women's Union on St. George Street this evening. Tickets may be procured in the rotunda of University College today from 12 noon until 2 p.m.

SUNDAY CONCERT TICKETS

Eighty single tickets, which will admit men students only for the concert on Sunday next, will be issued at the Hall Porter's desk at 1 p.m. on Thursday.

MASQUERADE TICKETS

In view of the fact that there are a few remaining tickets for the Masquerade available, a list will be at the Hall Porter's desk during Wednesday, 15th November, which may be signed by members who have not been able to secure tickets through their respective faculties and colleges and the tickets will be sold between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Thursday, 16th November in the west common room on showing of registration cards.

WOODSWORTH GUEST AT NEXT DEBATE

"No Acceptable Alternative to Two Older Political Parties"

SPEAKERS NOT YET NAMED

A feature of exceptional interest at the next Hart House Debate which is to be held on Wednesday, November 29th, will be the presence of Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, who, The Varsity has been informed by the Debates Committee, has notified the committee that he will be pleased to attend.

The paper before the House at the time will be "Resolved, that in the opinion of this House, there is no acceptable alternative to the two older political parties in Canada." The speakers on the paper will be announced definitely later.

At the recent meeting of the Debates Committee it was felt that too much attention was given to the four principal speakers and not enough to speakers from the floor of the House. Speakers from the floor should be given just as much attention as the speakers on the paper.

NOVEL LIGHTING AT MASQUERADE

Johnny Copp and Cliff Young to Provide Music for Dancing

DECORATIONS MODERNISTIC

The school year at Varsity would be incomplete without the Hart House Masquerade, one of the real highlights of the social season, and the House Committee of Hart House has made plans for this annual affair which promise a thoroughly enjoyable evening to everyone who attends. The date for this gala evening is November 17 and present indications are that the party will be well attended; more than three quarters of the tickets have already been signed for and there is a possibility of an early closing of the sale.

The music for the evening promises to be well taken care of by two orchestras, one under the direction of Johnny Copp and the other one led by Clifford Young. Dancing, which will continue from 9.00 p.m. until 2.00 a.m., will be held in the gymnasium, the east common room and the reading room. The decorations, particularly in the gymnasium, will be quite modernistic and very striking, while the lighting effects will be very novel, some being used for the first time. The first supper, which will be in the form of a buffet supper, in the Great Hall, (Continued on Page 2)

SLIGHT CHANCE FOR DISARMAMENT IN EUROPE NOW

British Policy Might Have Been Stronger in Relation to Japan

FRANCE TO BE CONSIDERED

Professor Mackenzie Thinks Britain Doing All Possible

"In view of the present situation in Europe, little can be done towards the solving of the disarmament problem," Prof. Mackenzie told The Varsity. "A solution of the question would involve a considerable measure of disarmament on the part of the allied powers coupled with assurances to France and her allies that assistance to them will be forthcoming in case of aggressive action on the part of Germany."

As far as British policy in the past has influenced the course of events, Professor Mackenzie thought that it might have been stronger in relation to Japan. The failure of members of the League to deal speedily and adequately in the early stages with the Manchurian problem has caused some of the feeling of insecurity and the disarmament crisis at the present time.

According to the statement made by Ramsay MacDonald in the British House of Parliament Great Britain is continuing to hold conversations with France, Italy and the United States. This, according to Professor Mackenzie, is about all that can be done at this juncture.

VICTORIA WINS FROM U.C. 9 TO 2

Scarlet and Gold Eliminate
U.C. from Mulock
Cup Playoffs

COLMER SENSATIONAL

Asserting their supremacy in inter-faculty competition in no uncertain manner at the expense of University College, the Scarlet and Gold clad battlers from Victoria came through with a 9-2 win yesterday afternoon at the Stadium. The victory for Vic eliminates U.C. from the playoffs for the Mulock Cup as these two teams were tied for first place in Group 2.

Hass, kicking for the losers, was the best of the booters, but the backfield work and the broken field running of Colmer on the Vic team was sensational and it was his touch in the third quarter that put Vic out in front when he ran 28 yards for the majority. He kicked the two singles scored by Vic in the first quarter, but Hass tied the score before half time with two singles for U.C. After Colmer had just got over the line for the touch, Vic tried a placement on the convert. Dried, setting the ball up for the placement was charged and kicked in the mouth, losing two teeth in the ordeal. That, however, did not stop the gritty little Vic quarter and he went right on playing heady game for the rest of the contest. Colmer made it 8-2 later in the third quarter with another single.

In the fourth canto Vic sent Dichl and Vaughan out with running shoes on and they were able to make ground faster on the frozen field. Vic worked the ball into position and Vaughan hooped it over the line for another single to end the scoring 9-2 with Vic well in command and undisputed winner. (Continued on Page 3)

ORA PRO NOBIS

Life is much too difficult for the average student. Aside from the restrictions imposed by a paucity of funds the complexity of the social, economic and religious aspects of the contemporary world make it virtually impossible to choose a definite course of action and faithfully pursue it. The strata of society who have not the benefits of higher education are not faced with this problem; there are fewer avenues open to them and their conduct must of necessity follow certain lines within a fairly well-defined area. Individualism of a highly developed kind such as we visualise it is not for them.

But the undergraduate—pity him with all your heart. A new world has opened to him whose vistas are wonderful and which promise great satisfaction and he is encouraged to hope and dream. He knows that leadership of the finest kind is essential in order to see these dreams translated into actuality, and yet even a most cursory glance is usually sufficient to fill him with pessimism.

Conflict has always existed when ideals and realities are brought into close relationship, and this conflict is not greater in our times because the former are more exalted. The difficulty rests in the character of the latter. No sane, thoughtful student can fail to be cognisant of the fact that social problems demand attention in a way which they have never done before; that their influence is so broad that international interests hinge upon them, and that in attempting social work of any kind the question of attitudes must be considered in its broadest sense. We can no longer feel that our circle is small and sharply delineated.

But these are obvious truths that can be applied to every branch of life. We are more conscious of internationalism than before, but complexities of a different kind affect us even more vitally. "The materialism that has," as Dr. John R. Mott stated, "always characterised Anglo-Saxons" is a factor that is just as powerful today as ever. Public opinion is maintaining this situation. Moreover the system under which students could continue their researches more or less oblivious to the fact that some people find it necessary to earn a living is rapidly disappearing.

So where is our aforementioned undergraduate, who realises that leadership is necessary and that thought must precede action. He is amply supplied with ideals; he sees the chaotic world into which these ideals might produce order with a clear eye, yet in contemplating that world and realising the force of the tides that are ready to do their work of destruction he can discern for himself no clear course of action. None is to be pitted more than he.

SCOTT EXPEDITION DEPICTED IN FILM

Commander Jeffreys Indicates Commercial Value of Discoveries

On Friday evening in Convocation Hall, the stirring epic film, "Scott's Last Expedition to the South Pole," thrilled an audience of about three hundred people.

The picture, filmed by a member of the expedition, gives in complete detail the movements of the party from the time the "Terra Nova" sailed from New Zealand in 1910 until the finding of Captain Scott's body in October, 1912. Magnificent views of the midnight sun casting its radiance on Mount Erebus, of the sheer crystal walls of immense icebergs glistening in the Antarctic moonlight, of frigid south seas strewn with ice formations resembling lily pads, and of the seldom seen frost-smoke, make a glorious setting for the story of heroic sacrifice and hardship of those brave Englishmen.

In a short address to the audience, Commander D. G. Jeffreys, D.S.O., said: "I have been asked many times what good has come of the expedition. If Scott did not obtain the honour he desired for England, he still rendered his country invaluable service. Besides aiding science, his discoveries have had a commercial value of 60,000,000 pounds sterling for England."

"Royal Remembrances," another British film shown, recalled the most spectacular moments near the end of Queen Victoria's reign. One unusual scene shows together Edward VII, the Kaiser Wilhelm and the Duke of Cornwall.

will be served from 10:45 until 11:30. Nothing very original in the way of costumes is expected; at least the Costume Department at Hart House Theatre has received few requests for any costumes except the types usually in evidence. Most popular are the period costumes, the ladies showing a preference for corsets and hoop skirts. The ever-popular Russian and Spanish costumes are in considerable demand, also. One young man, however, plans to show his originality by coming disguised as "Popeye."

The patronesses of the evening will be: Mrs. Vincent Massey, Mrs. Ernest C. MacMillan, Mrs. Kenneth B. Jackson, Mrs. Clifton D. Howe and Mrs. Malcolm W. Wallace.

H.C. Players' Guild

Uncle Tom's Cabin, scenes from which are being presented at the U.C. Players' Guild today, should be an interesting experiment in the light of the recent revival of Victorian drama. This grandfather of all melodrama is, in spite of obvious aesthetic deficiencies, still good "theatre", and its refreshing naivete does not lack sincerity. Otis Skinner's production of the play, which was to have appeared at the Royal Alexandra this season, has been cancelled, so that this will be a unique opportunity of seeing a coherent series of scenes, played without burlesque in the traditional manner.

Organ Recital

Yesterday afternoon's organ recital was the second in the series played by the University organist, Dr. Healy Willan, in Convocation Hall. These recitals are a valuable feature of University life in that they provide an opportunity to hear organ music played on a very adequate instrument by a highly competent performer. Their high quality warrants capacity audiences and it is regrettable that yesterday's was but indifferently attended.

Compositions of Karg-Elert are always welcome on organ programmes because of his thorough musicianship, richness of ideas and knowledge of the idiom of the organ. As the programme note suggests, the Allegro Moderato of the Sonata in A Minor is built on an even larger plan than many Sonata movements. The one movement played was very pleasing and well performed.

The Cantabile of Nicholas Jacques Lemmens, the Belgian organist of the nineteenth century, was a composition of smooth, easy-flowing charm, rather contemplative in style.

Possibly the best known work on the programme was the Sonata in B Flat of Mendelssohn. To my mind, this composer's organ sonatas represent some of his best work. The Sonata played is the fourth of a group of six sonatas (Opus 95). His only other works for organ are Preludes in C minor and Three Preludes and Fugues. This fourth sonata builds up to a fine climax. It is interesting to note that the opening phrase of the fourth movement is faintly suggestive of the National Anthem. This movement contains a fine fugato, a passage in fugue style although, strictly speaking, not a fugue.

Dr. Willan followed this sonata with the Rhapsody of Herbert Howells, a contemporary English composer. This rhapsody is a brilliant work, clearly and forcefully written and certainly worth performing.

The final number was the Prelude and Fugue in C minor by Dr. Willan. The Prelude is forceful and of considerable power. The subject of the Fugue, first stated on the pedals, was quite long. After it has been developed, the counter-subjects are developed separately. The combination of the three themes leads back to the prelude, slightly modified. The whole is a work of dignity, power and sound musicianship.

A welcome footnote tells us that the next programme on November 28, will consist of the works of J. S. Bach. E.R.B.

Saida Gerrard

There is nothing puzzling or mysterious about the modern creative dance. It is an art form which has for its essence the use of the body as a medium of expression. Prior to the advent of modernism the dance was little more than a borrower, a parasite, now clinging to music for support, now looking to the theatre for protection. Today the dance has come of age, repudiated the shackled traditions of the ballet, and struck out along its own autonomous lines. This is the dance which acknowledges the free, primitive forces of joy and form, expressing the tempo of modern life, in preference to the conventional combinations of movement we have been accustomed to. This is the dance which Mary Wigman revealed to a grateful Europe and which Saida Gerrard, her highly gifted Canadian pupil, has brought back to us in Toronto. A staunch protagonist of modernism, Miss Gerrard, who danced her way to a scholarship in Mary Wig-man's school, and to numerous other prizes in other leading studios, has come home to open her own school, and to lead a movement for the development of the dance in Canada. Miss Gerrard is quite optimistic about her mission and refuses to heed all warnings against the native Torontoan lethargy which confronts every artist who ventures to pitch his tent here.

The dance of the moderns, says Saida Gerrard, is an autonomous art, independent of music and the stereotyped forms of the drama or ballet. (Continued on Page 4)

BLUE NATATORS MEET C.S.C. IN HART HOUSE TO-NIGHT

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By J. E. F.

Meds went in for things in a big way last night—and they insist they have the highest aggregate score against them of any team on the campus. Baseball at St. Alban's gym and basketball at the Lillian Massey represent their contribution to the realms of sport.

The basketball team played Victoria Seniors but failed to build up a score to win. The limitations of the L. M. gym hampered real playing by either team and there was a great deal of fumbling and sloppy plays. However, Vic managed to work in some effective blocking with their six-man defence system.

"After the ball is over" . . . .
St. Alban's gymnasium echoed to the frantic cheers of a milling multitude as St. Mike's baseball team managed to eke out a win of 33-5 over Meds last evening. The score was no indication of the play—you should have seen it! To the end of the 3rd inning it was nip and tuck and then St. Mike's "tuck" it all. The players and umpires got lost in such a maze of rules that it was considered calling the game on account of darkness. The Meds tried every play except hitting and catching the ball and only using two balls could have speeded up the play.

ST. MIKE'S BASEBALLERS DEFEAT MEDS TEAM

The baseball team of St. Michael's defeated the players of Medicine and S.P.S. last night at St. Alban's gym 33-5 in a seven inning game.

The Meds team felt the need of fielders to cover the floor, having only eight players, but managed to organise some effective opposition towards the end of the game.

St. Mike's — P. Schnurr, I. Allen, M. Mosbough, P. Simon, C. Carroll, A. Sheppard, J. McMartin, A. Gardner, C. Mulville, D. March, V. Lynch, E. Ubelan.

Meds and S.P.S. — M. Sheppard, M. Greer, J. Davey, D. Lumley, M. Daley, C. Horner, B. McQuarrie, A. Pescott.

VIC WOMEN WIN FROM MEDS BY 33-6 SCORE

Senior Victoria women's basketball team took the medical team last night at the Lillian Massey gym by the score of 33-6.

The small gym somewhat cramped the style of the Scarlet and Gold players and it was only in the last quarter Vic showed some of the play expected.

Meds played a blocking game that could not seem to hold the score in spite of some hard play. The half time score was 14-3 and the final whistle counted 33-6.

Sr. Vic — Forwards, M. Cristan (16), B. Longley (7), H. Smith (10); guards, P. Palmer, G. Becker, J. Fenton, J. Harley, M. Bernhard.

Meds — Forwards, C. Small, B. Watt, J. Laing, R. Bourne (2), J. Cantwell (4); guards, F. Beattie, J. Wright, M. Abertson.

Referee — Ethel Phillips.

ITALIAN SYSTEM MAKES LABOUR DUTY TO STATE

telling everyone else what they must do. The Italian people believe that this representation by guilds is the most democratic system, for in doing away with territorial representation, all political parties disappear.

"It is an experiment," Professor Loggio explained, "but it is the most important move the Italian government has yet executed."

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

After all the efforts of the Toronto Daily Star to put the classification of "rough stuff" on football in general we thought it time to air a few of our own views on the subject. First of all we would like to say that there is a portion of the general public that cannot be bluffed all of the time. That is, even if the Star is intent on increasing its circulation with a lot of over-excited hooey for the misinformed public. It isn't a few people that have been sickened by such stuff as the publicity given the Hillier baby case. Now there seems to have emerged as a fitting substitute, this "get your man" gag on the part of football players in Eastern Canada competition. Last week they started off with an interview with Geo. H. Gooderham. That gentleman gave three very weak reasons why football is rough and what is responsible for it. First the coaches get it in the neck for telling their players to go out and lay it on. Then the officials are taken for a bump for their inability or lack of desire to stop the dirty work when they see it. Then the players take their ride for smoking and cutting up generally to the extent that they lack physical fitness for their games. Who ever heard of three more ridiculous reasons? If a football player goes into a game and starts dirty work who is to blame? Is it the coach, the official, or his condition? Does the inception of American ideas and rules have anything to do with making the game more dangerous from a standpoint of possible injuries? Nuts! The forward pass and interference are mentioned specifically as the worst of the new rules that have been injected into the book. How many injuries this fall have been or can be laid at the feet of the forward pass as responsible? Most of the injuries are received on one of three occasions. It is either a halfback being tackled after receiving a kick, a player making a hard tackle and being injured in doing so or it comes from line plunging. That boils it down not to the forward pass or any other so-called American adoption but the old die-hard Canadian characteristic "two bucks and a kick" play. To return to the point in hand as we started, who is to blame for the dirty work or what? How many coaches can be justly accused of deliberately telling their charges to go out and knock them down or "get them" as the saying has been coined? Such coaches certainly do not exist to our knowledge. Warren Stevens is certainly far from that class and so are the other coaches in the intercollegiate and Big Four series. The players may be told to go out there and hit them hard. Those are offensive tactics plain and simple and perfectly justifiable. No team can get anywhere with good competition if they go out and wait for the play to come to them or back away from it so to speak. Varsity has looked that way this season a couple of times now that we come to think of it but they can play football when it comes to a pinch. That last quarter Saturday is evidence enough for us that it can be done. If a player pulls the dirty work it can be laid directly at his own back door every time for the responsibility and no one else. Such being the case he should be put out of the game for the season. That would stop that. We fail to see personally what all the fuss is about. Look into the cases cited. The actual facts in each case if considered without exaggeration make the instigators of all the excitement look foolish. Warren Snyder gave the Star an interview that looked as if it came from a man who knew what he was talking about and was on the inside actually. He isn't one of those who say they are on the inside when really they know about as much about what goes on inside the dressing room as the cigar-store halfbacks. Some of these "know-it-alls" pretend to be supporters of Varsity and some of them can even lay claim to being graduates of U. of T. Well, there are some sour grapes among the grads that are always dissatisfied and belly-aching about something but they are a mighty insignificant minority. The Western Gazette of last week after the Western game in London said that they hesitated to say so but there were some Varsity grads there who were fed up with the type of tactics employed by Warren Stevens. Yes, there were some wise guys who were disappointed when "Steve" was appointed to the Athletic Directorship. They wanted the old racket carried on that almost killed Varsity football and couldn't see why there wasn't a man chosen who had some reputation around Varsity instead. Anybody with any brains ought to be able to see that Warren Stevens' appointment was the best thing that ever happened to athletics in general here to say nothing of football in particular and basketball besides. They kicked about importing a paid coach from across the border. Any man who had the job of honorary coach around here will admit if he told the truth that he was tied hand and foot because he knew a few of the players personally and couldn't carry out his own plans without interference. Stevens came here not knowing anybody and nobody had anything to say about how things were done but the coach. As a result there was no preference and anybody who makes the team does it on his merits. Minor mistakes may have been made but there have been no blunders so far and there won't likely be any either. We welcome any intelligent and constructive opinions on this subject from persons who are in a position to speak with some knowledge of the facts and not from imagination's lethargy as seems to have been the case with some recent interviews published elsewhere.

The game between Varsity seconds and Loyola College billed for this afternoon originally is off for the present and no definite arrangements have been decided upon as yet according to Mr. T. A. Reid, Secretary of the Athletic Association. Varsity's senior and junior water-polo teams play Canadian Swimming Club's two entries in the city league here in Hart House tonight. Victoria settled their grudge game with U.C. satisfactorily for Scarlet and Gold supporters last night with a 9-2 score. Not much doubt now as to which is the better team. Give U.C. credit for not playing their imports to bolster up the line. That's playing the game square.

Did you see Hal Richardson in Saturday's game with McGill? Notice the difference his playing on the half line with Sinclair made? "Flicker" is the best running half Varsity has and Sinclair has a lot more confidence with Richardson alongside. So much so that when he intercepted a McGill pass he had the nerve to pass to Hal when there were no less than four Redmen hanging around not far out of reach. Hal moved that ball ahead and he didn't reverse when he saw a tackler coming or run for the sidelines right off the bat. He has the stride and the weight to go with it too. If Richardson were to play half a game against Queen's and Varsity were to run the ends on a dry field instead of using the pass and the line plunge to make yards, the local lads would be sitting in the driver's seat instead of still waiting for the play to come to them at half time. No team in the intercollegiate, leave alone Varsity, can coast along on two or three singles against Queen's and hope to win. Queen's have the best line in the college group but their performance so far this season does not point to them as a great team by any means. The difference between the Tricolour and the Blues is Varsity has the ability and Queen's the team play and the spirit. Until last Saturday's game Queen's had been outscored by their opponents 32-29 and yet were in first place. They have scored three touches this season and they have all been made on the breaks. They didn't carry the ball up the field and put it

DENTS THE GROUP BY BEATING MEDS

Last Minute Touchdown by Muller Decides Encounter

CULLINER KICKS WELL

Dents remained in a tie for the leadership of Group 1 of the Mulock Cup series, defeating Senior Meds in a hard fought game on the back campus last night by the score of 6-1. A bitter cold wind hindered the two teams in playing their best rugby.

During the first half both teams were satisfied to kick on the first or second down and wait for a fumble.

Dents began to show a better line attack in the second half and some fine chances were lost only by fumbles and off-sides. The big break of the game came with only two minutes left in the last quarter. Muller received a Meds kick well in his own territory and ran 70 yards through the entire opposing team for a touchdown. Valiquette dropped for the extra point. The game ended with the score 6-1 for Dents after one of the most thrilling finishes of the Mulock Cup series.

For Dents, Dore, Muller and McCarty were outstanding, while Culliner was the best for the Doctors.

Senior Meds — Halves, Culliner, Sheare, Robertson; quarter, Appleford; snap, Chute; insides, Leavonson, McKellor; middles, Hall, Eager; outsides, Starr, Laborsky.

Dents — Flying wing, Wildfong; halves, Woods, Cavanaugh, Dore; quarter, Smith; snap, Garrett; insides, Tritt, McCarty; middles, Twible, Schumaker; outsides, Muller, Ryan; subs, Oswald, Dempster, Valiquette, Rockland, Potaskin, Busby.

PHARMACY RALLIES TO WIN BOXLA 11-6

Both Teams Lack Finesse but Pharmacy Definitely Superior

Pharmacy took Dents 11-6 in a hectic interfaculty box lacrosse match yesterday in the big gym, Hart House. Dents were leading at half time 4-3, but Pharmacy came back strong to ride in 8 goals on individual efforts in the last two stanzas. Both teams lacked combination and on the whole displayed a poor brand of lacrosse.

Dents had a slight edge in the first half but loosened up on their checks in the last half and Pharmacy scored four goals in each period.

Wesley got a two minute rest when he wrapped his stick around Inch's neck. Inch and Evans were the best for the winners, accounting for nine of Pharmacy's goals.

Pharmacy — Armour, Inch, Evans, McDougall, Gallagher, Trevelyan, Wilson.

Dents — Kingsburgh, Westlake, Joint, Pierson, Lankin, McGillivray, McCutcheon.

ners of the group.

Vic — Flying wing, Moffat; snap, Elsiey; insides, Reid, Stinson; middles, Amos, Colmer; outsides, Vaughan, Dufton; quarter, Diehl; halves, Pratt, Colmer, Taylor; subs, Barry, Vaughan, Hunnisset, Armstrong, Walker.

U.C. — Flying wing, Henderson; snap, Herman; insides, Pritchard, Waddell; middles, Morrison, Douglas; outsides, Corrigan, Mursky; quarter, Thompson; halves, Hass, Luckett, Malott; subs, Daly, Grand, Mursky, Carr, Barrett.

SLIGHT HOPES FOR DISARMAMENT IN EUROPE

 Mail is very astute, according to Professor McDougall. It is not likely that Hitler after the overpowering mandate given him Sunday last, will go back to the League for some time. London might make an ideal spot for such a meeting. On the other hand, Professor Mackenzie thought that London as the capital of Germany's greatest enemy in the last war would not be as desirable as Geneva or The Hague.

Since the fall of the Labour party in England there has been no actual change in the country's disarmament policy. The chief difference lies in the personal vigour with which particular occupants of the foreign office attacked the problem. Henderson, who is now president of the Disarmament Conference, was far more enthusiastic than Sir John Simon, the present incumbent.

LACK OF INTEREST DELAYS CENTRAL LENDING LIBRARY

 bookshelf, most of the provinces have no public library system. It would be necessary to establish public libraries before a national one is founded. The University library lends books to most of the universities in Canada, and a few to those in the United States. A difficulty lies in the fact that the law library in the parliament buildings is considered purely for the use of members of Parliament, Dr. Locke said. "There have been many proposals for the founding of a national reference library, but they have come to nothing."

REVIVING! Imaginary Interviews with Famous People

By C. L. Coburn

WE MEET SHULMAN

Breathlessly we were ushered into the Great Presence. At least, we were not quite breathless, but it was coming in short pants and slipped past the doorman without a ticket.

"Mr. Shulman, we presume," we presumed.

"You do," replied the Modern Milton, looking up from his specially bound volume of the collected press-clippings of Milton Shulman.

"We have been sent here to interview you," we began timidly. "Who do you think is the greatest interviewer in the world?"

"R. E. Knowles," he came back at us, swinging playfully on the chandelier. "Ask the Managing Editor of Hush."

"And where would you place yourself?" we queried.

"Just beside the nearest exit," answered the Great Reporter. "Exit me another."

"Mr. Shulman, we are going to ask you a very personal question. Who was that lady you were seen with last night?"

"Just a minute," he replied, pulling out a large leather note-book. "Just a minute. I feel inspiration creeping over me."

"Perhaps it's perspiration," we suggested hopefully. "After all, social success is ninety-five per cent perspiration and a nickel's worth of lie-buoy." But our Canadian Winchell was busy scribbling in his book, muttering to himself, "Lady... lady... night... night... not a scene, but an act... no, I want something original." Finally he heaved a sigh of relief and spoke portentously. "Young man, this is the greatest moment in your life. You are about to witness the birth of an idea. That was no lady, that was my wife's sister's second cousin."

"Ha, ha," we remarked politely, gripping the arms of our chair. "But to get back to business, what do you think of the present high taxes?"

"Ah, who rides in taxis when you can sit in the park for nothing," he shot back at us. "Not that I would ever sit in the park for nothing," he went on, neatly dodging the ink well.

"Just a gigolo, eh?" we queried mockingly.

"Many a true word spoken in jest is regretted in court," he replied.

"Mr. Shulman," we continued bravely, "now that you are world-famous as the man who gets all the news that's dirt to print, our readers would like to know how you do it. What is the secret of your success? How do you develop your unique method of approach? Do you verify the rumours that you started in as a Fuller Brusque salesman?"

"Those aren't roomers, you dope, they just dropped in for a friendly game of pincholo," retorted the Master. "As a matter of fact I just started in at the bottom of the ladder..."

"Ah, a silk stocking salesman," we shot at him.

The man who had once been hailed as the World's Greatest Reporter (that was before the Star bought out the World) failed to reply. We never miss a shot.

ART, MUSIC AND DRAMA

it shuns gymnastics, cut and dried idioms, and seeks a more artistic and pliant expression of dramatic and lyrical motives. It can still be used in the theatre with fine drama (for example, in the repertory theatre of Eva Le Gallienne) but the music accompanying it must be secondary and incidental to the dance. Nothing that will clash with the dance or interfere with its dynamic sweep should be permitted. The modern dancer does not attack the ballet and grants that it has attained beautiful heights. But the ballet was only a stage in the history of the dance and it has seen its day. For our purposes it does not serve. We must have freedom. Every muscle, nerve and sinew must be ready to participate in this absolute unity of the body, which itself becomes an instrument.

Miss Gerrard is very charming, very graceful, very witty. It is hard to disagree with her. She loves her art passionately and talks of it with irresistible enthusiasm. We have had many dancers in Canada, but she is the first of them to have made so much progress in such a short time. And we venture to predict that she shall be the first of them to gain international recognition as a great Canadian dancer. V.G.

Royal Ontario Museum

Anyone interested in Oriental Art should visit the Royal Ontario Museum. Since the museum has been enlarged the collections are much better displayed, though the lighting, especially for Oriental paintings on silk, and under glass, needs to be improved a good deal. On the ground floor of the old building there is a most interesting old wall painting, taken from a temple, and belonging to the Yuan Dynasty (1280-1367 A.D.). It represents Buddha and his attendants, in a very stylized manner; many details such as the very fat hands, wide and sensuous mouths, as well as the lotus flowers profusely woven into the decoration show distinct Hindu influence.

In the same room are some paintings of the Manchu period, mostly in dark colours, with a very sure drawing, and a sense of composition that is remarkable. While there, have a look at the fine embroidered pieces of silk, reproducing in a delicate and decorative way: clouds, storks bats etc., with a wealth of shades that we can't find in most modern works even with our up-to-date equipment!

On the third floor of the same building we find the rest of the Manchu and Ming paintings. In decoration we can usually distinguish these two periods of Chinese painting and art, by the fact that in Manchu art the dragon is the main decorative motive while the dog, a highly stylized dog, to be sure, is seen in Ming art. In portraits, the Ming robes are mostly plain, with a decorated breast plate, while Manchu dresses are wonderful in their profusion of colours and elaborated patterns. If Japanese painters always represent the human face by a few conventional lines, quite expressive all the same, Chinese artists aim at realism, taking their models usually from the common people. Beggars and travellers are the largest types, whether only sketched in silhouette or represented with full details these men are most living. Such art, indeed, makes us realise that we have no monopoly of art in the West.

Nature, too, is often represented, as in the very remarkable painting of a magnolia tree with some swans, that no one but an Oriental could have produced. While, in this review, I mention only paintings, I am quite certain that any visitor will enjoy tremendously the sight of splendid vases, statuettes and the thousands of articles of everyday life produced by the Chinese artisans.

A future article will review the Japanese prints as well as the Indian miniatures, but I hope that many students will not wait any longer before visiting this most unique collection exhibited now at the Ontario Museum.

ity of his playing, together with the poetic quality of his interpretations all combined to disarm criticism and to arouse enthusiasm.

Neither the programme nor the accompanist were ideal but in the case of the former the general public was amply satisfied; as for the latter, it seems inevitable that an artist of Kreisler's magnitude should overshadow the majority of accompanists.

It is perhaps regrettable that the programme opened with so magnificent a work as Grieg's third Sonata—a monumental work in the sonata literature of the north. Neither audience nor artist were warmed to appreciate this romantic work to its full. Grieg, the dreamer, has reflected nature in all her moods, the simplicity of the folk song, the massive sombreness of the north. The Romanca is amongst the most beautiful things that Grieg has written. It is a movement of supreme delicacy. Undoubtedly the most satisfying number was the Bach Chaconne. This work unless interpreted by a violinist of distinction is apt to be somewhat an infliction to weary critics. It is a hackneyed masterpiece and its performance is exacting. Kreisler was superb. He did not display the effortless dexterity of an Heifetz but the force of his playing was such as to hold the audience spell-bound.

Approximately a third of the programme was given over to popular classics and arrangements: a somewhat large proportion. There is no doubt that here Kreisler finds a worshipping public and it is here, too, that he shows himself a great artist. He lifts the hackneyed to a plane of new beauty. In the hands of another artist the same procedure might spell disaster. But fine as Kreisler is in the smaller numbers and ravished as the audience may be we still question the validity of most arrangements on artist programmes. There are abundant original compositions for violin. The Andante Cantabile is beautiful in Kreisler's hands but still more so in the original setting and those who know it as such will find it impossible not to be disappointed. The Caprices with which the programme closed were exquisitely played and illustrate the advisability of choosing original violin compositions. What could be more pleasing than the double stopping in the B minor Caprice or the subtle variations of the A minor Caprice? The harmonics and pizzicato of this last Caprice were thrown off with a deftness that belied their extreme difficulty.

Mishaps in High School Game

SALARIED COACHING BAD?

Rugby Today Cleaner Than Ever; Hurts Merely Unfortunate

Owing to a series of unfortunate accidents and injuries to players during this season's rugby games among the high schools, articles have appeared advocating such proposals as complete abolition of the game, and the substitution of English rugby. The question has also arisen as to whether such papers as the Daily Star are over-emphasising the accidents and thus condemning that which is for sport and clean competition only.

D. S. Kennedy, O.C.E., stated to The Varsity that "the injuries of such a large number are on account of professional coaches creeping into high schools. They are determined to win at all costs and the players are not to blame. The injuries provide something for the public to criticise. However, students are playing because they want to and not forced. Injuries which

Editorial in "Varsity"
Yesterday

PROBLEMS "EXHILARATING"

"None is to be pitted more than he" is the verdict that yesterday's editorial passed upon the undergraduate of today. However, upon inquiry it was found that the average student throughout the university disagreed with this idea.

Marian Matthews, III U.C., did not think that the modern student is to be pitied. "But," she declared, "it is impossible to do anything without a set of ideals and, at the present time, the difficulty is to find ideals suited to existing conditions. However, the student is better fitted than anyone else to find such ideals."

When questioned on the subject, Max Patrick, IV U.C., stated, "The

We intend to "budge the budget"! But it will take a lot of individual budgeting, and that's where YOU come in. You know this S.C.M. work is ours, yours and mine, and it's up to us to put it across with a financial bang. Do we appreciate the work it's doing? Do we approve of its thousand and one constructive activities? Are we behind this Movement whose scope is the world and whose programme is God?

Two thousand two hundred and twenty dollars. Perhaps that seems rather a formidable sum; but when we realise that we're a self-supporting organisation, that our existence depends upon the free-will offering system, then I think, somehow, the amount is seen in its proper perspective. There are, you know, fifteen individual units in our university, and we are only a spoke in the wheel. Let me suggest a picture for you: a coach, a wheel, a spoke—the W.S.C.F., the National

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE NOW OUT OF DANGER

Physicians Say Rest Essential for Slow Battle Back to Health

ROYAL SOLICITUDE CABLED

Special to "The Varsity"
Montreal, P.Q. (C.I.P.).—Sir Arthur Currie, President of McGill University here, is now reported to be out of immediate danger. Attending physicians state that Sir Arthur needs rest above all for his slow and tedious battle back to health.

Telegrams and cables from His Majesty the King, the City of Mons, Canadian battalions, war veterans and innumerable friends have been received by Lady Currie inquiring as to the condition of the former commander of the Canadian Corps, and expressing the hope that he will soon have completely recovered.

Royal solicitude for Sir Arthur was expressed in a cablegram from King George, received by the Governor General at Ottawa a short time ago. His Majesty desired to be informed on Sir Arthur's condition. Government House got into touch with the hospital physicians attending the patient, and cabled back to His Majesty the information received.

Glowing tributes were paid Sir Arthur by Sir Andrew MacPhail in his Armistice Day address here, while a message signed by the burgomeister and secretary of the city of Mons expressing profound gratitude to Sir Arthur and his heroic soldiers was also received.

Harriet Christie, the first speaker for the affirmative, was of the opinion that life at a university fosters two extremes, social butterflies who neglect the unique educational opportunities offered them, and "people who do nothing but academic work and on leaving college have to mingle with people and are not able to do their best."

TRAVELLING LIBRARY FILLS GREAT NEED

Provides Reading Material

FINANCED BY GOVERNMENT

Rural communities in this province which have no public library facilities need not feel the want of a National Lending Library. In the course of an interview yesterday with Mr. F. C. Jennings, Chief Librarian of the Ontario Department of Education, The Varsity learned that an extensive travelling library service is maintained by the department for this purpose.

Small libraries with limited funds, farm or community reading clubs and other similar organisations, may all avail themselves of this service. Cases containing forty-five books on a variety of subjects are sent out to such groups, who are required only to assume responsibility for the return of the books within six months and to pay the shipping charges one way. The books in the travelling library range from technical works to the latest novels.

A service of the travelling library which is particularly appreciated by the smaller libraries throughout the province is the supplying to them of the more expensive first editions of books before the cheaper reprints appear.

An open shelf library is also carried on, through which individuals or

"Fawl Brawl"

Some hundred and twenty-five gay couples from the fourth year of the School of Science danced to the music of Nels Kelly and his Kampus Katz at the Parkdale Canoe Club last evening, when the class of '34 held their year party under the comic name of "Fawl Brawl". A hard working committee composed of the year executive, H. L. Shepherd, G. J. Jarrell and V. D. MacLachlan, insured the success of the evening with a snappy programme and the customary novelties and effects added to the entertainment.

The patronesses were Mrs. R. W. Angus, Mrs. E. A. Allcut, Mrs. W. G. McIntosh and Mrs. R. Taylor.

Vancouver, B.C. (C. I. P.).—The German student has a free choice with respect to his courses and is free to wander to different universities, states Miss Hallamore, of the Modern Language Department here, and who has just returned from two years' study in Munich. The lectures are very large and formal and the students are generally critical. If the class does not approve of the lecture it shuffles, and if it approves, tramps.

The German professors exercise no control over the student body. The student government is elected along political lines. There are fewer clubs than we have and social life outside the university is almost non-existent.

The German student, Miss Hallamore explained, may join a duelling or non-duelling fraternity. If it is the former he must fight four duels before he gets his colours. During the four active semesters the fraternity men wear distinctive caps in their own colours, and are responsible for many extra-mural activities, meetings in the halls, outside meetings and sports.

FIND FURTHER PROOF OF PREHISTORIC LIFE

Discovery of Ancient Caves Indicates Civilisation
15,000 Years Ago

SENIOR FLUEGGE SPEAKS

"Prehistoric caves which existed 15,000 years ago have been recently discovered at Altamira near Santander, indicating that civilisation in Spain had already begun at that time," announced the speaker, Senior R. Fluegge at the first meeting this year of the Italian-Spanish Club. He was introduced by the honorary president of the club, Mr. Cano. Mr. Fluegge then outlined the attractions of northern Spain, laying particular emphasis on the climate and the international university for summer students located at Santander. Spain possesses one of the most modern railway systems and one of its particular advantages is that plants keep green all the year round.

U.C. SOPH PARTY DISTINCT SUCCESS

To the smooth rhythm of Jack Slater's famous orchestra the sophomore year of University College whiled away the yester eve at one of the most enjoyable year parties that can be remembered. The beautifully decorated hall of the Women's Union gave just the right atmosphere to a very informal get-together and although there were more than sixty couples on the floor the feeling of friendliness and congeniality predominated and added greatly to what might ordinarily have been one of many characterless dances.

Jack Slater, one of Canada's most widely known band leaders was the master of ceremonies and the year executives under the direction of Miss ### Attention Staff!

It is absolutely imperative that all wishing to attend The Varsity staff fall party at Gregory's Tavern next Monday, sign the list immediately. If the men's list is not filled by 5 o'clock today the party will be cancelled. This dance has always been a feature of the autumn season and to be a success a full turnout is necessary. One of Toronto's outstanding dance bands will supply the music and the price is not exorbitant.

SCHOLARSHIP HOLDERS

Certificates of attendance in connection with the payment of the first instalment of University of Toronto Scholarships (Matriculation and Faculty of Arts, not including College Scholarships) may be obtained at the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall.

SEES INCONSISTENCY IN REMAKING BIBLE

"New Testament Should Go Before Old," Thinks
Professor Meek

F. V. WINNETT GIVES VIEWS

"The whole movement is anti-Jewish. But if Hitler is going to be consistent, he will have to get rid of the New Testament, as well as the Old Testament," declared Professor T. J. Meek, referring to the Hitlerite movement to revamp the Bible. "Discarding the Old Testament does not eliminate Jewish influences from religion, because the New Testament was written by Jewish apostles about a Jewish Jesus. If Hitler were wiser, he would censor the New Testament, rather than the Old, because he is imitating Old Testament ideas—those of nationalism, conquest and race superiority. Hitler is editing all of the information received by the masses in Germany and can do whatever he wishes to the Bible, but of course it will no longer be the original Bible."

Mr. F. V. Winnett thought the sup-

ATHLETIC AT HOME LISTS SOON OPEN

December 8th is Date Set for Annual Function for Athletes

Lists will be opening soon for those who wish to attend the final dance of the year given in honour of Varsity's athletes. This dance has one of the finest traditions behind it of any social function given in the University and is always well attended by students and graduates who have taken their places on the basketball floor, the field and the rink to uphold the honour of the University. Not only is the dance for the first lettermen of the University, but it is for the men who have learned to play the game whether the stakes are large or small, for the men who have represented their faculties or colleges in sport and by so doing have taken their places in the athletic life of the University and helped to carry on its traditions.

The dance has been set this year at the most opportune time since December the eighth leaves plenty of time to study for examinations after the event, and yet is close enough to the Christmas season to be influenced by the festive spirit of December. It is the last big event before Christmas and makes a fitting termination to the fall term of the year.

C. S. C. Scores Three Times in As Many Minutes to Tie Seniors

GOALIES STAR

Varsity Juniors Lack Scoring Punch and Are Shut
Out 2-0

By Ken Burn

The Canadian Swimming Club invaded Hart House pool last night and all but walked off with the laurels when their senior team held Varsity to a four-all tie, while the juniors defeated the Blue team 2-0. The senior game was disappointing from a Varsity standpoint as they were leading 4-1 with but three minutes to play. However, the Canadians deserve a great deal of credit for their spirited attack which tied up the game in the closing seconds of play. The Varsity juniors while fighting hard lacked the finish to give them a score.

The senior game was played first and in the opening half the Canadians had a slight margin. Rosen opened the scoring but McCatty tied it up for Varsity when Canadians were playing a man short. Both goalkeepers made sensational stops and the half ended one-all.

Varsity started the second half with a rush and outplayed their opponents by a wide margin. Davey, the final

RACE AS CONCEPT HAS NO FOUNDATION

It is a Fantastic Belief Like Witchcraft, Says Wrong to S.C.M.

NATIONALITY AN EMOTION

"There is no such thing as race and nationality is a mere emotion." With this remark Professor G. M. Wrong opened his address on "Race and Nationality" before the members of the S.C.M. in Hart House yesterday afternoon. "Race is a concept having no foundation in fact. It is something physical, linked with a mental accompaniment, and it is subjective. Nationality is a state of feeling on similar lines by a number of people usually related to a particular locality."

Professor Wrong said that all races are descended from a common ancestry. All branches of the human race have a common mentality and all are capable of the same mental processes under suitable conditions. Thus we have physical and mental unity in all branches. There are no physical qualities of race than can be used with certainty as an index of race. A Canadian child, brought up in a Japanese home, would be Japanese in mentality and outlook. Corsica belongs to France, but the Corsicans are more Italian than the Italians themselves.

Race belongs in the same category as

"THESE OUR DAYS . . ."

The "Internationale" has been sung in Massey Hall, the president of the W.C.T.U. says "we are keeping quiet, but we will never let this repeal go through", and people are beginning to have a faint suspicion that the Russian Wolf may be our friend who huffed and puffed, but couldn't blow the house down. Somebody—not Alexander Woolcott either—has achieved the ultimate by calling this the Dangerous Decade.

Politics and economics are at last considered a wedded pair, and the world is hoping that it will be a happy marriage. What to do with leisure time, how to live properly, are watchwords of the magazine syndicates. One government pays millions to farmers to enable them to raise more crops, and then more millions to persuade them it is better to destroy their crops. Little pigs are being burned to raise the price of pork, while muskrats are being garnered in Louisiana swamps to take the place of said porkers.

We must be getting somewhere. All this tumult and shouting about life in general can not be the last doddings of civilisation. Could it possibly be the adolescent stage of the public mentality? We've just been finding out about those things which before this have been carefully kept from our infant minds by monetary and admonitory magnates. Then we pondered, and now comes the first taste of power, as it were.

Consider for one thing the tremendous and horrible shock that came, when we discovered that the Easter rabbit didn't bring international finance; that what Utopia might do would possibly have an effect on Erewhon. Economists were pursued frantically to find out about this terrible thing that had come upon us. Wasn't there some strange and wonderful elixir to put life into the poor, aged economic system? There always had been before. After a while, the realisation that there was no teacher to tell us to stay in after school and work out our arithmetic sank in.

There's no doubt about it, people are beginning to think, furiously and constructively. Furthermore, they have been taught enough to know that they can talk about it. The human mind would have to be strangely granitic to withstand all the hammerings it has had of late, by current and past events. What will come is on the lap of the gods—a central world-governing board, as predicted by H. G. Wells, or a thoroughly well-regulated nationalism, are two of the immense possibilities. We're growing up and it's rather hard to find that our young ideas won't do. We've even seen some of the unsavoury linen decking the World War being laundered before a cosmopolitan audience. Something is going on deep in the world's conscious and subconscious being and it is not sick delirium.

MAINTAINING THE S.C.M.

The Student Christian Movement—as indicated in the S.C.M. Corner today—is this week launching its annual financial campaign in the University. Its budget for the year calls for an income and expenditure of $9,820. Of this amount the Advisory Board assumes responsibility for raising $7,600 from graduates and friends outside the University. The remaining $2,220 is to be found from students and staff on the Campus. It provides for the upkeep of the men's and women's offices, for the contributions to the S.C.M. of Canada and the World Student Christian Federation, and the expenses incidental to conferences and visiting speakers. It is really a very modest budget, and is apparently administered with great care.

The Student Christian Movement—known formerly as the Student Christian Association, and prior to that as the Student Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.—was organised in this University in 1871. Its record for the past year gives evidence that it is living true to its best traditions as a Christian Movement and that it is going steadily forward. Its fifteen units are established in practically every College and Faculty on the Campus, and its varied programme of work makes it out as a religious organisation abreast of the times and of the existing needs of students. It is hoped that both students and staff will respond generously to the appeal that is being made.

H.C. Players' Guild

It is difficult to believe that Uncle Tom's Cabin was once a play of great importance as a plea for equality between negroes and whites. The over-emphasis of the characters in the play is quite out of tune with the modern viewpoint. However, it was interesting to be afforded an opportunity of seeing the four scenes presented by the Players' Guild yesterday, under the direction of Miss Betty Clawson. At this production there was a discrepancy between the attitude of the cast and the audience. The cast was trying sincerely to present a document of the history of the theatre; the audience got a lot of fun out of it.

The acting, particularly that of Dick Fonger as Uncle Tom and Gerald Levenston as Simon Legree, was excellent. Kay Stewart, Audrey Howard, Charlie Carrington and Jack Smith were also good. The sets were rather monotonous and the second scene was definitely unsuccessful as the curtain obscured Uncle Tom. The violin, played by Muriel Macdonald, added the correct note of pathos.

THE LIBRARY AGAIN

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

After our frozen fingers had responded to medical attention we thought it would be wise to comment upon weather conditions in the University Library. From us farbeit to criticise the present heat policy of the Library BUT, we do think the thermal capacity of the aforementioned institution is sadly inadequate for any but Eskimos—and Librarians. Might we suggest that a small part of the $21,000 S.A.C. surplus be invested in snow fences, storm signals, and wind barriers to protect the books of students of moderate means. Premier Bennett in a recent address asserted that frozen assets were largely responsible for our economic reverses. This being the case, what future is there for our University graduates?

Perhaps the Faculty has deemed it wise to install the alarm system of radiators to rouse drowsy students for their lectures. The other day as a student waited for a book a frost-encrusted Librarian breezed by wheezing the immortal strains of the Librarians' Theme Song: "Freeze a Jolly Good Fellow". A suffering student composed this ditty while he was in the Library:

A chilly Librarian called Bess
Her coldness would never confess,
Now she lies dead
From a cold in the head,
Our sorrow for her we'd express.

Kindly mistake not our intentions. We write merely in the interests of a frozen caretaker.
Hoping this letter will receive a warm reception,
We remain,

The Snow Capped Saps,

sibility for the "waste" on the individual, relieving the college of all blame. She claimed that one meets people with widely varied interests, who are congenial and whose friendship lasts, "one is taught to live with people". Business concerns want college graduates who are specialists and are able to work on their own initiative.

Jean Ross, second speaker on the affirmative considered the serious problem of marriage. According to statistics unearthed by her, a girl's chances are lessened by forty per cent. Thus, ten proposals might be received by the non-university woman while a graduate would have to be content with six. "If you wish to get married, you had better stay at home".

Mary Burnham of Trinity, thought that one proposal might suffice. She suggested that we became more tolerant during college; "our corners are rounded off".
Nora Bowers, Mary Winspear and Phyllis Forman judged the debate.

At the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, students are fined for cutting classes. Each year the fines are used to buy a Christmas present for the president.

And rose with a smile
She walked down the aisle,
And had it removed by the beadle.

DRAMA NOTES

We learn from private sources that the U.C. Players' Guild version of Uncle Tom's Cabin yesterday was produced under difficulties, as the director was taken ill after two and one-half rehearsals. It really wasn't that bad!

C—C

It was also announced yesterday that the Guild will hold a special meeting on Saturday "to clean up the stage". We suggest that the meeting adjourn to the Roxy Theatre.

C—C

It seems that the Vic Dramatic Society put on a one-act play the other day. One of the characters, supposed to be a French modiste, insisted on saying, "Mon Dool Mon Dool" throughout. When our private correspondent (not to be confused with our private co-respondent) queried the reason why, it was carefully explained, "You see, she's supposed to be French!"

Just to show you how alert The Varsity's night editor has to be: the cat was nearly let out of the bag last night with regard to professionalism in University sport, when a water-polo story was caught on the way to press containing the following sentence: "Bannerott netted one from a penalty shot to make the score $4 to 1."

such fantastic beliefs as witchcraft, divine right, and democracy. There is no race that holds a monopoly of courage, humour or liberty. These arrive through the genius of the individual and through education.

Nationality is the child of democracy. "When monarchical unity declined, something to create a bond of unity between peoples was bound to appear. This was nationality, which runs to extremes just as democracy runs to extremes."

We should all recognise the fact that there is no fundamental difference between the races and by practising toleration and fair judgment do our best to wipe out racial and national prejudices.

GERMAN STUDENTS

ENJOY LIBERTIES

After this period they gradually drift apart. These first four semesters so far as academic work is concerned are wasted.

There are no term or mid-term examinations, and consequently many of the students waste their first semesters. Needy students may take an examination and get their fees refunded in proportion to the standing obtained. The examinations are oral and short, and are given to five or six students at a time, and so are really no test of ability.

Today the German student is faced with a dire problem. Most of them have practically no money and no opening in the future. Hitler is trying to reduce the number in attendance by finding other work for them to do. If a man joins the Hitler movement he must report twice a week, go on long marches over the week-end, and appear at numerous gatherings and celebrations.

"The young men today tolerate this discipline," states Miss Hallamore, "but are not enthusiastic. Some who have donned the uniform have done it for diplomatic reasons only."

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By Paul B. Smith

The announcement has been made that on Saturday students will be admitted to the Queen's Varsity playoff for the sum of twenty-five cents plus the regular season ticket coupon. In anticipation of trouble perhaps it should be explained that the Athletic Association is going to some expense in order to make this possible, and it is not their intention to defraud students who thought they were to see all games for the price of the coupon book.

The situation is this. The intercollegiate rules state that a playoff must be staged on a neutral field, unless both clubs agree on one of the home grounds. The agreement has been made to play at Varsity, which for the purpose of gate receipts is regarded as a neutral ground. In that case the minimum charge is fifty cents. The Athletic Association here, and the same body at Queen's, have agreed to contribute twenty-five cents per student season ticket holder, in order that these people may not be deprived of seeing the game at a substantially reduced charge. The matter has been arranged as fairly as possible, and it is hoped that season ticket holders will see it in a sportsmanlike way and make use of their privilege. Not everyone is given an opportunity to see such a thriller as Saturday's contest promises to be for the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Our Blue hopefuls will parade three members of the intercollegiate All Star team when they take the field against Queen's this week-end. Sinclair, Greco, and Henderson have been duly honoured by a group of football authorities, in being adjudged the most worthy and competent players in their respective positions, in the intercollegiate union. Coach Stevens and his squad have a difficult assignment on hand. Queen's, from all accounts, are in the proverbial "pink" and have their hearts set on making it three straight against the Varsity lads. The Blue team will be at full strength for this all-important contest, having recovered from the effects of the hectic McGill battle. The weatherman has not given us any reason to be optimistic over the probabilities of a warm day, but we are reasonably assured of a fast field, and that will certainly be to our advantage.

Several members of the team will be donning the pads and blue sweaters for the last time if they lose on Saturday. A few of them who have provided you with many a Saturday afternoon's entertainment will be playing their last game for Varsity if they fail to stop the Tricolour threat. We are not waxing pessimistic, but merely trying to impress upon you the importance and seriousness of the situation. The oft asked question "What's the matter with Varsity?" is easily answered. The team at that time was not supported by the students in the stands. Fortunately such is not the case this year, but we are still considered as front runners and quitters by our contemporary colleges.

This concerns the cheering section. The team has been fairly well supported this year, in fact they didn't really need any support, but this won't hold true Saturday. When a team is hard pressed, when it is battling every inch of the way to make up a deficit, or holding grimly to a slight margin, it is the encouraging yells from their supporters that spell the difference between victory and defeat.

What say we give the graduating members of the team a reception and demonstration that they will never forget and one that the others will wait a long time to hear again? The Ripperty, Rapperty Rees should be heard in no uncertain manner, and with plenty of the old Varsity "pep". The lads will give you another intercollegiate title if you want it, and in very convincing and decisive fashion. It is yours for the yelling.

Warren Stevens gave the "critics" something to ponder over when he let his hockey team loose against the famous Toronto last Monday night at Varsity Arena. The Blue team held their highly reputed opponents to a two goal win. Varsity, but for the toughest of breaks, would have tied it up in the dying moments of play, but the gods of fate ruled otherwise. The very best that the visitors were entitled to was a one goal margin. The Blues' misfortune was Toronto's good fortune, as they scored their second goal from their own goalkeeper's rebound.

George Hendry, veteran right winger, was elected captain of the senior team for this season. The squad displayed rare judgment in choosing the congenial George, as he has long been one of the mainstays of Varsity teams, and that his election to the captaincy is heralded by Blue followers, goes without saying.

The University of Toronto junior O.H.A. team make their debut tonight when they meet the strong St. Michael's College sextet at Maple Leaf Gardens in the first game of the S.P.A. double-header. Ed Dewar will introduce a comparatively new team, having only two members of last year's squad. However, the junior coach has high hopes of developing another strong contender. The Blues will be facing strong opposition tonight, but it may be assumed that they will give a very good account of themselves.

TRINITY WINS THIRD STRAIGHT

Allison, Burchell Star for Winners as O. C. E.
Defeated

Yesterday afternoon in the big gym, Hart House, Trinity chalked up their third straight win in their quest of the interfaculty lacrosse championship. The final score, 14-1, shows that the O.C.E. team was completely outclassed and at no time was in the hunt. After Allison rang up his first goal, O.C.E. seemed unable to organise a systematic style of play and permitted the Trinity players to swarm in on the net.

Allison opened the scoring for Trinity, being followed shortly by Burchell. Trinity continued to pile up the score without reply from the O.C.E. team until the last period when Moffatt managed to bang a rebound past Knight and avert a shutout. The loose ball handling by O.C.E. when in a scoring position proved their undoing. For the winners, the combination play of Burchell and Allison was outstanding and between them they accounted for practically all of their team's goals.

Trinity — Knight, McLellan, Davis, Stewart, Allison, Burchell, Martin, Grant.

O.C.E. — Ley, Moffatt, Stiles, McAndrew, Hewitt, Evanson, Real.

Winners Offer Strong Offensive
Win 18-17

Last night at O.C.E. gym Vic Juniors met defeat at the hands of School of Nursing in a close women's basketball game that ended with an 18-17 score. Throughout the game play was very even, neither team being able to break away to run up a decisive score. The half-time whistle blew with Victoria leading their opponents by one point —7-8. In the last half School of Nursing combined in a strong offensive which the Vic team were not able to stop entirely, so that they went down under a one-point defeat. E. Parker and M. McEachern scored the majority of the baskets for School of Nursing, while L. Prior and M. Cowan

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

If you have not seen any basketball games this year—and judging by the galleries that have witnessed the games to date, you probably have not—you do not know what you are missing. The teams are rounding into mid-season form and if there are many games like the one played between School of Nursing and Vic Juniors last night you will not be disappointed.

The Nurses eked out a narrow margin over Vic in spite of too much crowding under the basket and in the first half erratic shooting. Although their combination was better until near the end of the game when their passing became a bit wild, Vic seemed to lack that final scoring punch.

Unfortunately the game was not free from casualties. We are very sorry to announce that Frances Graham, one of the best players on the School of Nursing line-up, broke her ankle in the second half of the game, and will probably be off the floor for the rest of the season.

Tonight, when St. Mike's meet U.C. Freshies, they will be without the services of Betty Shanahan, a strong threat on the forward line, who dislocated her shoulder in the St. Hilda's-St. Mike's game of Monday night. There is very little chance of Betty appearing in uniform again this year—our sympathies, St. Mike's!

St. Mike's have already defeated U.C. Freshies once by a handy score. We expect them to do so again tonight in O.C.E. gym at six o'clock but we are hoping to see a great improvement in the first year team. At eight o'clock Meds meet U.C. Juniors on the same floor and another Meds team, will encounter St. Mike's in the realm of baseball at six o'clock in Victoria gym. Come out and give your support.

SENIOR MEOS VICTORS IN STRAIGHT GAMES

Playing one man short, Senior Meds took the Senior School team in two straight games with a 15-8 and 15-4 score in volleyball last night. The medical team showed a better combination and smoother playing throughout the game. The School team was unable to co-ordinate and continually failed to play their positions.

For a time in the first game the issue was doubtful. Both teams showed some spirited playing on several points. The Meds team, with their five men covered the floor effectively, but the S.P.S. team kept running into each other. This gave the doctors the game. The second game went to the Meds team without much difficulty.

Meds — Rosenberg, Legate, Goldstein, Anderson, Robertson.

 are done purposely are due to the coach who is responsible and who should insist on clean play."
 Wm. Rimmer, attendant secretary for physical training expressed his opinion that he "did not believe that there is as much encouragement of roughness now as there has been in the past. For instance, at the double header last Wednesday there were no injuries of any account, which is different from the average game in the past." Mr. Rimmer stated that he "could not see where The Star gets its foundation for such remarks about rugby. Rugby today is cleaner than ever. Odd injuries are to be expected in case of hard ground. The average team is too busy working out plays to bother with rough tackling."
 Ed Shortt (I Law) commented, "I have seen several bad cases of injury but no one thought it more than unfortunate and that accidents will happen. Injuries were due partly to inexperienced players. All the coaches that I have worked under never encouraged dirty work but did praise spirit and pluck. As a game it should be played and encouraged in the high schools."

W. G. Real, O.C.E., said in regard to accidents in rugby, "I agree with Lou Marsh, too much padding gives players confidence in plunging and tackling, less padding therefore makes less serious injury. Every sport has its injuries but something could be done to lessen them. Inexperience, being out of condition and immature bone structure of the average youth contribute to mishaps."

Gordon Cuthbertson, IV C and F., remarked without hesitation, "The Star is running true to form in its campaign of sensation." In answer to the question of his experience of high school rugby, Mr. Cuthbertson stated that he played four consecutive years on the Peterborough Collegiate Institute senior rugby team during which years the team won the Central Ontario championship and had never during that period once heard a coach exhort a team to go out and win by underhanded methods. He spoke very highly of his coaches, considering them to be among the most straightforward and gentlemanly personalities with whom he was acquainted.

 Entering into the war with a mind free from false conceptions, and with a sense of reality, Sir Arthur, said Sir Andrew MacPhail, had been able to create out of the material at hand the Canadian Corps, a weapon swift, strong, flexible, the most powerful in the hands of Earl Haig. Following the war, the success of Sir Arthur Currie in his new position as head of McGill University has been another worthy accomplishment and indication of strength.

Both teams checked closely and played strong defensive games, while their attack was weak. As a result the game was slow and offered little opportunity for cheering. Worsley scored in both periods for the Canadians and the score indicates the relative strength of the teams. Last night's game put the Swimming Club on top of the junior group with two wins while Varsity are at the bottom, having lost twice.

RESUSCITATING! Imaginary Interviews with Famous People

By Milton Shulman

WE MEET COBURN

As we fearfully opened the door of his private sanctum we could catch a glimpse of the Massive Mind poring worriedly over a typewriter as if waiting for an idea to strike him. As we were in a hurry, we weren't going to wait that long, and instead marched with a steady step into the presence of the Carroll L. Coburn.

"Mr. Coburn," we began without any preliminaries, "I was sent by my paper the Daily Gargle to interview you, and get your opinion on some of the important topics of the day."

"But—but," but—but the famous man, "I had no idea I was to be interviewed today. What is the reason for this great honour?"

"Oh, I forgot to tell you," we replied. "Your famous interview of yesterday was such a masterpiece of literature, that you have been awarded the Pullmotor Prize."

"The Pullmotor Prize?" gasped the mighty interviewer. "I have never heard of it. Why was it presented to me?"

"So that you can use the pullmotor to revive some more old jokes," we came back, with a smirk on our face. The great man hesitated for a moment, and then not to be outdone he opened a drawer in his desk and pulled out a wooden sign which read "No Smirking Please."

"But—" we began.

"Leave all your butts in the ash-tray," he interrupted benignly.

This was beginning to get on our nerves.

"Did you find that your experience as a cub reporter was adequate in fitting you for the important position in the literary world which you hold today?" we asked, hoping against hope that this would sober up the genius.

"Well, my first news-story was so lousy that the news editor threatened to fire me if I wrote another one like it. When I handed in my second story, I adequate."

"Don't you know that it isn't the thing to make puns like that?" we pleaded. "Ain't you got no adequate?"

We had to duck fast to avoid the typewriter.

"Mr. Coburn," we began again, carrying on like a true trouper. "In your many years of experience as a feature writer what have you discovered to be a universal motto?"

The Massive Mind pondered for a few minutes.

"I haven't made much headway with mottos since I was kicked out of mechanical engineering," he answered. "But I would say that if you keep standing on your own feature dancing is bound to improve."

We were beginning to get desperate. "Is it true that you wrote the following poem in your undergraduate days?"

Sister, sleep, your labour o'er,
 Still I love you in repose,
 Love your lips, your eyes, your nose—
 But Sister, how I hate that snore!"

The Great man sat up with a start when I had finished quoting his masterpiece to him. A guilty and hunted look came into his eyes as he gazed anxiously around the room.

"Where did you get that?" he whispered hoarsely.

"Hahahaha," we laughed, stroking our black moustache, "I knew that would make you sit up and take notice. I found it in the back files of The Varsity."

"Please, please," he pleaded, wringing his perspiring hands, "don't ever show that to a soul or my good name will be destroyed and my future ruined. I wrote it in a moment of weakness and it has been haunting me ever since. Promise never to show it to anybody and I will print all your back-page features from now on."

"Trying to bribe me, eh?" we replied. "It is no use. What else have you got to offer?"

"I'll do anything you say," he said, falling on his knees and the tears welling up in his eyes. "Anything you say. Only don't drag my name through the mud. Oh, what will I do if Hush ever gets hold of this."

"I'll keep quiet about this only on one condition," we answered, taking pity on his plight. "Promise me that you will never make another pun as long as you live."

"It is asking a great deal," he replied, "but I promise, I promise."

"What do you want me to do with this paper on which I have written this poem of yours?" we asked, as we were getting ready to leave. "Do you want me to tear it up, throw it away, or burn it?"

"None of these methods will guarantee me that it has been positively obliterated," said Coburn. "There is only one way that will completely destroy it."

"And what is that?" we asked.

"Coburn it," he replied.

Varsity Meets Queen's for Senior Title

Queen's Gridders Well Prepared for Engagement

Preparing to Take Revenge on Traditional Rivals

DAWSON WILL BE OUT

Last Senior Competition for Ten Varsity Gridders

By R. W. Clark

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 16. — On a gridiron frozen hard all week Queen's seniors prepared for their all-important game with Varsity on Saturday. Realizing that it is one of those do-or-die, sink-or-swim, shoot-or-shut-up struggles that Coach Reeve writes about the Tricolour settled down to the candid way of playing football.

Expecting weather conditions to be far from ideal the Queen's squad has concentrated on signal drill, handling the ball as it should be handled, and more than anything else, acclimating themselves. There have been no frills this week, no knock-em-dead formations, simply the routine business of perfecting what has already been developed this season. It will be the same squad on Saturday as that which twice defeated the Blue and White, but incidentally those two wins have been forgotten and the Tricolour will be in there with that same grim determination that was apparent in the last Toronto game. Bob Ralph, outside wing and halfback, who has been out since the Varsity game in Kingston is still bothered with a failing leg and is a doubtful starter on Saturday. Otherwise the line-up is intact and is as follows: Flying wing, Hamilton; halves, Wing, Davis, Krug; quarter, Waugh, Miller; middles, Gorman, McIntosh; snap, Kostuk; insides, D. Zvonkin; outsides, Glass, Earle; subs, McNichol, Weir, Byrne, Peever, F. Waugh, Dafoe, Jones, Dargavel, Ralph.

No Depression Found in Art

Member of Group of Seven Tells of Group's History and Break-Up

THOMSON NOT A MEMBER

"There is no depression in art," stated Mr. Lissner in his review of Canadian art at the Grange last evening. Mr. Lissner, himself a member of the Group of Seven, traced its history from its origin to its disruption early this year. The most active in this group were Jackson, Harrison and MacDonald, who all found their inspiration in the far North. In 1913 these artists met and because of the lack of appreciation of their work by the public, formed the Group of Seven. During the first two years eighty exhibitions of their pictures were held and only one picture was sold. Seventeen pictures belonging to this group were sent to England in 1917 and found recognition.

Thomson, although often named as the originator of the group, was never a member. However, he was one of Canada's greatest artists, and through him the North country found expression in art. He was given but five years to devote to his talent, but each year showed a marked advance, as he

Central Plant Controls Heat of University

Steam Supply Adequate Unless Temperature Drops Unexpectedly

LIBRARIANS UNCOMPLAINING

Police Intervention Necessary to Stop Noisy Children Near Library

"All the University buildings are heated by a central heating plant, and the steam is drawn to the various buildings by a system of vacuum suction," Mr. G. D. Maxwell, assistant to Col. LePan explained to The Varsity when asked about the method of heating the buildings, especially the library. "Thermostats in the various rooms serve to regulate the valve system," he continued, "and when the temperature falls below 66 degrees Fahrenheit the valves are opened and the steam generated in the central plant is sucked into the radiators. When the weather temperature drops suddenly and unexpectedly, as on Tuesday night, the supply of steam in the boilers may not be sufficient to warm the rooms immediately. The plant itself is adequate to generate enough steam, but cold snaps cannot always be predicted." "Can anything be done about that" (Continued on Page 4)

Maritime Model League Convenes

Sixth Gathering Took Place Last Week-End at Halifax

NEW PLAN OF PROCEURE

Special to "The Varsity" Halifax, Nova Scotia, (C.L.P.). — The Maritime Model League of Nations, it has been announced, has met here for its sixth gathering, with Dalhousie University and King's College as hosts. The League, which was first held in 1929 at Mount Allison, consists of Acadia College, the University of New Brunswick, King's College, Mount Allison University and Dalhousie University.

For the first time in its short history there was a change in the usual way of conducting the assemblies. Instead of giving over the whole time to assemblies where each person represents a country and must put forward the views of that country on the subject under discussion, certain periods were set aside for round table discussions, when each person was at liberty to set forth their own views. The League met over the week-end of November 11 and the assemblies were held in the faculty room at Kings. A very interesting programme had been planned for the few days as follows: On Thursday evening, Nov. 9, the Assembly was formally opened, after which there was a proposal put forward for a General Minorities Treaty. Friday morning was divided into two sessions and the subjects under discussion will be a proposal for a World Monetary System, and a proposal for the Amendment of Article 16 of the covenant of the League of Nations. Friday afternoon was given over to the round table groups which discussed the N.R.A. and the future of the British Commonwealth.

Sale of Beer Not Sponsored

Ability of Canadian Workman to Drink in Moderation Questioned

Headgear is Main Topic

The question of pill-box hats vs. mortarboards as suitable headgear for the Speaker, Dick Bell, proved of more interest to the U.C. Parliamentary Club than the first and last bill of the Robertson government, for the legalisation of the sale of beer and wine in Ontario hotels, introduced by Mr. Syd Hermant and defeated 7-20.

Mr. Hermant himself seemed more interested in the Speaker's headgear than the debate, and after making several unsuccessful attempts to adorn Mr. Bell's curly locks with an old R.M.C. hat, informed the House that since black coffee and tea could be as intoxicating as beer, there was no object in their opposing the bill. "This is the thin edge of the wedge," boomed Mr. Beamish for the Opposition. "The Canadian workman, unlike his British cousin, does not stop at one glass of beer but continues until he is intoxicated." He had grave suspicions that Gooderham and Worts (pronounced Wartz) and the hotel interests were backing the government in this bill.

Mr. Robertson, Prime Minister, suspected Mr. Beamish of belonging to (Continued on Page 2)

Senior Pucksters Meet Tigers Today

Varsity Team Are Encouraged by Their Close Game with Torontos

Fighting Form Expected

The University of Toronto senior O.H.A. hockey team journey to Hamilton today for their game with the Tigers in the Ambitious City. The Varsity team have taken on a new lease of life since their close game with Torontos earlier in the week, and are convinced that they have a much better team than they at first supposed. The Tigers are a powerful club, and take a lot of beating particularly in their own rink. However, if the Blues display the same class as they did in their opener, they should make things mighty interesting for the strong Tiger team. Coach Stevens has been concentrating on developing the necessary punch within the opposition's blue line, and when his system is perfected, Varsity will score the needed goals. Captain George Hendry and crew are intent upon making those Tigers stop to beat them, and if they show the same fighting form as last Monday their ambitions will certainly be realised.

Foreign Correspondents in Berlin Voice Opinion Through E. A. Mowrer

Tourists Misinformed

Hitler Hailed as a Messiah because his Nationalism Answers Demand

Before an enthralled audience last night at Massey Hall Edgar Ansel Mowrer, for 10 years Berlin correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, painted a vivid picture of what has taken place in Germany since Hitler's accession to power.

"What follows," said Mr. Mowrer in introducing his subject, "may be considered as the opinion of the little group of foreign correspondents in Berlin with which I was associated. We newspaper men saw Germany as tourists, welcomed and guided by government officials, did not see it. If visitors to Germany went away with the impression that all was well there, it was probably because they did not understand the language and because they were prevented from going behind the scenes. This was all part of a smoke-screen which has been set up to fool the outside world.

"The Nazi regime in Germany was itself inaugurated by a series of accidents," continued Mr. Mowrer. Hitler's acceptance in the German Cabinet was not necessary; it was an ill-conceived political move. Another "accident" with portentous results was the burning of the Reichstag, five days before the elections. The destruction by fire of this building was made the excuse for the suppression of all opposition in the elections. Even at that (Continued on Page 4)

Fellowship Offered to Women Graduates

Three Years at Girton College is Tenure of Fellowship for Research

Girton College, Cambridge, offers the Pfeiffer Research Fellowship in Arts of the value of 250 pounds a year tenable for three years for research in any branch of learning except Mathematics and Natural Sciences. Women who are graduates or have taken Honours in a final degree examination of any university and members of the Girton College Roll, shall be eligible.

The Fellow shall not engage in tuition or other paid work without the express permission of the Council. The Fellowship shall not, without the special permission of the Council, be held in conjunction with another Fellowship awarded by the Council or a Studentship awarded by the Council. The tenure of the Fellowship shall be as from July 1st or October 1st at the option of the Fellow, and the emoluments shall be paid quarterly. Applications shall be sent to the Secretary of the college by February 1, 1934.

A Fellowship of the value of 300 pounds a year is offered for research in Mathematical, Physical and Natural Sciences, including such sciences as Chemistry, Electricity, Engineering, Botany, Geology, Medicine, Agriculture, etc.

The Council reserves the right to replace a Fellowship by another of smaller value, or by an Honorary Fellowship, if the Fellow should hold or subsequently obtain any Fellowship or other emolument from any other body.

Masquerade Regulations

This evening marks the occasion of the annual Hart House Masquerade. The House Committee has asked The Varsity to draw attention to the regulations that follow.

The south-west and west doors of Hart House will serve as entrances. Traffic for the west door will come south on the avenue immediately west of Hart House and continue south under the Soldiers' Tower. There will be no parking on Devonshire Place or on the north side of Hoskin Ave.

On entering the ladies will take the stairway to the right of the door to the billiard room where they will leave their wraps and proceed by the easterly stairway to the main and lower gallery near the Great Hall, where they will meet their escorts. The gentlemen on entering take the stairway to the left of the Sketch Room. Special attention is drawn to the fact that no one will be admitted by ticket who is not in fancy dress; this rule will be strictly enforced.

The House Committee also request all members and their guests to prevent confusion by remaining in Hart House until prepared to take their leave. It is imperative that there should be no going in and out once the ticket is given up. At the end of the evening all doors to the House are opened. If this is borne in mind there will be little crowding around the main doorway. The south-east doorway is especially convenient.

Attractive Prize for Competition

Women's Canadian Club Sponsors Literary Competition

$100 for Best Essay

A prize of one hundred dollars will be awarded for the best essay on "Art and Canadian Life", in the annual literary competition sponsored by the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto. Writers will be expected to consider their subject from some such aspect as the following: "Art—the application of skill and taste in the expression of beauty in form, colour, sound, speech or movement." Webster's Dictionary.

"It is the fact that art, so far as it is truly art, is a union of the serviceable and the immediately enjoyable, that makes it impossible to institute a difference in kind, between useful and fine art—the only basic distinction is that between bad art and good art." John Dewey.

"In the general disorder, the need for order and equilibrium is more imperative than ever. It is natural that the artist should appear . . . because he is . . . the salesman of order who exists. His unique function is to combine with other artists so as to be able to create the Style that Defines their Civilisation . . . the artist being the most civilised of all men . . . except for the lyrical expression of its emotion, the poetic, plastic, or musical stylisation of its sensibility, a people leaves nothing behind." Elie Faure.

This contest is open to professional and non-professional writers alike throughout the Dominion. The essay must not exceed 3,000 words and three copies of each essay should be submitted to the secretary of the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto, 69 Bloor Street E. and should be sent by registered mail, either on or before March 1st, 1934.

Stevens' Squad in Final Stand Against Queen's

Workouts on Frozen Gridiron Temper Keen Tricolour Squad

Routine Plays Perfected

Teddy Reeve's Original Line-up Complete Excepting Ralph

By B. J. McGuire

And here it is at last. That eleventh hour crack at Queen's that the Varsity team hoped for but which seemed so improbable two short weeks ago. Still smarting from the two reverses which the Tricolour handed them to mar a perfect season, Warren Stevens' hard-hitting Blue warriors will take the field on Saturday in an effort to square the count with Queen's by winning the intercollegiate title.

The meeting of these traditional rivals on Saturday marks their third struggle of the season and if there is anything in numbers it should be Varsity's day to win. In their first conflict Varsity looked bad and the Queen's team deserved their win. In the second game it was different, Varsity could do everything but score. On the statistics they out-played Queen's all around, particularly in the line plunging department, moving the sticks twelve times to Queen's three. What they will do this week remains to be seen. Should they continue the brilliant playing of their last two starts it looks like an intercollegiate title. If however they should turn in such (Continued on Page 3)

Central Banking Benefits Country

Selfish Fear of Bankers is Retarding Canada's Prosperity

Recent Report Discussed

"A central bank will not be able to restore prosperity here while there is a world wide depression," was the opinion set forth by Mr. A. F. W. Plumptre in his lecture Wednesday night at the meeting of the Political Science Club held at Wymilwood. Mr. Plumptre spoke of the hearings of the recent Commission which was summoned to investigate the deficiencies of the present day banking system in Canada. Their report proved conclusively that a three month's loan in the western provinces was not of sufficient duration. Minor defects such as the collection of exchange on small cheques were also criticised in the evidence produced.

In the east the outstanding complaint was that the west was growing fat on their savings.

From all angles the most effective remedy seemed to be in the establishment of a central bank. Mr. Plumptre pointed out that in the opinion of Mr. Bennett there should be a central bank in every outstanding country but the Canadian bankers have stood opposed to it. Their objection seems to rise from a self-interested motive, the fear of losing their business and profits. This is true in some respects but the benefit derived by the country would make it of secondary importance.

Other recommendations in the report were quoted by the speaker and the meeting closed with a spirited discussion.

HART HOUSE

On the occasion of the annual Hart House Masquerade, which has become in a brief time the most popular social event of the University season, it may be well to remind our readers, of the male sex especially, of the fact that Hart House is a unique and wonderful institution. A great many of us take the House for granted and others are altogether ignorant of its history and purpose. We should appreciate its importance and its significance, and should be proud of the privilege which we as undergraduates enjoy within its walls.

Hart House has become, as the founders intended it should, the heart of the University. It is more than a Union, or Club, and it is more than a gymnasium or Y.M.C.A. It is Hart House. As such it is recognised as the centre of undergraduate life in its broadest sense. It is the centre for the social life of the University, since the major social events are held there. It is the centre for music, with its numerous recitals and Sunday evening concerts. It is the centre for Art, with its exhibitions and Sketch Room and Camera Club. It is the centre for drama, with its theatre; and the centre for religious activities, with the S.C.M. offices and library situated there. It is the centre for administration of student activities, such as the Joint Executive of the S.A.C. Athletic offices, well-equipped gymnasiums, squash courts, swimming pool, and other accessories make it dear to the heart of the athlete. Nor must we forget that it caters in a sumptuous way to the material needs of the undergraduate in the Great Hall and the Tuck Shop, while the library, the reading rooms, the billiard room, and the music room are all well frequented.

We could go on and on, singing the praises and telling the uses of Hart House, but we would run the risk of arousing the ire of our feminine readers, whose hearts burn for a similar institution of their own. We hope that they get it some day, though they can never hope to approach the perfection and peace to be found in our masculine abode.

Hart House is known throughout the world as the finest thing of its kind. Each year visitors come to the House, not always through curiosity, but often to carry back the plans and ideas of Hart House to other universities. Many of the leading colleges in the United States have sent delegates to visit Hart House before building clubs of their own. It is recognised by others as a wonderful institution, we who are given the opportunity of using it should be just as appreciative.

A CORRECTION

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

As president of the Italian-Spanish Club, I should like to make a few corrections and additions to the article appearing in yesterday's issue of The Varsity, re our recent meeting.

First, may I point out some facts concerning the Cave of Altamira. This, without any doubt is the most important prehistoric cave yet discovered. Situated in the village of Altamira (Santander), it was discovered in 1876 by Don Marcelina Santola. The cave has acquired a reputation from the engraved and coloured pictures of animals of the Ice Age (early Magdalenian and Solutarian epochs), such as the bison, the wild horse, the wild bear, etc., which are to be found on many of the walls. This prehistoric art shows a very advanced stage of development along certain cultural lines.

Secondly, may I correct the erroneous statement that "one of its (Spain) particular advantages is that plants keep green all the year round." The speaker, Mr. R. Fluegge, was talking here about the growth of flora in northern Spain. He mentioned the greater periwinkle (Vinca major), of the dog-bane family (Apocynaceae), which flowers in great profusion and maintains an evergreen appearance.

I should further like to mention the splendid musical part of the programme. Miss Betty Grobba played difficult piano selections with a charm and facility that impressed everyone. Mr. Guglielmo Franco, accompanied by his brother Giorgio, sang pleasing numbers. Miss Assunta Sperapau, talented young violin-virtuoso, gave a set of enjoyable numbers, of which Bazzini's "La Ridda" may be mentioned especially.

Trusting that this letter may meet with your approval and whole-hearted co-operation, I remain,

Faithfully yours,
Gordon L. Hallman,
Moderns, 314 U.C.

Art, Music and Drama

St. Thomas' Church

Off to another outstanding programme, the half hour of choral music offered by CFRB at 5.30 p.m. Sunday will commence with the well-known hymn "Praise to the holiest", followed by Tchaikovsky's eight-part motet "Like a choir of mighty angels". Master Paul Foskett, soloist for this programme, will be heard in "The Lord is my strength". The male chorus offering this week is a special four-part Negro spiritual "Tis me O Lord", the a cappella motet "O how glorious", by Dr. Willan, concluding with a modern setting of Bach's "Sleepers Wake".

Toronto Symphony

The programme of the next concert of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, on November 21, is as follows:

Overture, "Figaro" ..... Mozart
Three Songs of French Canada ..... arr. by MacMillan
Jeanne Dusseau, soloist
Overture, "May Night" ..... Rimsky-Korsakov
Aria, "Abschiedlicher", from "Fidelio" ..... Beethoven
Jeanne Dusseau, soloist
Symphony No. 3 ..... Beethoven

(Special to "The Varsity")

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 16 (RIP Collect)—On a gridiron frozen harder than a Scotchman's heart Fed Reeve's Snorting Extras have been preparing for their final game of the season with Varsity next week. Realising that it is one of these hit-and-run, life-and-death, Bound to Rise, Slow but Pure struggles that Coach Horatio Alger writes about, the Rathskeller team settled up with the bartender and then settled down to the stranded way of playing fumble-tag.

Expecting blather conditions to be far from ideal after next Saturday Coach Reeve has written his column up for a week in advance and expects to have a little time to spend on the job. The Queen's squad has concentrated on signal drill from the coach's bench, fumbling the ball as it should be fumbled, and more than anything else, subsidising themselves. There have been no fraills this week, no knock-em-dead pep-talks (due to rumours that the Toronto Star is threatening to have the game called off and a numble-peg tournament substituted), simply the business routine of disinflecting the coach of the athlete's mouth that has developed this season.

It will be the tamed squad on Saturday which was beaten by McGill two weeks ago, but accidentally that defeat has been forgotten and the Rathskeller will be underneath with the same dim perturbation that was aberrant at the start of the season.

Outside gin and half cracked, the team is still bothered by a failing leg and is a doubtful starter on Saturday.

C—C

Women's Varsity Night Office, Toronto, Nov. 16.—And here we are at last. That eleventh hourly crack at Queen's that the Blue and Tight hoped for after taking ten good cracks at them in Kingston. Still smarting on their reverses from the cracks the Tricolour took at them to mar their perfect figures, Warren Stevens' had-hitting fumble will hit the field on Saturday in an effort to square their reverses.

The meeting of these traditional rivals will be described in the next volume of The Rollo Boys' adventures, "How The Rollo Boys Worked Their Way Through College."

If there is anything in numbers it should be Varsity's day to win, as Eliowitz has just transferred to Toronto, where he is taking an extended course in astrology. In their first conflict Varsity looked bad. In fact they were bad. In the second game they looked different, but they were still

Elton Auditorium

For a time last night—how long I could not tell you—Serge Lifar transported me far away from the city, in the woods where the Fauns and Satyres used to live. In his rendering of Debussy's "L'après midi d'un faune" Lifar has achieved a real creation of a great beauty and intensity. With curly hair and horns, in coloured body, under an ever changing light, combining an Asiatic temperament with a Greek sense of beauty, expressing himself with a real mastery of muscular grace, he showed us that the spirit of ballet and dancing is not dead, even though the genial Nijinsky is no more on the stage.

The programme included also a choreographic adaptation of "The Cat", with music by H. Sauguet, in which his troupe supported him only moderately well. The "Spectre de la Rose" was saved by the costumes and the coloured lights, for in it Lifar did not display his best ability. The last numbers showed us the agility, cleverness, and swiftness too of Lifar's troupe, and while much appreciated by the audience they were not as high in emotion and strength as the unusual "Après midi d'un faune" which was by far the high point of this evening of dance.

C. de M.

just as bad as ever. They could play everything but football.

In the Press Box they outplayed Queen's all round, especially in the statistics department. What they will do over the week-end will have little connection with Saturday's game.

If they can score more points than Queen's, they stand a good chance of winning the game. If, however, they get whitewashed, it's "Bye, bye, blackbird."

Now we go into our song on the sentimental aspect, "You've Got to be a Football Hero to Pay Off the Mortgage on the Homestead," or "I'm Playing with Tears in My Pants." The last game of the season always provides a chance for the sob-stuff. Ten of the men to whom Varsity is indebted for back salaries will play their last game for dear old Alma Mammy on Saturday, and then pass into the fraternity of men who, once the heroes of the campus are now walking the streets. That is, provided they pass.

Elaoin and Shrdlu.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

With the Meds-S.P.S. baseball team defeating St. Mike's last night by one run, the baseball season will probably close for another year. The schedule calls for another game between Vic and St. Mike's to be played tonight but rumour has it that St. Mike's will default the game, giving Vic the inter-faculty championship. The Scarlet and Gold squad have won all their games this year and handed St. Mike's a 13-3 defeat in the first game of the season.

It was hoped that the league would expand into a four cornered one this year but unfortunately U.C. were not able to find nine people interested in baseball. Most of the games were very one-sided but last night St. Mike's although without the services of their star pitcher, battled to a close score with Meds. We are glad the final game at least ended with a score that sounds plausible for a baseball game.

The basketball games of last night at O.C.E. gym were very ordinary, completely lacking in the spectacular element. That does not mean they were deficient in interest and it is too bad the teams are not given more support by their colleges.

In the second half of the game in which St. Mike's met U.C. Freshies, the Freshies turned to good account every break that offered itself with the result that they built up a formidable score. Although the game was quite slow, a reason has been offered—there were no men present! We need your inspiring influence, men!

Next week will see the completion of the interfaculty basketball schedule—unless too many fair co-eds tie themselves out tonight caving in as sailors, pirates and witches.

MEOS-S.P.S. WOMEN WIN BASEBALL GAME

The Meds-S.P.S. women's baseball team was successful in defeating St. Mike's last night by the score of 11-10 in Vic gym. As the score indicates the play was very close, neither team being able to hold a decided lead for long. Consistent playing was a feature of the Meds outfit and both teams were heavy hitters.

Meds-S.P.S.—Horner, Daley, Lumley, Davey, McQuarrie, Sheppard, Grier, Gauthier, Bickle.

St. Mike's—Schman, Allen, Mosh-aurgh, Simon, Sheppard, McMatrin, March, Lynch, Whelan.

U.C. AND JR. S.P.S. TIE LACROSSE GAME

In a fast hard-played game U.C. and Jr. S.P.S. battled to a tie score yesterday afternoon in the Hart House gym in the interfaculty lacrosse competition. U.C. led for the majority of the game, but School in a last minute spurt, ended the game in an 11-11 tie.

Murry opened the scoring for S.P.S. in the first quarter and Smith immediately followed with a goal for U.C. The play continued, with Smith garnering another point, and Fullerton two well-placed tallies. The quarter ended shortly after a score by both teams, with U.C. in the lead 4 to 2.

At half time U.C. was leading 7 to 4, but with a sustained rally S.P.S. outscored their opponents for the remainder of the game to keep U.C. from a victory. Murry for S.P.S. was by far the outstanding player, scoring over half of the points for his team. In the last minute of play he broke through the U.C. team to make two tallies and saved S.P.S. from defeat. For U.C. Smith was the best player, making five out of the eleven points for his team.

U.C.—Warner, Stobie, Fullerton, Cramp, Smith, Sweetman, Gallow. S.P.S.—Miller, Jacob, Hamilton, Murry, Taylor, Breakey, Stroud, Sharpe.

BLUE JUNIORS DEFEND TITLE

Meet Loyola College Team After Winning All Games Scheduled

PROBABLY FINAL GAME

Loyola College, on Saturday afternoon, will act as hosts to the Varsity juniors in Montreal and the prize for the winner will be the intercollegiate junior rugby title. In all probability it will be the last time that the juniors will be seen in action this year, as they intend to pack their outfits after the Montreal game, following the example of the seniors, and call the season ended whether they win or lose.

The Blue juniors are the only rugby twelve in intercollegiate competition who have won all their scheduled games this year. This, combined with the fact that it is likely to be their last game, should make them doubly eager to win.

In spite of the cold spell, they have been practicing daily, and when they entrain for the Quebec metropolis at 4 p.m. this afternoon, they should be in fine condition. Their 2-1 win over Queen's last week was their most strenuous game of the season and the rouge that Thompson kicked in the dying moments of the game was the only point that has been registered against them in their home and home games with Queen's and R.M.C. Opposed to this, they have scored 71 points.

The team will probably line up as follows:

Flying wing, T. Powell; halves, Tafts, Sweeney, Gray; quarter, Miller; snap, Jacobs; insides, Holt, O'Connell; middles, Thomas, Bridle; out-sides, Reid, Woods; subs, Stronach, Cockfield, Caldwell, G. Powell, Mac-lachlin, Willoughby, Buck, MacPherson.

CLOSE COMPETITION FOR MULOCK CUP

Victoria Cets Bye into Finals S.P.S. Plays Dents Today in Group Final

FEW SERIOUS INJURIES

The Mulock Cup playoffs of this year bid fair to arouse the interest that these fixtures have in the past. Victoria College this time was fortunate in receiving a bye into the finals which will be played a week from today. Senior S.P.S. and Dents will play off the tie for their group leadership today and the winner will play Trinity in the semi-finals on Tuesday. Victoria has played in the Mulock Cup finals for the past four years. In 1929 they defeated Pharmacy and the next year lost out to St. Michael's entry. Then Trinity won their first interfaculty football tie in 1931 and lost to Vic last year. The Trinity game bids fair to be a close contest with the winner of the S.P.S.-Dents game and then Victoria are favoured to win the title.

No team in the interfaculty series this year has been able to romp through their group undefeated. The series this time has been one of the closest and most interesting for many years. Almost every team entered has shown strength and as a result the type of football played is a vast improvement over that played in previous years ever since the cup was donated by Sir William Mulock. Serious injuries have been less evident in the series this season than for the past few years which is good evidence of the condition of the players competing and speaks well for the coaches of the various teams. A system has been inaugurated in this field of University sport which coincides to a great extent with that employed by those handling the intercollegiate teams. Last year the league produced several players who have been moved up to the junior and intermediate Varsity outfits and there appears to be a number of this year's interfaculty players ready to take the jump next fall.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Saturday may witness the last performance of the kick 'em, bite 'em, gouge 'em sport in which the students will participate this season. A long and strenuous season together with perfect hockey weather has somewhat chilled the enthusiasm of the Varsity football team and some are inclined to make the coming struggle a real success and cheer in their togs. There is a good reason for this attitude. A win on Saturday would qualify Varsity to meet Sarnia, the winners of the O.R.F.U. Should they meet with success in this venture they would have to wait till Dec. 9 to meet the winners of the Big Four-Western Canada tilt. This is certainly prolonging the football season for an unduly long period and although a Dominion title would be quite acceptable as a Christmas present, the boys would like a little time to write their letters to Santa Claus. Should football continue till the date mentioned and then with the annual Christmas exam struggle facing them the team will have little time to devote to their annual letter. However, this is not definitely decided as yet but for those wishing to witness this brutal game they have read about in the city papers it would be unwise to pass up this opportunity.

While the Big Blue team are battling it out here for the title, Laing, Graham and Co. will have their juniors performing at Montreal against Loyola in an attempt to subdue the junior intercollegiate champs of the east. This junior team is a real outfit. We remember of reading recently something to the effect that a prominent sport critic would like to see any team playing under Canadian rules who could score 150 points in six games, a record achieved by an American team. Look them over brother. 150 points in six games would be 75 in three. And the Varsity juniors ran up a 71-0 score in their first three starts which would indicate that they at least come close to being something worth seeing.

The fate of the intermediates is still undecided. O.A.C. and McMaster Loyola would play off here tomorrow. And the Aggies, who won the western went ahead with their playoff on Saturday on the assumption that Varsity and group would meet the winners here the following Saturday. O.A.C. are not able to get away again on Saturday or for any further mid-week games. This leaves it up to Loyola to meet Varsity or prolong the series indefinitely. As it stands if Loyola does not come to Toronto there is a possibility of calling the entire series off.

And while on the subject we must not overlook the old Mulock Cup series. This is mighty important business as far as the faculties are concerned and we have seen a larger attendance at these struggles than at some junior and intermediate intercollegiate games. Dents and School line up tomorrow for the title of Group III. Should Dents win the finals will begin on Tuesday with Trinity or if the Engineers come clean it will start on Wednesday. The finals are next Friday. The teams have run into a lot of bad weather this season, having played through rain, heat, cold and blizzards. If Toronto is in line for the snow which has recently fallen to the west of us someone will be dragging Sir William Mulock's cup home on a dog sled.

STADIUM USHERS

Ushers are requested to be in their places by 1.30 p.m. A full attendance is required.

MEDICAL WOMEN LOSE TO U.C. JR. BASKETEERS

In a carelessly played interfaculty women's basketball game at the O.C.E. gym last night, U.C. juniors triumphed over Meds 19-9. There was little scoring in the first half, which ended with the ultimate winners up 9-4, and in the third quarter each team notched just one basket. Most of the points were gained in the final minutes of the fixture.

Kay Brown at forward was the star for U.C., and Jennie St. Alban, Helen McGarry and Frances Harkness all played good basketball. Jennie Cantwell, on the forward line for the first season in her cage career, scored all Meds' points and worked like a beaver. Isabel Wright was the mainstay of the defence.

U.C. Juniors—Madge Shaw (7), Kay Brown (8), Jennie St. Alban (4), Frances Harkness, Jean Robertson, Helen McGarry; subs, Lena Todd, Jean Snider.

Meds—Ruth Bourne, Barbara Watts, Jean Lang, Charlotte Small, Jennie Cantwell (8), Fern Beatty, Isabel Wright, Mary Albertson.

U.C. FRESHIES DEFEATED

Last night in O.C.E. gym St. Mike's women's basketball team were successful in defeating U.C. Freshies with a 46-18 score. Good combination play was lacking on both sides and there were a great many penalties for over-guarding. Only a very small percentage of shots for the basket counted, as the defence players proved effective and the forwards very inaccurate. Lack of organisation and team play was the main cause of the first year defeat. Rosamund McCullough turned in a very fine game for the winners, scoring 24 points.

U.C. Freshies—J. Romeyn (8), M. Elmslie, D. Colquhoun (4), C. Grant, Y. Kirk, M. Grey, Y. Ritchie, D. Prowse, R. Clarke.

St. Mike's—R. McCullough (24), C. Dunn (6), H. Darte (16), A. Gard-

RAGGED HOCKEY IN S.P.A. GAME

St. Mike's Defeat Varsity Jrs. Scoring Chances Lost by Double Blues

KELLEY OUTSTANDING

St. Michael's O.H.A. junior team defeated the Varsity juniors last night at the Maple Leaf Gardens by the score of 6-2 in an S.P.A. double-header. The game was a typical pre-season exhibition, with both teams playing ragged hockey, but for the odd flash of speed, Varsity had a chance to score early in the game when the Irish were playing two men short, however the double blue squad staved off the rather weak Varsity attack. Metz opened the scoring midway through the first session when he took Jackson's pass and went right in to heat Owen. Pep Kelley made it two less than a minute later.

Kelley opened the second period by heating Shipman from close in. The Varsity team showed to better advantage in this stanza and had the smart St. Mike's team on the defensive. Lavery scored for the blues on O'Leary's pass. The Varsity defence man skated the length of the ice, circled the double blue defence and shot a pass to Lavery. R. Bower scored for St. Mike's a few minutes later.

Ripley scored Varsity's second goal early in the third period. The Irish retaliated and pressed hard. Metz, Jackson and Acheson tallied for St. Mike's to end the scoring.

Varsity—Goal, Owen; defence, Wainwright, O'Leary; centre, Poupore; wings, Walkey, Hamer; subs, Morgan, Ripley, Lavery, Putnam, Sissons, Shipman.

St. Mike's—Goal, Teno; defence, R. Hamilton, J. Hamilton; centre, N. Jackson; wings, Kelley, Metz; subs, Hagerty, F. Bowers, R. Bowers, Brouillard, Acheson, Driscoll, Regan.

ner, P. Callen, M. McConvey, H. Haines, M. Vining, C. Kennedy.

a game as their first meeting with the Kingston team it's bye bye ball game.

Aside from the significance the game has on the intercollegiate series it has also a sentimental aspect. The last game of the season always finds many of the men who have helped to bring glory to the university making their last appearance on behalf of the Blue and white. Ten of the men to whom Varsity is so indebted for its exalted position on the football map will play their last game for their Alma Mater on Saturday and then pass from university athletic activities, into the fraternity of men who, once the heroes of the campus, now are only memories lingering in the minds of a few.

With so much at stake, an intercollegiate title and for ten men, the last opportunity of performing for Varsity, the Blue team have every reason to play the game of the season. If such is the case they stand more than an even chance of retaining the title they won last year. The team is ready. Every man is back in the line-up with the exception of Dawson, the man who has been the best tackler the Nazis only obtained a majority of one per cent.

Hitler is dictator, not because he is making an essay in economic determination, but because of the satisfying creed he has built up for the Germans, who cannot even today realise that they lost the war. Hitler has told them that they had victory torn from their grasp by the "stab in the back" of pacifists, Marxists and Jews.

This the Nazis believe, and because of Hitler's promise to restore Germany to her position before the war, he is the national hero,—the veritable Messiah. Of course, there are still people in Germany who do not agree with Hitler, in spite of the fact that he is the "world's best advertiser". All those who refuse to be "Nordicised", come under the jurisdiction of Goebbels, "the theatrical manager", and Goering, whose essence is brutality. The business of education is carried on in "beating-stations" and concentration camps, where flogging and other forms of torture have reached a height of refinement. Besides this actual physical cruelty, about one quarter of the population is constantly subjected to preventative terrorism which takes the form of omnipresent espionage.

"Although the heaviest persecution is levied against the pacifists, who, most of all, are hated by the Nazis, it is an undoubted fact that the Jews in Germany are doomed," stated Mr. Mowrer. "Gradually they will be squeezed out of the nation's economic and social life, and I cannot believe that they will continue to live within the bounds of the country. Germany must be purified of all non-Nordic traits. The Jews, who are considered sub-human, must go in order that the pure Nordic stock will survive in heroes who will gladly die on the battlefield for the sake of Germany."

"All this is only intelligible," concluded the speaker, "when we introduce into the confusion the idea of preparation for war. German women are exhorted to breed young soldiers to regain Germany's place in the sun. Hitler says he wants peace, but if he will have the rest of the world believe him, he must renew his connections with those outside Germany and make some sincere effort to encourage friendly relations with those around him."

Toronto's Bowery Becomes More Elite, More Chic
 Day By Day The Dainty Dames Debouche

We wondered who was taking the second transom in the charming green corridor of a well-known joint in Toronto's Bowery, and spending most of his evenings there on a step-ladder. J. Ellery Vestalquest is his name, and he is the young brother of "Peeping" Percival Vestalquest, the popular astro-nomer.

You really mustn't fail to miss the Junior Klieg Revue this week. It is the sweet young things' first fling at putting the "sin" in cinema, and even if you haven't seen a movie for years (and who does, after all, doesn't one?) you'd better not spoil your record now. Divine Paris creations will be bulged horribly by Thisbe Twipl, leading lady of the production, as well as by the big Charity Chorus, led by the popular debutante, Vanessa Swipple-chuckett, who introduces the theme song, "It's All For Charity, So What the H—?" Other dubious damsels who will appear plenty are Threnodia Buckleby-Twitchett, niece of his Excellency the Duke of Hephziborough; Beverly Wimplewomp, well-known for her crocheting, hemstitching and tatting; Flageolina Fyfe-Goppyl, talented amateur musician and breeder of pedigree limpets; and last but not much worse, Terpsichore Trippi, who studied tap dancing under some of the greatest European masters during her recent six-week trip around the world. The leading male attraction will be Pilkington Pwettlethorpe, popular young barrister (member of the firm of Prendergast, Pwettlethorpe, Iekes and Smoot), and some good-looker, so his mother insists. . . . Well, don't say we didn't warn you.

Fascinating Francine Flannigan, just back from Kingston, for a brief period probably, is wearing a large sparkling handcuff on her engagement wrist. A present, they do say, from P. C. Oscar O'Flaherty of the Mutual Boulevard beat, who has lost the key.

To get along at all this winter you will certainly have to kneec your way about. Puffed bruises and bumps insist on bulging, and if you want a remedy we suggest trying the Maidens' prayer, a sort of spray gun containing a solution of nitro-glycerine, rock salt and buttermilk. For external application, one teaspoonful in a basin of boiling oil. Internal, one eggcupful straight should lay you out for weeks. You may never be able to see how glossy your knees become with this treatment but you're sure to read about it in this column sooner or later.

Quite the boldest and most captivating plug that of the season was well worn by this old gentleman who was waiting in line at the top of the staircase this morning. It was ornamented with a Gooderham and Worts label thrust tastefully in the band. Otherwise attractively plain. Beneath it he wore a fine old serge suit which glistened in the morning sunlight. As we moved away the wearer was casually descending the Ladies' staircase. Rather eccentric, we thought.

There will be a number of maudlin frocks in Toronto when Toronto ladies presented to the Beer of Baluchistan yesterday come back, if any do (the Beer usually returns a few for alterations and rejects one or two outright). Restrictions in Baluchistan are much less stringent than they used to be. It is amusing to read in Barmaid's manual of court dress for 1873 that "the skirt of the gown should extend behind the rear no less than by water." Trains must now be three miles from the depot before whistling, three provinces on the ground, or two and signals must not be given with more than two fingers or whispered sotto voce or you are liable to be caught with your ants down your neck and there'll your whole day is ruined and so is mine and oh well let's just have another ill ship, ships that pass in the night rather goathat lish sheep I en shayt again chaps tha—oh well nemmin of girl lish avanozher jushit one thissime well sholong Abshnya.

noisy vibration in the pipes that one hears frequently?" The Varsity asked. "This noise is called 'water hammer,'" Mr. Maxwell replied, "and is caused by water condensing in the pipes. When steam is forcing its way past this pocket of liquid, the noisy vibration occurs. It is a very difficult thing to eliminate completely in any steam system."

Mr. Maxwell declared that no doubt something might be done about the clamouring children playing near the library, but as these children lived in the immediate neighbourhood, and had few other areas for sleigh-riding, no interference had been contemplated, although if complaints were being made the police could be called in to stop the children.

"The Librarians have not complained, nor experienced an epidemic of colds, anyway," Mr. W. S. Wallace, Chief Librarian, replied to The Varsity's question as to their attitude to the heating in the library.

"Is it because the library is an old building that the circulation of air is so spasmodic, alternating between stuffiness and gustiness?" The Varsity asked.

"Possibly," Mr. Wallace answered, "but every attempt is made to ventilate it properly. The janitor opens the windows early every morning and a complete change of air is effected."

The Varsity was unable to learn if the comparison of their endurance of climatic conditions to that of Eskimos at all flattered the Librarians. With true esprit de corps Miss Irene Hill refused to divulge the information as to whether one of her fellows had recently been guilty of tuncful wheezing nor if they were lamenting the decrease of "A chilly Librarian named Beas."

Enthusiastic Staff Announce Programme for First Edition

MATERIAL SOLICITED

The annual publication of the University College magazine The Undergraduate, promises to be something of an event in the lives of U.C. students this year. Under the supervision of a new and enthusiastic staff, numerous changes and additions are to be made in an attempt to instill into its pages a more direct personal appeal. In the effort to bring it more closely into contact with student life, every possible phase of curricular and extra-curricular activities will be represented.

According to the editor, Max Patrick, IV U.C., the magazine will be primarily a historical record, devoted to the origin and growth of University College as a whole, but with particular reference to the Literary and Athletic Society, which organisation celebrates its 80th birthday next February. In addition there will be informative articles on the progress of athletics, dramatics, etc., and an especially illuminating essay detailing the part played by women in University College since the beginning. The usual literary section will be retained however, the historical material being inserted in the number of extra pages found in the increased size of the magazine.

"Bigger and better than ever!" is this year's motto, a trite expression, admittedly, but particularly applicable. Poems, stories, essays—articles from students on any topic of general interest will be welcomed; from your own pet political theory (devoted to revolutionism . . . etc.) to that execrably funny incident you heard related on the campus recently.

Material may be turned in to Max Patrick, editor, or to Miss Betty Brunke, "Undergraduate Magazine" at either of the Literary offices, to the Women's Varsity office (see notices in rotunda). The deadline has been positively announced as December 15th.

What have you . . . ?

"This has been a lecture of extraordinary beauty delivered in a manner full of grace and charm. The lecturer has been supported during the course of his address by pictures, as remarkable in the order in which they were given as the way in which they aided the speaker as in their extraordinary beauty."

In these few words Sir Robert Falconer expressed the opinion of a large audience which almost filled Convocation Hall on Saturday night to hear Professor Coventry speak on "Animal Life in Timagami".

Some of the outstanding slides shown by the biologist included a picture of a frog in full song. In Timagami frogs sing most lustily in July and with the aid of a flashlight may be seen along the shores of small lakes. When singing it throws out its lower jaw which acts as a chamber for the sound.

In the group of illustrations on rodents was a picture of a squirrel nibbling the bones of a skull. This little creature visited Professor Coventry's island twice a day during the summer. Pictures of salamanders,

VARSITY PLAY GREAT GAME TO WIN SENIOR INTERCOLLEGIATE RUGBY TITLE BY DEFEATING QUEEN'S 10-3

Jack Sinclair Maintains His Supreme Position in Rugby Annals of Fame by Scoring All the Points of Final Game

COULTER, BELL AND GRECO SHINE BRILLIANTLY

Queen's Leads for First Half, but Sinclair Kicks and Scores Touch in Third Period to Score Decisive Win

By John T. Stubbs

Climaxing a great career in college football, Jack Sinclair took his place among the football immortals of the University of Toronto when he led his teammates to a glorious victory over Queen's in Saturday afternoon's game at the Stadium with Varsity breaking the tie for first place in the intercollegiate series and winning their second consecutive title with a 10 to 3 win.

Although there were times when Queen's had an advantage in the play, Varsity outplayed the Tricolour in every department of the game on the statistics taken on the play as a whole. Sinclair was the hero of the title-winning struggle but Tubby Bell at snap for the Blues turned in the best game of his career also. The four Varsity outsidemen all shared honours with brilliant tackles but Henderson was the most outstanding in this respect with Bryers, Alison and Keith taking turns in the limelight. Captain How Hamlin on the Queen's wing line was the outstanding player on the losers' roster, with Krug, Davis and Zvonkin worthy of honourable mention. Hamlin's flying gallops through the line made yards several times. Krug carried the play for Queen's in the first half time and time again, plunging, receiving kicks, and tackling effectively. Davis replaced Wing in the latter part of the game as the former faded in his kicking duel with Sinclair who was booting them high, wide and handsome all the way. Arnpur, Coulter, Greco, and Peacock all played brilliant parts in the greatest football drama of the college series. Arnpur's well-enacted placement for the convert after Sinclair's touch counted the tenth point and cinched the victory. Coulter's running back of the kicks clicked off big gains all afternoon and gave Varsity an advantage in almost every kicking exchange. Greco was the most effective plunger for the title-winning grid champs. In the second quarter he made yards himself on two occasions, dragging Tricolour linemen with him both times. Captain Ken Peacock like Tubby Bell, did not shine in the eyes of the undiscerning fans, but his defensive tactics saved the Blues many times on deadly Queen's offensive efforts.

Shortly after the kickoff Queen's had the Blues backed up in their own end of the field but a steady drive with Sinclair booting and the ends tackling.

Varsity showed plenty of their usual aggressiveness but it was mostly of an individual nature. Frank Shipp was at his best as the Blues went down to their second defeat before the fast skating, hard hitting Tigers. It was only the sensational work of the net guardian that kept the students anywhere near the winners. Over sixty shots came his way, mostly from in

Hart House Loses Its Sobriety Yields to Folk of Much Variety

By Gordon H. Jack

"Meet me at the spiral staircase."

Once again youth at its gayest transformed the august halls of Hart House into a romantic fantasy when some six hundred gallants and their ladies gathered there to laugh and dance their way through another masquerade.

"Like fairyland, isn't it?"

The main gymnasium was beautifully disguised as a rhapsody in blue and orange and red. An abundance of chesterfields, rugs, softly-shaded lamps and other accessories usually foreign to the House, effectively changed the common rooms into delightful sitting-out places: some of the couples, we noted, seemed to find them more fascinating than the dance floor. Others found the emerald coolness of the swimming pool gallery, illuminated by strings of coloured lights, a most attractive spot of recreation other than dancing.

"And what are you supposed to be?"

The variety and colour of the costumes of course defies description. Convicts and clergymen, Chinese and children, guys and guards, pirates and pages, surgeons and sheiks all contributed to the multi-coloured pageant. Popeye and Olive Oyl with Sweet Pea (and even Sweet Pea's underwear) were there; so was Death in various forms but to offset this the medical and nursing professions were well represented; ingenious little girls did surprisingly sophisticated things; a lion-tamer that suspiciously resembled Mae West was among those present; elaborate and beautiful period costumes were popular with the ladies; and so on, and on, and on.

"I take pleasure . . ."

Margaret d'Anjou, wife of Henry VI, who came to life in the person of Miss Mary Chadwick, was adjudged worthy of the prize for the best lady of the costume. J. S. Woods, of Trinity, attired as The Mikado, won the prize for the best costume among the gentlemen. Duncan Gillard, attired as a Martian, was regarded as having the most original attire. We still wonder

A SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS?

Again, or still, we are hearing about the mooted course in Fine Arts of which very little has been said since 1929. But now there seems to be much more definiteness to the project. And if things go along at the normal academic rate the next few years ought to see the course actually in existence. That is the merest theory, however, for the form of the course is still under discussion. It is to be hoped that the course will not be so decadent and insincere as to achieve the status of a Religious Knowledge option or anything similar to the pass course so that the standard of the course will be low enough to satisfy those people who come to college because it is "the thing to do" and who will then be equipped with a nebulous idea of all the "arts". If such a thing were to happen the course would soon degenerate into a training course for debutantes and would-be wealthy wives who want to learn the art of choosing clothes and decorating homes and want to know for what manifestations in literature, art or music the loudest applause is desirable.

It is our contention then that instead of a course with affinities to the Faculty of Arts a School of Fine Arts be instituted. This school can be very wide in scope and can deal with such subjects as music, drama, art appreciation, journalism, and criticism in general.

Modified courses in the same subjects should be made available to those in Arts courses. The fact that we have, affiliated with the university, such institutions as Hort House Theatre, The Toronto Conservatory of Music and the Ontario College of Art would be a decided advantage in an attempt to institute such a school. By amalgamating these and adding to the facilities that they offer such things as a course in criticism, one in dramatic art and instruction for aspiring journalists, the school could quite deservedly consider that its foundations had been laid.

The idea of a course in journalism will be received with disfavor by many people. This term is not used here in the narrow sense of newspaper writing, but in connection with all branches of literary creation. The school could not, of course, guarantee to turn out authors at the end of a fixed period of time, but it could help to direct the energies of its students.

The scarcity of critics on this continent is a very tangible reason why a course of this kind is necessary. Besides instructing people in this art, it would enable others to appreciate the works of valuable criticism. It would make it possible for discerning writers to be honest in their judgment and lead to the state where credit would be given only where credit is due.

It will be impossible for Canadians to lose the reputation for insensibility and lack of judgment that they now possess as a nation until steps are taken to provide opportunities such as a school of this kind would offer.

SPANISH DANCER IS HOCKEY FAN

Interview granted to The Varsity last night in the Royal York Hotel. This is Teresina's first visit to Canada, and from what she has seen, is very favourably impressed.

Born in Barcelona, she began her career as a dramatic actress at the age of twelve. Following further study in dancing and on the stage, including a season in the Paris Opera, she returned to her homeland and won widespread success as an interpreter of her native dances and from then on devoted herself exclusively to Spanish dancing, both ancient and modern.

onto is grand," Teresina said. "I am very interested in students and am anxious to have them see my work so I have requested that there be special prices on Monday and Tuesday for students of the university. I want them to get an impression of Spain from my dances. The Spanish students are very interested in their native dances and I hope that my visit will produce a similar interest in Canada."

Senorita Teresina can speak both French and Spanish very fluently but she says (in very good English) that she has not yet mastered our tongue, so everything had to be obtained from the interpretation of her manager. Among other things it was learned that she is insured for $35,000, "mostly legs", that she has had several offers from motion picture companies but has not accepted them as yet because of the restraint which would be placed on her performance by over-enthusiastic directors and because she would lose the direct contact with her audience. She lives in Paris because it is the dancing centre of the world but returns to Spain once a year for new material and inspiration.

Hart House Recital

Mr. Reginald Stewart in his last night's pianoforte recital has achieved something that will seem incredible to those who did not hear him. Starting his programme with works of Lyly, Scarlatti, Mozart, he played then five modern pieces, closing by three pieces from Bach, and his success was that, when an enthusiastic audience called him for the third time, he chose to play as encore Bach's famous Chorale "Jesus thou my desire". The short and impressive silence that preceded another burst of applause showed that his hearers, not only appreciate his play, but revered, as he did, Bach's wonderful music.

As has been already pointed out in this paper Mr. Stewart has a very personal style, rendering often in a new and different way pieces that one has been used to hear played in another way. Yet, such is the surety of his technique, backed with a very brilliant and always consistent play that no one will ever dispute him the right to do so, for his art is true to his personality.

The programme was built in three parts, including in the first Lyly's "Air", by which Mr. Stewart gripped his audience from the beginning. Scarlatti's "Pastorale and Capriccio" revealed a great delicacy of touch, while Rameau's "Tambourin" gave us music of a delightful finish. In Mozart's "Sonata in G Major" we found all the grace, the delicacy and life,—the last movement especially,—that one associates with the name of the Viennese composer. Schumann's "Tocata" concluded the first part.

The second group was entirely modern, including works from Debussy, Scriabin, Ravel and Chabrier. Ravel's "Jeux d'Eau" thrilled us all by its rhythm, its colour and its order bathed in an atmosphere of charm while an ever-renewed cascade of high notes covered almost the scherzo sounds of the waters. Chabrier's "Scherzo Valse", unknown to most people, was capricious, moody and lively, and everyone enjoyed it.

After playing such a fine programme that suited the liking of all, it seemed almost impossible to conclude by an entirely classic group, all compositions of Bach. Yet Mr. Stewart proved brilliantly that the music of this old master included all the qualities that we had appreciated and enjoyed previously, with something more that comes only from J. S. Bach's personality. His "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor", followed by the "Sixth French Suite" and the "Tocata and Fugue in D Minor" have a dignity, a beauty of composition and form that places them on a different plane from the music we had heard before. Personally I am inclined to believe that Bach's very religious nature and faith are the explanation of this strange fact, while his evident genius is not to be forgotten, of course.

the ventilation were proper, there would be no need for opening the windows. A change is imperative!"

Questioned by The Varsity in the main reading room, J. O. Pollock, II Meds, answered vehemently, "I think the heating facilities are quite inadequate and the concentration impossible, therefore I use the library as little as possible."

W. Stobie, IV U.C., voiced his opinion to this effect, "The university authorities are evidently excusing the conditions with the statement that the lack of money prevents improvement, but I believe the present conditions are atrocious for a university of this size and importance. The building of a new library or the complete renovation of the old one should be made the primary objective of the authorities."

On the other hand some of the undergraduates complain less about the heat and more about the noise.

"So far this year I haven't found anything wrong with the temperature in the library," said Ross Munro, II Pol. Sc., "but the musical radiators are not conducive to concentration. From last year's experience I found that on real frigid days one undoubtedly needed ear-muffs, but it is to be hoped that this winter the authorities will see fit to provide more suitable accommodation."

Cornered by The Varsity in one of the halls of the library, W. A. Miller, IV M. and P., issued this statement,

LAWREN HARRIS DISCUSSES ART

another world." This standard is universal and the realisation of it provides the only hope of a true understanding of art.

This statement led to the question, "Do you have to be an artist in order to appreciate art?" to which Mr. Harris replied quickly, "Yes—but you do not necessarily have to paint. The experience of a picture is something—a relationship in which preconceptions are absolutely ignored." He then went on to say that if the creative concentration of either moves far enough, he comes to a moment when he transcends his smaller personal self and becomes a power rather than an individual. That state is reality itself and not an escape from reality.

As far as an artist is concerned, the forces leading up to the creation of a picture are two-fold. "Time, place and people merely constitute his environment," he said, "and serve only the secondary function of invoking into activity the more important subjective side of his nature. The abstract forces which animate this creative faculty are inherited from some other status or superior consciousness and are the standard by which he works."

Having dealt with his chief topic, the creative element, Mr. Harris then went on to discuss a more tangible subject, Canadian art. Very emphatically he termed the current belief that Canadians have been trying to revolutionise art as nonsense, for, as he said, art is too eternal. All creations that have an inner life, whether old, comparatively recent or extremely modern, are fundamentally the same, once the exterior technique is pierced, and those who say they cannot understand modern art are unwittingly confessing their failure to appreciate the old masters. A short explanatory history followed this brief defence of the movement. The Canadian artist started to go north because that part of the country offered a new stimulus. He commenced by painting literally what he saw, then, once having become acquainted with his subject, began to arrange it according to his own abstract ideas. With considerable feeling, Mr. Harris claimed that "all the variations exhibited in many of the Canadian paintings, are dictated solely by his inner necessity and are not imposed by any external conditions such as public demand and the desire to paint something different."

"On the whole the temperature is quite suitable, but some means should be provided to prevent a direct draught from falling upon the students."

S. C. A. APPEALS FOR MORE CLOTHES

Clothing of Any Kind Can be Used for Needy Men

DRIVE FOR FUNDS SHORTLY

"We can use everything you can give us in the way of clothing," was the statement made by Rev. Leonard Dixon when questioned by The Varsity concerning the work of the S.C.A. in connection with relief.

Rev. Dixon said that although much has been done there is so much to do that the supplies of used clothing obtained by the association are not entirely adequate. The S.C.A. collects used clothing at the office in Hart House and from there it is taken to the Neighbourhood Workers' work-room where all worn or torn garments are made over or repaired and are put to good use.

A recent case was that of a man who has just obtained work after many months of idleness and who has no overcoat nor underclothing. The fellow has been going to work these last few weeks without these necessary articles and now he has appealed to Rev. Dixon for aid. This is only one case—there are many others whose needs can be taken care of by the S.C.A.; they help the fellows whom no one else helps.

The association is also conducting a drive for funds in all the faculties. These funds are to be used for the maintenance of the offices in Hart House and in the Household Science Building as well as for many other purposes. Don't forget to help the S.C.A.; they help the fellows whom no one else helps.

'THE SPARK' AGAIN APPEARS ON CAMPUS

To Suggest Students Organise for Purpose of Stating Complaints

TO BE SOLD ON WEDNESDAY

At a meeting of the Student League on Friday evening final plans were made for producing and distributing The Spark, which will be off the press on Tuesday and on sale on Wednesday and Thursday. The most important feature is on the necessity for students to organise on the basis of certain complaints in the University. These are that fees both for undergraduates and graduates are too high, that more leniency should be shown in the matter of paying fees on time, that certain buildings are very inadequate for their purpose, and that the cuts in the salaries of the staff should be restored.

The Spark is to be eight pages and there are articles on the Anti-War Movement, the situation in Cuba, the expulsion of radical students from New York City College, the suppression of the Oxford October Club, the Stratford strike and the place of students in the class struggle.

The Student League also discussed its future programme and policy. It is holding a regular Marxian Study Group and is arranging to have a dance some time soon.

University of Western Ontario students voted in support of the resolution, "Resolved that Western should drop Senior Intercollegiate Rugby," which was debated at an open meeting of the Debating Society.

Practically the entire campus of St. Joseph's University at St. Joseph, New Brunswick, has been destroyed by fire, leaving only the gymnasium standing. The damage is estimated at $1,500,000.

SENIOR S. P. S. DEFEAT DENTALS

Science Men Show Fighting Spirit in Blinding Snow

REAL RUGBY DISPLAYED

With the usual fighting spirit which has been apparent throughout the series Senior S.P.S. pulled out a 3-0 win over a game Dental squad on Friday last. The snow storm which was raging at the time was so thick that one could hardly see across the back campus where the game was played but in spite of this the game produced some real rugby.

There was no score in the first quarter, both teams being fairly evenly matched. The lines held well and plunging was only a gesture. Bridgland's kicking for School gave the edge on the play, being much better directed and longer than that of Smith for Dents.

In the second quarter a fumble by Dents gave the Engineers possession close to the goal line and Bridgland kicked to the deadline for the first score. Near the end of the period Dents got possession on their own twenty yard line. They completed the only forward pass of the game to end up in centre field just as the whistle blew to end the half.

In the next period a beautiful kick by Bridgland from a long way out was nailed behind the line for the second point. It was in this period that Dents started to open up the game with extension runs. They didn't gain much though, and School were just as successful in gaining ground with their reliable bucking tactics. The last period was a repetition of the third with Dents trying everything in a desperate attempt to draw level. Bridgland kicked another long one which went over for the third and last point. His kicking and Baker's plunging were the good points of the Schoolmen's game, while Speers' work at running back kicks and plunging was the stand-out of the Dentals' performance.

RUSSIAN STUDENTS PAID BY THE STATE

Special to "The Varsity"
Glasgow, Scotland. — "Russian students have gone a very long way in the idea of community service," states Mrs. Greta Tweeddale, of the History Department here. "The government turns on the students wherever there is a weak link in its chain. Every student is paid by the government, and in return teaches in the evenings or helps in factories or on farms. Much of the voluntary labour that is a feature of Russia today is performed by students."

Examinations have had to be introduced into the most modern educational system in the world, as the authorities could find no other means of ascertaining whether a student was fit for his future job. All education in Russia is vocational and practical. At an early age children are taught the elements of healthy living and personal hygiene. Over $650,000,000 was spent in Russia recently in one year.

Anti-religious teaching is given in all the schools. Most stress is laid on the abuses of the old system. It is interesting, however, Mr. Tweeddale points out, to note that a recent play, portraying the hero's belief in the Christian faith, is drawing immense crowds.

Almost every street corner has a thriving book-stall, stocked with modern books inculcating the virtue of initiative and energy. The old introspective and morbid spirit has vanished from literature.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Sitting on top of the world! Sitting on top of Queen's! How does it feel, Queen's Journal? Yes, Varsity won the intercollegiate football title this year. Hear about it? In the second issue of this publication which was issued on Sept. 29th of this year, we called Varsity to win again. They did. Queen's won on their play when the Blues were in a slump in the first game. Varsity outplayed the Tricolour in Kingston two breaks won the game for Queen's. Here on Saturday Varsity won on the breaks and outplayed Queen's besides. Some will find it hard to believe but we have figures to prove it. They had an edge in every department of the game too. Here's how. Varsity made yards 9 times, Queen's 8. Varsity tried 4 passes and completed none. Queen's tried 18 and completed six for gains of 75 yards. Varsity intercepted on five Queen's passes, of which Sinclair got four, and gained 92 yards. Sinclair kicked 27 times for an average of 46 yards. Davis and Wing kicked 21 times for Queen's for an average of 39 yards. Varsity lost 40 yards on penalties and Queen's lost 70. Three Blues spent five minutes each on the penalty bench and Kostuik took a stretch for the Tricolour. And yet the Queen's Journal will undoubtedly come out with the statement that the Kingston students should have won the title for outplaying the Blue and White team. They never even thought of having been handed a break in Kingston. Oh no, Queen's won in glory, tumbling Varsity from the heights. What good did it do them? It takes a real team to spot an outfit like Queen's two games and then come through with a finish and trim them in the third.

If we begin to eulogise the deserving players on the new championship team it would take columns. Every man was in there playing his best. Hats off to the intercollegiate football champions of 1933. Hats off to Jack Sinclair who ended his career in the intercollegiate series to take his place with Warren Snyder, Smirle Lawson, Biddie Barr, Casey Baldwin and the others. Tubby Bell gets a call, as do Greco, Arnup, Coulter and Hennessy. Jackson and Boomer deserve credit for their performance in senior company.

Not until today at noon when the Athletic Directorate meets, will it be known whether Varsity goes on into the playoffs or not. The majority of the players seem anxious to keep it up and all they need is the sanction of the officials of the Athletic Association.

Credit is due to O.A.C. for their sportsmanlike condescension to forego the bye they had into the intercollegiate intermediate finals. Loyola was to play Varsity while O.A.C. and McMaster settled their group which the agriculturalists did. Loyola was to play last Wednesday and then Saturday but didn't. Now O.A.C. will play Varsity here Wednesday at 2 p.m. Loyola will play the winner on the winner's home grounds or default the domination title. The juniors were hauled off the train as they were headed for Montreal and the game against Loyola juniors. The field was a sheet of ice and it was still snowing.

Little Ross Workman played his part in that win Saturday and don't you think otherwise. He had 40 men with shovels, a tractor and four horses on scrapers out there at 8 a.m. and kept them hustling enough to have that field cleaned off half an hour before the game started. A heavy field would have made a big difference. The clean hard field helped to win.

As the usual climax to the college football series the Sports Editors of the four papers from McGill, Western, Queen's and Varsity make their choice for an all-star team. It will be interesting to see the pooled result.

In choosing we would pick as captain and flying wing Don Young of McGill. The halves would include Jack Sinclair to kick, Krug of Queen's to plunge, and Coulter of Toronto to run. That means moving Coulter but he has made more gains running back kicks than any other player in the college loop. Stew Ward of Western goes in at quarter and Kostuik of Queen's at snap for his defensive ability, not his rough stuff. As insides we would pick Stockwell of McGill and Veroni of Western. Zvonkin is chosen for one middle because of his outstanding performance this year but Gus Greco goes in beside him for having made more yards than any other middle in the league. At outside Henderson gets first call and Degnan of McGill who played for U. of S. California two years, is the other outside. The only player whom we wanted to include but couldn't was Hamlin of Queen's. He has at times looked like the best player in the league but he couldn't beat Don Young out for flying wing and he wouldn't be the power defensively that Zvonkin or Greco are playing in the line.

Right now as we go to press the choice comes in from Gorman of the McGill Daily and it only differs in one position. He puts Shaughnessy in secondary half where we have Coulter. Unlike the Western Gazette and the Queen's Journal which have been at times pathetically ridiculous and unethical as newspapers in their sports columns, the Daily has been intelligent and analytical of football. That has been our own attempt but just how close we have come is not for us to say. It is very coincidental, however, that the choices of these two papers should be so much alike. The pooled result including the other two casts will be interesting and we will give them to you in a few days. Tonight the Varsity senior hockey team will entertain Kitchener at the Varsity Arena in their third scheduled start, having lost to the Hamilton Tigers Friday night in the second.

will be played with Queen's.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Last Thursday night the first meeting of the Hockey Club was held and plans were made for the coming season. Although practice for the intercollegiate team does not usually start until the middle of December, it was decided to begin in about two weeks so that, by Christmas, the material should be fairly well weeded out. As in past years, home and home games will be played with Queen's.

At the meeting the question of a coach was discussed and a recommendation is to be handed into the Athletic Directorate that Max Fullerton, who will be playing O.H.A. this year, be coach. Marnie Faulds seemed the most likely person for manager but this has not been definitely decided as yet. If you are interested apply in Room 82, U.C.

The interfacial hockey will not take place until after Christmas and no arrangements have been made yet about the Arena. No outside rinks will be used this year and nothing can be started until practice hours have been worked out. U.C. Vic, and St. Hilda's are entering teams in the league and Meds will probably combine with S.P.S. and Dents as they have been doing, to form a team, in spite of the difficulty they have regarding practice hours. As far as could be learned, St. Mike's will also have a team but Household Science are definitely out as their faculty is too small now since the new pass course has cut down their number.

Let's see you give your support to this branch of women's athletics as soon as practices are called.

Congratulations are due Vic as baseball champions since St. Mike's defaulted their game on Friday night. The Meds-S.P.S. outfit upset the apple cart on Thursday night when they defeated St. Mike's by one run after having been beaten by them earlier in the week by a decided score. Consequently, the last scheduled game would not have made any difference to the standing of the teams and what with the Masquerade and this and that, it was more convenient to call off the game.

VARSITY ICE MEN LOSE TO TIGERS

close that were hard to get. Time after time he out-guessed the Yellow and Black attackers when they broke through and looked to have him at their mercy. All of the seven shots which went by him were from close in from where he had little or no chance to save. Another of the Blue warriors who deserves honourable mention is the diminutive Normie McLelland, the fast skating centre for the Varsity team. Normie was the only one who could match speed with the Mountain City speed artists and was always a pest to the Tiger attack. It was McLelland's efforts which gave Varsity two of their three counters, beating Marsh after taking McPherson's pass, late in the first period for the opener, and bagging Varsity's second on a solo rush in the second period. Pete White scored the third goal for the Blue team on an individual rush in the final frame.

On the game, Varsity was outlasted by the Hamilton team. The second period was the only time the teams appeared to be matched. In this frame the students divided the points, each team scoring once, but it was only the brilliant work of Frank Shipp that kept the score even as the Tigers swarmed around the Varsity net for most of the period. Conick, Blake and Bennett were most effective for Hamilton. Conick clicked for two counters and handed Bennett the pass for two more.

The final period was the most exciting. A disputed goal in the first few minutes caused the removal of the goal judge. This came when Cain failed to see it that way and refused to flash the red light. Later in this frame Jeffrey and Fitzgerald tangled and both were sent to cool off. With both teams back at full strength Hamilton turned on the power and banged in four goals to give them their final 7-3 victory.

Hamilton — Goal, Marsh; defence, Farrell, Radke; forwards, McGowan, Cain, Fitzgerald; subs, Howard, Blake, Bennett, Conick.

pushed Queen's back up the field to the latter's 36 yard line. Wing kicked after Zvonkin and Hamlin had made two plunges for yards but Bryers broke through the formation and blocked the kick. Burgoyne, on the Varsity half line, almost had it before it went out at the side but Kostuk shoved him and Varsity was given possession for interference on Queen's 17. Coulter was stopped, Varsity was penalised for offside, and a fumble recovered on an extension put Varsity back and Sinclair kicked to Krug at Queen's 15 yard line. Sinclair continued to outkick Wing but Krug made yards to relieve the pressure for Queen's and the first quarter ended scoreless. As the second quarter opened Queen's used running interference for the second time and were penalised 15 yards. A beautiful kick by Wing and a bounding ball to Coulter pushed the Blues back to their own 24. Sinclair kicked short and out of touch at Varsity's 41. Wing hooped it to Coulter behind the goal line but the fleet Varsity quarter came out 18 yards with it to save a score. Queen's opened up with passes but failed to click. Greco made yards but another bounding ball from Wing's foot bounced over Coulter's head and Sinclair was roused as he tried to run it out to give Queen's the first point. Greco made yards again assisted by Jackson who replaced Richardson. The latter was carried off after being hit in the face on his first tackle. Kostuk was ruled off for five minutes for high tackling. As the half time whistle went Krug caught it on his own 17 yard line with Varsity still forcing the play back deep into Queen's territory and the Tricolour still leading 1-0.

Hamlin fumbled a poor pass from the Queen's quarter after the third quarter opened and Bill Bryers dove in to recover for Varsity on their own 51. Another Queen's fumble that Hennessy almost had and a penalty pushed Queen's back to their own 27. A short kick by Davis to Coulter who ran it back to Queen's 49 and an end run on the next play by Coulter for 20 yards gave the Blues a chance to score and Sinclair booted it to Krug for the tying point. Shortly afterwards came Varsity's big break and the turning point in the game. Jack Sinclair was mixing up his kicks high and low, spirals and bouncers. One of the last kind to Krug did the trick and the Queen's half fumbled 13 yards out with several Toronto tacklers falling on it to recover. Jackson ran it out to centre successfully and Coulter called for the placement that was clicked off dead through the centre by Sinclair to make it 4-1. Hennessy ran Kostuk's kick-off back seventeen to Varsity's 52 yard line. Then the Tricolour opened up a terrific onslaught. That ball came from Queen's 32 yard line to Varsity's 40 in three plays. Davis then kicked 40 yards to Coulter behind the line to make it 4-2. As the third quarter ended Queen's came back strong again and it looked as though they were going to take the lead with a placement. The drop kick was blocked but Queen's recovered 20 yards out and tried another. It curved sideways and fell short ten yards out. Arnpup fell on it to give the Blues possession on their own 12 and their worries were over for the time being.

Krug started the Queen's passing attack again with a 30 yard toss to Kostuk. Davis was then able to kick a touch in goal for another point to make it 4-3. Sinclair kicked Varsity out in front again with a long high one across the field that caught the Tricolour halves napping on their own 40. Then came the big moment for U. of T. Sinclair had come close to intercepting on several Queen's forward passes previously and this time he tore in on the run, jumped up in front of Kostuk and snaffled the ball. Coming down he broke into a sprint, leaving four Queen's men in his wake as he ran the 37 yards to the line for a touchdown. It was a minute or two before the bedlam ceased. A hush existed for the brief moment that it took Harold Arnpup to kick a neat placement for the convert and end the scoring at 10-3.

From then on Varsity played it safe. Queen's completed some more passes but they were never able again to penetrate into the defenders' end of the field far enough to score. Davis recovered his own short kick, Arnpup and Sinclair intercepted passes to make up for the Queen's gains, Zvonkin and Hamlin made yards, Boomer stepped in and stopped two Queen's plunges in a row, and Alison nailed Krug receiving a kick and did it neatly. Peacock went along the line and exhorted the boys to hang onto the title. Sinclair would have had another touch if he had had strength enough left when he intercepted another Queen's pass at his own 40 and ran it to the Queen's 30 for a 40 yard gain. Arnpup made the greatest run of the day for 45 yards through the whole Queen's team but the whistle had been blown and it was called back. In a minute the game was over and Sinclair was carried off the field mounted high on the shoulders of his admirers.

YOUNG EDITORS ARE AWARDED PRIZES

The primary purpose of the convention is to give instruction to the novices in the art of editing a magazine. Such speakers as Mr. Elton Johnson, Miss Mona Clark, Mr. Stewart Thomson, Prof. L. A. MacKay and Lou Marsh gave helpful advice on the subjects of modern advertising, feature writing, magazine make-up, short story writing and sports writing. A feature of the convention, which was found to be most eagerly received, was the discussion of pertinent questions in small groups. Members of The Varsity staff were among the leaders of these groups. On Saturday morning secretaries of these groups chosen from the delegates, gave reports to the convention as a whole. On Friday afternoon the delegates were privileged to go through Bridgen's, Maclean's and Ryerson's, to see engraving and printing in actual process.

Saturday morning's programme consisted entirely of speakers and the report of the secretaries of the various groups. The convention was concluded in lighter vein with a visit to Tony Sarg's marionettes at Eaton's Auditorium.

Compulsory attendance has been abolished at the University of Western Ontario.

ONTARIO WILD LIFE SUBJECT OF TALK

various species of frogs and toads and a snake which frequented the lecturer's island in Timagami were also shown.

The major portion of the address dealt with the less obvious forms of life in this area, rarely seen except by those seeking them. This group, nevertheless, plays a large part in the economy of nature for on them the carnivorous animals are to a large extent dependent for their food.

Professor Coventry explained that to discover the relative population of these animals samples of one-fortieth of an acre of ground are taken on different years. In this space, one hundred and twenty-one traps are set. These animals have been shown to number seven hundred to fourteen hundred to an acre, or in proportion of three hundred on the platform of Convocation Hall. In densely covered areas the population is about fifteen hundred per acre, which is relatively the same as five thousand to our back campus.

Professor Coventry suggested setting aside large sanctuaries in Timagami for the preservation of the smaller forms of life.

Deans at several schools report higher scholastic standing coincident with depleted finances.

C.C.F. CLUB

J. S. Woodsworth will speak to the members of the club and those who plan to become members at 8.30 on Tuesday evening at the Women's Union, 79 St. George Street.

CHESS PLAYERS

The following games adjourned from the third round of the Varsity championship tournament must be played by Friday, November 24. These games are: J. R. Grant vs A. P. Hopkins (Mo. 6017); R. Drummond vs S. A. Jennings (Ki. 9617); R. T. Burgess vs A. L. Rubinoff (Ki. 9142).

U.C. LIT.

The next meeting of the U.C. Literary and Athletic Society will be held in the junior common room on Tuesday, November 28th at 4.30 p.m. The Committee on Constitutional Amendments will bring forward its report for second reading. As the proposed new constitution and amendments involve important changes all members are urged to attend and vote. A copy of the report may be found outside the offices in the junior common room.

FLUSH. A Biography, by Virginia Woolf.

For those who have seen the play The Barretts of Wimpole Street, this delightful book will bring images—of the maid, Wilson, carrying a heavy rug on one arm, and on the other, a little dog, while the mistress, Miss Barrett, pauses a moment before they steal softly away to join Robert Browning, and says something like this to her dog, "Flush, if you bark now we are lost. We depend on you, utterly."

Flush was an intelligent little Cocker Spaniel with a joie de vivre, but even greater than his joie de vivre was his faithfulness to his mistress. He didn't bark! And this is how Mrs. Woolf tells it. "Very quietly they slipped downstairs, past the drawing room, the library, the dining-rooms. All looked as they usually looked; smelt as they usually smelt; all were quiet as if sleeping in the hot September afternoon. On the mat in the hall, Catherine lay sleeping, too. They gained the front door and very quietly turned the handle. A cab was waiting outside."

Through the mind of this little dog, we gain an intimate knowledge of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, such as no other biographer has yet realised. Yet, it is not a biography of the Brownings, but of Flush, except as their lives happen to touch his.

As an animal story, it occupies a shelf of its own. Flush's insight was very deep, but of a different stuff to that of humans. "Yet it was in a world of smell that Flush mostly lived. Love was chiefly smell; form and colour were smell; music and architecture, law, politics, and science were smell. To describe his simplest experience with the daily chop or biscuit is beyond our power. Not even Mr. Swinburne could have said what the smell of Wimpole Street meant to Flush on a hot afternoon in June."

The author shows how the dog psychology of jealousy crept into the heart of Flush when he discovered his mistress growing absorbed in another than himself, and her sympathy for him diminishing, so that in revenge he bit Mr. Browning; then his mistress was so angry, that the poor little dog, after a tremendous moral victory, overcame his jealousy and loved Mr. Browning ever after, for his mistress's sake.

Of how he loved Italy, its smells, its sunshine, its freedom; of how he ceased to be a snob and became a democrat; of how he had to overcome his jealousy, once again, when the little son arrived; of love, and warmth, and tenderness; there are a thousand things which we do not attempt to describe. We leave that delicate task to Mrs. Woolf, herself, and you will see that she does it exquisitely.

The decision reached yesterday noon by the Athletic Directorate was in accord with the general student opinion obtained on the campus. J. J. Brigger, H. M. and P., was quite decisive when asked if the team should go on. "No!" he said. "The team finished in a blaze of glory and it would probably be dimmed by either Argos or Montreal. Besides, it has been a long season and, since so many men are graduating next June, they shouldn't imperil their chances merely for another game or so in such terrible football weather."

According to A. D. McConnell: "They should not go on. The finals in rugby are far too late as it is. I think the Canadian Rugby Union should speed them up considerably. In Western Canada the teams are forced to lay off for a period of nearly a month—out there the finals are almost always over by November 11th, while the teams down here wind up (Continued on Page 4)

"The recommendation for a school of fine arts used to be in the President's reports but in times such as these new departments are difficult to establish," said Mr. Dunlop of the Department of University Extension, when interviewed regarding yesterday's editorial. He explained that the province might think such a course, in times like this, was a little unnecessary. Since the university would like to make such a school as inclusive and important as possible it therefore hesitates to start one until able to do so in the proper manner.

"A school of fine arts would no doubt be a valuable addition to the University of Toronto," stated Mr. Fennel, Registrar of the University of (Continued on Page 4)

Staff Celebrate

Copy writing and night editing were forgotten for a space and the trials and tribulations of the journalist's existence cast to the winds as the staff of The Varsity gathered at Gregory's Tavern for the annual Fall Dance last night.

Vociferous appreciation was expressed of the efforts of Miss M. P. Palmer and Mr. E. C. Phelan, the committee in charge, and a number of impromptu speeches were delivered on the subject. That famous Varsity spirit was much in evidence throughout.

When interviewed by The Varsity at an early hour this morning, Mr. C. L. Coburn, Feature Editor, expressed complete approval of the manner in which the festivities were conducted. "The party was sane and sensible," he remarked, "and I was glad to see such a spirit of camaraderie on the part of the staff. Velut arbor aevi!"

SIR RAYMOND UNWIN RECEIVES DEGREE

Master Town Planner Lauded by President at Special Convocation

"A GREAT LEADER"

Last night at Convocation Hall, at a very impressive ceremony, the honorary degree of Doctor of Architecture was conferred upon Sir Raymond Unwin. Canon Cody, in eulogizing the career of Sir Raymond, mentioned that the latter was the former president of the Royal Society of Architects, in 1914 he was the chief town planning commissioner of London, Eng., and since 1929 he has been the chief adviser to the town planning council, and is best known as leader in the crusade against the slums. Canon Cody expressed the joy of the university at being able to confer the degree to "a great leader of the profession." Sir Raymond, discussing town planning, said that instead of haphazard planning, we must have more co-operative planning in order to gain beauty and individual comfort. A city is not merely a collection of streets—it is a personality and is just as much a unit as a house.

It is possible to have 10 houses to the acre in London, and yet there is crowding. A city 70 miles wide by 70 miles long could be made to hold all the population of the United States comfortably. On this continent there is vertical crowding as well as horizontal crowding. No space is saved (Continued on Page 4)

ENGINEERS ANNOUNCE 44th ANNUAL DINNER

For the past forty-three years, the engineers have maintained a tradition that has survived depressions and prosperity alike, in the presentation of one of the best known campus functions—the annual School Dinner. This year, the forty-fourth, which will be held in Hart House on December the fifth, promises to rank with the greatest of a great line of successful enterprises of the Engineering Faculty.

While members of the executive were not prepared to give the name of the guest speaker for publication, it is understood that a man of national repute has consented to address the engineers on this occasion, and further details will be available shortly.

The School dinner regularly attracts some six hundred students and faculty members of the little Red Schoolhouse, and is perhaps the largest regular function for the male undergraduates on the campus.

Hope to Link Universities by New Method of Debate

"It provides a link among universities, a modernly forged link," said Mr. W. J. Dunlop, head of the Department of University Extension in regard to the inter-varsity debates by radio, which will probably begin in Ontario in January. "It is a relatively new adventure," said Mr. Dunlop. "It is going to mean a great deal. We hear much of the perils of nationalism as opposed to internationalism. Here is the very thing."

This new adventure in debating is confined to those universities which have broadcasting facilities or have access to a station. In Ontario, Toronto, Western and McMaster will compete. The winning team of Ontario will debate against the winners in Eastern Canada chosen from the universities of Quebec and the Maritime provinces. The Universities of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba will meanwhile have held a contest. The finals are to be between the West and the East.

One judge will decide the Ontario debates. There is half an hour to be (Continued on Page 4)

Obviously, if a realistic effect is to be obtained, a corpse must be placed inside the chest.

UNIVERSITY RECEIVES COPIES OF "CANADIAN"

The University of Toronto has just received and has accepted with gratitude a gift of 300 copies of Colonel Bovey's book entitled "Canadian". These books are for distribution among graduate and undergraduate students of the university and will be particularly prized by members of the French Clubs and French Societies in the Arts Colleges. "Canadian" gives a charming picture of French-Canadian life in Quebec and predicts a rosy future for the French-Canadian. This book has been favourably reviewed in the Old Land as well as in Canada. Colonel Bovey is Director of the Department of Extra-mural Relations of McGill University.

LIBRARY SLEEPERS SLUMBER IN PEACE

No Rule to Prevent Tired
Students from Seeking Rest

SNDING NDT TOLERATED

In the opinion of leading members of the Library Committee, there is not, nor has there ever been, any rule forbidding slumber in the Hart House Library. This does not, of course, mean that the library is meant for tired students. It is primarily a reading room.

E. C. Apps, V Dents, although he had been unable to attend the last meeting of the committee, felt sure that no action would be taken against members found asleep. However, he emphasised the fact that snoring would not be tolerated under the "silence" rule.

W. S. Smith, IV S.P.S., secretary of the committee, was eager to spike any rumours that sleeping is taboo. "While there is no rule against it," he told The Varsity, "it is not the primary purpose of the library." There have been no complaints received by Mr. Smith regarding somnolent readers.

Mr. Smith also wished to inform members of Hart House that copies of Hansard will be available each day as soon as the House of Parliament convenes. Any suggestion from those who use the library are always welcome. The names of any books that might be considered for purchase should be placed, along with the price and the publisher's name, in the box provided for that purpose.

PLANS FOR U.C. FOLLIES AID TO STUDENT BUDGET

A Moderate Expenditure Will Bring Excellent Dividends in Entertainment

The annual U.C. Follies to be held in Hart House on Friday, December 1st will as usual present to the University College undergraduates the opportunity of having a hilariously entertaining evening for the expenditure of a surprisingly moderate sum. This is no unimportant consideration in these days when necessity impels the average university man to cut his entertainment budget to the bone.

In a statement to The Varsity last evening, F. W. Woods, who is in charge of preparations, laid emphasis upon the excellence of this year's skits, each of which promises to be a jewel of unsurpassed originality and pep. A spirited water-polo game will take place between a picked team from U.C. and an invading group from the School of Dentistry. ### DISPLAY GOOD TEAMWORK

Snappy Playing by McLelland
Features Hard Fought Struggle

By Frank J. Lambert
Making a very inauspicious showing in the first period and failing to take advantage of their distinct edge in the play throughout the entire game, the Varsity senior O.H.A. entry sustained their third successive defeat in a scheduled game played at Varsity Arena last night, losing out to the hard checking Kitchener-Waterloo sextet by a score of 4-2. The brilliant forays of the Varsity forwards led by the diminutive Normie McLelland, the former National junior O.H.A. star, coupled by the accurate shooting of Hendry and Rey more than offset the rugged, fast travelling attacks of the "Empire Team". However, the Kitchener squad capitalised on their breaks and gained a well earned victory.

Right from the opening going the Kitchener-Waterloo sextet began a whirlwind attack and before the Varsity rearguard could prevent it Roth whipped in a hard shot past Shipp. Taking advantage of Varsity's surprise the Kitchener forwards organised another attack and on a pass from Kampman, Fellbaum pushed the rubber past the Varsity citadel guardian. Facing a two goal deficit the Varsity forwards began a series of attacks which, however, were in vain as they were often stopped at the Kitchener defence. When Kampman was put off (Continued on Page 3)

WYCLIFFE JOINS IN CELEBRATION

Winning of First Interfaculty Championship Marked

"HAP" GILBERT FETED

The Wycliffe College harrier team, winners of the Brotherton Trophy, emblematic of the interfaculty harrier championship, was feted at a sumptuous spread in the college dining room last evening. The entire student body, the college faculty and officers of the Wycliffe Athletic Association were present.

The president of the association, Wm. Prior, B.A., was master of ceremonies and referred to the fact that this was the first interfaculty championship that had been won in the history of the college. He felicitated the members of the team and called upon Wycliffe's "grand old man", "Hap" Gilbert, to accept the trophy on behalf of the team. The very popular Hap made a brief but fitting reply, stating that "esprit de corps" and "sticking at it" had been the secret of the team's success.

The president then called upon the Rev. Dr. Taylor to present Mr. Gilbert with the O'Mera Trophy and a silver shield—the association's award to the winner of the Wycliffe College harrier meet. The popularity of Hap was demonstrated by the ovation he received after his acceptance of these trophies.

After brief speeches from the principal, the Rev. Dr. McElhann, from the Rev. Dr. Dyson Hague and reports from the various team managers were received, the meeting adjourned. The Wycliffe harrier team was composed of W. A. Gilbert, W. E. Kibblewhite, F. E. Smith, D. G. Huether and A. E. Chevis.

A WISE DECISION

After considering the matter very carefully the Athletic Directorate has announced that the University of Toronto Seniors will not proceed to the playdowns for the Dominion rugby football championship. The announcement may mean disappointment to the more ardent football fans, but it does not come altogether as a surprise, and under the circumstances it must be agreed that the Directorate has done the wise thing.

This season has been a particularly hard one on the intercollegiate players, because of the extreme weather conditions in the past two weeks. Anyone who saw the last two games will agree that the Blue and White players are quite willing and able to expose themselves to any sort of weather for the sake of their alma mater, but it seems useless to prolong the season with the prospect of more snow and ice to be faced.

The chief reason that any intercollegiate team chooses to end the season without carrying on to the playdowns is because of the time lost from studies. McGill University has always emphasised this fact, and has refused to allow her teams to continue for that reason alone. At Varsity the players are not granted any special dispensation from lectures or laboratory classes for the sake of football, and those players who compete in the winter sports as well often find it difficult to make up for lost time in the spring.

Furthermore, almost everyone will agree that Varsity's chances of gaining a Dominion title this year are not particularly bright, and with Montreal and Argonauts playing their little two-game series the playdowns are complicated enough without an intercollegiate entry.

The Athletic Directorate weighed all the facts before taking any action, and settled a practical problem in a practical way. The matter is not primarily one of gate receipts or sportsmanship or further honours, it is a matter for common sense to decide. And common sense tells us that the decision of the Directorate is a wise one.

SOME FRIENDLY ADVICE

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:
Some friendly advice to John T. Stubbs. Use a pseudonym—for the good of sport.

Climaxing a season of football editorials that for unapologetic attitude, I have not read an approach anywhere, that gentleman's story in today's column brought out all the sporting character that inspires all such compositions.

One cannot help seeing the "digs" directed at Queen's in general. Just like a corner-lot bully attacking a sure victim. What an attitude for a sport writer to take! Through the lines, one sees weeks of inhibited sarcastic remarks that have had this first opportunity for expression. And how fluently those quips flowed to that inspired pen!

The same attitude was borne in previous editorials. That of October 20 says, "If Teddy Reeves thinks his Presbyterians are going to pull off a surprise win tomorrow he is due for a disappointment". Note the personal reference directed at one of the finest sportsmen and coaches, if not the finest, that Canada has produced, in that sentence. Backed by the above statement, any personal reference I may make should be taken in the spirit in

Imperial—

The Private Life of Henry VIII, now at the Imperial, may be criticised because it fails to present the complete character of one of England's most colourful monarchs, but as far as it goes it is almost beyond criticism. If anything more were needed to demonstrate the superiority of Ellstree over Hollywood in the production of unusually fine pictures, this one would provide it.

Charles Laughton, as Henry, is magnificent in a characterisation which is more than a little Rabelaisian. It has been said that he is more like Henry VIII than Henry was himself—certainly he makes the shadowy creature of the standard history texts into a living, swaggering, lusty human being.

The supporting cast has been well chosen and the direction is fine. Considering the impossibility of cramming all the available material into the time limits of a moving picture, the scenario is also extremely well done. It may not tell all that could or should have been told, but what it does contain is presented with great effectiveness.

The shorter features are only fair, as is the stage presentation—except from Merrie England.

Sketch Room

The present exhibit of the Sketch Room shows various works by John Russell, and while it can be said that it is representative of his art, everyone will agree that John Russell has committed an injustice, both to himself and ourselves, by not sending us his best paintings.

Mr. Russell, born in Hamilton about fifty years ago had to go to New York to pursue his art studies, for in his time no painter could have any nude models in his studio . . . and get away with it! From New York he went to London, but, not satisfied with its atmosphere, he proceeded to Paris, the real world centre of Art. There he studied for a long period the old masters, being tremendously impressed by their achievements and technique, that, to him, are the last word. Throughout his career he has protested against "provincialism" in art. In a recent conversation he said, "Art is international, and it is a fallacy to try to foster a national art." In painting he is an ardent admirer of Sir Joshua Reynolds, J. Whistler and Sargent—to quote but a few—for, to him, they have standards, most of all, they have a profound respect and admiration for the great artists of the past. Here, J. Russell is called an "expatriated Canadian", is rather frowned upon by the native artists as well as by the various Museum authorities, which might explain some of his outbursts in front of an often unjustified passive resistance towards his work.

When we look at his paintings we must of course remember the above and not try to judge him by the standards more or less set by the Group of Seven, which, after all, may not be any more permanent than Russell's. Students may not appreciate very much his "still lives", but then some of his portraits, especially the latest ones, such as a woman in evening dress showing us her back, or his drinking men show more personality. Mr. Russell exhibits also some landscapes, woods that reflect a distinct French influence, but are certainly his own way of expressing his artistic impressions and vision. There are also two drawings, more modern in their rendering, that show us that Russell does not stick to any definite and perman-

Senorita Teresina

"La critique est facile mais l'art difficile," said one day a clever Frenchman . . . I wonder, for the impressions that I received last night from Senorita Teresina, through her dances, bathed in colours that varied from the dark purple to the striking white, coupled with a most wonderful assortment of costumes, leaves me—and the audience as well—in a mixed mood.

That Teresina has a fine command of her body, using all her members in a perfect harmony, passing with a simply amazing facility from the role of a delightfully simple country girl to the role of a sophisticated, not to say tough, woman, accompanying herself with the famous Spanish castanets in a masterly way, no one will dispute. Some of her dances were superb; working quickly to a violent climax only to become suddenly reserved and dignified, then turning into a sensuous fury in which arms—and her arms are very beautiful—hands,

VARSITY INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPS WILL NOT CONTINUE

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Once again St. Hilda's were successful and have another win to chalk up to their basketball record. They took U.C. Freshies into camp last night to the tune of 43-13. As often happens, the game was not as bad as the score sounds. The Freshies are showing marked improvement in combination and shooting but they did not have enough speed to break through the St. Hilda's defence line to score.

Tonight there is a double header at O.C.E. gym. Vic Juniors meet U.C. Seniors at six o'clock and at seven the U.C. Junior team clashes with Meds. The Scarlet and Gold and the U.C. teams have been holding regular practices with the result that they have well-drilled outfits. Meds are doing remarkably well this year considering that they are unable to arrange satisfactory practice hours.

The baseball schedule has been completed but nevertheless, baseball is not finished. Such a nice time—did we say "nice"?—was had by the players that another game has been arranged. Meds have challenged Vic to a game to be played on Thursday night at Vic gym.

VIC JUNIORS WIN VOLLEYBALL MATCH

Lose Second Game to U.C. but Finish Strong in Third

NEED ONE MORE VICTORY

Vic juniors are within a game of clinching their group in the Interfaculty Volleyball League due to their three game win over U.C. yesterday afternoon in the upper gym.

Vic's superior combination enabled them to weather an unexpected U.C. rally and take the honours 15-7, 8-15, 15-12. U.C., due to lack of practice, were swept off the floor in the first game, trailing 11-0 before they managed to score. A forewarning of what was to follow was observed in a 7-point spurt which disorganised the Vic defence.

After dropping the first game, U.C. rallied in the second to outplay the Scarlet and Gold as the score of 15-8 indicates. The third set-to was nip and tuck with Vic finishing strong to cop the verdict.

Vic were undoubtedly superior, but if U.C. had had a practice the score could just as easily have been reversed. Devitt and Cronan stood out for Vic while Blanchard, David and Goulding were the big guns for the Redmen.

Victoria — Devitt, Colner, Kearns, Hamilton, Cronan, Wallace, Hossia, McCready, Irwin, Anglin, Herzlewood, Minore.

U.C. — Blanchard, David, MacFarlane, Goulding, Dainsky, Gardstein, Lipman, Weinstein, Sawlow.

BATTLING BLUE SEXTET SUFFERS THIRD DEFEAT

for spilling Jeffrey the Big Blue team began a ganging attack, playing every man up, but their efforts were turned aside by Berner. The period ended with both sides battling for possession of the elusive disc.

In the second period a determined Varsity sextet stepped out on the ice and began carrying the play to the Kitchener team. MacPherson made a nice rush but he was repulsed by the hefty Empire defencemen. Taking the puck from behind his own net McLelland turned on a scintillating burst of speed which carried him right

DENTS DEFEATED BY WIDE MARGIN

Trinity Outplays to Win by Decisive Score of 13-2

CLEVER LACROSSE

Trinity swamped Dents last night in the lower gym in a box lacrosse game by 13 to 2. Trinity was at no time pressed and deserved the wide margin indicated by the score.

The game opened with Trinity pressing hard and Dents having difficulty keeping the play away from their goal. By alternating their shots, first from far out and then from close in, Trinity scored 5 goals. Three by Burchill, one by both Grant and Allison. McGillivray scored the only Dent goal in the first period after a clever solo rush.

In the second period Dents opened strongly, missing the goal mouth by fractions of inches on shots, but soon began to fall badly. By dint of superior passing Trinity kept the play mostly in Dents' end and scored four more goals.

The third, and because of lack of time, the last period, saw the teams evenly matched for the first few minutes. Burchill, however, soon found the opponents' goal and ran in three shots that beat the goal keeper. McGillivray repeated his feat for Dents and scored their second goal. Allison finished the scoring a few minutes before the game ended, coming in from serving the only penalty of the game.

Trinity were by far the better team, displaying superior team work, a stone-wall defence and being always on the offensive. At times Dents looked dangerous but erratic shooting spoiled any chances they had. Allison, Burchill and Bell were best for the winners, while McGillivray and Joynt were the pick of Dents.

Dents — Joynt, Westlake, McGillivray, Pearson, N. Lankin, F. Lankin. Trinity — Knight, Burchill, Allison, Bell, Davis, McClelland, Grant.

through the entire Kitchener team only to have his shot blocked by Berner. Kampman was penalised for slashing a Varsity forward and immediately the battling Blues took the initiative and bottled up the Kitchener-Waterloo squad in their own defence area.

Breaking away from the Varsity forwards, Harlock rushed down the ice only to have Shipp thwart his efforts. While leading the Kitchener attack, Fellbaum was stopped right in his tracks by Williamson in no mean manner. Again Shipp rose to the occasion when Zuch had a clear shot on goal. Crossing through the Kitchener defence Rey made a nice pass to Campbell whose shot was stopped very dexterously by the clever Berner.

Time and again the clever stick-handling of McLelland carried him right to the Kitchener goal mouth only to be outguessed. Towards the end of the period the Varsity team shot from all angles but they could not put on the red light.

Refreshed by their rest the Big Blue team came out for the last chucker full of energy and again they succeeded in bringing play into the Kitchener area and Jeffrey just failed to score when he shot through a maze of players. When Campbell was penalised the Kitchener sextet began a series of attacks but they could not bulge the Varsity net. However, after seven minutes of play Zuch succeeded in scoring on a pass from Vrooman. This counter stirred up the valiant efforts of the Varsity squad and Hendry picked the corner of the net on a clever passing play from McLelland. The Big Blue team were again rewarded with success when Rey scored on a pass from Campbell and

By J. A. Rannels

"On account of the prolongation of the season, the Directorate decided unanimously to end the football season with the intercollegiate games. This action was taken on the suggestion of the faculty representatives to protect the academic standing of the players." This is the statement issued by the Athletic Directorate after a meeting held yesterday to decide the future of the Blue and White intercollegiate champions.

What Warren Stevens and the members of the team think about the above seems to make little or no difference. A playoff with Sarnia would provide one of the season's best games, at least, and "Steve" is confident that his champion charges would not come second in the race for points. There is much to be said on both sides. Stevens, looking at it from the sport angle, has provided a championship team for the second time and now that he has given his best to the university, perhaps he should have a chance to prove his ability on a grander scale. On the other hand he is working essentially in the interests of the university and in that case the welfare of his players along academic lines stands first. And when the Athletic Directorate pass up the chance for revenue and fame, this last factor must be decisive.

The number of failures due to football, last year, no doubt was a great consideration. The university is to be praised for the policy of putting football second. However, we imagine that a touch of "Indian Summer" would have changed the aspect of the whole situation.

Varsity's senior cage team is entered in the Big Six League along with McMaster, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Lizes, and St. Mike's. The seconds will form a team to be entered in the senior "X" league with West End, Broadview, and Central. The juniors, as yet, have not been definitely entered in a league. These are the statements that come from the basketball authorities on the situation, to date, and the series is scheduled to commence within the next two weeks.

Tonight at 8 p.m. in the Hart House Plunge an innovation in the way of a junior interfaculty swimming meet is to be staged when teams from Forestry, Vic, U.C., Dents, Trinity and S.P.S. will compete. The purpose of this new venture is simply to interest men not already interested, in this finest of all body-building sports. Men who have competed in intercollegiate competition are not eligible. The winners will be trained for the coming senior interfaculty meet and will be the men who will swim at that time. Come out and lend your support. The depression forces us to post the "Men Only" sign.

The competition for the Mulock Cup seems to be getting keener every year and this year is no exception. Interfaculty rugby is the one sport the entire faculty will stand behind. This afternoon at the Stadium the semifinals will be played between Trinity and S.P.S. Trinity are favoured to win and in that case the final will be a repetition of last year when Trinity and Victoria clashed for the title. In any case Victoria has the bye and will play the winner on Friday in the same place at the same time. The games are scheduled for 2 p.m. sharp. For the game this afternoon the student coupon No. 12 or 25 cents will provide entry. No. 13 is for Friday's game.

It seems ironical that at a time when so much is being said about injuries in rugby, that Hal Richardson should have been forced out of Saturday's game with such a serious injury on such an ordinary play. For two years now, Hal has been dogged by misfortune. Last year it was his shoulder. He went into the game in the first quarter to replace Arup at half, and, in his first tackle, Johnny Wing's knee caught him accidentally when he miscalculated the play. The fact that it was his last game, his first play, and purely an accident, all combine to add to his hard luck. Popular, and one of the cleanest players in the C.R.U., Hal has the sympathy of all who have watched him in the past.

Perhaps next year we will again have the opportunity of following our classy football band in a victory march down the Queen City thoroughfares. Saturday's game was climaxed fittingly—a great team, a fine band. Look over the prospects for 1934-35: Henderson, Laing, Coulter, Cutler, Upper, Boothie, Greco, Isbister, Edwards, Newton, Allison and a hoard of others. And Queen's loses seven of their best, including Davis, Ralph, Gorman and Byrne. And Warren Stevens will again be at the helm.

MacPherson. After frequent exchanges of play Harlock accepted a pass from Roth and scored the last goal of the game for Kitchener. For the remaining minutes Varsity pressed hard and the final gong found them on the wrong end of the score sheet, which read 4-2 in favour of the Kitchener-Waterloo sextet.

Kitchener-Waterloo — Goal, Berner; defence, Kampman, Lederman; centre, Roth; wings, Fellbaum, Harlock; subs, Mackie, Zuch, Schmalz, Vrooman. Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, Campbell, White; centre, McLelland; wings, Hendry, MacPherson; subs, Cunningham, Jeffrey, Rey, Williamson.

ST. HILDA'S VICTORIOUS IN BASKETBALL FIXTURE

St. Hilda's basketball team added another victory to their record by defeating the University College Freshie team 43 to 13 at the O.C.E. gym last night at 7 o'clock.

St. Hilda's showed evidences of practice in good combination plays and in counting points by scoring baskets, although there were many cases of wild shots. E. Ardagh played a good, steady game and used his head in carrying out combination play.

There were many fouls called during the game, both teams being at fault. The freshie team played a much better last period.

St. Hilda's — Forwards, M. L. Carr (29), E. Ardagh (16), M. Rose (6), M. MacDonald (2), K. Grubbe, A. Butler, M. Lambie, E. Palmer, E. Wilson.

U.C. Freshies — Forwards, J. Romney (6), M. Elmdie (7), D. Colquhoun, Y. Ritchie, R. Clarke, Y. Kirk, D. Prowse, E. Kennedy, M. Greey. Referee — Phyllis Griffiths.

KNOX ARE VICTORIOUS IN SOCCER FIXTURE

Leave Dents Trailing by Overwhelming Score of 5-0

Defeating Dents in no uncertain manner yesterday afternoon on the front campus, the Knox College soccer team firmly established their right to the title of their group and left their rivals trailing by a 5-0 score.

There was little doubt after the half time whistle went as to who would be the ultimate winners in spite of the three difficult shots that Steward in the Knox goal was able to ward off. The winners started their scoring streak in the first three minutes of play on a fast combination play and Weir, Rowland and McCullough added to this at intervals. Cuthbertson was responsible for two goals and was outstanding for Knox. Noticeable on the other team were Green and Stapleton.

Dents — Cowan, Green, Spott, Mackie, Galbraith, Brown, Pon, Valiquette, Boyes, Stapleton, Mason.

Knox — Weir, Taylor, Davidson, Cuthbertson, Milroy, Young, Rowland, Long, Davidson, Jack, Steward, Stapleton.

STUDENTS SUPPORT DECISION OF TEAM

their schedule by about Christmas. As well as finishing up in mid-winter, it interferes with hockey, basketball and other sports.

"School rugby should be kept in the school. It is up to the players, but studies must be considered first," was the combined statement of J. R. Mountjoy and G. R. Kendall.
Of course, there were those who disagreed with the issue. D. H. Copp thought they should go into the finals just for the look of it. "If they don't, Queen's will say they should have. But whatever they do, we're with them."

James R. Dalton, III St. Mike's, is quoted as saying, "I don't think it would interfere with their studies, and it would be a crime to knock them off now when they have gone this far. Anyway, rugby will do them more good."

"Rugby is good as long as it is fun, but when it comes to the rough work of these finals it should be stopped," was the opinion of A. Skidell.

HOPE TO FOUND SCHOOL OF ART

Toronto. When asked if the establishment of such a school in the near future was a probability, Mr. Fennell replied that he had heard no mention of it, and added that it was a question for the Board of Governors, and depended largely on the state of the university finances.

Dr. Pratt, head of the English Department in Victoria College, said that a great many courses and additions could beneficially be made to the university curriculum and a school of fine arts would indeed be valuable. Toronto, having connections with the Hart House Theatre, the Conservatory of Music, and the College of Art, is in a very favourable position to inaugurate such a school as that under discussion, he thought.

Mr. Endicott of the English Department in U.C., thinks that such an idea must be kept constantly before the students, although it may not be put into effect for some time.

"There is always the danger, recognized by the writer of the editorial, that, unless the new course is carefully handled and the standards kept up, it may degenerate into that of a class for husband-seeking girls and a few fellows with a somewhat hazy idea of becoming cultured," he stated. "That is one of the advantages of any of the present courses," he thought, since by specializing in three or four subjects a general knowledge of many things and a fairly substantial knowledge of a few subjects is obtained.

"Such a course will come, I hope, and I should be very disgusted if I thought it shouldn't," said Dr. Ernest MacMillan of the Conservatory of Music.

"It is something that I have been advocating for a long time," he stated, "especially in the field of music." But he rather doubted that a course embodying drama, art, music, sculpture, would devote enough time to any one subject. Oxford has a course in the fine arts in which you may learn a little about them all but specialize in some one. This Dr. MacMillan thinks is the best course.

"The university is much behind its time in the line of a school of fine arts," he concluded, pointing out that such a course was by no means a novelty.

SIR RAYMOND UNWIN RECEIVES DEGREE

in this way, nor is traffic lessened. Between centres for business, education and recreation, there are streets on which 5,000 people are killed annually in England, and many are maimed. One of the fundamental changes in town planning is that there must be special roads for traffic and special roads for pedestrians. Through the checkerboard system that is used on this continent one-third of the area is road space. This land could be put to better use by being made into garden space.

In the expansion of a city it is not enough to add a few factories or houses at the edge of the city for you are only congesting the centre. There must be open space for walking, and for playgrounds. Convenience and beauty must go hand in hand, and it is to imagination that we must look for the solution of our town planning systems.

Collective housing, described as "a leaning toward paganism," will be born from the campus of the University of Western Ontario in the near future as a result of the recent heavy damages secured against the University of Alberta.

WITH THE THEATRES

sent a smart dance number, Dalton and Craig put over some good comedy, Jay Mills and Gertrude Green nearly had us rolling in the aisle with their act, and we found the "Broadway vs. Hollywood" presentation of Ralph Olsen and company smart and entertaining to a degree. The Three St. John Brothers and the Four Flushers provide some remarkable gymnastic achievements.

Lionel Barrymore stars in an excellent Radio picture, One Man's Journey. His role is that of a rural practitioner who, putting humanity before his personal ambitions, sacrifices and serves his fellows in a lowly position and ultimately, because of that service, is recognised and honoured for the great man that he is. Barrymore fills the part to perfection and is most ably supported by May Robson as his housekeeper and friend who finally (we suspect) marries him. Dorothy Jordan and Joel McCrea do some good acting also.

An interesting news reel and a rather dull Harry Langdon comedy complete the programme. It's a good show all round.

Tivoli—

Looking at it from every angle or is it curve, Mac West undoubtedly holds the gentlemen of the audience on the edge of their seats at the Tivoli this week, when she proclaims in her own inimitable way, I'm No Angel. To say that the story it written, dramatised, acted and indeed practically everything but photographed by Miss West herself should be sufficient inducement for everyone to see it, but for the sceptics we can only add "Come up and see me some time."

The short is a frolicsome fantasy on the beauties of spring, which seems to put it either six months in advance, or six months behind the season. The bevy of beautiful co-eds who appear most everywhere in it, however, cover up the deficiencies of the season, and leave a very spring-like impression. The news reel is possibly a news reel and the shots of the Cuban revolution are interesting if somewhat blood-thirsty.

K.G.R.

Loew's—

Constance Cummings and Blossom Seeley manage to pull Broadway through a Keyhole high enough out of the gutter to make it a good show, and Paul Kelly and the script writers shoved it far enough in the other direction to keep it from being dull. In this picture Walter Winchell gives a close-up of Broadway packed with gangsters, melodrama and sentimentality which at times becomes sickening. Texas Guinan in the last picture before her death is a perfect picture of the ruins of an old night-club queen. Some good comedy work offsets the more depressing elements and makes the show fairly good entertainment.

In case you are doubtful, Charlie Chase is riotous enough to justify sitting through the feature.

On October 27th, The Varsity says "Varsity will shatter the high hopes entertained by Queen's for leadership in the intercollegiate race". Failing in these forecasts, no prediction was attempted Friday on Saturday's game.

To climax everything, today the sports editor congratulates himself that "on Sept. 29th we picked Varsity to win". Everything comes to those who wait.

Your limited space prevents comparison of statistics of the game as compiled here and down town.

In closing, I advise Mr. Stubbs to obtain a photo of Teddy Reeves and hang it where he could look at it daily for inspiration of a real sportsman and commentator.

MONETARY MOTIVE IN RECOGNISING SOVIET RUSSIA

Mr. J. F. White Declares U.S. is Bent on Increasing Export Trade

BOTH SIDES EXPECTANT

Possibility of Triangular Trade
Movement May Solve Difficulties

"A deal in which both sides expect to get something for themselves," was the way in which Mr. J. F. White of The Canadian Forum characterised the recent recognition of Russia by the United States, when he was interviewed yesterday by The Varsity. "The United States is mainly interested in increasing her export trade and President Roosevelt's policy in depreciating the dollar is for this same purpose."

"One of the interesting features," continued Mr. White, "is that the United States thinks it is going to send more goods to Russia than it receives. You must realise that any country which trades with Russia must receive as much in goods from Russia as it ships to that country."

He went on to explain that this was a long run consideration and that the United States might have a favourable balance of trade for two or three years but it would have to balance up some time because payments in gold by Russia could not be more than 5 per cent or 10 per cent of the total difference. He believed, however, that there is a possibility of a triangular movement of trade which would smooth out the differences in Russo-American trade.

Mr. White was not inclined to think, however, that the recognition would have any great effect on the trend of the second Five Year Plan. "If anything, it will tend to speed it up a little bit," he thought. "It depends, however, upon what form the trade takes. If cattle and cotton are taken, instead of machinery, etc., there will be very little effect except to raise the Russian standard of living."

What effect the recognition by the United States will have on the Far-Eastern situation, Mr. White thought it was difficult to say. "It is hard to say whether Russia has had any assurance of help by the United States in case of Japanese expansion."

Replying to a question of what conditions were in Russia, Mr. White, who spent a month in that country last year, stated, "I think that most of the reports about Russia, particularly the Ukraine, are largely exaggerated and in many cases absolute fabrications. There was considerable food shortage last year, which was partly due to the speed with which collectivisation of farming was taking place. But the wheat shortage has been absolutely eliminated this year." He believed.

SETS PHONES BUZZING

The directory is out at last. It appeared on the campus quietly the other day, and already has set things buzzing (mostly telephones). All roads seem to lead to the Registrar's office.

The sophs are doing their best to be blasé about it all, as the eager-eyed freshmen thumb the pages in avid haste. Ah! The thrill of breaking into print. "Here it is!" Your name and address and phone number—doesn't it look grand! Nothing can quite equal the first faint careless rapture of finding yourself in the Directory for the first time. And then, of course, you must locate all your friends—and friends you would like to have. Many a faint heart has failed to yield to the tantalising appeal of the phone numbers so carefully memorised and so forlornly unused. Many a would-be swain, after searching for his fair one's address, has haunted her home in the lonely watches of the night. To these, the Directory is a blessing in secret giving forth the information that they have longed for and never dared to demand.

A new Directory often means a new season of dates. Varsity youth plucks up his courage in his dialling finger and blithely sets forth seeking new hearts to conquer. And, if you (Continued on Page 4)

OLD TRADITIONS KEPT AT OXFORD

Dr. Fyfe Portrays Student Life at the British Universities

STRESS ON CHARACTER

(Special to "The Varsity")
Winnipeg, Manitoba (C.I.P.)—College life at Oxford was vividly portrayed by Dr. Hamilton Fyfe, principal and chancellor of Queen's University, in his recent lecture here on "British Universities".

At Oxford various rules are enforced which might strike us as very strange. For instance, the age-old custom of ringing the curfew and the charging of a fee for late comers is still in existence. The playing of musical instruments after ten o'clock is forbidden and the University even makes it a point to discipline the undergraduates both morally and physically by the appointment each year of "Dons", who have the power to summon before them any undergraduate for misbehaviour or disorderly conduct.

But in spite of all these disciplinary measures the student has more freedom and liberty in British universities insofar as he is not bound by a schedule of lectures and may attend any lecture in the college. The only curricular requirements are a certain amount of prescribed reading and a specified number of days of residence in the college. There is no credit for term work.

One of the great beneficial factors of the British university is that "in each college you will find a microcosm of the world," where value is laid not on wealth and family but on the student's own character.

Basic Principle of C.C.F. not
One of Profit but of

IN HARMONY WITH MARX

Also Discusses Withdrawal of U. F. O. from the Federation

"The purpose of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation as opposed to any communist group, is to set up a socialist state by peaceful and orderly methods," declared J. S. Woodsworth to a large and enthusiastic group at a meeting of the University C.C.F. Club last evening. "We stand for a co-operative commonwealth in which the basic principle is not one of profit but one of service. Canada requires a different type of socialism from that in Russia or those attempted in England and Germany. Our form of socialism must grow out of the economic conditions of the time. In this we are quite in harmony with the Marxian theory of socialism."

When questioned about the withdrawal of the U.F.O. from the Federation, Mr. Woodsworth explained that a year ago the U.F.O. asked to be affiliated, but afterwards found that they could not legally co-operate in any political party. This matter would have to be decided upon at the next conference. Also the programme drawn up at Regina has not been ratified. He seemed to think that the papers knew more about it than the Farmers themselves.

"The discipline of the organisation is up to the individual units," the leader of this new political party explained. "The difficulty in Ontario in that respect is due to the Labour Conference. One section of the Ontario Labour Party permits whole groups to join, if the majority of the particular group so desire. This leaves open an opportunity for individual members who are not in accord with the principles of the C.C.F. still to be members of it. Dirty politics and newspaper propaganda was responsible for the wide and erroneous publicity of a supposedly irreligious statement of a C.C.F. man in the recent B.C. elections. The statement was last made in 1919, although some of the papers (Continued on Page 4)

SPANISH ELECTION BRINGS REACTION

Catholic Power is Increased After Radicalism in Republic

SWING OF PENDULUM

In the recent Spanish elections, the first to be held under the Republican regime, the Catholic Party afforded the surprise element by obtaining 150 of the 473 seats in the Cortes, or the Chamber of Representatives, as compared with twelve seats in the previous Congress, which drew up the Republican Constitution.

Commenting on this remarkable increase to The Varsity, Mr. E. Cano, of the Spanish Department at U.C., gave the following opinion. "The increase in the Catholic Party representation is rather surprising in a way, and yet, in the light of the history of revolutions in other countries and in other ages, it might have been expected that there would be a swing of the pendulum away from extreme radicalism back to a more conservative policy. The government which came into power after the revolution went too far in prohibiting the Catholic Church, which was dis-established by the revolution, from teaching its doctrines in Spain. In the recent elections the strong Catholic loyalty of the people, 98 per cent of whom are of that faith, reasserted itself and the Church party, made up as it was of many small groups, united in a common desire to restore the Church to some of its former prestige, was given considerable backing by the people." "The great difficulty in forming any organised Catholic group at the present time," continued Mr. Cano, "is in convincing the masses of the Spanish people that Catholicism is not now synonymous with Royalty, as they have been for centuries in Spain. Today the monarchy is thoroughly discredited in the eyes of the nation and it is only by exhibiting decided Republican sentiments that any party affiliated with (Continued on Page 4)

TWO PARTY SYSTEM TOPIC FOR DEBATE

Possibility of Alternative to be Discussed at Hart House

WOODSWORTH TO SPEAK

The subject of the Hart House debate next Wednesday will be "That in the opinion of this House there is no acceptable alternative to the two older parties in Canada". The guest of the House will be Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, the leader of the C.C.F. in the Dominion House.

While the resolution does not specifically mention the C.C.F., the position of the new party will be under discussion. As this group is now His Majesty's most loyal Opposition in British Columbia it is admitted that the debate is very timely.

Last year the debates committee was successful in bringing down from Ottawa Mr. Ernest Lapointe, a Liberal chief, on Wednesday next Mr. Woodsworth will be present, and at a later date it is hoped that some Conservative leader will attend.

The speakers on the motion will be Mr. S. H. S. Hughes of Trinity, a leading member of the Macdonald-Carter Club; Mr. Gordon Skilling, U.C., the head of the University C.C.F. Club; Mr. Harold Fair, the editor of Acta Victoriana, and Mr. Arnold Smith of University College. The tellers will be Cooperman of S.P.S., Jeffries of Trinity, Rae of U.C., and Pivnick, U.C. The Clerk of the House will be R. A. Bell, University College; the Speaker, S. M. Hermant.

All undergraduates are invited to attend the meeting, which will commence at 8 p.m. Wednesday, November 29.

Inconsequence

Many successful men have worked their way through college. The literature of this continent is full of stories of such individuals. Magazine selling, furnace tending, ushering and waitressing in restaurants are the favourite occupations. Some keep books for small mercantile establishments, while not a few of foreign extraction give lessons to their fellow countrymen in reading and writing English.

As universal as the occupation of the undergraduate is the belief that this prevalent practice is beneficial to the student. People, shallowly, yet quite humanely, reason that work, especially that of a hard and unpleasant nature, is a good character forming discipline. It develops strength of mind and tenacity of purpose, qualities that make for success in the business and professional worlds. It makes the student appreciate, and get more out of, his college course, for he has worked hard and sacrificed many pleasures to attain it. In short, working through college is good because it tends to strengthen the character and to arouse a greater interest in the student for his studies.

All this is only partly true. The success attributed to such persons may be explained by the fact that only individuals of first-class ability, with an intense appreciation of the value of a college education, would attempt (Continued on Page 4)

a Close Struggle Played in Mud

A'COURT INDIVIDUAL STAR

Bridgland's Superb Kicking is Turning Point in School's Victory

By Art MacFarlane

School of Science qualified to meet Victoria for possession of the Mulock Cup by turning back the Trinity eleven by a 2-1 score, on the mud-covered Stadium field yesterday afternoon. In suffering their second setback of the season, Trinity looked equally as good as the Engineers for the last three quarters but faded in the last canto when Bridgland accounted for both of the School tallies.

The Schoolmen's win makes up for the reverse which they suffered at the hands of Trinity last year and although S.P.S. has entered the semi-finals the past three years this makes their first inclusion in the final bracket.

The game, played under conditions far from ideal, saw Trinity hanging on to a 1 point lead, garnered on McNichol's rouge as the last quarter opened, after a scoreless first half. With a heavy rain falling, School forced the play and evened the score when Bridgland hoisted the soggy ball from the Trinity line. Brennan fumbled and kicked the ball into touch to prevent a major score. The final score resulted when after an exchange of kicks, McNichol reeled off a brilliant (Continued on Page 3)

CRITICISES IDEA OF IRISH REPUBLIC

Keenleyside States Irish Have Little to Gain by Such a Plan

ALIEN TO ENGLISH

(Special to "The Varsity")

Vancouver, B.C. (C.I.P.)—"Ireland has precious little to gain and a good deal to lose by marooning itself on a Robinson Crusoe Republic," said Mr. W. M. Keenleyside here recently, speaking on the topic, "Why an Irish Republic?"

The speaker traced Anglo-Irish relations from their origin to the present time, showing that the story of Ireland, down to the last century, featured the "attempt of the English to hold in subjection a people alien to themselves in race, religion, and in their whole outlook on life."

The cause of Irish unrest throughout the major part of the World War was attributed to the foundation of the Sinn Féin organisation in 1906, by Arthur Griffith. This movement had emerged as the practical and political application of the great Gaelic revival, cultural and co-operative, which was sweeping over Ireland by the close of the nineteenth century.

The speaker noted several reasons for the rapid growth of an extremely antagonistic attitude in Ireland which culminated in the Anglo-Irish War of 1919-21 "marked by the triumph of the forces of disorder, terror and assassination."

Subsequent conferences between Mr. Lloyd George and the Irish leaders resulted in the formation of the Irish Free State in December, 1921. The Free State was to have the same constitutional status in the Empire as the Dominion of Canada.

Residence Mattresses Hit the Hay Alfalfa, Corn Husks too, they Say

There was a young man from Peoria

Who came to learn things at Victoria

He slept, as he said,

In so awful a bed

That he left in a year without glorial

"What sort of hay do you sleep on?" we asked a University College residence man.

"Well, mine's the best quality—it comes from a reliable farm," he replied. "But there are only eight of us whose alfalfa would meet the requirements of a discerning connoisseur of that excellent grain. The others have grade Z haystacks and there are a few corn husks and thorns thrown in for additional discomfort."

Judging from the celebrated bed race, at which we noted more than one of the lesser sex in virile pink and blue pyjamas, the beds suffer from weak joints. We are also told that the muscles of the springs are paralysed, and the flesh (we speak metaphorically—ahem!) of the mattress is anything but weak.

One student after a round of parties and a series of bad nights owing to the mattress on his bed (?) resolved to try to catch up in back work.

In a desperate stew then he went

To the library on studious bent.

But O my good Lord,

How that man snored,

So they kicked him out on his ent!

The Whitney Hall girls claim a distinct resemblance to Jacob—they have pillows of stone, too!

And oh those curlers! You've got to be a tossing martyr to get along with a football hero!

There is one sophomore at Hutton House who had the most brilliant brain-wave; she moved in with a pal who had a double room to herself, taking her mattress with her, if you please, and she finds that two mattresses make quite a satisfactory bed.

The freshies at Whitney say that they have no complaint now but that they had to lose a lot of sleep to get up early to make three beds during initiation. It seems that it is hard to tuck the covers in and that an otherwise benevolent senior arose in anger if her little tootsie-wootsies stuck out and got cold.

DREAMS

To dream is but to glimpse the future or recall the past, to forget the petty cares of a passing day or sublimate our work-a-day life to a higher and more spiritual state. Ethereal, evanescent, dreams linger but a brief while, yet their effect upon us is lasting. They beautify our thoughts and transmute them to deeds in the world of make-believe, deeds that we well may emulate today, tomorrow or in the hazy future that lies before us. Dreams may be sad or gay, mystical or practical, but they are never bad, for then they are night-mares. In them our emotions, our better instincts, are gently played upon. Never do they stir us to the depths, that is left to life's actualities; rather, they are stimulating.

To be a student is to be a dreamer in popular belief. But that is no damning epithet. The so-called practical man of affairs by the same means has little use or time for dreaming, yet, repudiate if he would the application of the term "dreamer" to his person, he must, if he be a man of affairs, be, too, a man of imagination and subject to dreams even though they are repressed in the quest for wealth and power.

The student as he leaves the cloisters of knowledge and seeks success and adventure in the street of life, may take with him a heritage of dreams that to some are known as ideal. May the student never forget his dreams nor lose his capacity for dreaming. To him it will be a source of strength, of pleasure and relaxation. Never should we be ashamed of dreaming nor attempt to suppress our natural inclination except when we find that rather than governing our dreams our dreams are governing us.

—The Varsity, January 25, 1924.

CHATTER IN THE LIBRARY

It has been brought to our attention by one who spends a good deal of time in the University Library that the silence rule is being continually broken by groups of chatters. The rule is one that need not be printed on placards, those who use the library reading rooms, even if they be merely first year students, should respect the rights of others in this regard.

We are not suggesting that the fault lies with the officials in charge of the library, for it is hardly possible to have any organized supervision over supposedly studious undergraduates, nor should it be necessary. The withering glances cast towards the offenders seldom take effect, so perhaps a suggestion from this column is in order. It is our opinion that if each student would take it upon himself to observe the silence rule, and speak courteously to those who fail to observe it, that the difficulty would soon be overcome. Those who insist on whispering and chattering even in a modulated tone are often thoughtless individuals, and a word at the right time would do more good than a thousand glowering looks. If the individual who breaks the rule has it brought to his attention that he is making himself exceedingly unpopular, as indeed he is, perhaps he will betake himself to a more appropriate spot to carry on his conversation.

Much can be done by the regular frequenter of the Library reading rooms to eliminate this nuisance before the spring term, when studies are taken more seriously, and silence is much appreciated.

THE CHRISTMAS LITERARY ISSUE

Once again we remind our readers that on Friday, December 15, the regular Christmas Literary Issue of The Varsity will be published. It is our hope to make that issue the best in history, and with that in mind we are calling for contributions early. The regular prizes will be given for serious and humorous prose, serious and humorous verse, and sketches of campus and other subjects. We urge our readers to prepare their contributions now while they have a certain amount of leisure time, and to watch our columns for the announcement of the date to submit manuscripts and sketches. The prizes are offered for competition to the entire undergraduate body, with the exception of the upper masthead of this newspaper.

Trinity Dramatics

The first performance in Toronto of See Naples and Die by Elmer Rice of Street Scene fame, will be given by the Trinity College Dramatic Society at Hart House Theatre on Friday and Saturday this week.

The play, which is a brilliant satire on certain national weaknesses, is pure comedy throughout, while the high spots are provided by Doris McCord, as the wisecracking Hollywood film star, Nanette Dodge, and Marg Farmer, as the inquisitive American lady, with Lloyd Summerville, taking the male lead. Mr. Dixon Wagner is again responsible for the direction of the play.

The Royal Alexandra

Cornelia Otis Skinner gives a return performance of her famous series of interpretations "The Wives of Henry VIII", on the occasion of the annual Theatre Night sponsored by the Alumni Federation, in aid of the Student Employment Bureau, at the Royal Alexandra Theatre on Thursday, November 23.

"The Wives of Henry VIII" has been Miss Otis Skinner's most popular presentation to date, and will be performed on this occasion before a most distinguished audience.

The Student Employment Bureau for the benefit of which the theatre night is arranged, undertakes to find part-time and summer employment for undergraduates and permanent employment for graduates. According to the annual report of the Alumni Federation last year 304 students were referred to positions, and 199 positions were procured for them.

Tickets are available for undergraduates and may be procured from the Alumni Office, 43 St. George St.

Toronto Symphony

PROGRAMME

Overture "Le Nozze di Figaro" ..... Mozart

Three Songs of French Canada ..... Arr. Macmillan

Jeanne Dusseau, Soloist

Overture "The May Night" ..... Rimsky-Korsakow

Aria, "Abendlicher" ..... Beethoven

Symphony No. 3 ..... Beethoven

There is no doubt that on the whole the Symphony concerts are improving. The programme last night was excellent, and up to the intermission the performance was as good as the programme. There is no need to praise the Mozart Overture to Figaro; the playing was superb!

Very delightful indeed are the French

Canadian songs Dr. MacMillan has arranged for voice and string orchestra. Those who heard the Conservatory Quartet at the final Hart House Sunday evening concert last year will remember the lovely sketches on French Canadian songs, by Dr. MacMillan played on that occasion. Equally good were the arrangements performed last night. Madame Dusseau's voice scarcely has sufficient power to be most effective in a large hall: at least, that seemed to be the case last night. The orchestra had to be held back to avoid drowning out the singer altogether, and it is very doubtful if the work was properly appreciated. Nevertheless, Madame Dusseau is a most cultured singer—a fact that many people do not perceive. Her voice is really beautiful, and in spite of the limitations suggested here, the performance was charming and elegant. The Beethoven Aria—not an especially strong number—was also well sung, and with a greater amount of volume than one might have expected after the French Canadian songs.

It is not necessary to say much of the Rimsky-Korsakow, except that it is a truly delightful work, and, once again, was extremely well played. The big work of the evening, of course, was the Beethoven Symphony No. 3 ("Eroica"). The performance in this case was disappointing, and unworthy of this very great music. The only conspicuous deficiency was the brass work, which, while not quite appalling as in the Aria, was bad enough. Dr. MacMillan seems for the most part to have improved this section of his orchestra, but he will scarcely be happy in the memory of what the horns did last night. Something will have to be done about these instruments, which mar otherwise really good work. Take for example, the horn passage in the middle of the Scherzo. This music is, to say the least, exhilarating; last night it was a matter of making the best of a bad job. The Symphony as a whole was not carried through impressively, though much can be forgiven in consideration of the emotional power of the last movements of the "Eroica" as it was played. And it must also be recorded that the string work throughout was extraordinarily beautiful.

One final bit of carping must be included—this time concerning the programme notes. The effort to find imitations of elephants stampeding, and pictures of the composer's spiritual contortions, in great symphonic music, is not to be commended. It is, in fact, a vicious habit. Is it necessary to do this kind of thing, which is really very dangerous, in the notes? By all means, forget Napoleon, and listen to what

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

INTERMEDIATE FINALS O.A.C. VERSUS VARSITY AT 2 P.M.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By J. E. F.

The weather seems to be dampening the ardour previously in evidence in the realms of women's athletics. Baseball is completed as far as the schedule is concerned and basketball seems to be losing ground.

Only one of the two games were played off last night at O.C.E. in which U.C. Seniors outplayed Vic Juniors by a count of 33 against 18. The senior team certainly showed the results of combination plays, passing and shots. Vic played well but not well enough, although they have run into some hard luck in trying to sink those baskets.

U.C. Juniors and Meds postponed their game until next Tuesday night—must have been the rain!

The game for tonight between Vic Juniors and School of Nursing is postponed also, until Friday at 6 p.m. at O.C.E. School is at present at the top of their division and this game will decide if they stay there. If Vic Juniors win a three-cornered tie will result between School of Nursing, U.C. Seniors and Vic Juniors.

It should make a good game, so come out and give your support to one of the teams.

SENIOR U.C. WOMEN DEFEAT VIC JUNIORS

Winners' Six-Man Defence and Combination Plays Effective

University College senior women's basketball team defeated Victoria Juniors by the score of 33-18 last night at the O.C.E. gym.

U.C. were superior in all departments. Their defence was always effective and their six-man defensive play was too much for the Victoria players. Their forwards, especially Betty Logan, were clicking and their combination plays were smooth and fast.

The Vic team did not play up to their usual form but managed to put up a good game. Betty Barton and Vi Tennant were outstanding for Vic, and Betty Logan and Eleanor Wallace for U.C.

U.C. Seniors (33) — Logan (21), Page (4), Parr, Menell (8), Wallace, Shepherd, Reid, Gristwood, Spence. Victoria Juniors (18) — Tennant (8), Prior, Brobst, Robb, Leavens (1), Cowan (9), Henderson, Barton, Brown O'Neill.

SCHOOL NATATORS AQUATIC CHAMPS

Garner 37½ Points to Carry Off Interfaculty Title

NUMEROUS ENTRIES

S.P.S. gathered in another interfaculty championship when they amassed a total of 37 1-2 points to give them the victory in last night's interfaculty swimming meet. The meet was an outstanding success from a competitive standpoint as every event had numerous entries who made a race of every number.

The class which the swimmers displayed augurs well for the future of the aquatic game around the campus. Although no records were broken the contestants turned in very good times.

The diving event was productive of some of the best exhibitions to be witnessed around the pool for some time.

Trinity, St. Mike's, Forestry, School, Dents and Meds were all represented in the affair. The purpose of this innovation was to attract interest in the sport and it was certainly worthy of success. As there were no members of last year's intercollegiate team eligible it afforded a splendid opportunity for new men to show their wares and make a bid for a place on the team. The outstanding event on the card was the hundred yards free style in which four men finished within one second of each other.

Standings — S.P.S. 37 1-2, U.C. 19, Vic 9, Dents 4, Meds 5, Forestry 5, Trinity 3, St. Mike's 1-2.

KNOX AND MEDS BATTLE TO TIE

Season's Best Boxla Game Ends in No Decision Verdict

MEDS STAGE FINAL RALLY

Knox College and Meds battled to a 12-12 tie in one of the most exciting exhibitions of box lacrosse to be displayed in the gym this season.

The game was featured by fast open playing, hard checking and accurate shooting. Both teams played a heads-up game and made the most of their chances. The score was always close, never more than two points separating the teams throughout the game. Knox had a 5-4 advantage at the end of the first half and were still leading 11-10, with two minutes to go. A Meds rally gave them two more goals, but Knox managed to tie it up just as the final whistle went.

Caslor and McEachern were the outstanding men on the floor, getting 4 and 3 goals respectively. Keyes was the choice of the Meds team. Knox — Weir, Davidson, Caslor, Cochran, McEachern.

Meds — Boyd, Graham, Metzler, McCue, Starr, Keys, Lithgow, Kerr, Coleman, McPhee.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

After having the dubious pleasure of viewing football as it would be played north of the Arctic Circle for the last few weeks, something by the way of variety was thrown in when yesterday the Mulock Cup semi-finals were played for the most part in a downpour of rain. The Engineers probably developed an appetite for watery weather in their soph-frosch tapping parties for the harder it rained the better they played. As a matter of fact Trinity looked to have the game in the bag till an extra downpour gave renewed vigour to the School attack. At any rate, both teams looked as though they had been making mud pies and throwing them at each other when they came off the field. The same three teams have lined up now in the last stretch for the past three years. Two years ago Trinity took the honours. Last year it was Vic and if School wins this year it will be a record of some kind or other. The finals will bring together last year's champions, Victoria College and yesterday's winners, Senior School. The date is Friday and student ticket No. 13 admits you to the grounds so if you don't believe in Fridays and thirteens this struggle should be well worth seeing. The game is slated for 2 o'clock.

Today Lou Carroll and Lew Hayman will lead their Blue intermediates who are already intercollegiate champs, forth to do battle with O.A.C. champions of the Western group. Only the fine sportsmanship shown by the Guelph officials made the continuance of this series possible and allowed the teams to continue when it looked as though everything was ready to be called off. Lou has a powerful team who have made a very impressive record during the season. Bob Isister, who handles the kicking chores, can hold his own with the best of them. O.A.C. are also a very formidable outfit. They have a heavy line and Elliott, who kicks for them, has been getting great distance. All in all it looks like a real contest if Ross Workman can get the water bailed off the field in time.

The first junior interfaculty swimming meet was held last night with grand success, which was quite appropriate considering the kind of night it was. School proved themselves the best swimmers of the lot, gathering in twice as many points as their closest rivals. The competition was very keen, which indicates that the swimming game is in for a good season. Tonight the aquatic programme offers a water polo game between Varsity Juniors and Broadview Y. This should attract quite a crowd as this new sport is experiencing an increasing popularity. The seniors will clash with West End Y at the West End tank.

SENIOR VIC SHOW SKILL TAKING O. C. E. EASILY

Scarlet and Gold's Third Win in Interfaculty Volleyball

Senior Vic took O.C.E. "A" team in two straight games, 15-4 and 15-6 yesterday afternoon in the little gym, Hart House in an interfaculty volleyball match. This makes three out of four wins for the Scarlet and Gold. They deserved the victory, being much superior in every department of play. They won both games quite handily as the score indicates. Victoria have certainly got the knowledge of feeding the front line and consequently have spiking down to a science. The O.C. E. boys seemed to lack practice.

Aylesworth, Vanderlick and Dyke were among the best for the winners, although the whole team combined to a nicey and that is essential in volleyball.

Senior Vic — Dyke, Cragg, Harris, Neebe, Aylesworth, Vanderlick, Dingman.

O.C.E. "A" — Stevens, Mason, Real, Jones, Moffat, Todd, Bunt and Henderson.

Referee — Gould.

IRISH REPUBLIC IDEA WARMLY CRITICISED

(Continued from Page 1) based on realities and not on theories." Unfortunately, as Mr. Keenleyside pointed out, the government had been so occupied in bringing order out of chaos that it "almost completely neglected politics" with the result that Mr. de Valera rapidly rose to power.

The success of the Fianna Fail party in the 1932 elections foreshadowed the abolition of the oath of allegiance, because of de Valera's contention that "the elimination of the oath was a measure required for the peace, order, and good government of the state." This was followed by the re-ignition of the land annuities as well as other acts—all tending towards complete separation of Ireland from the Empire.

FRENCH CLUB REJECTS DICTATORSHIP IDEA

Suppression of Free Thought Drives Men of Genius from Homeland

"That the government of this country should be replaced by a dictatorship such as that of Hitler or Mussolini," was the subject of a lively debate at the Victoria College French Club last evening in Wymilwood.

The negative side, which was supported by Miss G. Lachance and Mr. D. Smith, won by a small majority from the affirmative, which was upheld by Miss G. Smith and Mr. W. Field.

In contrasting the two forms of government, Miss Smith pointed out the simplicity of a dictatorship in comparison with the complexity of Canada's government. "Une dictature fait un unite dans un pays specialement par un temps decrise," said Miss Smith whereas Miss Lachance stated that Canada, since it is already unified, did not need a dictator.

Suppression of free thought tends to drive men of genius from their homeland, contended Mr. Smith, who illustrated this point by citing as an example the celebrated Mr. Einstein.

GRADUATE ENGLISH CLUB DISCUSSES HUMANISM

Miss Isabel Jordan Reads Paper on Babbitt at Meeting

"Humanism is a disciplined and selective sympathy," said Miss Isabel Jordan in a paper on the "Humanism of Irving Babbitt," read at the Graduate English Club last night. Miss Jordan described Babbitt's humanism as being individualistic and aristocratic (that is, obtainable by only a few people), since it depends entirely on the intellect. Babbitt was quoted as saying that the establishment of a sound type of individualism is the problem of the moderns. The most important problem of the present day is that of the "one and the many" which is the central question in modern humanistic thought.

Members of the staff in English joined in the discussion.

SCHOOL GRIDDERS WIN MULOCK SEMI-FINAL

55 yard run to the Trinity 20 yard line from where Bridgland boosted another into the north-end bleachers.

The first quarter opened with play at midfield, when, aided by a couple of Trinity penalties, School forced the Black and Red back into their own end. Here the Trinity line held and Bridgland's kick was blocked by France who ran it back to the S.P.S. 25 yard line. The pressure was relieved when Waring recovered a Trinity fumble on the line.

The second quarter was featured by A'Court's fine work in the losers' backfield, his kicking and running back of kicks being a treat. Trinity tried three forward passes which all went astray but managed to force S.P.S. back by reason of A'Court's good punting. With play on their own 5 yard strip, School moved the sticks on plunges through the middle by Baker and Doughty, with Bridgland's kick again removing play to midfield.

A'Court's great punting pushed the School back in the third quarter and Trinity opened the scoring. Three more passes were tried by the Black and Red, all of which again failed to click. Fumbles occurred frequently in this quarter but both teams managed to recover their own. School's last quarter stand was featured by Bridgland's mighty punting which A'Court, kicking against the wind, was unable to equal. A series of plunges and end runs worked the ball well into Trinity territory which resulted in the first S.P.S. point, while the second was a direct result of McNichol's spectacular broken field run, which was only stopped by A'Court, the last Trinity man to be passed. Bridgland's fine work was marred by a penalty received for an attempted trip while tackling A'Court after his own short kick.

Bridgland, Baker, Doughty and McNichol starred for the Engineers, while A'Court, incidentally the best man on the field, Parker, Kirk and Minett turned in fine efforts for Trinity.

London Choir School

The tour of the Boy Choristers from the London Choir School which is now in progress, has been organized with the dual object of providing a selection of the boys from this well known centre of London musical life, with a chance of obtaining a first-hand knowledge of the great Dominion of Canada and of providing the musically inclined with an opportunity of hearing what has always been one of the glories of musical England, i.e., the beauty of the boys' voices, both in solo and concerted singing.

The London Choir School is a central choir school for several well-known London churches, and the boys appearing at these concerts have been carefully chosen from the various churches represented at the school, including the chapel of the Savoy, the evening choir of the Royal Military Chapel, Wellington Barracks; All Souls', Langham Place; St. Bride's, Fleet Street; St. Andrew's, Westminster, etc., etc.

The programmes will be found to be both interesting and instructive; and representative of the best vocal music, especially adapted for boy choristers and ranging from the Tudor period to the present day.

It will be remembered that in 1930, 31, the boy choristers of the Chapel of the Savoy toured throughout Canada with very great success. These boys were entirely drawn from the London Choir School and trained by the director, Mr. Carlton Borrow, who is again visiting Canada in charge of the present tour.

The patronage of the Lieutenant-Governors of the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario has already been obtained, also that of the High Commissioner of the United Kingdom, and it is hoped to get that of the Lieutenant-Governors of the other provinces of Canada as the tour proceeds. The boy choristers sang at the invitation of the Governor-General at Government House, Ottawa, on Sunday last.

It is interesting to know that the Governor-General of Canada was at one time Church Warden of All Souls', Langham Place, which is one of the churches from which some of the boy choristers have been chosen for this tour.

STUDENTS DIRECTORY IS NOW OBTAINABLE

have a telephone personality all augurs well for you.

Of course, the Directory provides ample satisfaction to the curious. Never can the out-of-towner quite shake off the "sweet shackles of home"—he just must leaf through the book to find his fellow home-towners. And the sight of the good old hometown printed right there on that crowded page sends him off in an ecstasy of homesickness, with an inexplicable feeling of comradeship for the unknown fellow-homer.

The Directory is in many ways a Bureau of Missing Addresses—phone numbers lost track of or friends who have changed addresses. Reunion is sweet!

One Vic student confessed to having spent an entire evening going through the Directory merely to note the home addresses that had queer names. She emerged with an imposing list of oddities, from which we garnered Kapuskasing, Nanaimo, Onemee, Embro and Yakima. This search had proved so interesting that she continued, this time noting the far places of the earth from which Varsity students originate, and was pleasantly surprised to find that Varsity's name had spread as far as Japan, England, China, Formosa, Switzerland, Ireland, India, Korea and Africa besides of course the United States.

The Directory may in some cases prove the undoing of some boastful young students. The first morning the Directory appeared, two freshettes appeared quite indignant, as another exclaimed, "So he's in first year—why the . . . ! He told me he was graduating!" Another was amused as she remarked, "Now, why did he put in his first address when he lives in town?"

The Directory has its amusing features, as we have observed. One girl we know is at present walking about in a daze, murmuring strange incantations about Blind River. Two others have devised a new and intriguing method of referring to their "masculine appendages"—by the streets they live on. They keep their friends guessing by such remarks as "Have you seen Avenue Road today?"

"Sculls or Skulls", whichever way they are spelt suits Georg Von Opel, who captured the Diamond Sculls at Herlev, England, and who was a winner at Toronto, Canada, for he has just returned from a month of hunting south of Banff, world famous Canadian Pacific Rocky Mountain Resort, and has brought back with him some splendid specimens of big game skulls. After hooking for a two weeks' trip he found the sport so good that he increased it to six weeks. Elk, moose, mule-deer, Rocky Mountain Goats, and Bighorn Sheep, he added to his collection while hunting south, but failed to get a grizzly. For two days he trailed one high fellow but the inclement and changeable weather met with, made success impossible. The grizzly, however, annoyed by the trailing, turned the tables on Georg by trailing the hunter to camp and stealing Georg's most prized goat head. Von Opel made the trip with Frank Phillips, famous Rocky Mountain guide. Picture shows Von Opel on the right.

and activities of himself, and the whole world around him. This requires leisure of which the poor and ambitious student has very little. But those who are working their way through college cannot help themselves. Seven-tenths of an education is better than none. The solution of the problem on a large scale lies with the government of this country, and it is doubtful if anything will be done on this question for many years to come.

SPANISH ELECTION BRINGS REACTION

The Church can gain popular support. This suspicion the present party seems to have allayed to a considerable extent. Undoubtedly their success was due in a large measure to the fact that the women of Spain voted for the first time in history at the recent elections, a provision for their enfranchisement having been inserted in the new constitution.

SENIORS DEFEAT WEST END TEAM AT WATER POLO

In a Fast and Close Game Varsity Seniors Win at "Y" Pool

SCORE IS 4-1

McCatty, Davey and Smith
Are Best Men for Blue Team

By Grant Reel

Last night in the West End "Y" pool, the Varsity senior water polo team administered a 4-1 defeat to their hosts, the West End team. The game was fast and close throughout, with the West Enders threatening in the last part of the game to tie things up. Varsity were without the services of Middleboro for part of the last period but managed to hold off the thrusts of their opponents until the final whistle.

In the first period Varsity started off with a decided advantage, having seven shots on the "Y" goal before any reply was forthcoming. They continued to test the "Y" goalie with hard drives, but were unsuccessful in

STUDENTS CONDEMN LIBRARY CHATTER

U.C. Librarian Posts "Varsity"
Editorial Where All Can Read

HARD TO CONCENTRATE

That the librarian in the U.C. library agrees that there is too much chattering is evidenced by the fact that she mounted yesterday's editorial on a little blue card and tacked it to the door.

Frank Kernaghan, IV U.C., thought the editorial was timely and that it should be mounted and set up on every table in the library.

Bill Goddard, who seldom uses the library as a study, said that, "The noise of radiators, loud arguments at the desk, faulty ventilation and excellent refrigeration, as well as the mumbly conversation made it well nigh impossible for him to concentrate on his work."

Currie's Condition Is Still Critical

The condition of Sir Arthur Currie is still very critical but is somewhat improved as compared to this afternoon, stated a bulletin which was issued late last night. The bronchitis which had set in had not extended any more, and his temperature and pulse had improved. At the moment of the bulletin (11.15 p.m.) he was resting quietly. Sir Arthur has been in Royal Victoria Hospital 16 days critically ill from blackage of a small blood vessel in the brain.

GRIEVANCES AIRE IN LATEST 'SPARK'

New Publication Arouses Comment Among Staff and Students

LANGE NOT NAZI

The Spark was sold in large numbers this morning and was received much better than last year owing to its change of policy, in that it now interests itself to a greater extent in student life. The leading article deals with grievances which are uppermost in the university this year. This article aroused considerable comment from both staff and undergraduates. Several professors in the Economics Department expressed approval of the inclusion of a demand for a restoration in the cuts in their salaries. On the contrary, Professor Satterly of the Physics Department said, "What good will that do anyhow?"

Several people were of the opinion that it was a better production than Change, which was produced last week by the C.C.F. Club. One of the members of this club made this comment himself. Interviewed on the subject of The Spark Gordon Skilling, Economics, '34, a member of the C.C.F.

CONTINENTAL DRIFT IS QUESTIONABLE

Theory that Continents Really Move is Still Being Investigated

LONGITUDE DIFFERENT

"The old determinations of longitude do not agree with modern ones. Is this an error, or have the continents really moved?" said Professor Parks of the Royal Ontario Museum when interviewed yesterday regarding the project at present under way to discover whether the continents are adrift. Observatories in Greenwich, Ottawa, Vancouver and Tokyo in the northern belt, and in Shanghai, San Diego and Northern Africa in the south, are conducting studies to fix the meridians of longitude at different points in the world in order to work out a conclusion. When the results are checked with those obtained from a similar survey in 1926 scientists will be able to determine the truth of the "Continental Drift" theory.

This theory advanced by Wegener about 1900, presupposes the existence of a primary continent, America being then joined to Europe and Africa in a way readily seen by a glance at a map. According to Wegener, so Professor Parks informed us, movement in the position of the poles will bring about the drift, Greenland being left as a hinge and the south part in particular shifting westward. The existence of the Rocky and Andes Mountains, which form an almost continuous range along the western coast of

FALSE PATRIOTISM

War is Fomented by Armament Manufacturers, Propaganda and Nationalism

"War must be ruled out. It must be ruled out because it is inhuman. No one believes that the summit of achievement for youth is to have their entrails blown out and scattered over a battlefield. It must be ruled out because it is inefficient. The Great War did nothing to relieve the pressure of European nations on one another. It must be ruled out because of its cruelty. Remarque's book 'All Quiet on the Western Front' gave a picture of the actual conditions on the front. It portrayed the dirt, the filth, the brutality, the horror of war." With these words Professor W. R.

PRICE DEPLORES RADICAL VIEWS

Blames Communistic Ideas on Fact that Students are

CANADIAN NATIONALISM

(Special to "The Varsity")
London, Ont. (C.L.P.)—The tendency of students of today toward communistic views was deplored by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General and acting Prime Minister of Ontario, in the course of his address on "Canadian Citizenship," delivered to a large gathering of University of Western Ontario students here on Tuesday. This tendency he attributed to the fact that many students come from wealthy families.

"Many of you," he continued, "come from humble homes, which is all to your credit. Your struggles are the great things in life. You will make the greater citizens of this country, when with your education and insight

Starts a Probe on Library Chatter Finds That There is Nothing the Matter

To our amazement there was no chatter, not even from the notorious radiators, as we went into the library to investigate charges of noisy conduct and roystering therein.

Seating ourselves in a corner we awaited developments. Ah, there is a young freeman whose jaw is beginning to wag. We start over to chastise him, only to discover that he is not talking—merely chewing gum.

Who is this gentleman? ? ? who comes in and begins wandering around talking to everyone? He ought to know better. Shall we speak to him? We begin to get up when a dangerous looking Med glares at us from across the table and rumbles, "Hey you, for heaven's sake either sit down or stand up, but don't act like a jack-in-the-box."

The next table has much more comfortable chairs, anyway, we decide after moving. The wandering talker approaches us now. We begin talking first, "Didn't you read the editorial in The Varsity about talking in the library?" we ask. "Who are you, anyway?"

Young Girl Charged With Theft of Purses

According to the morning papers Miss Olive Hume, 22, of Bathurst St., was yesterday arrested by Policewoman Agnes Robinson, in the vicinity of the University College Women's Union, on suspicions of her having been connected with the stealing of several purses from the building. Miss Hume was taken to Court Street station, where she was later booked on two charges of theft. She is alleged to have stolen a purse containing $15 and another containing $4, both purses belonging to university students. Detective Joseph Shields is investigating.

LIBERALS OFFER NO REAL PLATFORM

Professor Mackenzie Speaks to Members of Liberal Club

DISCUSSES CONFERENCE

"Unless Liberalism can offer some satisfactory solution to the problems of the present day, it is inevitable that the two extremes of Fascism and Socialism will eventually meet," was the opinion expressed by Professor N. A. Mackenzie at last night's meeting of the University Liberal Club in Hart House. During an informal address and discussion the guest speaker dealt with the Liberal Summer School at Port Hope last August, and suggested conclusions to be drawn from the work of the conference.

"A very real difficulty facing the party at this time is the division between political and philosophical liberalism," continued the professor.

"The conference at Port Hope was very much an experiment, and in my opinion exceeded the expectations of the committee, in its attendance." There was, however, a noticeable lack of professional politicians at the convention, which was possibly due to the desire of such men to avoid taking any definite stand. The Liberal party in Canada, Professor Mackenzie further suggested, is apparently seeking election without committing itself to any definite platform. Thus, if successful, they hope to avoid such a continual barrage of criticism as has been directed against Premier Bennett ever

BIOLOGISTS DECIDE WAR UNNECESSARY

War is One of Consequences of Introduction of Private Ownership

MAN IS BEAST

"War is one of the innumerable consequences of the introduction of private ownership and it cannot occur until a certain degree of civilisation is reached," contended the affirmative speaker, G. McCutcheon, in the debate, "Resolved that war is biologically inevitable," which motion was defeated at the meeting of the Biological Club at Wymilwood last night.

Every human being has that primal impulse or a certain hankering after war. Even Canadians are proud of British supremacy continued the Speaker.

Man is by nature gregarious; he possesses a sensitiveness to fellow-beings. He desires his opinion to be identified with that of the herd. If it isn't, he is met with resistance.

WORK AT SCHOOL HELPS STUDENT

College Education is Appreciated More After Personal Sacrifice

LEISURE NARROWS MIND

The man who works his way through college became the centre of discussion because of the Inconsequence Column of yesterday's edition in which this group was discussed and the question asked if a large number of them did not become quite successful. Much, however, according to the column, remains with the individual and his ability.

"There is absolutely no question in my mind that a college education is appreciated by the individual when he has had to make a personal sacrifice. Tenacity of purpose to gain the benefits of a university education makes the individual study to get the most he can from his course. Those who have to work gain a knowledge of the world about them and an insight into the psychology of people which no book learning will ever give them. This makes them better fitted when they leave these halls to take a useful part in their community," was the reply of Kenneth Glazier, I Arts, to The Varsity.

A second year Arts man who refused to give his identity commented that, "Yesterday's Inconsequence was very good. One of our most valuable gifts is time and one working his way through college can better appreciate its value. Working with an object of self-betterment one becomes refined and the more languid characteristics are surpassed. Leisure makes the mind narrow while when working the mind has to adapt itself to many situations."

Careless First Quarter Gives Guelph Eleven Point Lead

ISBISTER KICKS WELL

Keith, Hales, Carter Star for Winners; Boomer, Stewart
Best for Varsity

By Harold Taylor

Although outplaying Ontario Agricultural College in the last half of the final intermediate intercollegiate game at the Stadium yesterday, the Toronto University intermediate football team could not overcome the large lead of the Guelph students and were forced to retire from the field defeated 18-7.

A careless first quarter allowed the O.A.C. to amass eleven points in a rush, closely followed by another touchdown in the second which revealed a sixteen-point deficit as the first half ended.

Elliot of O.A.C. kicked high punts which his tacklers covered faultlessly and was responsible for holding down the Varsity onslaught in the latter part of the game. The crisis of the game came at the start of the second half, when after a series of beautifully executed plunges, end runs and forward passes, Varsity failed to gain points in battling with O.A.C. on their own one yard line for four successive plunges. Elliot then kicked out of danger when Varsity lost possession of the ball.

The Agricultural football players have a sturdy, fast squad and Toronto intermediates have the consolation of being beaten by a superb team. The speed of the Aggies was soon uncovered as the game started. Isbister's first kick was blocked, and when Rud-dock fumbled twice on the Varsity

THE HAMILTON CONFERENCE
During the Christmas holidays, from December 29th to New Year's Day, an international student conference of considerable importance will be held in McMaster University, Hamilton. It is being organised by the Student Christian Movements of Canada and the United States, and will be attended by one hundred selected students, half of whom will come from each side of the international boundary.

The purpose of the conference will be to consider the bearing of Christianity on three major problems of international importance today, namely, Unemployment, Race, and Nationality. Each delegate will be assigned to one or other of the three commissions into which the conference will be divided for the study of these three subjects. And furthermore, each delegate will be expected to speak on the subject as from the point of view of a student of a country which will be assigned to him in advance. Twenty-seven such countries have been selected.

In preparation for the conference, six groups are already at work here in the university. Each will work through a preparatory syllabus on the three subjects, studying them from the point of view of a selected country. The group in Victoria has chosen Japan; U.C. women, Germany; U.C. men, Canada; Graduate Studies, O.C. E. and Emmanuel, France; Meds, S.P.S. and Dents, Italy; and Trinity, Great Britain. The sixteen delegates from Toronto—eight men and eight women—will be selected from these groups.

A preliminary conference will probably be held on December 4th under the leadership of Mr. Lloyd Reynolds, M.A., of McGill. Further particulars may be had from either of the S.C.M. offices.

EDITORIAL

The days of muck and mire are here—when one takes the more circuitous route around the campus, and buckles on goloshes before crossing Queen's Park. It is expected that on the crosspaths, and even on the more substantially constructed cinder paths, mud and water are to be found. We can scarcely avoid it there, but we do object to being mired on the regular thoroughfares.

Those who have occasion to travel on foot daily around the north-west corner of Queen's Park must mutter to themselves as they attempt to extricate their feet from the marshy land thereabouts. Any persons who have to travel on foot between the main University Buildings and the Museum, the Household Science Building, or Victoria College, must find a way of avoiding the west side of the Crescent if they wish to do so in comfort. To avoid the route we mention, they have either to cross Queen's Park or to remain on the pavement and take the chance of being run down by an automobile.

To be more specific, there is a stretch of mud—one can hardly call it more than that—which extends from just south of the Museum to the corner of Hoskin Avenue, and which is badly in need of a cement sidewalk. It is not an out-of-the-way bypath, it is a very much frequented thoroughfare, and is used daily by a great many students. We understand that it is on University property, and we are certain that those of our readers who have passed that way will agree that a cement sidewalk, even a narrow one, would be much appreciated there.

Another short stretch of sloppy ground is to be found just north of the east wing of University College, between the memorial tablet and the quadrangle. It is only a matter of a few feet, and we wonder that a sidewalk had not been laid there long ago. Surely the slight expense incurred in making this passageway fit for travel under any weather conditions would be more than justified.

Sidewalks are needed, and needed badly, in the two spots that we mention. We wonder what the University authorities, or the City Council, if they are concerned in the first instance, are going to do about it.

INTERMEDIATES LOSE INTERCOLLEGIATE FINAL

backfield, Guelph recovered and sent Hales around the end for five points. Elliot kicked a series of long punts which finally resulted in another point. Once more Guelph blocked Isbister's kick, Folland of O.A.C. recovering. Any score was here averted by a penalty to the Guelph team for not allowing yards on an inside kick. Isbister kicked out of danger only to have Keith of O.A.C., who had been running nicely in the backfield break away for a thirty yard run which was turned into a major score on the next play. A long forward pass thrown by Isbister, was intercepted by Mills of O.A.C., who ran to Varsity's twelve yard line, from which position Mitchell plunged for another touch, ending the half with a sixteen point lead for his team.

Returning from the rest period with determination to turn back the Agricultural squad, Varsity launched a scintillating attack and by the combined efforts of Edwards, Isbister and Stewart went to Guelph's one yard line where four plunges failed to register.

This did not stop the fighting students, however, for Brebner caught a thirty yard pass from Isbister and on the next play McKee faked a placement and passed the ball laterally to Isbister who took it the remaining distance for five points. The score was converted. Isbister kicked a sixty-yard punt at this stage in the proceedings, and was supported by Edwards in the receiving end of two forward passes which carried play to Guelph's fifteen yard line. Varsity suffered again as Borsuk of Guelph intercepted another pass, allowing Elliot to swing his foot for another point. Edwards again caught a pair of passes but the time was too limited to make up the remainder of the deficit.

The running of Keith, Elliot and Carter along with the plunging of Hales, constituted the winning factors of the game for Guelph. Edwards, the promoted outside, on the backfield for Varsity, made good his right to promotion by faultless catching and running. He and Isbister, with Boomer and Stewart, played their heads off, while Brebner tackled better than any outside on the field.

Royal Ontario Museum

Up on the third floor of the Royal Ontario Museum and rather jammed within a small room are some priceless Indian paintings, mostly from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Most of the subjects are religious, philosophic even in the Tibetan paintings that are on the walls; if the luxurious vegetation of the Ganges river led Buddha to a life of contemplation, the rude and treacherous mountains of the Himalayas made the Tibetans more fearful, filling them with a great awe for the forces of Nature which they personified in their mythology. It is among the people living at the crossing of the roads connecting India, China and the Gobi that we find the vision of the Purgatory transcribed forcefully in colours.

Many of the paintings in darker tones show us Yama, God of Death, riding his wild horse to which cut heads are attached, while smoke and flames are forming the background of the picture. The choice of colours is effective and the drawing always sure. Two other paintings, both on silk, one of which is faded, while the other is as fresh as when completed, represent the Universe with Buddha and his four attendants in deep contemplation on top, while below we can see damned dead tortured, one by one while Yama is enjoying the spectacle. Yet, however fine these paintings are I prefer the lone figure of the Buddha, with his frail body expressing completely his power for the meditative life. The holy man is seated on a beast which lies on a bed of flowers, while a bush forms the background that is completed by some clouds that alone in this work which is essentially Indian reveal an influence of Tibetan art. By its simplicity and beauty this painting is strangely living and one can't help being influenced by it.

In the show cases there are many fine miniatures that have a freshness of tone, joined to a great mastery of drawing that might easily tend to render them simply realistic; yet such is not the case for somehow these works suggest more than they show. The best one is probably the scene on a palace terrace of white marble where a prince and his wife meet a friend. The vividness of the colours contrast strangely with the treatment of the garden which a coming monsoon storm makes quite dark. Four small portraits of Indian rulers show us the best in this kind of work. Two paintings that must not be missed are taken from the life of Krishna; one represents him in his crib, surrounded with all his toys, and what toys!—the other represents him, fully grown, playing the flute and charming the beauteous sex, like Orpheus.

In the same room are some bas-relief very representative of the Gandhara art, which flourished for about four centuries, in the north-west of India after the expedition of Alexander. The Greek characteristics are striking; careful study of the clothes and draperies and positions that remind us of the sarcophagi of Alexander. One of the most beautiful works exhibited is a wooden door, finely chiselled, with a small niche on the top including the God of Luck, the good hearted Ganesha, with his elephant head. Some other panels are copies of wood carving whose original is still in India, no such work has ever been produced on this continent, to my knowledge.

Eaton Auditorium

Last night, under distinguished patronage, the Schubert Choir of Brantford, one hundred and fifty strong, appeared under the inspired baton of Henri Jordan. There is no doubt that this organisation is one of the finest. Its precision, balance and quality of tone places it in a class of its own. Nothing could have better introduced the audience to the pleasures to come than the exquisite rendering of Gretchaninoff's Praise the Lord O my Soul.

The choir seems to do its best work in the shorter species of composition. The Banquet, bathed in beautiful tone and executed with myriad shadings, was well nigh perfect in the virtuoso dexterity of the choir. The Bach was enthusiastically received by the audience but the Mendelssohn still remains unrivalled in the choral works of larger dimensions.

The second part of the programme contained three works of Grainger, of which the two latter were most successful. I'm seventeen come Sunday, based on a folk song of Lincolnshire, was a most exhilarating composition executed with admirable verve and dash.

Associated with the choir was Aube Tzerko. Mr. Tzerko is a pianist of fire and although his playing is not always accurate still he gives a good account of himself.

ATHLETIC AT-HOME DEC. 8TH, HONOUR BLUE ATHLETES

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. P. P.

Two enthusiastic colleges will support their teams at the first game on tonight's bill. Trinity will no doubt proclaim that they are the salt of the earth in spite of sentiment to the contrary from St. Mike's.

Interest in the game, apart from the cheering, of course, will be heightened by the fact that the latter team were successful in turning in a win against St. Hilda's in their last encounter much to the surprise of the prophets. If the performance is repeated the blue team will be eliminated in their group for the first time in years. The best that they can do now is tie their group and force matters to be decided by a group playoff.

St. Hilda's have an excellent opportunity to do this thing, in fact. There is every component of a winning team in their crew—accurate forwards, good defence players and excellent system in their play.

It is hard to predict results even under these circumstances, however, anything may happen, just as another columnist in this paper has had occasion to notice.

A plea for the rooters for the University College team, which plays Vic tonight at 7 o'clock. Don't be shy if you don't know the U.C. yell because nobody else does either. Moreover, if you have been harbouring an ambition to learn it, do so immediately and take this opportunity to voice your newfound knowledge. U.C. juniors are good; Vic were just a little better in their last game but that was at the beginning of the season.

TEACHERS DEFEATED IN LACROSSE GAME

Pharmacy Wins Easily from O.C.E. by a Score of 17-8

EVANS STARS

Pharmacy had little difficulty outplaying O.C.E. by a 17-8 score in a box lacrosse game held in the big gymnasium in Hart House yesterday afternoon. O.C.E. being a few men short were forced to send in outside men and their team work suffered as a result. The game was remarkably fast and clean; no penalties were called.

The winners started off with a rush and piled up an 8-1 lead at the end of the first period. The Teachers played ragged lacrosse until the last period in which they scored as many goals as their rivals. Evans, with eight tallies to his credit, and Inch and MacDougall with five and three respectively, all played brilliantly for the Drugists. The Pharmacy team turned in an extremely smooth and consistently aggressive game. The forwards were nearly always in position for their passes which often broke up the opposing defence. MacLean was the standout for O.C.E., netting six counters; Moffat and Real also performed well for the losers.

Pharmacy — Wilson, Evans, Finch, Armour, MacDougall, Gallagher, Trevelyan, Poole.

O.C.E. — Ley, Moffat, Kennedy, Stiles, Real, MacLean.

Referee — J. Kerr.

VARSITY JUNIORS WIN WATER POLO

Defeat Broadview Y.M.C.A. by Wide Margin of 5-1

Last night in the Hart House pool, the Varsity junior water polo team defeated the junior team of Broadview "Y" by the good margin of 5 to 1. The game was well contested but the home team had the advantage. In the first half Varsity scored three points, all of them good shots. The "Y" team also scored its single point in the first half on a tricky corner shot.

Although the Broadview team handled the ball very well, their combination was not as good as that of the Varsity team. The play went fairly evenly until near the end when the

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Yesterday afternoon Varsity won another intercollegiate football title and lost still another. The juniors invaded Montreal in a rush and word came through yesterday evening that they had won 44-0 in their game against Loyola College juniors. At half time the score was 30-0. It looks as though they didn't have very much opposition. On the other hand the Varsity intermediates lost out in the semi-finals to O.A.C. just because the Guelph aggregation was smart enough to step right in at the first whistle and start the ball rolling. Before the local lads knew it the ball had rolled a little too far. In the second half they came out and played ball as they can but unfortunately as they haven't done all season until the second half. That is because they haven't had to play smart football until the last two quarters. Yesterday they were stacked up against a college that is taking its football seriously now and they can't be underestimated.

On the other hand the local lads received a couple of tough breaks in a row. They were three yards out. fshister went over for a touch. O.A.C. were offside on the play. The ball was brought back and Varsity was given another down. The rules state that the team in Varsity's position have the option of taking the score or taking possession of the ball where the penalty placed it without the score. According to one of the Varsity players they did not get the option and the score was not counted. When they got the ball the Blues couldn't get it over although the same player claimed the ball carrier was actually over the line when he stopped. It being close the decision of the referee could not be disputed but the instance is one which has been repeated several times this season. Very often these little incidents as seen by the players on the spot throw an interesting light on the play for those in the bleachers who are not able to tell what is going on. Now Loyola College will play O.A.C. in Guelph or default the title. In one respect we are glad to see O.A.C. get the playoff final because they made the two playoff games possible through their agreement to forego their bye into the finals. From their viewpoint they deserved the break they got.

The lists open today in the Athletic Office for the Athletic At-Home which should be booked up for everyone. Date—December the eighth.

Brigland's kick for a point in the S.P.S. win over Trinity the day before yesterday has caused considerable comment. It seems he was snapped the ball standing on his own 40-yard line. The ball was wet, he was wet, and he was standing in the wet. Yet he hoisted the pigskin in a perfect spiral for 73 yards, where it was fumbled and then kicked out of touch by a very wise Trinity backfielder. It isn't often that such a kick is seen in interfaculty competition. All his kicks were not as good as that one but he was consistently good in his booting all through the game and contributed considerably to the fact that S.P.S. will meet Victoria College tomorrow afternoon in the Mulock Cup final.

In correction of an error in this column of yesterday the coupon number for this game will be 14. Lectures will be called off at the School of Practical Science and we have it on good authority that if the students up at Vic go to their lectures that afternoon they will probably learn that the professor is at the Stadium. The game bids fair to be a close contest. It is very difficult to judge two interfaculty teams that have not played each other before but if that backfield running combination of Colner and Pratt for Vic has a dry field to run on, they should have an advantage over the heavier and slower Schoolmen. On the other hand the School line is a very formidable one and their kicker is exceptional. The Vic line did not look strong against U.C. in the group playoff and if they are to stop the engineers they will have to behave differently.

Are you going to the Athletic At-Home? Honour the Big Blue team, intercollegiate senior football champs of 1933.

Varsity's senior and junior water-polo teams brought home a double order of bacon last night when they took both games with very decisive wins. The seniors visited West End Y.M.C.A. and defeated their hosts 4-1. The juniors entertained the Broadview Y team and handed them a 5 to 1 count. Things seem to be looking up for the two Blue and White outfits even though they were a bit slow at the start of the schedule. They have some fast swimmers that are a treat to watch and it would be well worth any man's while to visit the Hart House tank for their home games.

Big time for everybody is guaranteed at the Athletic At-Home. Johnny Capp and his Music will lead the festivities. And it's a smart band.

We regret to say that in this column of Monday last we made remarks in the enthusiasm of the moment which left an impression of poor sportsmanship. In view of the fact that so much justifiable criticism was forthcoming in consequence we thought it best to adjust ourselves accordingly. Hoping this fulfils the obligation on our part we trust that you will agree to our claim of not being deliberately unfair in our remarks. Without making any attempt to alleviate our position we would like to point out that unbeknownst to the majority of the readers of this column, there was some justification for what was said in view of the personal remarks that have emanated from the Queen's Journal's sport column. However, that is taking the "eye for an eye" attitude on our part and in justice to the comparison of the attitude and editorial policy of this paper as compared to others, it might have better been left undone.

KNOX DEFEATS VICTORIA IN SOCCER SEMI-FINAL

Knox defeated Victoria 2-1 in the semi-finals of the interfaculty soccer league on the front campus last night.

The teams were evenly matched, but both seemed stronger on the defence than on the forward line. The wet ground also slowed up the game considerably.

After almost the whole half of even play Knox made the first score. On a pass from Cuthbertson, Weir sank the ball deep into the Vic goal. In

MEOS DEFEAT SCHOOL IN VOLLEYBALL GAME

Take Two Straight Games by Scores of 15-11 and 15-6

In the upper gym last night, Junior Meds defeated Junior School in two straight games in the volleyball series by the scores of 15-11 and 15-6. There was much poor volleyball displayed but lots of the old die-hard spirit was shown. Better teamwork on the part of the Meds won the game.

With the schedule three-quarters completed, the standings shows several teams well on their way to the group playoffs. The standings to date are as follows:

WORK AT SCHOOL

L. B. White, IV S.P.S., expressed his view that he could not see "why a university education was necessary for success. However, working to attain this end makes a man of you."

D. L. Grant, III Meds, claimed that it is impossible to make sufficient during a summer to pay one's expenses and that one would do well to earn half of the sum. Mr. Grant continued that, "The average person helping to put himself through is a hard working, conscientious student in practically all cases."

"A good article, and very true," declared James Young, II Arts, U.C., as he read Inconsequence. "Working during the year interferes with one's studies considerably and one does not get all out of his course that he could. Work does help form character provided the individual is fitted to it. Working hard and sacrificing pleasure does make one appreciate his college course."

into the problems of the world, you take your stand in the moving life around you."

Stressing the need of a Canadian nationalism, Colonel Price stated, "I am afraid that in Canada we haven't enough Canadian sentiment. Canada, great country though it is, is operating in water tight compartments. In British Columbia the people are more English than the English. The people in the Maritimes have as much distrust of those in Ontario as the latter have of Bostonians."

"We have no national outlook. For years we have been looking across the ocean and to the south of us. It is quite right for us to take their achievements and study them but our great work is to unite the best of everything into a country which is first and foremost distinctly Canadian."

The speaker deplored the fact that we have no Canadian Lindbergh or Morrison. "We do not live daringly enough," he stated. "After the Great War we sank down. We developed few great explorers, yet we should have done so. Our duty is to cultivate such a nationalism in Canadians that they will seek to put our country on the map in aviation, in exploration and in all other fields."

since his election.

The earlier portion of the meeting was devoted to discussion of the existing and possible future relations of the University Liberal Club with the provincial party and associated organizations. It was suggested that affiliation with the Ontario Twentieth Century Club, and the outlining of a definite plan of activities might together do much to increase interest in the local club which so far has only had the support of a few members.

When the matter of forming study groups was brought up, Professor Mackenzie joined the discussion. That in such groups the club members consider what they as Liberal members of parliament would propose as practical solutions to present day problems, was his suggestion.

The general opinion of the meeting was that the university club, up till this time, had been "Liberal with a small 'l'". In future, it was felt, the club might do well to become more closely associated with the official party and the practical problems concerning it.

Mr. H. Creswick, the negative speaker, maintained that co-operation rather than competition is the human tendency.

A certain fatalism regarding war still exists in the minds of people ever since Darwin's theory has been existent, but this theory has now been discarded by philosophers and theologians are only interested in peace.

spheres in the universe, material, biological, psychological and spiritual, all are in harmony with the Creator except the spiritual due to our free will. If a state of harmony between the animal and the spirit can be reached, then we will have a Utopia in which no war exists.

The debate was then thrown open to the House. In upholding the negative, Professor McGinnis gave a very interesting talk and caused much merriment by his very vivid picture of the state of Canada, particularly Toronto and Montreal, in 2933, if war would be biologically inevitable.

MODERN WARFARE
CRUEL AND FILTHY

Taylor presented a stirring argument for the elimination of war before the S.C.M. in Hart House yesterday afternoon. The subject of his address was "Peace and War."

War has conferred great benefits on the human race, Professor Taylor went on. The Mediterranean empires were built up by war. Trade routes for the exchange of commodities and ideas were opened up. The benefits of civilization were passed on. However, even in ancient times, as is pointed out by the literature of the period, wars were followed by evil conditions. But these old empires saw war on its smallest scale. Since that time the magnitude of war has been increasing in geometric proportions. War is now conducted on such a scale that it will threaten our very civilization.

Professor Taylor then showed that in spite of this the probability of another war is very great. The promoters of war care not whether it is reasonable or unreasonable. The influence of the armament manufacturers in fomenting war is well known. It has been proved that the concerns in the leading countries of the world are all combined in one interlocking arms trust. During the last war, munitions manufactured in France and England were known to have been sold to the Central Powers. British soldiers were shot to pieces by bombs from which their parents drew dividends. It has been proved that the Bethlehem Steel Company of the United States maintained lobbyists at the Geneva disarmament conference to hinder and frustrate action. So long as arms are manufactured for private gain little can be accomplished.

"The malicious influence of propaganda is the second great factor in fomenting war," said Professor Taylor. "The news channels are controlled by a few main agencies which so discriminate as to the news they print that they can play on the public mind until the populace sings the tune that these agencies want to hear. A few weeks ago we were informed in the press that Germany had withdrawn from the League. That Germany claimed that Simon misrepresented the case to the U.S. The papers were filled with condemnation of Germany. What were the real reasons for Germany's action. That we don't know and the papers make no attempt to tell us. The object is to make Germany appear as a war monster and so maintain the war spirit."

The third source of war, he showed, lies in the spirit of nationalism, the "my country right or wrong spirit". The encouragement of martial display and parades to impress people with the glory and glamour of war.

"We can prevent war only by letting the world understand that we can accomplish nothing," Professor Taylor concluded, "by changing our channels of information, by destroying nationalism and false patriotism, by developing government ownership of armament manufacturers. We also require a changed economic system that will eliminate the army of unemployed that might quite possibly turn to war with relief at having something to do. We must put ourselves behind every institution that makes for peace. The League is weak but it is the only institution that disputed the right of nations to take recourse to force and we must give it our support."

IS QUESTIONABLE

America is given as proof, since the pressure exerted by the moving continent would crumple up the western edge.

Dr. Chant of the Astronomy Department, remarked that the measurement of the drift, if any, of the last eight years would be a tedious process, necessitating very exact measurements in time. He had no definite information about the present operations.

"It is a live subject," said Doctor Young of the same department. "The results of the observations in 1926 gave the opinion that the continents were not stationary."

Doctor Satterly, professor of physics, said, "I think there will be a change, though of course it might be due to a number of things."

scoring. Then Burleigh at centre gave Sellers a nice pass, which he neatly converted into what proved to be the sole counter for his team during the evening. During one of the melees, Burleigh lost part of his suit, causing the game to be held up until replacements had been made. Immediately on resuming play, Davey knotted the count on a pass from Learie. Play then ranged up and down the pool. McCatty putting Varsity one goal up just before the whistle blew for half time.

After the rest period both goalies were tested with hard drives. Ferguson, for "Y", made a long solo run to the Varsity goal but was steered into the corner. Varsity were unlucky in not scoring when a three-man thrust resulted in the drive hitting the cross-bar, after having the goalie well beaten. However, Varsity were not to be denied, for McCatty very shortly scored his second goal of the evening, making the score 3-1 for Varsity. Middleboro was penalised for touching bottom but even with the odd man the "Y" team were unable to get the ball behind McLeod.

McCatty closed the scoring with a nice goal from centre. For Varsity, McCatty, Davey and Smith were the pick while for West End "Y" Burleigh and Sellers showed to best advantage.

Varsity — McLeod, Middleboro, Bancroft, Smith, Learie, Davey, McCatty.

West End "Y" — Goble, Sellers, Newton, Burleigh, Sturges, Ferguson, Chayton.

Club executive, made the following comment, "I do not agree with the attitude of the Student League but I think The Spark fulfils the same purpose as Change in awakening the students to a greater interest in politics."

Victor Lange, of the German Department, who is quoted as being a Nazi, wished to deny that he is a whole hearted supporter of Hitler. He approved of The Spark because it aroused the students to discuss important matters.

M. Littman, 1st year B. and M., said the paper was interesting and he liked it. K. M. Mayell, 3rd year Forestry, thought it was about time something was done about the various grievances brought up by the Student League. Much favourable comment was aroused by the humorous column on the Red Glossary.

Marie Riddell, 1st year Social Science observed, "This is an imposing document. The cuts are very choice."

STUDENTS CONDEMN

pher, Jim Watson by name, explained that tests had shown that it was more difficult to concentrate in a room where gravelike silence prevailed than in a room where some movement and sound was noticeable; but he went on to explain that sound in the library sometimes assumed such proportions as to merit being called noise and this was decidedly detrimental to one's knowledge absorbing faculties.

"One may become so engrossed in one's studies as not to notice one's surroundings," said Graham Scott, III Pol. Science. "Einstein was so absorbed in the task of preparing a lecture that he failed to notice earthquake tremors when he was in California last year," he reminded The Varsity, in illustrating his point. Nevertheless, he thought that undue chattering and snickering was extremely disturbing to the majority of students, including himself.

Mae Stewart, IV Arts, thought that absolute silence was not essential but people should have more manners than to sit and talk in a room where others wanted to study.

Although several students mentioned the disturbance caused by the gentleman who stands up and recites Greek to himself, none had the effrontery to make a definite statement about him.

MENACE OF WAR TO INDIVIDUAL CLEARLY STATED

Economics Professors Discuss Personal Experiences re
World War

WAR DEADENS PERSONALITY

Difficult Position of Students in Event of War

Before an attentive audience of students gathered yesterday afternoon in an informal way in the Economics Building Professors G. E. Jackson, C. A. Ashley and H. A. Innis of the department spoke briefly on war as a menace to present-day civilisation. All three men spoke from their own experience in the last world struggle, avowedly in a sincere endeavour to awaken those present to a realisation of the possibility and the effects of another world catastrophe.

Professor Jackson opened the meeting and addressed the gathering in the following words: "Today war and peace are the supreme business of everybody. Students of the university especially should make the subject their concern, since they would be the first called on to fight in the event of war. The position of the student is a very difficult one. At times he is told by the older men of the country that from the halls of the university are expected to emerge the future leaders of the nation and, as soon as he, as a student, attempts to influence opinion of those around him, he is immediately told to be a good little boy and keep quiet till he is older and more experienced. The tragedy of it all is that as soon as a war comes his is the responsibility of going forth to battle. You must realise that war is the supreme evil. Some people point to other flaws in society, but war is greater than these since it accentuates them all. Besides the irreparable social damages, there is the actual life destroyed—probably 25,000,000 lives were wiped out as a result of the last war. "The finest always go first," he concluded. "From these very halls I saw noble young men go forth never to return again and my own university town of Cambridge is no longer a joy to me because of the ghosts of former friends that stare at me from every other door."

"There is nothing so deadening to personality and individual initiative as military discipline," stated Professor Ashley. "One of the most oppressive influences a young man can come under is the necessity of carrying out no act without an order. Another evil is the giving of unrestricted authority to men who become arrogant and tyrannical in their own small sphere."

NEW SIDEWALKS FOR QUEEN'S PARK

By-Law Already Passed, Will Complete Work Next Winter

EXPENSIVE PROJECT

Attention was drawn by yesterday morning's editorial to the lack of sidewalks at the north-west corner of Queen's Park, where many passers-by are forced to wade through mud and snow from the south end of the museum almost to Trinity College. In an interview with the city's chief engineer in charge of roads, Mr. Stewart, The Varsity learned that a by-law was passed by the City Council last May, providing for the laying of a sidewalk on the west side of Queen's Park from Charles Street running southerly and easterly to Hoskin Ave.

A certain length of time after the passing of such a by-law is reserved for the filing of petitions in opposition. As this time has expired, there is no apparent reason why this public improvement should not be carried out, and it only needs the order from the office of the Works Commissioner to start the work next spring.

As this is an expensive project, it will entail a heavier tax-bill to those who own property on the strip affected. These will be Victoria College, which owns Wymilwood; the owner of Sir Robert Falconer's former residence, and Sir Joseph Flavelle, about whose property the greater part of the sidewalk will be laid.

In the meantime the pedestrian will spend another winter plodding through slush and mud. However, next winter, the residents of the property along the north-west frontier are going to have a lot of snow to shovel.

SKIERS PLAN TRIP FOR TEAM MEMBERS

Imperial Inter-University Union Desired by Australasian
University

MCGILL APPROVES STEP

A meeting of the Ski Club was held last evening at which plans for the coming year were explained. Trips have been arranged for members of the club to Lake Placid, Lucerne and possibly the Dartmouth carnival held at Hanover, N.H. The idea of an imperial inter-university ski union was propounded by Mr. Leslie Wilson, the honorary president. The University of Melbourne and University of Tasmania are very anxious to become part of the union. McGill has shown her approval of this and looks to Toronto for co-operation. The present idea is that next year the Australian universities send a team to compete here and the following year that we perhaps finance a team to go over there. The University of Toronto Ski Club this year hopes to establish itself in the vicinity of Caledon or Orangeville with a clubhouse located there as a (Continued on Page 4)

SECOND BILL TO FOLLOW

Opposition Points Out Difficulties Attending Reorganising

A vote of non-confidence, following the defeat of the government, which was opposed by the leader of the opposition, A. C. Smith, and was then lost by a huge majority, provided the big surprise at the meeting of the U.C. Parliamentary Club yesterday afternoon.

Max Patrick, introducing the bill for the Keenan government "That in the opinion of this House there is a superfluity of governmental institutions in Canada", was certain that our present system was largely the result of too hasty a decision at Confederation, since the majority of the present provincial entities could be taken over by the Federal Government. In his opinion administration would be simplified if the Maritimes were treated as a political unit, Quebec with Ontario, the western provinces, and British Columbia and the Yukon.

"In economic interests, the various provinces face in different directions," said A. C. Smith for the opposition. With a country the size of Canada, it would be also manifestly impossible to delegate the provincial powers to a federal parliament which could not be responsible for so large an area.

The Keenan government, breaking all the established precedents of the club, will introduce the second bill next Thursday.

BALZAC'S POSITION IN 19TH CENTURY

Prof. Will Stresses Strength of French Author's Ideas and Expression

ENGLISH INFLUENCERS

"The mission of art is to intellectualise nature," stated Professor Will in his lecture on Balzac, at University College yesterday afternoon. Balzac's attitude is well summed up in his own words, "Society is the true and only nature of man". He portrays the human struggle as against the social struggle and shows how the mad passions of the human soul are evoked by this social struggle. Balzac believed that man was neither good nor bad; that man's life is an animal life and man's soul an animal soul with capabilities, notwithstanding, of spiritualising the world.

"We love in two ways," continued Professor Will. The first is the romantic love of self; the second the love of life for itself. Balzac represents a breaking away from the first and a breaking into the second. During the years 1830-1850 his best work was done. "He, like a true artist, was ready to confess the impulses at work in him. Scott and Cooper especially influenced him."

In nineteenth century literature the name of Balzac stands out vividly from the many others that crowded the age. For power, clear social perception and the ability to create characters that belong to, yet stand out against the background maintained and evolved for them.

GREAT HALL CHANGES

The secretary of the Hall Committee of Hart House has given the following information to The Varsity:

The Board of Stewards of Hart House at a meeting last night accepted the recommendations of the Hall Committee regarding changes in the evening meal in the Great Hall.

It is proposed to make several additions to the menu in the form of a variety of choices of vegetables and desserts. The north end of the Hall is to be used and, with tables set around the fireplace, and a glowing fire, a much warmer atmosphere will be created. Another innovation for the convenience of members is that Great Hall coupons at 50c a strip may now be purchased.

The Committee are of the opinion that these changes will meet with the approval of all undergraduate members of Hart House. The new arrangements will go into effect immediately. The price of the dinner will remain the same at 30c.

JOURNEY TO MOON 2 MILES A SECOND

New Staff Member Discusses Harvard Observatory

NOVEL FRENCH PRIZE

"At the present time it would be possible but not probable to reach the moon by means of a special rocket," stated Mr. N. V. Jefferson, in his address on "The Conquest of Space" at the meeting of the Mathematical and Physical Society on Thursday afternoon. Many different modes of transportation have been investigated but the only one that seems the least bit helpful is by means of shells. It has been calculated that the journey would take about two days, and hence the average speed approximately two or three miles a second.

It is very interesting to know that a society has been formed for the study of interplanetary travel and France, offers a prize of 10,000 francs every year for the best development along this line. If it were possible for a human being to reach Mars or even the moon, and return to the earth with his observations, we would probably be able to solve some of the most (Continued on Page 4)

ART OF EGYPTIAN IS CRITICISED

Professor MacCallum Lectures on "The Principles of Art"

PYRAMIDS TECHNICAL ART

"Just so long as Nature is in the heart of the artist, the art will be good. With the Egyptian artist, Nature was only in his eye, not in his heart, and it is for this reason above all that Egyptian art is relatively of an unsatisfactory sort. The failure of Egyptian art presents an important moral: the only unfruitful attitude in art is that which disregards Nature or sees it merely as something to be exploited." With this fundamental aesthetic axiom, Professor H. R. MacCallum brought to a close the first of a series of talks on "The Principles of Art."

In this introductory lecture, Mr. MacCallum gave a very informative treatment of the art of the early Egyptians, tracing out the sources of its weakness as revealed in its architecture, hieroglyphics and sculpture.

Mr. MacCallum is not at all in accord with the common conception of (Continued on Page 4)

BLUE BASKETEERS PLAN FOR SEASON

Entries Made in Five Leagues
by Three Varsity Teams

TOUR ANNOUNCED

Varsity will be represented in at least five and probably six basketball leagues this winter as the three teams will be playing double schedules. The senior team will play intercollegiate and Big Six, the seconds will be represented in the local senior Y.M.C.A. league and the intermediate intercollegiate loop. As yet the juniors are only entered in the local junior group but plans are under way to form a junior intercollegiate circuit.

The seconds open their schedule on Saturday night at Broadview Y.M.C.A. when they oppose the east enders in the second half of a double header. As yet no definite schedule has been drawn up but it is most likely the seconds will play their home games Wednesday nights.

The Big Six will probably open up their schedule within a week but the intercollegiate doesn't start until the (Continued on Page 3)

STUDENTS INCREASE IN INTELLIGENCE?

Library Circulation Growing

NOT ENOUGH TO DO?

Are Varsity-ites becoming more intelligent? Or does the increased circulation of the libraries mean students are not given enough to do at college? Perhaps they are just out to fool the professors.

Victoria library has a browsing room complete with the newest novels, biographies, travel thrillers, modern poetry and the rest. Miss Ray, the librarian, confirmed statistically the obvious fact that it is appreciated by stating that approximately 250 books are read each week and that although fiction was the most popular form of reading, she was amazed to find so many non-fiction supporters. The majority of the readers are members (Continued on Page 3)

Laing and Graham's Coaching

WARREN STEVENS SUPREME

Freshman Team Totalled
117 Points in 5 Games

By B. J. McGuire

Covered with mud and glory the last of the Varsity football teams to remain in the field last night packed their togs into the moth balls and for another season turned their backs to flying pigskins and frozen gridirons. Intercollegiate football is now all over but the cheering and this will be duly performed at the football banquet in the near future.

The last chapter of the intercollegiate football season was written on Wednesday. Lou Carroll's Blue intermediates, who romped through to a group title, were turned back in their quest for major honours by the powerful Aggies from Guelph. With the juniors it was a different story. Unbeaten and untied this courageous band of youngsters climaxed a singularly successful season with a 44-0 victory over Loyola College to retain the intercollegiate championship they won last year. Of the achievements of the senior team much has already been written. That game Saturday with its glorious climax needs no further comment. Suffice to say that it gave Varsity the senior intercollegiate championship and Jack Sinclair a place in the hall of fame with the football greats of the past.

And then there are the coaches who have made these feats a reality. Warren Stevens has proved himself the equal of any coach in the game by leading the seniors to two championships in a row. Lou Carroll and Lew Hayman also have rendered valuable service to the university in their work with the intermediates. For their brilliant success the Varsity juniors owe much to Grady Laing and Don Graham. These two men had a difficult task facing them when they took their fifty freshmen out at the beginning of the season and began to weld them into a team. Gathered from the many corners of the province, this squad lined up at the beginning of the season almost total strangers to each other. Keeping this in mind, Wednesday's results are an eloquent commentary on the success of Laing and Graham as football coaches.

However, the year was not without its reverses. Twice during the season the Varsity seniors tasted defeat and to make it more bitter it was the Blue team's traditional rival, Queen's, who marred a perfect season by stopping the Varsity team twice. The intermediates won their group with ease although they were tied by Queen's in the final game of the season. The defeat they suffered from O.A.C. was the first of the year. The junior team made a record which will be hard to equal. In five starts they amassed a total of 117 points. One of these games was under very bad conditions with Queen's, in which Varsity tallied only two points. This means that in (Continued on Page 3)

ADDRESS ON RELIGION

Following the series of addresses relevant to the meaning of religion as it is expressed by the modern church, Principal W. T. Brown of Victoria College, will speak to the Ryerson Men's Club of Trinity United Church at 3 p.m. on Sunday, November 26th. The meeting is to be held in the auditorium of the church, where ample accommodation will be afforded for any men wishing to hear the expression of Principal Brown's thoughts on the subject of "Prayer".

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM: A PRAYER

We read in the daily press of our city of a meeting in Massey Hall on November 11 at which a feeble attempt was made on the part of individual members of the audience to sing the National Anthem, but which was suppressed by the lusty singing of the Internationale. And we also read of a summons having been issued to the secretary of the Toronto Anti-War committee who was charged under chpt. 285, sec. 18 of the R.S.O. for failure to make provision for the singing of the National Anthem.

We have no knowledge to the effect that the above-mentioned secretary has been convicted of the "crime" of which he has been accused. If he should be guilty, his crime in that case would be that of being "caught", for, as has been frequently pointed out, many meetings have transpired at which "distinguished" personages have presided, and at which the National Anthem was altogether neglected.

It would appear, however, that those who were responsible for the issuing of the summons, or rather, those who are in sympathy with the law under which it was issued, recognise in such a meeting as was held in Massey Hall a greater peril to our national security than in a meeting held in Convocation Hall. That is a highly debatable point into which at this time we have no desire to enter. But in order that the main contention of our editorial may not be obscured let us say very emphatically that we hold no breach for Communism, and regard it as the most virulent foe, not simply of our "sanctified" institutions, but of spiritual and intellectual liberty.

The singing of God Save the King has generated into a meaningless performance enacted by vast numbers of irreligious people who are utterly oblivious to the implications of the ritual, or who are frankly contemptuous of it. The National Anthem is a prayer, and a prayer which pre-supposes a faith in the sovereign power of God to preserve the life and well-being of the king. It is also a prayer for the blessing of Almighty God upon the British Commonwealth of Nations inasmuch as the king is the symbol of the unity of that body. It is lamentable that in our times the singing of God Save the King has become nothing more than a demonstration of a sickly and sentimental patriotism.

Growing up in our midst is a movement called Communism which does take the tenets of its creed seriously and whose adherents sing the Internationale with a fervour and sincerity one should expect in the rendering of the National Anthem. Much as we may deplore Communism, we are bound to confess that its followers are seriously consecrated to the cause. It is, indeed, almost another religion with enormous potentialities. Because of the fanatical earnestness of its members, we have every reason to view it with alarm, for therein lies its strength.

We have no doubt that the administrators of law and order in our city are well aware of this new peril. But they fail to see the absurdity of combating Communism with communistic tactics, i.e., the use of force. We have the spectacle of certain men attempting to compel other citizens to sing the National Anthem as a means of promoting patriotism to the nation and the empire. People can no more be made patriotic than can they be made religious! A prayer, such as the National Anthem, when sung under compulsion is blasphemy!

Ours is not the first age in the history of mankind that the state has embraced religion, or manufactured a new one, to preserve its existence. The creation of a synthetic religion on a grand scale was performed by Augustus Caesar with his emperor-worship. It is significant, moreover, that it was not so much the emperor who was worshipped but the "genius of the empire" for which he stood. Later in the history of Rome, Constantine, in an effort to save his declining empire, made Christianity the official religion.

Unquestionably the apathetic singing of God Save the King carries with it no spiritual reality today, and is an accurate indication of the superficiality of our acknowledged faith. Nevertheless, any attempt by the leaders of either Church or State to make up for this obvious deficiency in the life of our people by the exercise of force must meet with the same results which contributed to the downfall of the Roman empire. To either devout Christian, or to a person who loathes the hypocrisy of the irreverence which pervades most public renderings of the National Anthem, any attempt to coerce people to pray must be simply an abomination!

REGARDING FEES

To the Editor of The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

After a year of vague talk the Student League has finally proposed something concrete. The political organisations on the campus have always tried to arouse the students to things remote from their own interests. In spite of this, they always complain of the apathy of students to politics.

This year, I am having great difficulty in paying my fees, and now I find out that if I don't cough up by Christmas, I won't be back next term. Here's hoping the Student League's demand that this ruling be changed is supported by the students. It's my only hope!

VIC AND S.P.S. MEET IN MULOCK CUP FINAL TO-DAY

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. P. P.

We turn social reporter and record the kibitzing of the medical women's baseball team. They adjourned to Wymilwood last night after a challenge game with Victoria and indulged in a plebeian sort of party together with their opponents and a surprisingly large number of coaches, assistant coaches, umpires, assistant umpires, etc., etc. A good time was had by all not even excluding the man who was forbidden to marry his widow's niece.

The favourites justified the faith that was reposed in them. Senior Vic and St. Hilda's both obtained impressive scores in their respective basketball games. We shall be more definite in our predictions today. Visualise Hart House gym on the nights of the finals; the competitors will be these two teams, the excitement will be high and the score will be close.

St. Hilda's still have a game to play against St. Mike's but they proved themselves to be the better team last night. Rosamond McCullough was the one basketball player for the latter outfit. She attempted to organise the forward line for her team and displayed knowledge of the game and ability in its execution. One forward cannot win a game, however. Agnes Gardiner did her duty by the defence line and should show up well when the attempt is made to stop St. Hilda's in the playoff. With practice St. Mike's should make a much better showing than they did last night but it is improbable that anything as good as St. Hilda's have to offer can be produced in the short time at their disposal.

Fouls were meted out in a generous fashion in both games but even at that some people—not mentioning any names—managed to "get away" with a lot. The difficulties of a referee are increased by the new ruling in connection with guarding. It is no joke to try to decide whether or not there is personal contact when a defence player is intent on stopping a shot. These games proved that this ruling is going to be particularly effective in the abolition of the overhead shot. When forwards finally relinquish the idea that this shot can be effective, basketball will begin to be the game that it can be.

BLUE JUNIORS WIN OUT 44-0 IN FINAL GAME

four of their five games the juniors averaged about 29 points per game which is certainly an achievement.

Graduation will leave ten vacancies in the senior line-up to be filled next season. Sinclair and Richardson will hang out the M.D. sign and begin mending bones instead of breaking them. Peacock, Burgoyne and Bell will finish the year as full fledged engineers. Bryers, Arnup, Boothe, Warne and McQuigge are all in their last year in arts. The following still have one or more years to go and will be eligible to play next year. Taylor, Holden, Jackson, Hennessy, Coulter, Greco, Harris, Henderson, Alison, Keith, Copp and Newton. Grady Laing and Art Upper will also be eligible next year and should prove a valuable assistance to the Varsity team.

The football season this fall left much to be desired by way of weather and playing conditions. Mud, snow, rain and frozen fields did much to hamper the style of the teams. However, through it all Varsity succeeded in bringing home the Yates Trophy for the fifteenth time in 33 years. So as the curtain falls over the football stage we are in a position to point proudly to the past and with confidence to the future.

The present economic situation has been caused in part by the failure of the economic world to accept new scientific knowledge, in the opinion of Professor R. Clark of the University of British Columbia.

KNOX SOCCER TEAM SEMI-FINALISTS

Always Victorious in Past;
Last Year's Victory Difficult

VIC, PHARMACY STILL IN

Knox College, the perennial soccer champions, are once more approaching the top of the heap. They have as rivals last year's finalists, Victoria College and the strong Pharmacy team. Up until last year Knox had a strangle hold on the cup but last year they had to work hard for it. They drew a bye into the finals and left School and Vic to fight it out. After a hard game Victoria came through and later gave Knox a run-around before bowing to the tune of 3-2. These same two teams meet in the semi-final this year and have already played one game which Knox won 2-1. It was as close as the score shows and tomorrow's game at 10:00 a.m. should be a real thriller. Pharmacy drew the bye and can now sit back on their heels until next week.

In 1931 Knox and O.A.C. played in the semi-final with U.C. having the bye. The final was not very close, Knox winning 5-1. The previous year, 1930, Knox and Pharmacy played a close series in the semi-finals. Knox then had another hard struggle to defeat U.C. in the final by 5-4. Knox have been acknowledged the superior soccer players of the campus and there has been some talk from time to time about abandoning the sport in other faculties and colleges because they would have no chance, but Vic have disproved this. Last year and this they have played fast soccer to give Knox a close run for it and they have every chance in the world to break through tomorrow. If they can do it others can and it just means a little bit of extra work.

MARIVAUX'S PLAYS STILL POPULAR

French Professor Discusses Merits of Author, at Alliance
Francaise

WHAT IS MARIVAUDAGE?

"All Marivaux's heroines are coquettes, monstrously and deliciously," said Professor Finch of the U.C. French Department in his address on Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the Alliance Francaise on the life and works of the popular French comedy writer.

The speaker was introduced as one of the most versatile of the younger professors at the university, being a talented musician, artist and actor. Certainly his histrionic ability was displayed to great advantage in his delightfully entertaining interpretations of passages from some of the dramatist's better-known plays.

Although Marivaux wrote thirty or more plays, only a few such as Marianna, L'Épreuve, Les Lausques Confidantes, etc., have retained their popularity. They are very interesting for their delicate depiction of contemporary manners, but more so in that they are all that remains to us of the 18th century love-plays. There was no passion in his love—it was not deep and profound; but it was sincere.

The term "marivaudage" is used to define literature containing the superficialities, ornament, artifice attributed to the comedies of Marivaux. Here character, plot, and situation are sacrificed to an ingenious play upon words, the story is subordinated to the physiognomy of the actor—gestures, grimaces, exotic costumes. Professor Finch emphasised the fact that although the arrangement and structure of his plays are undeniably artificial, yet the dialogue is natural.

McMaster freshmen held an all-night vigil before last Saturday's rugby game with O.A.C. to prevent the painting of their goal posts by the visitors.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By Paul B. Smith

Victoria and S. P. S. lock horns this afternoon at Varsity Stadium in the finals of the Mulock Cup playoffs. Ardent fans whose football appetite has not yet been satiated, will have an opportunity of witnessing a game which will undoubtedly measure up to the best that has been seen at the Blue bowl this year. Vic will depend to a large extent on their speedy backfield, which will require no little attention if they play back to past performances. S.P.S., on the other hand, boast a heavier wingline than their opponents, and in Bridgland they possess a booter who is unquestionably a star performer, and whose lofty hoists will give the School squad a decided advantage. However, if the fleet Vic backfielders manage to get a start on the tacklers after gathering in one of the Engineer's long spirals, there's no telling how far they will run. Both teams are keyed up to the highest pitch for this all-important contest, and fans who miss this game will certainly regret it.

Warren Stevens and George Hendry will take their senior hockey team over to Niagara Falls today, but it's not a honeymoon; they are going to give battle to the powerful Cataract squad, who are O.H.A. champions. Gene Fraser has most of last year's team back in harness again, and from their form to date they are going to take a lot of beating before they are counted out of the championship contention. The Varsity pucksters have been running in tough luck; Kitchener ran in two fast goals that caught the boys entirely unawares, and of course spelled defeat. The Blue team have been showing a marked improvement in their goal scoring ability, and are just about due. It might not be tonight; at that it wouldn't surprise us, but it is going to be soon.

ST. HILDA'S WIN IN BASKETBALL VOLLEYBALL VICTORY GOES TO SR. MEDS

Ahead of St. Mike's Team in Shooting and Defence

DECISIVE SCORE

St. Hilda's basketball team defeated St. Mike's last night at O.C.E. by the decisive score of 35 to 10. St. Hilda's exhibited the quality of play expected from them, and proved superior in their shooting, passing and defence.

E. Ardagh and M. L. Carr more than justified their positions, totalling twenty-seven points of the score between them. The guard line gave plenty of support, and most of the play was under the St. Hilda's basket.

R. McCullough turned in a fine game for St. Mike's and was the outstanding player on the floor. In general St. Hilda's defense proved too strong for the forward line so that the opportunities for scoring were not any too frequent.

At half time the score stood at 25 to 3, which indicates that the first period was much more to the advantage of the winners than the last. St. Mike's fought hard in a losing game. St. Hilda's — M. L. Carr (13), E. Ardagh (14), M. Rose (8), K. Grubbe, A. Butler, E. Palmer, M. Lambie. St. Mike's — R. McCullough (6), B. Shanahan, H. Darte, C. Dunn (4), M. Vining, P. Callen, A. Gordon, M. McConvey.

Referee — Phil Griffiths.

U.C. LOSE TO VIC IN SPEEDY GAME

K. Brown Played Well for Jrs.
Vic Had Surer
Team

Senior Victoria women's basketball team won in their group last night when they defeated University College by a 40 to 19 score.

The game was fast and both teams made effective use of the six-man defence play. Vic outplayed the U.C. team and retained possession of the ball the greater part of the time. K. Brown, playing for U.C., made several excellent baskets and usually scored on her shots. The junior team put up stronger opposition during the second period, beginning with a score of 25 to 7 against them, counting more points for themselves and preventing many for their opponents.

B. Longley starred for the Scarlet and Gold team and played good basketball. Her floor work was fast, smooth and sure, and she was definitely "on" her shots. M. Bernhardt and G. Becker on defence managed to break up U.C.'s passes and combinations time after time and return the ball to their forward line.

Vic Seniors — B. Longley (16), M. Curistan (9), H. Smith (15), M. Bernhardt, P. Palmer, G. Becker, J. Feinton, J. Harley, M. Rolls.

U.C. Juniors — J. Robertson (2), G. St. Aubin (6), K. Brown (11), M. Shaw, H. McGarry, F. Harkness, J. Snider.

Referee — Phil Griffiths.

DENTAL STUNT NIGHT

Noctem Cuckoo, the annual Dental Stunt Night and informal dance, will be held in Hart House this evening. Preceding the dance and in addition to the skits there will be an exhibition of fancy diving and a game of water polo. In former years this "party" has attracted huge crowds, and it is expected that the event will be equally popular this year.

last week in January. However, the team goes for a preparatory trip through northern New York State. The trip starts December 15 and the teams played will be Niagara U., University of Buffalo, Syracuse U., Hartwick College in Oneida, N.Y., Alfred U., and Cornell. Arrangements are being made for a trip to Rochester on January 20.

Coaches Hayman and McCutcheon have cut the three squads down to workable size but as yet no man is definitely on any team. Any player who has not yet turned out for a team is asked to turn out some night next week between five and six o'clock.

Sniderman, Gold and McCallum of last year's team are all back and playing defence positions. Red Gordon of West End Y, and Bill Bodrug of Central will team up with Hal Collins for the forward positions. Mo Mitchell and Ben Caplan who has played senior will alternate at centre while Normie Newman of the junior squad is a strong contender for the forward line.

Appelbaum, Skello, Hennessy, Levy, Prince, Himel and Henderson of last year's intermediates are out for the senior B team this year. Willis, who played Big Five, Bill Young of Assumption College and Gibson from Danforth Y are also players who have plenty of experience and are trying for the second team. Magwood and Rutledge are trying to move up from junior company, while Vanderlick, Harlock, Ronson, and Mallott have only played high school or interfaculty basketball.

Gladish, Toole, Rolls and Mullan are again playing junior basketball this year. C. A. Miller played with West End Y, while Zarsky and Krakauer have had interfaculty experience. The old rivals, U.T.S. and Pickering, have sent up seven players, namely, Kinsey, Greengrass, Stewart, Stronach, Doan and Davidson. Miller, Pollen, Mitchell and Cooper come from various high schools throughout the province.

STUDENTS INCREASE IN INTELLIGENCE?

of the third and fourth years but not a few from first, some of whom, despite heavy courses, have read consistently since the beginning of the term. Second year is too much occupied with more important matters. Miss Ray found that students make a habit of reading, that is, they read either too much or too little.

The university library has no such equipment and one of the librarians was of the opinion that students on the whole do very little outside reading, and that this was to be evidenced in the styles of several would-be writers about the campus who have things to say but don't know how to say them.

Perhaps the depression offers a solution to this increased reading, — in order to refrain from reaching out for the telephone the student may pin his hands more firmly to an overwhelming work of D. H. Lawrence, and forget for a time the sweet voice that might have said yes to the suggestion of a show.

The public library is very popular and to visit the book department of Eaton's College St. is invariably to discover one or more students loitering among the counters, some to buy, more to leaf the pages of their favourite heroes of the journalistic world.

MOUNT ALLISON LECTURE

Sackville, N.B. (C.F.P.) — The present economic situation, says Professor McKel of the University of Mount Allison here, is not the fault of the engineer, but owes its existence to our failure in our social and economic life, to keep pace with the advances of science.

In an interesting sketch of the history of engineering from its earliest beginnings, and through the Roman, Greek and Christian eras, Professor McKel brought out many points of interest. The ancient Chinese pagodas for instance, were built on the same principles as the modern skyscrapers, and Athens brought water by viaduct from distant hills as early as 3000 B.C.

During the Dark Ages science, both pure and applied, was at a standstill. After the Industrial Revolution, engineering began to be split up into its respective branches, a change which brought with it specialisation to an extreme degree. The view today is toward a more general education, it is considered that a too highly specialised training only leads to more unemployment.

JOURNEY TO MOON 2 MILES A SECOND

baffling problems of the universe. Dr. M. P. Millman, a new member of the staff of the Astronomy Department, gave a very interesting address on the work of the observatory at Harvard. He graduated from Toronto in 1929 and for the last four years has been doing graduate work at Harvard.

Considering the recent Leonid meteors it is rather interesting to know that this observatory was started as a result of the shower of 1833. This display was so sensational that public interest was aroused in astronomy for the first time and sufficient funds were raised to start this work. As a result Harvard has the finest collection of photographs of the sky in the world and astronomers from all parts come there for reference.

Harvard has established a great many observation stations in different parts of the world. They have observers in South Africa and formerly in Peru. Their combined results have led to many valuable discoveries.

The people of Cambridge, Mass., are very interested in the work and as a result the staff worked out a novel scheme to raise funds for unemployment relief. For five successive nights slides were shown and experiments performed for the amusement and edification of the public. Ever so often an open night is held at the observatory and these are so popular that admission can be obtained by invitation only.

ART OF EGYPTIAN IS CRITICISED

the history of art as proceeding in a meteor-like straight line; he regards it rather as a bomb exploding in all directions. Variations in form are largely determined by the feeling for Nature in the different periods and this feeling connects up with the general culture of a people. Thus the essential difference between an Egyptian sculptor and the excessively representational treatment of his modern successor is not lack of skill but lack of will.

The weakness of Egyptian art is inherent in Egyptian civilisation which is an oasis civilisation. For the Egyptian, organic life was something to be painfully preserved and engineered by technique, and this technique is the keynote of Egyptian civilisation and art. Mr. MacCallum, by denuding the Pyramids, the Sphinx, the Museum of Souls, the Hieroglyphics and the great temples of their romantic mystery, revealed their inherent superficiality and showed Egyptian art to be merely a technical achievement and its culture to be coldly over-civilised.

St. Thomas' Church

The Male Chorus have been requested to repeat Dr. Albert Ham's four-part setting of "I heard the voice of Jesus". Master Richard Freeman will be heard singing Sir Sterndale Bennett's "O Lord, Thou hast searched me out". The Rev. C. J. S. Stuart will give a short message, and another of these long established broadcasts will conclude with Robert's "Seek ye the Lord".

Conservatory Quartet

The second concert of the Conservatory String Quartet series was given last night in the Conservatory Concert Hall. The programme opened with the Elgar Quartet in E Minor, a work which is not especially interesting in spite of much strong writing. Unfortunately, the playing of the first movement contained much rather jagged work. The tone qualities of this quartet are rarely very satisfying. Yet it is difficult to say much in adverse criticism; the instruments blend well, and the effect is mellow and warm. Perhaps the clear, perfect tone one looks for in the good string quartet will come in time, though the quietness of these scholarly musicians suggests that they have obtained just about what they sought. The second movement, the Pinevale, is very poignant indeed, and was beautifully played. It is the sort of work in which the Conservatory Quartet excels.

The suite The Pixy-Ring by Waldo Warner, is a delicate but not particularly impressive composition, and was played with much charm. A palm should be awarded Mr. Smith for his lovely 'cello playing, here, as always, most delightful. Finally came the Quartet for Piano and Strings in C Minor of Mozart. Miss Margaret Parsons supplied the piano part. She played unobtrusively, but, in spite of occasional lapses, deftly and charmingly. N.F.L.

The Royal Alexandra

One of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences of the year tended a great ovation to Cornelia Otis Skinner at the Royal Alexandra Theatre last night. It was an evening long to be remembered. Joint meeting of the W.U.A. and the U.C. Literary and Athletic Society will be held on Tuesday, November 28th at 8 p.m. in the Women's Union. Debate, play, dancing, refreshments. Subject of debate: "Resolved that the emergence of women from the home is a depressing feature of modern life."

unsupported, her performance never for a moment flagged.

The programme was divided into two parts: the first a series of character sketches, The Eve of Departure, Hotel Porch, Homework and In a Telephone Booth; the second, six dramatic sequences, The Wives of Henry VIII.

The first and third sketches of the first group were primarily amusing, one depicting an American woman in a Paris hotel packing to catch the boat, the other a Philadelphia matron helping Junior with an arithmetic problem. The other two were more serious—a retort to an old woman at a summer hotel, discussing the "newest arrival" and admonishing her daughter (who is also nurse and personal slave), and a New York stenographer "in trouble" and almost breaking down under it. The second group, of course, were dramatic characterisations of Henry's six wives.

The various characterisations were so utterly different that it is impossible to pick out any one as superior to the others. If forced to make a choice, I think I should pick that of Queen Katheryn (Howard) in which she meets her lover, and is surprised by Archbishop Cranmer. In one sense the most effective was the last, representing Katherine Parr by the bed-side of Henry as he dies. Here, more than in any of the others except possibly the Kathryn Howard scene, Miss Skinner succeeded in conjuring up the scene about her—you could almost imagine you saw Henry lying there upon a bed.

It is this, undoubtedly, which is Miss Skinner's great achievement—at that when she makes her entrance the bare stage—with back-drops for walls and just one or two pieces of furniture—becomes at once a place, peopled by characters which she creates. This in spite of the fact that in no one sketch did she impersonate more than one character. The rest purely eruates of the imagination—hers and the audience's.

As I have said, the strain upon her must be terrific. But upon the audience it is also great. Never once is your attention allowed to wander, nor is there anything on the stage to draw your eye from the one central figure. Yet you cannot help creating for yourself the shadows of those who are supposed to be there also. I don't suppose any other dramatic form could succeed in keeping an audience so mentally alert.

It is almost to be regretted that Miss Skinner sees fit to devote herself to this particular form, for the contemporary stage is crying aloud for actresses of her superb and varied genius. No play could be a failure with her in the leading role, and I can scarcely think of any of the great roles but would gain by her interpretation of them. The only justification, of course, for what she is doing is the magnificent manner in which she does it—and perhaps that is justification enough.

Tonight and Saturday afternoon Miss Skinner will present The Loves of Charles II and Saturday evening, The Empress Eugenie, preceded in each case by a group of individual character sketches.

and bombs dropped from the air which will not only blow up a city but will also set it on fire. One of the most devastating effects of modern warfare is the continual strain on the nerves of incessant bombardment.

"England today," the speaker said, "is in a very anomalous position. She allows—in fact, licenses—munition companies to export arms from her shores and yet at Geneva she attempts to preserve world peace. It is a well-known fact, of course, that these munition companies are very powerful and often pay newspapers to support their cause. I would commend a reading of Bernard Shaw's 'What I Really Wrote About the War' as a revelation of facts regarding the last world struggle."

Professor Innis stated that he could find no indications of brilliance or understanding in the literature that is being poured forth in books and through the Canadian press on the problem presented by the present depression. There are no signs, judging by the quality of these writings, that people today would face the menace of war in any different manner than did the last generation.

"In Canada there is little appreciation of the real problems of state," he said. All emotions which might make for a strong national stand in regard to war are dissipated in internationalism and regionalism. Internationalism is a delusion and a snare which leads us away from facing our own problems. It varies in direct proportion with our inability to face our domestic dilemmas. So far we have swung back and forth in our affections between the United States, the League of Nations and the Empire. We even imported "medicine men" from across the border and over the seas to solve our national riddles for us, riddles which we should be working out for ourselves. Regionalism is a corollary of internationalism and leads to no end of "pork barrel" legislation and continual straining of the bonds of union.

"The attempt to abolish war is the greatest revolution in history," the speaker concluded. "If Canada is to take part in that revolution, she must first put her own house in order. In the reconstruction the economist must play a leading role. This is essential since the problem of war cannot be solved by talk. Resolutions are not enough in this crusade."

KNOX ADVANCES TO SOCCER FINALS DEFEATING VIC ON ROUND BY 3-2

Fighting Vic Eleven is Held

Game

BOTH GOALIES KEPT BUSY

Knox Gain Advantage in First Half and Offset Desperate
Vic Rally

Turning in a splendid display of team play both on the offensive and defensive, the Knox soccer team held a fighting Victoria eleven to a 1-1 tie in the final round of the interfaculty soccer semi-finals, played on Friday on the front campus. The game, which probably was the most thrilling soccer clash of the year, sent Knox into the finals with Pharmacy, as the former had defeated Victoria 2-1 in their first encounter and therefore captured the round 3-2.

Knox pressed hard from the opening whistle and wave upon wave of purple and white attackers advanced on Vic's goal only to be thwarted by the sterling resistance of Dyke, who was kept on his toes throughout the first period. Play was confined almost entirely to the Vic end of the field as the Scarlet and Gold team showed a weakness in breaking up the smooth team play on the part of their opponents. Midway through the period Cuthbertson, the spear-head of the purple and white attack, netted a beautiful kick from a scramble in front of the Vic net. Knox continued to dominate the play for the rest of the first (Continued on Page 3)

DEBATERS UPHOLD PULPIT'S INFLUENCE

Wycliffe Literary Society Decides Against Press

TAYLOR TROPHY SERIES

The first debate for the Taylor Trophy resulted in the defeat of the motion, "That the press exerts a greater influence for good than the pulpit", on the vote of the three judges and the house at the regular meeting of the Wycliffe College Literary Society on Friday night.

Mr. Hills, the leader of the affirmative, asserted that the pulpit could be dispensed with and that the press was gaining influence steadily whereas the pulpit was losing. He pointed to the fact that clergy were turning more and more to the press for the purpose of propaganda. He further stated that the preacher is at the mercy of every anemoid and tonil he possesses, but the press is not dependent upon such human frailties. He closed by quoting Lord Roscherry as saying "that the press was a mighty Niagara".

Mr. Sorenson opposed the motion on the grounds that the press made for international discord and pointed to the sinister influence of armament trusts upon the press. He then showed how the press is an evil influence in national affairs—distorting truth for the sake of political gain. It misleads the individual and "places before him more vividly the problems of Tillie (Continued on Page 2)

U.C. LIT. FOUNDED EIGHTY YEARS AGO

Arrangements Being Made for Celebration of Anniversary

ADAM CROOKS FIRST HEAD

This year the University College Literary and Athletic Society celebrates its eightieth anniversary. The society was founded on February 22, 1854, with the late Honourable Adam Crooks as president. Until about the turn of the century, students of the Faculties of Medicine and Practical Science were eligible as members as well as those in Arts. Eventually the society became the official organization of the male undergraduates of University College only.

An historical sketch of the society from its inception in 1854 to the present time will be published in The Undergraduate, the official University College magazine, which is to be issued on the day of the anniversary, February 22, 1934.

In the afternoon of this day there will be a meeting of the Parliamentary Club, to which all graduate members are to be invited. Later a dinner will be served in the Great Hall in Hart House at which possibly Sir William Mulock and Dr. H. J. Cody will speak. In the evening there will be a regular meeting of the society in the common room, for which some prominent speaker will be obtained. Many of the former officers of the society are expected to participate in the celebrations and all former members are invited.

These arrangements are as yet tentative, being subject to the approval of the society as a whole at its next (Continued on Page 4)

NEWMAN CLUB HEARS OR. P. J. MALONEY

On Sunday afternoon, Dr. P. J. Maloney of the University of Toronto gave a most interesting and educational address to some two hundred and fifty members of Newman Club, both undergraduates and alumni.

The subject of his address was "The Spontaneous Generation of Life", stressing particularly the history concerning the development of ideas in regard to the experiments conducted by such men as Leuwenhoek, Kircher, Needham, Spallanzani, Pasteur and others. He showed the relationship of the work of these men to scientific studies conducted at the present time in regard to modern methods of bacteriology. Professor MacDougall of the History Department, in introducing Dr. Maloney, gave a short but excellent comment on the pseudo-conflict between science and religion.

Following these speeches was a brief talk by Dr. Coady, head of the Extension Department of the University of St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Dr. Coady is giving a series of lectures in various cities throughout Canada, on Sunday afternoon speaking to the Knights of Columbus of this city.

Sir Arthur's Condition Described as Critical Pneumonia Has Set In

The condition of Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, who is fighting for recovery from a dangerous illness, was described by an official bulletin last night as "critical". A bulletin issued earlier in the day reported that pneumonia had set in.

Sir Arthur was first stricken on Nov. 7th and has since then suffered several setbacks followed by minor rallies. Bronchitis appeared about a week ago but was thought by his doctors to be clearing up on Friday.

INSECTS THREATEN CANADIAN FORESTS

Attempt to Control Pests Discontinued Because of Depression

FORESTERS' CLUB LECTURE

"Forest entomology is considered of much greater importance in the European universities than in Canada where it plays only a minor part in the curriculum," said Dr. Swaine of the Dominion Entomological Bureau in an address to the Foresters' Club Thursday afternoon.

Direct control of insect pests is achieved either by cutting or burning the infested areas or by means of aeroplane "dust", a method which is very popular in Germany. In Canada, the dust is calcium arsenate, and this method has been fairly successful in certain regions, notably in the extermination of the spruce budworm in the Maritimes, but has had to be discontinued during the present depression years, owing to the high working cost, which is anything up to $6.00 per acre.

Dr. Swaine then said a few words on indirect control, achieved by introducing the parasites of the insects to reduce their number, the method which is being used to fight the European sawfly, which, established in the Gaspé peninsula is now threatening the whole of Eastern Canada.

GOALIES OUTSTANDING

Warren Stevens' blue-clad hockey warriors went down to defeat at the hands of the Niagara Falls Cataracts by a 5-1 score in Niagara Falls on Friday night and in so doing, met their fourth straight defeat in the O.H.A. schedule.

For the greater part of the game the Cataracts were able to dictate on their own terms except in the initial stages when the students held their own decisively and kept their hosts in check. The first period went scoreless due to the lack of scoring punch on the part of the Blues and the inability of the Falls' team to approach their opponents' net.

Early in the second period a combined attack by Mancuso and Hastie managed to drive the puck past Shipin in the Varsity goal and from then on (Continued on Page 3)

The opening of the Y.M.C.A. Senior Basketball League at Broadview Y on Saturday night was the occasion of Varsity's Senior B cagers' first victory of the 1933-34 season as the Broadview Y five was sent down to a 24-21 defeat. The game was fast and thrilling, numerous plays bringing bursts of applause as both teams displayed well-drilled team work.

Showing a lot of speed and colour, the Blue quintet went to work after the initial toss up, dominating the play generally and showing to good advantage. Levy opened the scoring and (Continued on Page 3)

That Canada occupies a singularly strategic position between the opposing forces of the east and west, was emphatically stated by Mr. Arthur Lismar in his Friday afternoon talk at the Art Gallery. (Special to "The Varsity")

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 24. — The province-wide search for the famous Manitoba "Runic" stone, which mysteriously disappeared from its resting place on a farm at Gimli, a week ago, was brought to a dramatic close late yesterday afternoon when four members of The Manitoban staff found the stone buried in the snow in West Kildonan.

Guided by a cryptic and anonymous telephone message, John C. Birt, editor, The Manitoban, and three reporters, sped in a staff car to a spot marked by two poplar poles where they found the missing half of the stone, upon whose face were carved the alleged hieroglyphics that have aroused the interest of Canadian geologists and historians.

DENTAL STUNT NIGHT PROVES HUGE SUCCESS

Dentists Evening Made Perfect by Double Victory in Polo, Basketball

Last Friday night the halls of Hart House reverberated to the shouts and laughs of embryo Dentists and their friends as the annual Dental Stunt Night, Nectene Cuckoo, once again passed into history. The big gym and west common room were packed with happy couples dancing to the music of Karl Mueller and his Varsity Entertainers.

Two skits were presented, one by the senior years and one by the junior. The former, called "Blackouts", a drama of the south which supplied the audience with plenty of laughs, won the cup presented for annual competition.

In the pool Dents defeated University College in an exhibition water polo game, while at half-time a diving exhibition took place. In the upper gym the Dentists entertained Senior Meds at basketball, and triumphed again to make their evening perfect.

The patronesses of the evening were Mrs. W. Secombe, Mrs. C. Corrigan and Mrs. J. Johnston.

SECONO GAME NECESSARY

Vic Cains 2-0 Lead at Halftime, but Fade in Last Quarter

Eighty minutes of gruelling rugby played over a greasy, treacherous field, failed to determine this year's holder of the Mulock Cup and to decide the interfaculty rugby championship, when the School of Practical Science and Victoria College met in a sudden-death game on Friday afternoon at the Stadium and battled to a 2-2 tie in spite of twenty minutes overtime. A second game will be necessary to decide the title.

In spite of the thin snow that beat down from the north and greatly handicapped the outsiders in their tackling, there were very few fumbles. The strong School line was ineffective against the Scarlet and Gold front, the latter team plunging for yards seven times as compared to three times for S.P.S. Only once, in the last period, the Vic line went to pieces to let the S schoolmen race down the field, but it tightened again to let the Scarlet and Gold men do the same thing. The catching and running of Diehl and Bridgland in the opposing backfields, was the sensation of the game. Bridgland's long hoists were counteracted by the broken-field running of Pratt and Diehl for Victoria as well as the fine plunging and tackling of Barry on the half line. Webber, Doughty and Baker were School's outstanding plungers.

Play centred in Vic's territory for the first quarter due to Bridgland's kicking, in spite of the wind. Two downs and a kick was the School play, Victoria kicking on the first down. There was no score until the second quarter. Pratt paved the way for Vic's first point by taking Bridgland's (Continued on Page 3)

Inconsequence

TO THE FORGOTTEN MEN

Returning home from a party at Hart House the other morning after having driven our lady away down to the east end of town, we noticed that the lights in that building were still burning. Next morning the house had been transformed from the gaily lighted, colourfully decorated fantasy of the night before. Gone were the coloured lights, paper streamers, punch bowls, spotlights, etc. Here and there a workman was sweeping up bits of paper, but in the short time between the closing notes of the orchestra and the coming of dawn the whole group of men who look after the house had sweated to clean it up.

This happens after every party and we feel that it is time to congratulate the men on their fine work. Whether it is necessary that they should have to stay up all night and clean up, rather than do it next day, we do not know. Whether the students would demand it if they knew that it meant working for twenty-four hours or more we do not know, but we think that, insofar as decorations are put up during the daytime without causing undue inconvenience to the house members, they might just as easily be taken down during the daytime.

There is another thing to be considered and that is that the men who do the work may do it gladly with the hope of augmenting their pay by a little overtime work. If that is the case we are sorry we spoke, because it may hurt those for whom a kind regard prompted us to write this article. C.W.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

No scientific invention of recent times has produced more amateur political theory than has the radio. Its possibilities for good or evil have seized the imaginations of sociologically minded people to an extraordinary extent. The moving picture is recognised as an even more formidable instrument, but it is too complicated for glib theorising. On the other hand the radio is so intimate and seems so simple that almost anyone can express an opinion about it. In Canada, especially, the interest in radio nationalisation has called forth an astonishing number of pronouncements, which deal with the alleged tendencies in the American broadcasting world, the undesirability of much radio advertising, and many subjects bearing on the proper conduct of that omnipotent custodian of public taste, the Radio Broadcasting Commission. And in the last few weeks we have also heard some uneasy discussion of the relation of politics to this new national acquisition.

All this may be very interesting and very important. Students of social science and economics will doubtless find much in the present state of affairs to occupy their thoughts. But the situation is not so disturbing or so deplorable that a man cannot sit down and enjoy his radio. The primary function of the instrument is to produce sounds when correctly operated, and the sociological or constitutional aspects of the matter are a different thing altogether. The most interesting question to be asked of people right now is not what they think of radio, but whether they make good use of it.

The radio is no longer a mere musical novelty. What it actually does, however imperfect its management may still be, is extend the scope of everybody's concert attendance. A student's enjoyment of music is not dependent simply on his pocket-book or the vagaries of the local concert season, but on what is available by means of his own or his neighbour's radio. At the present time, this is a pretty wide range. Those who care about performances of cosmopolitan interest may hear the New York Philharmonic Orchestra every Sunday afternoon. How many grasp this opportunity? The Philadelphia Orchestra is on the air several times a week. In previous years the Metropolitan Opera Company has been broadcast at regular intervals, and presumably this will again be the case when that brief season finally opens. And these are only the most outstanding of radio events which have genuine musical importance.

These things may be had for the asking by all who possess radios. But there is an additional point to be noted: what provision on this score is made for students who live in residence, or near the University? Surely all suitable University institutions should have the means of satisfying the musical appetites of interested students. If a real need of this kind is felt, cannot something be done to meet it?

DEBATERS UPHOLD PULPIT'S INFLUENCE

the Toiler rather than the plight of the toilers."

Mr. Burch contended that the press was the greatest means for the propagation of any faith and pointed to the fact that the secular press was giving more space to religious problems than previously. He pointed to The Globe's mid-week "religious" editorial which was replete with quotations from Holy Writ. He pointed out that the pulpit was not free to expose evil and pointed to Hush as a champion of truth.

Mr. Metcalfe stated that if the press was a Niagara his opponents had provided the radio. The scriptural quotations of a newspaper he characterised as "eyewash"; "a sweet coating to the bitter poison", and was reminded that "the devil can quote Scripture for his purpose". He pointed to the radio as extending the pulpit and giving it a greater hearing than ever before.

Mr. Hills, in rebuttal, claimed that R. E. Knowles had been spoiled as a journalist by his previous connection with the pulpit.

"MANITOBA" REPORTERS RECOVER "RUNIC" STONE

ment of Geology in the University of Manitoba, who examined the strangely marked stone immediately upon its recovery by The Manitoban, blasted the theory that it might be a relic of Norse stone writing, pointing to a Viking exploration of Manitoba at least a century before Columbus, by declaring that the markings had merely been made by wind, frost, rain and heat, and not by the hand of man. According to Professor Kirk, the relief is of dolomite, a kind of slime stone, brought to Sandy Hook in prehistoric times by a glacier and inscriptions written into limestone are rarely legible after six hundred years.

Local authorities are at a loss to explain the mysterious phone call to The Manitoban office that informed the staff of the stone's hiding place. Little credence is given to the suspicion that students were involved in the theft a week ago. A report here indicates that Toronto authorities are anxious to ascertain for themselves whether or not the stone is an authentic Norse relic and that it may soon be shipped east.

Friday Afternoon Recital

The Friday afternoon recital in the Music Room of Hart House consisted of an extremely varied group of Mozart compositions ranging from profound secular excerpts to extremely delicate and fascinating thoughts written for piano recitation.

Enid Gray, soprano, and Edward H. Maughan, were the artists for the Mozart series, the former being accompanied by Weldon Kilburn. Mr. Maughan opened the programme with the Fantasia in D Minor which was followed by the Sonata in E Flat.

Miss Gray, whose voice and personality blend to give the listener something of a pleasing impression, sang two Arias from Don Giovanni, which proceed with a formal seriousness and expressive character, depicting genuine emotion and feeling. The solemn nature of the Agnus Dei from the Coronation Mass, makes a marked influence in its majestic expansions to the upper levels of variations with intricate accompaniment and in its descending, which is prognostic of a return to the original theme. The Alla breve, from Exultate, lost much of its intended effect since the soprano lead was not framed by a background of voices which give the portrayal of the part as it was meant.

Mr. Maughan rendered the Sonata in A Major, a moody series of movements rich in colour and thought. Mozart's capacity for composing is clearly displayed throughout all of the movements of it by the cleverly woven systems of themes producing a plain but pleasing texture. The Alla Turca, for instance, is a portly construction of notes which exude beautiful melody without losing its stately manner.

Although some of Mozart's work lacks characteristics of design and artistry necessary to produce interest the programme was comprised of some of the most popular and appreciated of his entire writings.

CARICATURES' EXHIBITION

The Sketch Room Committee has been lucky to secure for ten days, the loan of some fifteen lithographs by E. X. Kapp, well-known English caricaturist. Many of the works shown have been done at the Disarmament Conference, and have thus a double interest; however, I must add that Mr. Kapp does not need to back up his themes or subjects with anything but his own ability. Coming to his exhibit, which is in the Print Room, one has to go first through J. Russell's show that is characterised by a wonderful technique, most often unaccompanied by any great emotion or power—except in a few portraits and the still-life near the chimney. Mr. Kapp, too, has a fine technique, a remarkable one indeed, when one looks at the study called "La Chate". In addition, however, he has an intense emotion, his likes and dislikes are expressed forcefully, and his irony can be cruel. Born in England in 1890, Ed. Xavier Kapp went through the war and after his studies and talent as a caricaturist was soon noticed as his cartoons were published by such magazines as the Observer, the Graphic, the Sphere and even by the Manchester Guardian. This period has certainly influenced him for in some of the exhibited lithographs we can detect some sort of a journalistic style. In 1922 Kapp had his first exhibition and since he has published many of his sketches and caricatures, whose humour is very personal, though largely British.

The Disarmament Conference review includes two women,—French and Spanish delegates,—who, somehow, symbolise the ideal side of such a gathering, though disillusion, as well as a deep sadness is on the face of Mme. Potin, while the Senorita de Palencia does not forget that she is a woman and an aristocrat. Next to them is the Little Napoleon of Austria.

How the Periodical Salesman Got His Epidermis

It happened in the course of the high and far-off times, when periodicals first began to feel the keen edge of the depression and their subscription lists, and the university student found that B.A.'s were a drug on the market. Then the subscription manager met the graduate and they both said, "You are just the person I'm looking for."

At the end of the week the graduate went to the manager and said, "What am I to do? They don't want your magazine."

And the manager, who was a kindly man, did not dismiss him on the spot for impertinence, but merely said, "Go away and find out."

So the graduate called on a friend of his who made her living selling powder puffs to business executives. And the friend said helpfully, "You see, it's like this. You stand so—and you look down mournfully, so—and you allow your lower lip to tremble bravely, so—(this was in the high and far-off times). And he buys it!"

And the graduate tried this out on his next prospect. And he was heaved downstairs immediately and successfully. So, he sought another friend.

This friend had earned his living selling patent collar buttons to housewives. He laughed loud and long when the graduate presented his pitiful case. Then he said condescendingly, "Listen to me. You bow gracefully, 'Madam'—and you whip out your sample. I mean your magazine, as you come up from the bow and say, 'Mrs. Robertson, how does this new one look for these Christmas presents. And she has recommended me to you.' Finally she buys them."

Anyone but a B.A. would have known he shouldn't try that on a man customer. So the graduate got thrown out again.

With the Theatres

Loew's—

Loew's feature presentation this week, The Chief, starring Ed Wynn of radio fame, will appeal considerably more to those in the audience who have followed his antics on the air. To anyone, however, with a sense of humour for pure unadulterated nonsense, The Chief will provide an evening of rare amusement. "The silliest man in America" is provided with a fairly adequate vehicle for his gags in this picture, although the poignant scenes toward the close of the play might well have been left out. "Chief" Sale, of Specialist fame, does a neat job of the eccentric old uncle, and the rest of the cast is well rounded out.

Shea's—

Lillian Harvey has scored another success in My Lips Betray, playing at Shea's this week. She is as beautiful and piquant as ever, and except when she tries to sing her performance is thoroughly enjoyable. There is a strong supporting cast, headed by John Boles and an old favourite, El Brendel. The stage presentations are uniformly poor. About the best to be said for any of them is that the roller skating act at closing was, at any rate, clean. It's the picture which makes the show worth seeing.

MULOCK CUP FINALISTS TIE; SECOND GAME THURSDAY

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

With the completion of the inter-faculty basketball schedule, we enter the realm of playoffs and sudden-death games. On Friday night Vic Juniors vanquished School of Nursing when they met in a postponed game, with the result that they are now tangled up in a three-cornered tie with U.C. Seniors. Tonight the Scarlet and Gold Juniors encounter the Nurses again to decide who will meet U.C. Seniors, who drew the bye. The game will be played at the Lillian Massey gym at five o'clock, the winners to meet U.C. in the deciding game of the group, probably on Wednesday.

In the second group St. Hilda's and St. Mike's battled to an even finish. At the moment, they are jointly sharing the honours of first place—a matter which will be remedied by a sudden death game early this week. It is impossible to predict a winner—both are fighting with all they have of basketball powers, and may the best team win!

In the other group, Vic Seniors romped through their schedule with very little difficulty to take their group title. They have a fast aggregation of accurate-shooting forwards and steady guards who will make things interesting in the semi-finals.

If you have neglected to give your support to date, come out now and cheer your team. You will see some real basketball and your players will appreciate a little backing.

PUCKSTERS LOSE FOURTH STRAIGHT

Only the Cataracts were unrepentable. The excellent work of the Blue goalie saved the count from rising above the final figure, while the Stevens' squad were only kept from scoring in the initial division by Cuthbert's sprawling manoeuvres. The score at the end of the second period stood at 1-0 for the Falls team.

In spite of the stubborn efforts of the Toronto forward line and the excellent defensive tactics of White and Campbell, the Cataracts drove in from all sides with incredible speed and lodged four tallies in the Blue net. Kaminsky scored on a solo effort which was quickly followed by a pass from Kaminsky to Kalbfleisch to make the count 3-0. Maneuso and Peterkin combined when they were well in the Toronto territory and in spite of the desperate efforts of Shipp Peterkin passed him for the fourth goal.

Then came one of those Varsity flashes that sent the Cataracts back on their heels and featured the entire game. Skating hard and furiously, MacPherson took a neat assist from Hendry to make the count 4-1 only to have Kaminsky score again with the Blue team off guard.

The game was clean and fast all through, with only minor penalties. Both goalies were outstanding. White, Hendry, Cunningham and McClelland were the pick of the Varsity team.

Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, White and Campbell; centre, McClelland; wings, McPherson and Hendry; subs, Cunningham, Fullerton, Rey, Wilbannon and McCartney.

Niagara Falls — Goal, Cuthbert; defence, Hoch and Kalbfleisch; centre, Kaminsky; wings, Lauron and Steele; subs, Peterkin, Hunter, Hastic and Maneuso.

Referee — J. Mitchell, Hamilton.

ATHLETIC AT-HOME OPEN TO STUDENTS, GRADUATES

Attendance is not limited to Athletes of the University

It is the desire of the Athletic Directorate to clear up a misunderstanding with regard to the allotment of tickets for the Athletic At-Home.

There are apparently some students and graduates who wish to attend this excellent dance and yet have been under the impression that only the first T-holders and rugby team were present. This is, however, quite contrary to the true purpose of the dance, which is given in honour of Varsity's athletes but students and graduates are invited to come and celebrate with them at this, the last party of the year.

This misrepresentation probably results from the good old days when Varsity sports and graduates besieged the athletic office for tickets and application lists were filled on the opening day. It was necessary to find some method of allotment and naturally for the athletic dance, athletic ability was chosen as the yardstick of measurement.

It has not been necessary during the depression years to apply this rule, but it will automatically swing into action again this year if applications are beyond capacity.

Barring athletic ability, priority of signature will be considered in the allotment.

SCHOOL OF NURSING DEFEATED BY VIC

In a very exciting basketball fixture on Friday night at O.C.E. gym, Victoria Juniors defeated School of Nursing with the score of 33-17. The sure shooting of the Vic forwards gave them the edge over the School of Nursing, although for a time in the last half the Nurses threatened Vic's lead. Both teams gave good exhibitions of team work. M. Cowan of Victoria led the scoring of the winners with nine baskets to her credit, while M. MacEachern scored five for the losers.

Vic Juniors (33) — Robb (4), Prior (7), Brobst (2), Cowan (20), Leavens, Thickson, Barton, Brown, O'Neill. School of Nursing (17) — MacEachern (10), Thom (2), Parker (5), Sparling, Smith, Horwood, Franks, McLaughlin.

kick on his own 35 yard line and going down the field to Schoofs 25. Bridgland's high tackle earned a rest on the sideline but saved a Victoria touchdown. Vaughan was able to kick to McNickoll, who was downed behind the line. Score, 1-0 for Victoria. A 20 yard extension play and two plunges again put the play on School's 15 yard line. A placement failed when Vic was called offside but Vaughan was able to kick to McNickoll who returned it to his 25 yard line. Colmer gained 15 yards and Vaughan kicked to the deadline. Score 2-0.

Play went to Vic's 30 yard line in the third quarter, when Vaughan's kick was blocked and Doughty kicked the ball out of touch. Another block later on gave S.P.S. their chance when they recovered on Vic's 37 yard line and Bridgland hoisted a long spiral to make the count 2-1.

Baker's plunging in the last frame put School in a scoring position once again when they got yards three times in a row. Bridgland's kick to the deadline put the count at 2-2. The Scarlet and Gold team made a remarkable recovery and swept down on the School line, but could not change the score. Through twenty hectic minutes of overtime, five each way, play saw-sawed back and forth and at no time was

By B. J. McGuire

Twenty more shopping days till Christmas and still they play football. S.P.S. and Victoria College will settle their differences with regard to the future location of the Mulock Cup, not on Wednesday as previously announced but on Thursday. On the dope it's anybody's game. Last Friday's 2-all draw was a good indication of the play, although McMillen's engineers were showing plenty of fight. Mack Pratt almost put the game on ice for the Scarlet and Gold squad when he sifted through the entire School team after receiving one of Bridgland's kicks. Bridgland, however, came back fast and caught him, throwing him with a headlock and a body slam in the record time of .03 seconds, and then was chased to the bench for his efforts.

The Engineers came through the struggle like the hardy boys they profess to be. Vic was not quite so fortunate. Two of their players were badly shaken up, much to the detriment of the team. Mack Pratt, who was running wild on the backfield, was hurt in the second quarter and was unable to continue. Vic never looked quite so good after that. Another of last year's champions to be hurt was Reid, the husky middle wing man. Reid was hit on the head going into the second half and knocked off his feet. However, he came right back and stayed in the game till the final whistle blew. What's funny about that? Well, yesterday Reid inquired when the playoff between School and Vic was scheduled to take place. He didn't remember anything at all about playing the game. Any person who can get knocked out and continue in such a game as that one was without any idea what is taking place, certainly has plenty of what it takes.

The O.A.C. football squad cinched the intercollegiate title in no uncertain manner when they smothered Loyola 38-1 in the final game at the Stadium on Saturday. The Aggies have a powerful line, a fleet backfield and a real kicker, which just about qualifies them as a real championship squad. In fact they looked just as good as any of the intercollegiate senior teams this season, and the seniors have been good. This is the second time in two years that Baldy Baldwin has rounded out a championship squad. A win next season on the intermediate group should qualify them for advancement into senior ranks. Hale, at middle, should catch a place on any all-star intercollegiate squad. Elliot, who does the kicking act for the Aggies, ranks with the best we've seen in action, his only fault being that he out-kicks his wings.

The opening doubleheader of the Y.M.C.A. senior basketball league furnished ample proof that Varsity has the necessary material to again make its presence felt in this line of sport. Being a sort of test game, as both Senior A and Senior B players were used, the result of Saturday night's contest was highly gratifying to Coach McCutcheon. However, a little practice in foul shooting seems to be in order as a decided weakness in this phase of the game was clearly shown in the fact that the Blue team sank only 6 out of 22 free throws. The team as a whole played very well but improvement is looked for in the displays turned in by some of the members of the team. Gold, of last year's senior squad, played far below form, as was evident in the fact that he was kept off the score sheet all night. Red Gordon, last year with West End Y, and Mitchell, both newcomers to the Blue teams, won their spurs in playing heads-up ball whenever on the floor.

No wonder the Varsity hockey team wear blue. After having a decided margin on the play in Niagara Falls on Friday night they suddenly blow up and the Cataracts romp through to a 5-1 victory. Against Kitchener they should have won easily but came off on the short end of a 4-2 score. In the game with Torontos they at least deserved a draw but again they lost. They looked weak against Tigers, the only team which has had any noticeable margin over them. Tonight they face the West Toronto Nationals at the Garden and if the big ice doesn't give them stage fright they are about due to chalk up a win.

This is the season when the M.M.M. & M. Chibmen (nit, matt, mugs, and muscle) stage their annual leap in, limp out parties in the boxing and wrestling rings. Meds are the first to put on their show, which takes place tonight. They have a full card of boxing and wrestling events which will certainly be interesting even if the scientific points of the game are omitted. A win tonight means a place on the faculty team for the junior interfaculty assault which takes place next week. Better drop in and see them in action, these boys mean business.

BLUE BASKETEERS

TRIM BROADVIEW

Varsity was never headed in the rest of the game, although on three occasions the Y team drew up on even terms. Varsity's plays continued to work well and half-time found the Blues in the lead 12-7.

The second half, except for the final three minutes of play, was a repetition of the first with play speeding up slightly. Varsity began to draw ahead towards the end of the period as the team finally found the range of the basket. As a result of this Broadview roughened the play up considerably and many fouls were handed out. The game ended with the Y team putting on a fierce offensive which was successfully field in check by the sterling Blue defence.

Although turning in a very creditable performance, Coach McCutcheon's charges showed a marked weakness in foul shooting. A total of twenty-two free shots were donated to the Blue cause, only six of which were scored. Broadview showed to much better advantage in this respect, sinking five out of fourteen free throws.

The feature of the game was the pleasing display put on by Levy of Toronto. Considered to be weak in checking, Levy proved this theory to be false as not one of his checks scored when he was on the floor. In addition to this he was the high scorer of the evening, getting a total of twelve points. The fighting qualities of "Red" Gordon's play were a treat to watch. Himel and Gold were strong defensively but the latter had a decided off-night on the offensive.

Broadview floored a fast team which however, couldn't cope with the Blue defence. Patterson and R. Mitchell were the best for the losers, the latter sinking two long shots and a free throw in the final minute of play to keep interest in the game alive right up to the final whistle.

Varsity — Himel 4, Gold, Young, Levy 12, Gordon 4, Harlock, Ronson, Mitchell 4, and Vanderlick. Broadview Y — C. Mitchell, Patterson 5, Breathe 1, Wolfe 1, Morgan 1, R. Mitchell 5, Gard 2, Weldon 2, MacLeod, and Marriot 4.

half, completely outclassing the opposition and half-time found them in the lead 1-0 on the game and 3-1 on the road.

The second half saw a decided reversal of form on the part of the Vic eleven. They pressed hard right from the start and were rewarded when Rawlinson netted a kick from a scramble which followed a corner kick. The Knox team, however, soon rose to the occasion and put on a perfect defensive display which kept the opposition off the score sheet but did not spoil the pleasing qualities of the game. Play swept from one end of the field to the other, both goalies making smart saves whenever called upon to defend their domains.

The features of the game were the attacks of Cuthbertson and the defensive ability of Jack, both on the Knox team. The latter was the best man on the field. McCullough also turned in a nice effort for Knox. Dykes, Grills, and Taylor were the best for Victoria.

SAYS CANADA HAS STRATEGIC POSITION

these continents permeate the world of art. The objective point of view consists of the idea that everything is related to man, that things are beautiful, in proportion . . . because man is beautiful, in proportion . . . In the west, it took the form of accuracy—an aspect challenged in modern times by the rapid development of photography. On the other hand, the easterner in painting a portrait, creates a symbol and adds serenity to the face, and dignity and poise to the body. That the desire for accuracy was not always prevalent in the west, is proved by the work of such men as Claude and Poussin—men who painted not what they actually saw, but what they thought life should be—tender and perfect. This, however, gave way to the Victorian era where painting developed into an "art to conceal art". Its painters took great pride in their ability to hide the intricacies of their technique, and made no healthy attempt to transfer to canvas their subject in all its literal beauty.

According to Mr. Lismer, after a lengthy period of indecision as to which attitude to adopt, Canadian artists are tending more towards the subjective mode for "if a man were a really great artist he would necessarily subject himself to what he saw". As a proof of this statement, he cited the distinctive character of the work of such men as Lawren Harris and Emily Carr. "There is a certain truth in Mussolini's saying—if you cannot find anything good to say of the government, don't say anything at all!" Mr. Lismer concluded, "and it may also be applied to Canadian art which is only in its early stages and not yet ready for judgment."

Another reason is a general one; the game should be played for the sake of the game and healthful recreation. I do think we are carrying this championship craze too far—especially when we bring teams from the coast to play for the "Grand final championship"—teams which are not in the class of any of our senior teams.

I am sure this letter will be read in the spirit in which it is written; namely, in the interests of college rugby—and athletics generally.

pugnacious Chancellor Dollfuss, a rather sarcastic student. But Kapp has been more cruel yet to the beefy Joubert, a representative of the French workmen and civil servants. But it typifies the man and the body he represents. Another clever work is the double study of another Spanish delegate, one represents him half asleep at his desk, his huge nose protected by his glasses, while the other sketch shows him looking mockingly at his sleeping alter-ego. The best study is the one of French P. Boncour, which is simply wonderful for the beauty of the drawing and the power of the expression; one might almost expect him to begin one of his famous impassioned improvisations . . . prepared six months in advance. The Geneva gallery is closed by Irish O'Kelly, hand in his pocket, ready to protest or disagree. . . .

The rest of the exhibit includes a fine caricature of A. Boulton, musical director of the B.B.C., some "themes" such as Bach, or Sonata, treated with art but without mercy. An interesting head study of Sholem Ash, where the hair is treated in a masterly way. This review may seem laudative but this is not my fault, this exhibit is really fine and gives you little chance to pick up flaws.

Don't miss either seeing Arthur Schnabel, probably the best pianist interpreter of Beethoven's music, who is having a great success in the States now since Hitler forced him to leave Germany.

Trinity Dramatics

For a riotous comedy, without the lead of too much plot, See Naples and Die, is a most skilful play, but if you saw Trinity Dramatics' performance last Friday or Saturday at Hart House Theatre, you must have come away full of melancholy impressions. Why Mr. Dixon Wagner, the director, allowed it to move so sombrely is beyond our comprehension.

Such a setting as this, an Italian tourist town, full of good Americans, and weaklings of every other nation, immediately flashes humour; but also it takes an Elmer Rice to use those characters to the most agreeable advantage.

You have the time, place, and action all in perfect unity, and plenty of excellent characters itching with hilarious lines to amuse you. Certainly the failure was not on the part of the author.

The play was a difficult one, admitted. A comedy must always be handled with the finest gloves. Also, See Naples and Die was so full of excited outpourings of vicious foreigner who mumbled imperfect English that even professionals would have hesitated before attempting it. However, the national extravaganza was the only parts that were well acted, and surprisingly, it was the familiar American characters which suffered. Perhaps the director thought they needed no attention, being obvious, and thereupon took his sista.

There were a few deft touches, however, particularly the one when the young Italian girl of easy virtue invited friend the moral Englishman to visit her some night, interpreted in the indisputable tone of Mae West. The roadway past the Inn was effective, as was the mule driver, but the back of the stage was cramped; unfortunate, because the shooting scene by the two Roumanian patriots was made ridiculous. But we liked the sound effects of the auto racing.

It rather took one's breath away to hear languages thrown about so glibly. Patricia Cleland was glib enough, and her performance was exceedingly well done throughout. Good accent, convincing appearance, and submergence of her own personality in the character of Kinegunde Wandl, duly impressed one. Elizabeth McMullen as Mrs. de Medici, the inn keeper's wife, did almost as well, especially by her fluency in speaking rapid Italian.

George Ignatieff's Ivan Ivanovitch Kosoff improved as the play proceeded. His accent was not as good as the others, not as constantly foreign. But for a dissipated, melancholy, philosophic Russian nobleman, he did very well. Hugo van Klaus, acted by William Ruddock, was also on the favourable side of criticism, although he seemed paralysed at times. The Englishman, done by Richard Davies, was good without being outstanding.

For the rest, they either overacted or underacted their parts. Lucy Evans' lines were funny enough without making them into a rhyming farce as Margaret Farmer did. Lloyd Sommerville never could have been suave enough for a Charles Carroll. Doris McCord ripped off the wise-cracks, defied her husband, Mussolini, and the world in general, but never for a moment became Nanette Dodge. Luisa—but then Luisa's was a difficult part. Eileen Holden gave us a vague idea concerning a seductive Italian girl, but no more.

The other players were: small chess player, Graham Lawson; bearded chess player, John Brown; Angelo de Medici, Leonard Lossing; carriage driver, William Wyckoff; Stephan, Douglas Blagrove; Shirley McEvoy as Mary Elizabeth Dodge Norton; General Jan Skulany, Robert Wodhouse; Fascist Guards, Peter Morley, Roxborough Smith; postman, William Wyckoff.

The Late Christopher Bean

George W. Bishop writes in the Sunday Times, of November 12: "The most consistent success in town is The Late Christopher Bean, which completes its first six months on Wednesday evening. Since it opened, the piece has played to absolute capacity—there has not been an empty seat at any performance. This means that it has already been seen by over two hundred thousand people."

There has been so much criticism in England and America concerning this play, both favourable and otherwise, that this quotation should prove interesting, for to be reputed the most successful west-end play in London cannot go without comment.

The Late Christopher Bean, which was staged by Gilbert Miller both in London and in New York (Toronto), had the same lines and the same interpretation. The only disparity is that one had an English setting, the other an American one.

Yet with all this resemblance, the two presentations are quite unlike. Pauline Lord and her company, here a few weeks ago, made a conscious farce out of their performances, ripping off the lines to get the laughs; while Edith Evans plays the part of a Welsh servant girl, as if she really were that servant girl, so when the laughs come, they come at her own expense; Cedric Hardwicke, too, though he plays the old doctor for all he is worth, receives the laughs unselfishly.

The play itself is not only technically perfect but is more full of rich natural humour than any play seen in recent years. It is the kind of humour in which average people find most enjoyment, laughter at the expense of others, not a farcical make-believe humour that exists only in fiction.

So he went to another friend. By the time he had followed the advice of all his friends, he had turned every colour in the rainbow and bleached out again. And—he had only earned enough to pay for the liniment.

Then one morning, when he woke, he was conscious of a curious change in his appearance. It was not that he had regained in its pristine freshness his original whitish and modest complexion; nor was he that horrible blackish and brownish with a dash of purple and yellow thrown in, which he had been heretofore. But there was a certain elemental toughness to his exterior that made him draw back from himself for a moment and frame the words, "No, thank you, nothing today."

Then it suddenly dawned on him that he had changed into a periodical salesman. That he was "tough", or in other words, "hard-boiled."

And it was borne in upon him with a sudden overwhelming force that they would never throw him downstairs again. And they never did. Even down to not so far-off times. And ever since the periodical salesman has always had that look about him. And he nearly always gets his man. Whiskers.

that there was no instrument provided by the Hall for the playing of the Anthem.

Interviewed on the subject of the editorial, Mr. Davis of the English Department, thought the editorial stated some very good points in the much-disputed question.

"It is certainly absurd," he said, "to compel people to sing the Anthem. Such an action only antagonises them the more. When I first came to Canada, my impression was that I heard the National Anthem more frequently here than at home."

It was pointed out to The Varsity that the Anthem did not have the present broad international spirit in the days of its composition. It was a prayer for protection against the hated Scotch who were conspiring to place "Bonnie Prince Charlie" on the English throne.

A student in II Moderns, said: "I think it is a great deal the fault of those who supervise the arrangements of concerts and other entertainments. The Anthem should always be sung before the performance because people make use of the singing of God Save the King after the concert to put on their coats and make ready to dash for the door."

Several students who declined to be quoted, believed that the editorial regarded the Anthem too religiously. "I have always heard the Anthem with a feeling of patriotism," said one woman student, "but I never regarded it as a prayer."

All the students interviewed agreed that the Anthem has still a meaning for the youth of the country and that they never hear it sung without a bit of a thrill. The general view was that people may grow rather careless from long custom, but God Save the King voices a genuine spirit of British patriotism for the many. A small minority might prefer the Internationale, but it would be futile to compel them to be patriotic against their will.

The Soviet Government is increasing its use of airplanes in sowing seed, destroying mosquito larvae, observing floating logs, and other agricultural fields.

"The new Chautemps cabinet may not last a week," Professor DeChamp declared in an interview to The Varsity yesterday. "It is a question of whether Chautemps will be able to swing a majority of the House to his side by an outburst of passionate oratory for the passing of his budget. This budget is exactly the same as that presented by the previous government, because George Bonnet is continuing as Finance Minister. His only hope is that he will be able to gain the assistance of all the parties in an appeal to the House for the salvation of France from financial ruin which is imminent if a sound budget is not passed."

Professor DeChamp summed up the situation in a very concise form. He explained that there are two methods

A new dramatic group which has been organized among some thirty graduates of Victoria College this fall has as its purpose the conducting of a "play laboratory," The Varsity was informed yesterday by Miss Margaret Ray of the Victoria Library.

There is no official connection yet between the organization and the College Alumni Association, although this is contemplated. Only plays written by members of the club will be produced, and the staging requirements of these must necessarily conform to the limited facilities of the club.

"At present we have two meetings a month," Miss Ray explained. "At the first meeting plays written by the members and submitted for possible production are criticised and revised. From these one is chosen to be the month's production and a cast is assigned to take the parts required. The proposed increased tariff on chemical substances imported into Great Britain will have no effect on the production of insulin in the Connaught Laboratories, it was revealed today, since none is exported to the Motherland. ### War Correspondent Asks a Siren Why Try Hart House For an Iron?

The Varsity's War Correspondent was accosted by a pretty co-ed in brown, as he came out of the main door at Hart House yesterday afternoon.

"Please sir," she exclaimed rather timidly, "maybe you could tell me what I want to know."

The War Correspondent thought he probably could.

"Do you know if there is an electric iron anywhere in Hart House proper, and a board?" Then at the unoppressed expression her question received, she added helpfully, "I thought maybe they might have one—you know, for ironing towels and things?" She waved her right arm stiffly back and forth in pantomime.

The Correspondent apologised, but was afraid he really didn't know an awful lot about towels and things in

DEBATE AND PLAY FEATURE OF JOINT MEETING AT UNION

U.C. Players' Guild to Repeat "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Tonight

W.U.A. AND U.C. LIT. MEET

Regular Business Meeting of Lit. Held as Usual This Afternoon

The members of the University College Literary Society will be guests of the Women's Undergraduate Association tonight at the Women's Union. There will be a play, a debate, refreshments and dancing. The play will be Uncle Tom's Cabin, produced by members of the Players' Guild. This is the same production of the melodrama as was presented a short time ago by the Guild.

Following the play there will be a debate between members of the two bodies on the motion, "Resolved that the emergence of women from the home is a depressing feature of modern life". The debaters will be Mary Clark and Jean Mutch representing the W.U.A., Saul Rae and Hart Buck from the U.C. Lit. Following the debate there will be refreshments and

HART HOUSE BUSY AFTER EACH DANCE

Cleaning Up Done at Night to Prepare for Use in Morning

MEN WORK VOLUNTARILY

In an endeavour to find out what students and workmen in and around Hart House thought about yesterday's Inconsequence story, The Varsity questioned many people.

It was pointed out that the work of cleaning up after a dance must not be left until the next morning because the gymnasium is needed by nine o'clock every morning and all decorations must be removed before that time, the track must be scrubbed and the floor cleaned.

While it is true that some of the men work long hours after a party they do it voluntarily and although their overtime pay may be small they are glad of the work since it adds to their wages.

It was learned that while a few of the men work right through from

ANTI-WAR SOCIETY TO HEAR J. F. WHITE

Society Plans Meetings to Discuss Varied
Opinions

Mr. J. F. White, Editor of the Canadian Forum, will be guest speaker at the first regular meeting of the recently organised Anti-War Society this afternoon at 5.00 p.m. Mr. White has been active in the anti-war movement in Toronto, and is well qualified to deal with the subject of anti-war activities.

Members of the Executive Committee stated to The Varsity yesterday that it is the aim of the society to give its members, and all students who are interested in anti-war activities, opportunities of hearing the different aspects of the movement discussed during the year. There is considerable diversity of opinion, it was explained, as to the best manner of carrying on the movement, and it is hoped that a series of meetings can be held in which the various proposed methods of approach may be outlined and discussed. In order to facilitate exchange of views, today's meeting will be thrown open for questions at the close of Mr. White's address.

The meeting will open at 5.00 p.m. in Room 2, 760 Spadina Avenue, at the south-west corner of Spadina and Bloor. It is hoped that all students who are interested in the problem of war and its treatment, as well as members, will attend.

RESIDENCE RADIOS RAISE DISCUSSION

Opinions Vary as to Value or Drawbacks of Idea

MIGHT BE TOO NOISY

The open questions, re the installation of radios in the various university residences, with which yesterday's editorial concluded, were a subject of discussion on the campus during the afternoon. They were worded in such a way that most everyone had an opinion to offer, although those received varied greatly in content. One faction was in accord with Mr. B. B. Helfand, who stated: "If they had radios in the residences, they would be going loud and long and no one would get any work done. If the students want radios they should have them in their own rooms where they can be used at their own discretion." But "this would

IS FOREMOST ENGINEER

The 44th Annual School Dinner will host a guest speaker whose national reputation and influence in engineering circles are of the highest order, when Dr. O. O. Lefebvre, D.Sc., C.E., of Montreal, President of the Engineering Institute of Canada, addresses the Schoolmen at Hart House next Tuesday evening.

During his thirty years' connection with the Institute, Dr. Lefebvre has taken an active part in its affairs, having served as councillor for five years and vice-president for two. His work in connection with the Public Works Department, at Ottawa, and the Quebec Steam Commission, which controls the water power resources of the province, where he is at present chief

KEEP HIGH TABLE EXCEPT AT NIGHT

Hart House Hall Committee
Announces New Plans

OFFER MORE VARIETY

The high table in the Great Hall at Hart House is not to be abolished, The Varsity was informed yesterday by members of the Hall Committee. Pursuant to the recommendations made by the committee and adopted last week by the Board of Stewards, the evening meal is being served at tables set around the fireplace at the north end of the Hall and the high table is dispensed with for this meal only. The changes went into effect last night.

A variety of vegetables and desserts is now being offered undergraduates who dine in the Hall in the evening and this feature is meeting with much approval. The suggestion that this be done was made by men of the University College residences, it was stated. Meal tickets are now sold in fifty cent strips for the convenience of those not wishing to invest a dollar at a time.

Sun All Day and Sun All Night If Latest Plan Works Out Right

By Sally-Go-Round-the-Sun

Even professors read "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century". The most recent mechanical dream to get into print outside the comic-strips, is the offspring of Alexander Silverman, chemistry professor at the University of Pittsburgh. Mr. Silverman proposes to have sunlight 24 hours a day, by placing huge quantities of transparent fused quartz around the earth. An S-shaped rod of this quartz has the property of bending light rays around corners. We know, because Professor Burton of the Physics Department drew illustrative diagrams for us, with the suggestion that scientific assignments be given to reporters who know something about science. Tush, tush!

At first Mr. Silverman's idea seemed quite good to us. Sun baths all the time, you know. Of course, we did not see how the quartz could be put all around the world, but then, we have always been notoriously bad at geography. Then it occurred to us that this proposal of perpetual sunlight meant no more moonlight, and if there were to be no more mad October moons, obviously it would behoove us to make hay while the sun shone. Our pet moon could not possibly be half so effective in the full glare of the unromantic sun. Horrible! Professor, how could you? O—O

Mr. Silverman also predicted that every home would have only one lamp bulb, with quartz conduits around the house, to carry light to all the rooms at the same time. Imagine your embarrassment when you puffyfooted into your house at 4 a.m. I became quite worried at the thought. O—O

However, our fears were needless. As Professor McTaggart explained to us, Mr. Silverman's idea would be very bright if it were not that:

- before the light had gone three miles in the quartz, it would be all absorbed.
- quartz is very expensive.
- quartz is rare.
- quartz has to be fused in elec-

LYNCHING—AN ANTIQUATED CUSTOM

The most prominent item in an unusual assortment of crime news carried by the daily newspapers yesterday was a dispatch from California. "SCREAMING MOB OF 5,000, LYNCHES HART KIDNAPERS, DEFYING TEAR GAS BOMBS—Prisoners Beaten, Dragged From Jail and Strung on Trees—One Body Set on Fire," the press proclaims in the best tabloid style. There follows a graphic account of a raid upon the jail, from which two confessed kidnappers and slayers were dragged and lynched, after being insulted and mutilated in a most barbaric fashion by a crazed and bloodthirsty mob.

The statement made by Governor James Rolph, Jr., comes as a curious comment on the situation. "California will not put up with kidnapping, and the lynching proves it to the world," he is reported to have said. "It was time drastic measures were taken. This should be a lesson for the entire world."

We suspect that by the entire world he means the United States of America, where kidnapping has become a greater menace than elsewhere. We agree with him that it is time drastic measures were taken. Capital punishment has been suggested as a cure for the snatch racket, but as it has been pointed out capital punishment might lead to the certain murder of the victim, as the kidnappers would be faced with the equivalent of the punishment for murder in any case. Kidnapping must be made a major crime, but we doubt whether lynching will succeed in doing this. In Canada we are fortunate in having escaped this phase of extortion to any marked degree, but in kidnapping the U.S.A. has a serious problem on its hands.

California has shown the world—what? Five thousand men and women reverting to the ways of the frontier days, taking law and order into their own hands, casting aside the vestments of present-day civilisation. Five thousand screaming fanatics mutilating and murdering two human beings. They repaid crime with crime, they took life for life. They did it, not to shoulder the moral responsibility for a few million other people, in the form of the State, which might have eventually taken those lives as punishment for the crime. They did it because they thirsted for blood, and thus they forestalled the slower processes of the law.

Kidnapping is the most cruel and inhuman method of extortion, and is undoubtedly the most difficult sociological problem of our day. Drastic measures must be taken, but a bas la lanterne sticks in the throat of anyone steeped in the traditions of British law. Murder need not be repaid by mob murder, no matter how indiscreet the governor of the Sunny State may have been in his statements. Kidnapping is our modern problem—lynching, although traditionally American, is an antiquated solution.

SEES FINANCIAL CHAOS AS HOPE OF FUTURE

International Agreements May be Necessary in Future

(Special to "The Varsity")

Hamilton, Ont. (C.I.P.)—"Paradoxical as it may seem," states Professor Humphrey Mitchell of the Economics Department of McMaster University, regarding the U.S. policy, "the chaotic condition into which the United States' present financial policy is throwing the international exchanges is the foremost hope for salvation from the present economic crisis."

"Just how do you explain that?" he was asked.

"If the present gold policy is to continue and the American dollar is brought down to say six dollars to the pound, the resulting confusion in the exchanges would be so great that in all probability the European gold bloc would be forced off gold. The resultant confusion may be so great that an international agreement will have to be arrived at."

"What form would that take?" was the next query put to the Economics head.

"I believe they would decide upon some form of managed currency, perhaps that suggested by Mr. Maynard Keynes. Managed currency seems to be the only solution for the present conditions."

"How is this inflationary process going to affect Canada?" he was asked. "Our currency will be at a premium. As a debtor nation we will be benefited but, of course, it will hurt our market in the States."

"Do you commend President Roosevelt's plan for this policy, Professor Mitchell?"

"Indeed I do," he laughed. "If Mr. Roosevelt succeeds in forcing up domestic prices in the United States, then the obstacles which stood in the way of the World Economic Conference will have been removed."

Organ Recital

The third organ recital of the current season will be played this evening by Dr. Willan in Convocation Hall at five o'clock. The programme is an excellent one, made up entirely of the works of J. S. Bach. It is as follows: Prelude and Fugue in C Major. Chorale Preludes:

We all believe in one God.
O man, bewail thy grievous sin.
Jesu, you of man's desiring.
Hark, a voice saith, all are mortal.
Come, Holy Ghost, Lord God.
Three Preludes on the Kyrie:
Kyrie, Gott Vater in Ewigkeit.
Christe, aller Welt Trost.
Kyrie, Gott heiliger Geist.
Prelude and Fugue in E Flat (St. Anne's).

The pent-up enthusiasm of several seasons was let loose last night in a great ovation to the members of the San Carlo Opera Company at the Royal Alexandra Theatre. The packed house applauded tumultuously, demanding four or five curtain-calls at the close of every scene.

There can be no question but that the San Carlo Company is one of the finest of its kind to visit Toronto in a good many years. Last night they put on an excellent performance, in spite of the many difficulties manifest in the scenery, which in the opening scenes was very shabby, and in occasional weaknesses in the orchestra. The costuming, however, was unexpectedly fine, and the make-up was most effective.

As for the performance itself, the applause of the audience was sufficient demonstration of its high quality. The vocal work was well sustained, almost without exception. Elsa Hottinger, contralto and Ardolfo Lindi, tenor, were particularly fine. The acting was a little stiff in the first act, but improved greatly. That of Chief Capocian was exceptionally good in a part which gave the fullest opportunities for dramatic expression.

The choruses, though weak in spots, were on the whole more than adequate, and some of the off-stage choruses were marvellously effective. The ballet also might have been improved, but the dance of M. Prideaux and Mlle. Arlova in the second act was one of the most beautiful things I have seen on the stage.

Even more gratifying than the high quality of last night's performance was the obvious enthusiasm of the audience. The house was packed and many were turned away. It is unfortunate that Toronto is not large enough to support a grand opera season but it is clear that when a good company does come it can count on a most ardent reception. I think the San Carlo Company could prolong its run considerably without fear of outstaying its welcome. It is to be hoped that the Company will be encouraged to repeat its visits more frequently in the future. C.L.C.

ANOTHER CRITIC'S VIEW

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

We read with a great deal of astonishment the criticism in this morning's Varsity of the Trinity Dramatic Society's presentation of See Naples and Die. It is one of the most uncalled for and unprofessional reviews that we have seen.

It is not a matter to be unduly irate over, that J.P.M. has not the sagacity of experience to criticise the important points in a dramatic presentation. That is not her fault. It is, however, a matter to be gravely concerned over, to see a criticism written so utterly priggishly as that one was. See Naples and Die, quite contrary to J.P.M.'s interpretation is a very commonplace play but its production well done. We can condone this slight error in The Varsity review, but we find it difficult to discover any justification for such unskillful and misleading phraseology as "You must have come away full of melancholy reflections," and "For the rest, they either overacted or underacted their parts." The response of the audience was convincing proof to the contrary. Such sweeping statements reflect too much lack of understanding in the critic.

A criticism is an essential sequel to any public performance. But it can be done in many ways. J.P.M. is apparently most familiar with the least desirable of them. There was no need to say "Why Mr. Dixon Wagner allowed it to move so somberly beyond our comprehension." A mere impersonal statement of fact is sufficient. It is painful to read a too-long criticism written in a manner which plainly styles it as an advertising scheme for the writer. It would be naive in a ten-year-old, but one expects a reporter to have outgrown the affectation at fifteen.

Such a criticism as that does no good for the cause of amateur dramatics in the University. I think that the writer is extremely short-sighted.

"What is the greatest thrill in a waiter's life?" we asked the head waiter at the Royal York, at an early hour this morning.

"Well," he said, "there is some as claims that the greatest moment is when you discover that you're serving royalty incognito."

"Oh, do they like incognito?" we asked.

"Hincognito ain't food, it's being under a false name," he replied tartly. "But be that as it may, it never gave me the thrill as I get from that little phrase. Ah me, the sensation that runs down your spine when you recognise it..."

"Ah," said we (editorially), sensing a story. "What is the phrase?"

"That old complaint, 'Waiter, there is a fly in this soup!'"

"Really? Why?"

"It offers such a fertile field for reply," said he, sweeping the debris off so briskly that (Censored—Ed. note). "Yes, yes. So many answers."

"What, for instance," said I, forgetting to be editorial, and thus becoming singular.

"Well, 'Er they are: 'What do you think I am, a life-guard?'"

"Aw, don't be stingy, he won't drink much!"

"What do you want for ten cents, humming birds?"

"Think of that! And all you ordered was vegetable!"

"Don't worry. It can swim!"

At that moment the cuspidor caught him neatly above the eye, and regaining our plurality (editorially) we departed into the dawn.

KNOX DEFEATS PHARMACY 4-1 IN FIRST SOCCER FINAL

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Although the basketball game last night between Vic Juniors and School of Nursing was supposed to partly clear up the group tangle it seems to have complicated matters even further. Unfortunately there seems to have been some misunderstanding in the decision to be made involving the time and place of the sudden death game. As a result, School of Nursing chose the gym and the hour with Vic having no say in the matter. All seemed satisfactory—until the game.

The Scarlet and Gold team feels that it has not had a fair chance and has requested the Nurses to meet them in another game at O.C.E. gym, the points to count on the round. They are of the opinion that the Lillian Massey gym is no place to play a deciding game and no one will disagree with them on that point. Neither team had any sort of an opportunity to show their basketball prowess—there just is not the floor space. The L.M. gym is used by the Nurses for practice and all things being considered, the Vic team think another game in their home gym would be a fairer and more satisfactory arrangement.

On the other hand, the game was played and the Nurses won a legitimate victory. They are to be congratulated on their performance this year—a really remarkable one. Only one player on their team has played basketball within the last four or five years. They have shown admirable spirit and sportsmanship in all their games and it is unfortunate that a controversy should arise at the end of the season. They cannot be blamed for not wanting to enter the contest again—a contest in which they run the chance of losing their hard-won laurels.

It is to be hoped that a decision satisfactory to both teams may be arrived at today.

By the way, did you know that Vic Seniors vanquished a Y.W.C.A. team last night at O.C.E. gym? Undoubtedly the Seniors are a fast-playing outfit, and as such will bear watching.

NURSES DEFEAT VICTORIA JUNIORS

Last night in the Lillian Massey gym the School of Nursing women's basketball team was successful in defeating Vic Juniors with a 26-20 score. A great many fouls were made, by Vic especially, and due to the small floor, combination play was conspicuously lacking. Long, ineffectual passes were a feature of the game. The half-time score was 8-13 for Nurses.

The second half opened with a strong

VARSITY TRIUMPHS IN WATER POLO

Defeat Broadview "Y" Juniors in Evenly Matched Contest

PATTERSON STARS

Playing an evenly matched game and scoring goal for goal, Varsity and Broadview "Y" Juniors splashed their way through fourteen minutes of hard water polo in Broadview tank last night. Varsity flipped in one extra goal to win by 9-8 but the game was as close as the score shows.

Hardy netted the first counter after fifteen seconds of play on a hard shot to the upper corner. Just twenty-one seconds later Veal scored for Broadview on a nice shot from outside. For four minutes the play surged back and forth till Fisher passed to Patterson, who made sure of the point. Then the goals came thick and fast at about fifteen seconds interval till at half time the score stood at four-all. Varsity played better combination in this period but when Broadview ganged up around the goal mouth they rather evened up things.

In the second half both teams settled down to play together and the passes flipped back and forth with an occasional one finding the net. The scoring was up and down as before till Patterson threw home a hard angle shot with about half a minute to go to break the tie. Patterson scored more goals than any man in the pool; with Fisher and Hardy on the offensive and Rogers playing defence they formed the core of the Varsity machine. Broadview "Y" scored three of their goals on shots that slipped in off Kinsberg's hands but nevertheless they deserved them.

Varsity — Goal, Kinsberg; defence, Rogers, Twible; forwards, Patterson, Hawke; centre, Hardy; rover, Fisher. Broadview — Goal, Malloy; defence, Baker, McLeod; forwards, Veal, McDowell; centre, Anderson; rover, Ewen.

Vic offensive which counted them three baskets in the first two minutes of play. After a short period of wild shooting and sloppy passing, Nurses steadied to roll in enough shots to maintain a lead. The superior height of the School of Nursing defence line was an important factor in their success. The shooting of the Scarlet and Gold forwards was fairly accurate. Maiste Cowan turned in a very fine performance for Vic as did B. Parker for School of Nursing.

School of Nursing (26) — MacEachern (8), Parker (14), Thom (4), Smith, Sparling, Horwood, Franks, McLaughlin.

Vic Juniors (20) — Cowan (12), Prior (2), Brobst (2), Leavens (4), Tennent, Thickson, Barton, Brown, O'Neil.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By J. A. Russell

To add to the entertainment on Saturday night when Varsity and McGill clash in the first intercollegiate water polo game of the season, the committee in charge has arranged a supplementary programme of diving to be followed by a dance in the big gym. Cressy McCarty of Trinity and Edgar of S.P.S. will be two of the participants in the diving exhibition which starts at 8.30 and lasts for half an hour. Then the Redmen meet the local natators in the main event. More diving is arranged for the half-time rest and starting at 10 o'clock the big gym will be open until midnight to allow the spectators to dance to the strains of a selected nine-piece orchestra. And all for the sum of 50 cents.

Without the dance or diving, the game should prove ample attraction for a large crowd. When McGill and Varsity clash, "on land or sea" the issue is always uncertain and the game always spectacular. Two of the best divers in the university will form a part of the diving programme, one, Edgar, an interfaculty champion. Varsity will be defending the intercollegiate title which they won last year in a strenuous overtime period. And still the price is 50 cents.

Including the dance.

One point that was brought out clearly in last Friday's Mulock Cup game between Victoria and S.P.S. was the futile arrangement of the overtime periods. Playing for five minutes each way is usually not long enough to enable a team to score, especially when it is so evenly matched to its opponents, as to battle to a tie score. At the end of every five minutes of play the ball was carted back to centre field and kicked off again. Four times this was done in Friday's game, which meant that a return kick would put the play in centre field. And on a field where ten yards meant so much, due to the slippery going, the task of working into scoring position with both teams playing so cautiously, was hopeless. This, of course, does not happen frequently, but in the games where it does happen something important is always at stake. Ten minutes each way would be a far saner policy and would provide a better scope for determination on merit.

Bridgland, School's star kicker, is not technically eligible for interfaculty competition. He takes as many lectures in S.P.S. as the other players, but is a graduate, and is registered in Graduate Studies. And School shows a rather poor spirit in using him in their games since he is ineligible, and they take a great risk. Both Dents and Victoria knew he was not eligible and yet hesitated to protest because their games were semi-final and final games and a protest would not appear in a good light. School, therefore, is taking advantage of the sportsmanship of their opponents, a thing, which, in itself, is quite unsporting.

The Knox College soccer team seems to be well on its way to another soccer title, their sixth one in succession. In the first of a two-game series they defeated Pharmacy 4-1 and with total goals to count on this final round, the Druggists have a hard job ahead. With such strong fullbacks on the Knox team they are in a dictating position with a three-goal lead.

put Varsity only one goal down. Four times Varsity men had a chance of tying up the score but were too anxious to make the best of their opportunities. Robinson finished the scoring with a minute to play when he intercepted a pass at the Varsity blue line. McClelland, Williamson and Shipp starred for Varsity, while McClelland, Primeau and Kerr were the best for Nationals.

Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, White, Campbell; centre, McClelland; forwards, MacPherson, Hendry; subs, Fullerton, Roy, Jeffrey, Williamson.

West Toronto Nationals — Goal, Stein; defence, Smillie, McAlpine; centre, Robinson; forwards, Keys, McClelland; subs, Huggins, Primeau, Kerr, Large.

SECOND YEAR WIN IN DENTAL ASSAULT

Eighteen Events Run Off in First Assault of the Year

THREE KNOCKOUTS

The first assault of the season went over with a bang last night as the Dentists mixed it up in their boxing and wrestling bouts. Eighteen events were run off with second year having a large share of the wins to carry off the Psi Omega cup for the year with the greatest number of points in the Dental Assault.

It was certainly an interesting evening which was featured by three knockouts. The boxers were all willing mixers and although they omitted such minor details as footwork and blocking, they made up for this by their earnestness. The Dore-Morningstar scrap was the highlight of the evening with the shifty Morningstar fading before the two-fisted attack of the rugged Dore. McIntosh produced the best exhibition of wrestling, scoring two falls in two minutes over Keenan in the 155 class.

KNOX VICTORIOUS IN SOCCER MATCH

Defeat Pharmacy 4 to 1 in First Play-off Game

With five consecutive interfaculty soccer championships already to their credit, Knox College yesterday made a good beginning toward the winning of their sixth. On an icy field they defeated Pharmacy by the score of 4 to 1. Yesterday's game was the first of the two final games to be played for the soccer title. Since it is points that count, Pharmacy will have to play an excellent game to win when the teams meet next.

The Pharmacy team turned out in running shoes—a wise measure as was soon evident. The front campus was frozen hard and the soccer boots of the Knox players slipped. The Pharmacy team was much faster but the Knox players were the better kickers and more experienced. During the game some of the Knox men found it advisable to put on running shoes also.

Within the first minute of play before the Pharmacy squad were aware of what had happened the Knox team had swept down and Rowland scored. This put the Druggists on their guard

U.C. DEFEAT MEOS IN BOX LACROSSE

U.C. took a half game lead over Knox last night when they defeated Meos 13-11 in a box lacrosse game in the lower gym. The game was a fast one from the first blow of the whistle, U.C. enjoying a decided edge in the first half but fading badly in the last.

Coulter opened the scoring for U.C. in the first minute when he beat Stau on a shot from close in. He was followed quickly by Smith and Bissel to give U.C. a three-goal advantage. Keys of Meos soon retaliated with a shot that fooled Warner. Stobie scored three goals, Smith two and Coulter one more. Lithgow finished the scoring, giving Meos their second goal.

In the next period Meos pressed hard, Lithgow and Keys scoring three goals to two of U.C.

In the second half U.C. started strongly but weakened near the end and Meos put five shots past Warner to nearly tie the score. The game ended with U.C. leading 13-11.

Smith, Stobie and Coulter were the best for U.C. while Stau, Lithgow and Keys shone for Meos.

U.C. — Warner, Bissel, Smith, Coulter, Stobie, Sweetman, Robb.

Meos — Stau, Lithgow, Graham, Keys, McGhee.

and during the remaining part of the first half the play ranged fairly evenly from one side to the other without either team being able to score. During the first half the Pharmacy team were playing a much more spirited game than the Knox squad. In the second half Knox went into the game with more spirit and Pharmacy could not prevent them sinking three more goals, two by Taylor and one more by Rowland. Ten minutes before the final whistle, Pharmacy pressed the Knox team back and won a corner kick. This kick was the means of their single goal. Milburn caught the ball on his goal. Milburn caught the ball on his goal. Milburn caught the ball on his goal. From the beginning the issue was not in doubt, Knox was evidently superior.

Knox—Stewart, Jack, Long, Young, Milroy, Rowland, McCulloch, Weir, Cuthbertson, Taylor, Davidson.

Pharmacy — Wilson, Armour, MacDonal, Evans, Hoffman, Eisenbach, Briscoe, Ballantyne, Milburn, Wilton, Bissette; sub, Ramsay.

Canada's Autumn Glory

They came in at a thousand-a-day clip all through October, the leaves that were giant in size or marvelous in beauty of coloring and shape, from all parts of Canada where the maple grows. The response was to the unique contest, inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Railway with a view to encouraging interest in the Canadian autumn landscape. Prizes were offered for the largest maple leaf and for the most beautiful.

The idea was an immediate success from the moment of its announcement. Everybody got out into the country after autumn-tinted leaves and the railway encouraged the search by operating Fall excursions. The leaves came in ever-increasing quantities to the offices of E. T. Nottle, director of exhibits, for the Canadian Pacific. The photograph shows the process of spraying and mounting the leaves.

Outstanding artists are acting as judges of the competition for the most beautiful maple leaf, they are: C. W. Simpson, R.C.A., R. W. Pilot, A. R.C.A., and James Crockett. J. M. R. Fairbairn, Chief Engineer, Canadian Pacific Railway, is judging the competition for the largest maple leaf.

FORSTER'S NOVELS

RUSSIAN IN TREND

authors, Mr. Brown presented in the essay which he read to the club a conception of Mr. Forster's characters. "To Mr. Forster," said Mr. Brown, "the least important content is the story."

The contemplative mind, the most baffling and intriguing of Forster's characterisations was discussed as it is found in Howards End and Passage to India, two of Forster's greatest novels. In Mr. Brown's opinion contemplative minds are moods rather than contemplative discipline. "Contemplative people are not talkative, not even to themselves," said Mr. Brown. He believes that in meeting them one would never notice them different from any other. "Structurally," he said, "on one side are those of the world of action, passing back and forth are the contemplative characters."

The novels of Mr. Forster are unmistakably Russian in trend and influence. He is steeped in the literature of India. He might reasonably find a source there. "The kind of a novel he writes, by co-operation of men of his type might be a lasting type. He is not doing anything more novel than Virginia Woolf and D. H. Lawrence," said Mr. Brown.

When questioned as to whether the present-day literature is in a state of anarchy or not, Mr. Brown replied negatively. "Romanticists seem to me to represent an anarchy of the past. Joyce is anarchical. One characteristic of today is a much greater interest in close analysis in the poetry biography and drama so far as I can tell."

It has been suggested at McMaster University that freshmen have their right to vote in the presidential election rescinded.

Owing to the evening meeting, the men's organisation, the U.C. Lit., will meet in the Junior Common Room at four-thirty in the afternoon, where the regular monthly meeting of that body will be held. Several important amendments to the constitution will be read for the second and last time, and if passed will go into effect immediately. Among these are the hotly contested motion regarding the personnel of the Budgetary Committee and a resolution which would force the executive to hold an open meeting on petition of the members. As the nature of this meeting is very important all members are urged to be present.

RESIDENCE RADIOS RAISE DISCUSSION

be an unnecessary expense," said A. D. McConnell, I. M. and P.

One student, A. L. Rubinoff of II S.P.S., stated: "A radio is a very valuable instrument to have, if it can meet financial and sociological difficulties such as sound deafening, etc.—the 'etc.' takes in what I really have to say." Many students were of the opinion that the situation was well taken care of at present in most of the residences.

The remark of R. J. Wilson: "They should be put in the Hart House common rooms," led to quite a discussion in one of the upper rooms of the House and resulted in the making of an informal resolution: "We think it would be a very good idea to have one radio in the Music Room of Hart House controlled by, say, the Music Committee or Mr. Bickersteth where we could hear certain feature broadcasts, especially the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. We don't want radios in residences so that there may be some place to study quietly."

Mr. Rubinoff's statement to this was "I'm for it," but a student who wished to remain anonymous was against it. "No," he said, "the Music Room is now one of the quietest places in the House for study and peaceful thinking. If a radio were installed, the noisy jargon which comes over such an instrument would trouble the mind, disturb the will, and . . ." we could follow him no further.

Some were against leaving the choice of programme to any specified person, wishing the dial to be left free for those who would desire to turn it, but the instance was cited of the U.C. Junior Common Room where one no sooner began to enjoy a local presentation when someone wanted to try the short-wave outfit and spoiled everything. However, the motion still stands with a favourable majority for a radio in the Music Room.

University residences for the most part provide radios or at least allow them. The Victoria Women's Residence is the one place where they are entirely banned. Victoria women are greatly in favour of radios and think that they should be allowed to have them in the common rooms. A second year resident at Amesley Hall stated, "This place is like a tomb—especially on Sunday. If we had a radio we wouldn't feel that we just had to get away for the week-end." That is the general opinion at Amesley Hall.

Radios are a recent innovation at Whitney Hall. Here they are allowed in the common rooms, but are paid for by the residents. The men's residences all have radios and the majority of the men are very much in favour of them.

BULLETIN BOARD

Bulletin Board and Coming Event notices must be handed in at either the men's office in Hart House, or at the women's office in University College. No notices will be taken over the telephone, after 6 p.m. notices must be taken to the Press Building. Notices for the Bulletin Board are limited to ONE insertion only.

U.C. MEN

Regular meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society will be held in the Junior Common Room at 4.30 p.m. today. This is a very important meeting and all members are urged to attend. The amendments to the constitution will be given second and final reading and if adopted will go into effect at once. The proposed changes concern all activities of the society. Come out and vote.

VIC MUSIC CLUB

All members of the cast are reminded of the practice today in Alumni Hall at 1 o'clock. Your attention is called to the notice boards and to the fact that the practice Thursday will be held at noon instead of in the evening. by which the budget could be balanced. Either by cutting the salaries of the Civil Service or by increasing the taxation. The Radical-Socialists are opposed to the salary cut because they form the majority of those who would be affected. On the other hand, the large group who compose the right, are opposed to the increase in taxation because they are the property owners and oppose any such increase. Neither of these groups, the Radical-Socialists combined with the Socialists and a small group of Communists, or the opposing group of the Right, plus a few supporters from the Centre, is large enough to pass a budget. In the opinion of Professor DeChamp, Chautemps' only hope is that by the force of his own personality, in a frantic appeal to all parties to save the nation from financial disaster, he will be able to carry through the budget at this time of crisis. If he is able to accomplish this feat which has defeated every other ministry this year, it is extremely doubtful if he will be able to continue, because his own party does not compose a majority.

Chautemps' policy is revealed by the statement which Bonnet made after a conference with him in which he declared, "Our first consideration must be stability for our money. M. Chautemps and I agree on the necessity of balancing the 1934 budget, avoiding all inflation."

ARTISTS DIVIDED INTO TWO TYPES

artists—those for whom it is a way of making money and who therefore pander to the public taste, and those for whom art is a religion, an adventure and a means of expressing their souls. There are four ways to approach a discussion of the trend in art, the first being the physical, consisting of the style and technique of painting, then the emotional appeal of art, the intellectual content in the developing of ideas and lastly the aesthetic approach which considers that art should rise above the realities of life. These concepts, however, were invented by art critics. The true artist does not consciously consider them but is primarily interested in creating living things.

Real Canadian art began about 1910. Prior to this Canadian artists modelled their work on European styles. Then the group of seven began its work. It assumed an amateur attitude to art and its members sought new inspiration in northern Canadian scenes. It succeeded because of its attitude, and its co-operative effort to find a vehicle for expressing its sentiments, and its complete dedication of itself to its creative ideal.

Now a second movement growing out of the first is taking its place. It is founded on the principle that "Life in a work of art is in the sense of design". Once background was considered simply as waste space. Now it is dynamic. It should suggest the delineation of character. This is shown in many paintings in the present exhibition of art at the Galleries. Some of the paintings are of nature, others related to social problems or the daily life of ordinary people.

After the lecture, lantern slides were shown of paintings by contemporary Canadian artists typifying the trend in modern Canadian art.

"Don't they earn enough money at their regular job or is the overtime necessary?" was the attitude most of the students expressed in discussing the question.

Criticisms in The Varsity are seldom good. They fail mainly, I think, because the critics forget their job, and attempt to make their column a medium for self-assertion. They are then no longer critics. They should be writing "Inconsequence". It would be a great pleasure to see a few reviews which are sanely analytical and not utterly puerile and deceptive.

WOODSWORTH TO BE HONORARY GUEST AT H. H. DEBATE

Position of C. C. F. Party will be Under Discussion

LEGITIMATE THIRD PARTY

Liberal and MacDonald-Cartier Clubs Unite Against Common Foe

The resolution before the debaters at Hart House tonight will be "That in the opinion of this House there is no acceptable alternative to the two older parties in Canada". The guest of the House will be Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, the leader of the C.C.F. in the Dominion House.

While the motion does not specifically mention the C.C.F. the position of the new party will be under discussion. The debate will be limited to that group and they will be the only group recognised as a legitimate third party under the wording of the resolution. For this reason the honorary guest will be Mr. Woodsworth. In January the subject of the debate will deal with the Conservative party and a Conservative member will come down from Ottawa.

The several political clubs on the campus are taking a keen interest in the meeting. The Liberal and the MacDonald-Cartier Clubs are uniting against the common foe. Mr. S. H. S. Hughes, the grandson of Sir Sam Hughes, will be the Conservative representative. (Continued on Page 4)

YEAR YELLS GIVEN

Last night at Trinity House the annual Athletic Dinner was held to make the presentations to the outstanding Trinity sportsmen. The toast to the college was made by Mr. A. B. Fennell, the Registrar of the University, and the reply was made by Provost F. H. Cosgrave. The Rev. J. H. Dixon, rector of Grace Church, gave the toast to The Athletes and the President of the Association, W. H. Bradley, responded.

Following the toast-making the various cups and medals were presented to the winning teams. The second year carried off the majority of the cups for inter-year sports. The dinner closed with a march to the quad where the yells of the different years from '03 to the present 377 were given where possible.

AMENOMENTS PROPOSED FOR "LIT." CONSTITUTION

At a meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society in the junior common room yesterday afternoon the recommendations for the amendment of the constitution by the Amendment Committee were passed. The major amendments were in part as follows:

1. That the vacancy caused by an elected officer who has failed in his examinations should be filled by an officer elected by the members of the society and not by the advancement of the lower officers as in the past.
2. That the Athletic Representative on the Budgetary Committee be replaced by a Social Representative.
3. That all expenditures taken from the Reserve Fund be approved by the society in an open meeting.
4. A whole new constitution for the Undergraduate magazine was passed.

FEES BEING PAID AT USUAL RATE

No More Delinquents Than Usual Says Dr.
Moure

REGISTRATION FEE?

No particular difficulties are being experienced this year in the collection of fees from university students, according to information obtained yesterday from Dr. Moure, Bursar of the university. Compared with former years, payments are being maintained at about the same rate and no more than the usual number of students are taking advantage of the opportunity for late payment by paying an additional fee of one dollar a month.

Whether or not this is an indication of any improvement in the economic situation it is hard to say, but the punctuality with which most of the students are meeting their fees obligations would suggest that there is no more hardship among students who find it difficult to obtain sufficient funds to pay their fees than has been customary during the last few years.

It might seem that the students lacking the ready cash would defer until later in the year the payment of the smaller fees, but here, again, the situation shows little, if any, change (Continued on Page 4)

STUDENTS STATE THAT CRITICISMS ARE TOO RUTHLESS

Consensus of Opinions Points to Dramatic Critics as Biased

SOME ARE JUSTIFIED

"Critic Should Not be Prejudiced," Says Victoria Student

The majority of the students of the university are in whole-hearted agreement with the correspondent to yesterday's Varsity, if the opinions of those interviewed may be taken as representative. One girl from University College didn't think the dramatic criticisms in general were very good and added that she didn't take much stock in what The Varsity said anyway. While another student considered the "criticism of the criticism" ridiculous, her private opinion being that The Varsity critics were pretty swelled-headed. More analytical commentators declared that many of the dramatic reviews were biased and at times unnecessarily ruthless.

Rudy Eberliard, IV Victoria, thought that most of the criticisms were pretty rotten, although he mentioned that of Arms and the Man as being justified. He had not seen the Trinity play but had heard that it was very good. Just as we left him he breathed the hope that his play wouldn't be criticised like that.

A student of S.P.S., with a psychological turn of mind, believed that it was a tendency of young critics to pan "everything in a wholesale manner to avoid an appearance of adolescent gushing".

Jean Dowling, IV Victoria, said, "A critic has to express his own opinion but he shouldn't be prejudiced. Constructive criticism is welcomed if it is made in a nice way, but some Varsity critics are too censorious, especially concerning amateur undertakings." She heard that the play was received with howls of laughter which seemed to her to belie the "melancholy impressions" mentioned by J.P.M.

Speaker Should Be Sexless But Women Must Be Reckless

By DeC. H. R.

They had a debate up at the Women's Union last night—something about women and the home—at least so we gathered.

Saul Rae started the fun by insisting that for purposes of debate Mr. Speaker was sexless, to the great embarrassment of Miss Jean Hunnisett.

From Mr. Rae's account of the visit which he and his colleague made to the Alpha Delta Pi house (adv.), women are not the only creatures which emerge from the home, Watson, the smelling salts!

According to Miss Jean Mutch, women are not nearly as bad as they are painted. And they still paint in the middle ages. "Ever since the time of Helen of Troy women have wanted clothes from Paris," she added.

Mr. Hart Buck rather overwhelmed the audience with his flow of oratory, and denounced women in no uncertain terms. He blamed the women of another country for passing the 18th Amendment when the men were away at the war. Because women have emerged from the home, men eat insipid messes at restaurants.

Miss Mary Clark challenged the speakers on the affirmative side to contrast the women of Canada to those of other countries who are in darkness. Voice: "The best place for 'em'."

Miss Clark enlightened the audience with the information that all the motherhood in the world would never get a tonsil operation for Johnny or music lessons for Mary. That explains a lot of things.

The same speaker went on to point out that the young married couple of today when they cannot afford both a radio and a baby choose the radio, because they can shut the thing off when they want to.

"Love flies out of the window when the wolf comes in through the door," said Miss Clark. Shades of the big bad wolves in Mr. Curran's home town!

"What would have happened if Joan of Arc remained in the kitchen darning socks?" The Opposition asked. "France would now belong to the British Empire," replied Mr. Rae. (Continued on Page 4)

Senator Wilson Throws Party

Kingston, Nov. 28 (C.I.P.)—After a short speech in which he made the statement that he thought the money made by rich men should be returned to the people from whom they had made it, Senator Lawrence A. Wilson of Montreal, last night handed a cheque for thirty thousand dollars to Principal W. H. Fyfe to be used by the university. The incident occurred in the midst of a gala concert in Grant Hall sponsored by Senator Wilson, who says that his ambition in life is to make miserable people happy. Over 1600 people packed Grant Hall to hear the special troupe of French Canadian artists brought from Montreal by Senator Wilson, accompanied by a group of distinguished guests, arrived in Kingston at noon and was met at the station by a crowd of students and citizens who escorted him to the university from where he visited all the educational and charitable institutions in the city and these visits were climaxed by a gala concert at which the bequest was made, following the concert, which was broadcast over the Radio Commission's Montreal station. Senator Wilson was tendered a reception in the new gymnasium.

CHARGE SHORTAGE OF CIRCULATION

'Varsity' Reaches Some Points too Late, Say Many Students

NO OTHER OBJECTIONS

In investigating as to whether the circulation of The Varsity was satisfactory to all concerned, the most common complaint seemed to point to a shortage. In almost all cases students felt that the papers arrived early enough, in fact too early for some, as it was merely a case of "first come first served", and the unfortunate who had a nine o'clock lecture were forced to do without.

A fourth year Trinity student who declined to give her name stated that the supply was perfectly adequate both at Trinity and at St. Hilda's. W. P. Piggott of University College, when questioned admitted that when he reached the U.C. common room at 10 (Continued on Page 4)

Ticket Allotment For U.C. Follies

The subscription manager of the U.C. Follies, which are to be held Friday evening at Hart House, has asked The Varsity to explain the method of allotment and sale of tickets. Those students whose names are on the typed lists now posted in the common room, are assured of receiving undergraduate tickets if they will call for them today between 12 and 2 p.m. at the Lit. office. Tomorrow, Thursday, from 12 to 1 p.m. any of the above tickets not called for on Wednesday will be sold to those men who have signed the second supplementary list. Preference will be given according to order of calling at the office, not by the order of signing the list.

When all undergraduate tickets are sold, students may purchase graduate tickets. At 1 p.m. on Thursday any tickets left in the office will be sold to the first comers. Mr. Lanning wishes to point out that the rule regarding sale of tickets only to students who have their admit to lecture cards will be strictly carried out.

Another War Will Produce

Great War

MORAL WICKEDNESS OF WAR

"If we have another war within the next ten years this generation will be faced with exactly the same situation as my generation was faced with twenty years ago and will have every opportunity of getting their heads shod off," declared Mr. J. F. White, editor of the Canadian Forum, addressing the newly formed Anti-War Society yesterday afternoon. Mr. White then described the various agencies which are working against war as being the rather vague liberalism which objects to war on ethical or humanitarian grounds, the various pacifist societies, organised religion, the League of Nations and international socialism. The first three of these he classified as idealistic forces which are attempting to change the heart of man, to appeal to his better nature and to point out the moral wickedness of war. That type of pacifism is largely futile in Mr. White's opinion, for no amount of ethics or religion will restrain a man from fighting if he thinks his (Continued on Page 4)

CONCERT AND DANCE

Veteran Philanthropist Provides Favours Galore for All Invited

By Milton Shulman

Last night the students of Queen's University and half the city of Kingston were entertained at a gala concert and dance staged by the Honorable Senator Lawrence A. Wilson, who is famous throughout the world for his many benevolences which have been given without partiality to religious beliefs or nationalities. This affair which was the culmination of a series of curious events, had the faculty of the university worried for a time as to its success.

From a reliable source The Varsity gleaned the information that Senator Wilson had notified the governors of Queen's that he intended to present to that university a gift of $30,000. However, before he presented this sum, the Senator expressed his intention to Principal Fyfe of holding a huge free party for the students of the institution. After a great deal of correspondence engagements were finally agreed upon and the Senator went about perfecting his plans for the event. He expressed his intention of making this dance and concert the biggest and most elaborate occasion Kingston had ever witnessed.

The Senator sent word to Dr. Fyfe that he desired five classes of people to be invited to the affair. Those he wanted were the faculty of the university, the undergraduates of Queen's, the graduates, the elite of Kingston, and a selected number from the common class. This immediately involved several difficulties due to the impossibility of finding a hall large enough to hold such an assemblage, and the committee finally decided to hold it in their Grant Hall, with a very strict supervision over the attendance. In the meantime elaborate and plentiful favours have been arriving for the past fortnight at the Dean's office.

Huge boxes marked "B" for boy and "G" for girl, contain horns, whistles and every type of noisemaker, large-brimmed hats for the ladies, and attractive whisks and bridge scores. There are also special "gifts" for staff members, including "false noses for full professors". Senator Wilson had also expressed his desire that microphones and amplifiers be stationed at vital spots in the city, so that everyone could enjoy the music "even to the lowly prisoners in the cells at (Continued on Page 4)

Trinity Studes Stage Serenade St. Hilda's Girls Cheer Parade

Early this morning, shortly after the hour of twelve, a band of Trinity men, having made the most of the interval after the cake fight, joined hands and paraded north along St. George Street. The ultimate destination being St. Hilda's residences, the party made their way tortuously up the street unfortunately impeding the progress of vehicular traffic in their advance. The objective having been reached, a chorus of mildly flavoured voices poured forth on the midnight air, interspersed at times with personal greetings to the inmates.

The sudden burst of harmony after the comparatively silent march succeeded in arousing the slumbering "Saints" whose appearance at the windows brought forth shouts of welcome. One enthusiastic member of the serenaders, wearing a mortar board, was seen attempting to mount the verandah pillars of 101 St. George, unfortunately without success.

After exhausting their store of melody, the parade returned south to the corner of Hoskin and St. George, where a large circle was formed in order that the body might display its loyalty to "Auld Lang Syne". From there attempts were made to enter Whitney Hall. One particular gentleman, clad in a dressing gown, appeared later in the company of two similarly outfitted residents of that institution.

Another band, attempting an entrance, in their eagerness were unfortunate enough to shatter a pane of glass in one of the doors. The act playing a sobering part upon the more convivial members, the company returned to secluded halls of Trinity House.

CO-EDUCATION AS SEEN IN OUR ADVERTISEMENTS

That advertising reflects the times is a statement no one would challenge, and now that co-education has become an established fact it is interesting to note the reflection of its development in the advertising columns of The Varsity.

In the first issue, October 7, 1880, although there are several articles on co-education in the editorial matter, little appeal is directed toward the fair sex in the advertising. Amid such advertisements as "For prompt attention and cheap work call at Rossin House Barber Shop and Bath Rooms", and "Hats that R Hats—We show the largest and most and most (yes, proof-reading has improved since) stylish stock in English Felt and Silk Hats in the city", and "Gents' Scotch and Canadian Lamb's Wool Underwear in Plain and Ribbed", only in "Guinane's Monster Boot Store—excellent stock of Ladies', Gents' and Childrens' Boots and Shoes", are women considered. Shoes seem to be the only thing they need, for although all the hat ads are for men, on November 3, 1883, there is a cut of a dainty boot, buttoned up the side, but the advertiser seems rather ashamed of his boldness, for the copy merely reads "for good boots and shoes go to S. R. Hanna." Still the girls are neglected—only in the ads we hope—witness the Students' Emporium "Pipes, Walking Canes, Albums, Fans, Opera Glasses, Gents' Dressing Cases, etc., etc."; unless of course the etceteras are purely feminine.

However, at last the co-eds seem to have made their presence felt, for there is an advertisement from an importer and dealer in General House Furnishings. And in 1915 the Swiss Laundry has a picture of a buxom young lady in evening dress, examining through her lorgnette the spotless shirt front of a high-collared, handsome young gentleman.

On January 21, 1916, two full-length columns describe "The Attitude of Varsity to Booze" and later the publicity for prohibition contains this sub-head: "Women in 1,000 Motor Cars—the women will have a place of honour in the procession as they rightly should, for they have always been in the vanguard of the fight".

And at last affairs came to such a pass that on October 26, 1922, Ryrice's advertised a "charming diamond engagement ring".

From then on things progressed rapidly. Simpson's seem to be the first to realise that the hat is also a feminine appendage. Under the illustration, featuring two co-eds, is the following description of their hats: "in one there is a gleam of silver caught in a metallic brow band; in another there's the fluttering lace veil, a charming foil for the coquette; in a third the shaggy modishness of a burnt peacock mount that droops shoulderward." In 1923 a hockey match between Aura Lee Women and Varsity Women is advertised for the Arena. Another advertisement advises: "Send her Simpson's Chocolates tied with her College Colors". And now all who are interested may read of sparkling Alice-in-Wonderland hair bands, so-sheer silk stockings and those articles in which Virginia Dare specialises.

Yes, the fair co-ed is here to stay, with the advertisements striving to make her even fairer.

TRINITY HONOURS ATHLETIC TEAMS

"worms" by Dean of Residence. The cake, in the form of a green worm, had to be carried from Harbord Street to the steps of Trinity House in the face of the soph's opposition.

The freshmen lined up in a flying wedge, advanced at the whistle and were met half way by the sophomores. The latter, armed with a long rope, attempted to encircle the wedge and pull them back. The whole operation was carried on under continued showers of warm water and fire crackers cascading down from the upper stories of the building. At the end of several minutes' mixed fighting the freshmen succeeded in not only reaching the steps but also in entering the building with the treasured cake in somewhat battered form.

This was the first time in many years that the lowly worms have succeeded in besting their ancient rivals. And thus falls another of Trinity's traditions.

STUDENTS SAY CRITICISMS ARE TOO RUTHLESS

Ruth Knowlton, IV Trinity, thought that Mr. Rice's letter was justified. "Personally I enjoyed the play although there are varied opinions at the college concerning its merits. The chief complaint against the critic's report is that it wasn't constructive."

Organ Recital

He who takes up pen to write of the music of Johann Sebastian Bach finds his mind running over with superlatives. The present writer is in that situation with regard to the organ recital of last night which was made up entirely of the works of Bach. Dr. Willan excelled himself in the third recital of the year at Convocation Hall both in choosing a programme and in its performance.

Bach is essentially a religious composer. He lived a life of quiet piety and all-sufficient faith. He was a man wrapped up in his art and his home to the exclusion of material things that would have absorbed a smaller man. The thought of Glory to God was pre-eminent in all his work. The line of demarcation between the sacred and the secular for him seems to have been very indistinct to him. Even the little clavier exercises he wrote for his children are prefaced by the words "In Nomine Jesu". Many of his greatest works were written for use as part of the service in the church. Bach's religion was not, however, a cowardly seeking of the protection of a deity but rather a manly joy in praise of God.

The programme of last night's recital amply illustrates this, consisting as it did, with two exceptions, of compositions with a definite religious idea suggested by the title.

Dr. Willan opened his programme with the Prelude and Fugue in C Major. This is a work of considerable power and breadth of feeling. The organist's playing in this as indeed throughout the whole programme was distinguished by a very clear rendition of contrapuntal passages.

Five Choral Preludes were played. The first, We all Believe in one God, is commonly known as "The Giant Fugue". The second was O man be wail thy grievous sin. The third was the well-known and ever welcome Jesu, joy of men's desiring. The fourth was perhaps the most lovely and expressive. It was Hark, a voice saith, all are mortal. This seems to combine a touch of sadness for man's mortality with a quiet confidence in the Grace of God. Come, Holy Ghost, Lord God, was the fifth and last.

The Three Preludes on the Kyrie: Kyrie Gott Vater in Ewigkeit, Christe, aller Welt Trost, and Kyrie, Gott heiliger Geist, were in the same deeply religious mood as the chorale preludes.

The final number made a very fitting close to this excellent programme. It was the Frelude and Fugue in E Flat. The fugue also bears the title "St. Anne's". This prelude and fugue represent Bach at his best and greatest.

We certainly hope that Dr. Willan will give us another programme of this nature this year. It would also be interesting to hear Bach and modern composers alternated for the sake of comparison. E.R.B.

Massey Hall

One of the most delightful forms of music is part-singing, especially the singing of the folk songs, madrigals, etc., which bulked large in the popular music of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and a small but very enthusiastic audience in Massey Hall last night were treated to a more than ordinarily delightful programme of such music by the New English Singers of London.

The songs themselves represent the highest peak of popular music in any English age—the perfect blending of poetry with music. And the New English Singers brought to them the sympathetic artistry of those who know and enjoy their subject. They also brought a vocal perfection which is only too rare in this day and age. Both in purity of tone, clarity of diction and control of volume they left nothing to criticism.

The songs themselves were of a refreshing variety and were chosen with unerring taste. These singers successfully avoided the common error of too many of the more famous concert artists, that of making up a programme (Continued on Page 4)

CONCERNING THE CRITICS

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:
May I have the opportunity of replying to the drooling effusion of vile prejudice which appeared in a recent copy of The Varsity as the criticism of the Trinity play?

The inexperienced might conclude from having seen the play and read your criticism that all dramatic critics were very asinine, whereas those of us who read outside newspapers know that this is not the case. Having cleared up such possibility of misapprehension, may I be a trifle platiitudinous and say that your critic seems to know almost as little of dramatic criticism as of common courtesy?

It might be of interest to know that the gentleman whose Russian accent was criticised as not quite the correct thing is a Russian. Need one say more? This one instance is a precise indication of the inanity of the whole criticism, and one must conclude that your critic is wrong, and that the audiences, who so very much enjoyed the fine production, are right.

Sincerely,

Pryncy Nesbitt.

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:
In reference to Mr. Rice's letter of today's issue, may I go a step further and ask how much longer The Varsity intends to continue publishing the puerile criticisms from the pens of Carroll Coburn and Jean Morton. In every review which has appeared in The Varsity written by Coburn, especially those concerning Hart House Theatre, the tone of his reviews is in direct opposition to all the views expressed by the downtown critics. # BLUES VS. MCGILL IN WATER POLO OPENER SAT. NIGHT

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

At a meeting of the executive of the Basketball Club yesterday, the question of whether the game between School of Nursing and Vic Juniors should stand or not, was thoroughly discussed. It was unanimously decided that School of Nursing had won the right to meet U.C. Seniors in the group playoff without playing another game at O.C.E. with the Scarlet and Gold team. The reason for this decision rests mainly in the fact that the protest was made after the game. Vic agreed in the first place to the arrangements the Nurses made regarding the time and place and consequently have no legitimate grounds on which to protest. The tables might have been turned on a larger floor but—the game has been played—and that's that.

Tonight at O.C.E. gym, therefore, the Nurses will fight it out with U.C. Seniors for their group championship. To date, U.C. has shown more combination and in general, a better drilled outfit. But you never can tell about these Nurses—they have done some surprising things already and seem to have enough sheer enthusiasm to sink shots. The game is called for six o'clock—come and do your bit.

If you cannot make the six o'clock game, the St. Mike's-St. Hilda's game at seven o'clock in O.C.E. gym promises to be an epic struggle. St. Hilda's have a sextet to put on the floor that is in tip-top condition, whereas St. Mike's have been weakened by injuries. Betty Shanahan will be missing from their lineup as her shoulder which she dislocated earlier in the season, will not permit her being in uniform again this year. It is hoped that the condition of Callie Dunn's eye will allow her to get into the game. This does not mean the Saints have not a snappy team for the encounter. The other players will be in the game to do their best in making up for the members who may be cheering from the benches.

S.C.M. CONFERENCE HELD AT MCMASTER

Meeting During Christmas Week Will Consider International Problems

A distinct advance in the attempt to bring students closer to present international problems will be marked by the international student conference that is to be held at McMaster University, Hamilton, from December 29 to New Year's Day.

At this conference universities throughout Canada and the United States will be represented. Each group of delegates has made a thorough study of conditions in one particular country under the headings: Race, Nationalism, and Unemployment. An especially interesting feature of the discussion will be the fact that the students of both Canada and the United States will be familiar with the situation in any one country, so that the advantage of a dual point of view will be maintained throughout.

Students of the University of Toronto have been preparing for the conference for some time, and it is expected that a delegation of from sixteen to eighteen will attend. Groups in University College are making a study of Canada and of Germany, Victoria of Japan, Trinity of Great Britain, Meds, S.P.S. and Dents of Italy. On Monday night U. of T. representatives are to meet at Trinity College under the direction of Dr. Cassidy, in order to review the work which they have been doing.

The conference is the result of a movement among members of the Student Christian Movement, particularly in the United States, to found some such system by which students may obtain a keener appreciation of the problems of nations other than one's own and credit is particularly due to Miss Dorothy Fosdick of New York and Mr. Lloyd Reynolds, M.A., a McGill graduate, for their work in the undertaking.

WATER POLO GAME SURE-FIRE SPORT

Hockey Fixture Should Also Prove Interesting to Fans

DANCE AFTER GAME

Anyone with an open date on their hands will have no trouble in spending an entertaining Saturday evening this week-end. The hockey programme offers a Varsity-Port Colborne fixture which should be interesting. If you don't like this sort of activity how about grabbing off a fraulein and booking her up for the dance at Hart House? The dance is the concluding number to the Varsity-McGill water polo game which will be staged in the Hart House tank, the polo game we mean, not the dance.

To return to the hockey game, this struggle should be good. To date Warren Stevens' blue-clad hockey hopefuls have always limped off the ice on the short end of the score. In view of the fact that someone has to lose this doesn't seem so strange, but in every one of their recent starts the Blue team have had more than an even break in the play and have been out-lucked rather than out-played. In their last two starts they have enjoyed an early lead and when and if they develop the ability to chalk up this lead at the right time they are due for a win.

The water polo game is always a drawing card and should attract quite a crowd. Bathing suits are worn so don't hesitate to bring HER to the game and stay for the dance in the big gym. The one admission pays for both and we have yet to discover a better way to pass an evening. The water polo is a two-game home and home series with the Blue team defending the championship they won by 9 to 6 last season.

VIC ART STUDENTS DO PRACTICAL WORK

Sketch Club Meets at Grange Under Guidance of Mr. McKay

TALENT NOT REQUIRED

Students are not only learning how to appreciate art but now they are doing their own practical work. Due to the generosity of the Carnegie Foundation it has been made possible for students to obtain, at a very small cost, instruction in the various types of amateur work. The Victoria Literary Society has added to its already numerous activities a Sketch Club which meets at the Grange every Friday from 2 until 4 p.m., under the guidance of Mr. McKay, with Mr. Limer not far away. A special room is reserved for them and those who are keen may go down on certain days through the week to complete the odd sketch.

Miss Elspeth Rogers, who organised the group, considered such an activity an integral part of university life. In her opinion students have the wrong idea about the art profession. "Many consider themselves qualified to become artists because they can make a tree look like a tree, while others consider themselves infatuated because their drawing is inaccurate, and that isn't the point at all," was her way of putting it.

Dorothy Henson, another member intensely interested in the attempt, thought it a most helpful means of filling in the gap between the first year of high school and the opportunity offered at O.C.E., in which all interest in any practical work is prone to slide. No particular talent is required, only a genuine interest and although it may be of no special assistance in later years Muriel Eastwood felt that it was extremely beneficial if only to learn how such things as etchings, linoleum cuts, modelling, etc., are done.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

The U. of T. football supporters will be pleased to learn of the favourable progress being made by Hal Richardson. He has been removed from the hospital to his home where he will have to remain for some time yet. Since his unfortunate injury in the Queen's game he has been getting along favourably and is expected to make a complete recovery. Perhaps with the exception of the unfortunate loss of time from his studies, "Flicker's" greatest hope is to be able to chew by the time the football banquet comes along. It is expected by Coach Warren Stevens that the whole lineup will be intact for that crucial encounter, barring accidents between now and then.

Last evening we were the recipient of a letter sent in by a first year student who gives us his impressions acquired at the Mulock Cup Final last Friday afternoon, which we print as follows:

The Sports Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

It was with somewhat mixed feelings that we viewed our first interfaculty football final last Friday afternoon. We saw two good teams playing fine rugby under seemingly impossible circumstances. We also saw five hundred undergraduates acting like a bunch of boobs.

We would have been ashamed to admit to any friend that this mob was made up of fellow students; that such a display of poor sportsmanship was being enacted by the disciples of higher education.

It was our personal opinion that the head linesman was working on a "slant" all afternoon. However, he was consistent in his mistakes and neither team gained an advantage. We thought the referee and the umpire were impartial yet a constable thought it advisable to station himself beside an official when he was surrounded by an excited circle of spectators. At least one lady who came to see the game enjoyed the doubtful pleasure of having three students land in her lap. Two students engaged in a brief battle. When the same event occurred at a pro hockey game it left us unmoved as it seemed to be part of the spectacle. Yet it seemed out of place in a group of students. P.T. classes are compulsory yet the authorities do not insist on sportsmanship. Each team has another chance to prove their worth. An equal opportunity is open to the students. How about it men? Are you going to behave like a hunch of children or as a sensible group of adults?

A FAN.

It so happens that the same comment has come from various quarters since that game. It would seem that the Engineers cannot be denied expression of that old School spirit at odd moments. They seemed quite decided as to justification for their actions. The officials for the game were not at all partial but it so happened that when the misguided decisions were handed out School got a few more of them to disadvantage than did Victoria. There was not a great deal of difference but the margin was, if any, in Vic's favour. It is never the policy of this column to pass critical comments on the handling of any game by officials, but on this occasion we feel quite justified in asking that the committee in charge choose a more experienced trio of men for the game on Thursday. It is a very crucial game and should be handled by the best officials procurable, of which we are confident there are many.

On the other hand the most unfortunate part of the afternoon's proceedings was the damage done to the Stadium seats by the S.P.S. supporters. Not satisfied with breaking them, they started throwing them around and using them as cudgels with which to smack those for whom they had no particular affiliations. Injuries might easily have resulted that could have disabled some of the spectators seriously. Such behaviour is, to say the least, not expected of adults. And they should have had more respect for University property. It is to be hoped and we are confident that it will be a great game tomorrow. Vic and School are two evenly matched teams and the players themselves have been sportsmanlike in their conduct during play. The crowd should behave likewise and may the best team win.

Pratt, the Vic running half, is in shape again and will be seen in action again. In calling a winner we would say Victoria are favourites since the Scarlet and Gold played a major portion of last Friday's game without Pratt. The gains he made during his time on the field gave Vic an edge that was missing for the remainder of the game. The two lines turned out opposites to the expected. S.P.S. were favoured to have an advantage in plunging but, failing to go through the centre, Vic seemed able too often to move the sticks with end runs or cut-ins between outside and middle. The superb kicking of Bridgland and the plunging of Baker were the gain-makers for the Engineers. The field was slippery but not soggy and although it did not permit of any change of pace or shifting on the part of the runners it provided just enough sure footing to the fleet Scarlet and Gold halfbackers to get going. A mud covered field will be different tomorrow and it is perhaps on that condition that a prediction should be based.

Considerable interest was centred this past few weeks in the annual Hart House snooker tournament and the final match on Monday found two very proficient artists at the game rubbing chalk on cue tips. M. Levine and C. Junker were successful in winning their way through to the deciding encounter. Several worthy contestants were removed via the elimination route before that stage was reached so that the finalists were by no means over-rated. It was a case of

TO DECIDE HOLDER OF MULOCK CUP

Victoria and Senior School at Full Strength Tomorrow

PRATT AND REID IN GAME

Victoria and Senior S.P.S. will lock horns Thursday afternoon to decide whose name will be engraved on the Mulock Cup. Vic have hopes of making it two years running, while it is five long winters since School won the mug.

Both teams will be at full strength as Pratt and Reid, who were injured in the game Friday will be back for Vic. Vic supporters are praying for a fast field in order that their speedy backfield can get going. If the field is slow School should have an advantage as they have already proved strong offensively when the going is tough.

Trinity, S.P.S. and Vic have been in the semi-finals for the last three years. As the other two teams have each won a final, School supporters are hoping the law of averages will be working overtime on Thursday. Vic consented to postpone the game from Wednesday in order that the Engineers might enjoy their annual dinner Wednesday night. If the joys of Bacchus prove too much for the School team, the Vic mentors will be hailed as the masterminds of inter-faculty rugby.

Don't forget! Student ticket No. 15 admits you to the covered stands.

VOLLEYBALL FIXTURES WON BY JUNIOR MEDS

Overcome 10-4 Lead in Second Game to Win Over Pharmacy

Junior Meds last night continued their winning streak to four games by defeating Pharmacy in a volleyball fixture in the upper gym. Meds won in two straight games, the scores being 15-2 and 15-3. The first game was taken easily, the winners having the upper hand at all times.

The second game, however, was much closer as is indicated by the score. Meds put on their substitutes and Pharmacy were soon on the long end of a 10-4 score. Meds then put in the first string and they crept up until the score was 13-11 and then they garnered the extra two points.

Gold and Gould were the best for the winners, while Milburn and Evans played well for Pharmacy. The win kept Meds at the top of their group and they will now enter the playoffs.

Junior Meds — Gold, Gould, Wise, Zarsky, Crockower, Krakaver, Dick, Shulman, Cash, Floren.

Pharmacy — Milburn, Gardner, Ballantyne, Evans, Hoffman, McDougall, Bender, Wilson, Bridgette.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY MEETS THIS AFTERNOON

The Engineering Society, which meets this afternoon in Room 22 of the Mining Building, will be favoured with an address by Mr. C. B. Cooper of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Corporation, who will speak on the subject of "Producing in the Rubber Industry".

Mr. Cooper is intimately acquainted with his subject and his wealth of experience during the past seventeen years since his graduation, which have been spent with the Goodyear Corporation, should enable him to deliver a most interesting lecture. The address will be illustrated with motion pictures of the methods of production in the rubber industry.

The Argosy Weekly, undergraduate newspaper of the University of Mount Allison, recently advocated a partial abolition of compulsory attendance at lectures.

A resolution in favour of the abolition of the C.O.T.C. has been carried by Science students at the University of Manitoba.

Kingston penitentiary." Most of these arrangements were carried out by a perturbed staff who were doubtful as to the outcome of the whole business.

Mr. Wilson is a native of Coteau-du-Lac in Quebec Province and is of Scottish and French extraction. Among his many honorary titles he is Commandeur de l'Ordre de Saint-Grégoire-le-Grand and holds the degree of L.L.D. He hoped that Queen's University would bestow on him, instead of the ordinary titles or degrees, the degree of Doctor of Human Happiness, but the faculty found it impossible to do this and instead Senator Wilson was presented with a hand-illuminated honorary scroll.

Mr. Wilson's philosophy in life is to "make miserable people happy," and he is known everywhere as the Veteran Philanthropist. The Senator was met at the station yesterday at noon by the Queen's band and a large number of students who formed a guard of honour to conduct him into the city.

The chief thing that is now troubling the faculty and the governors of Queen's is whether or not the Senator intends to deduct from his grant, the huge expense that has been involved by the staging of this grand and glorious affair.

economic position is being threatened. Another form of pacifism, the attempt to turn people away from war by describing its horrors, is equally ineffective. The ordinary human being is capable of enduring only so much horror before he sets up a sort of defence mechanism and what was once a horror becomes a joke. The only way to prevent war is to do away with the cause by removing the friction between national groups and between classes within the national groups. To do this all national boundaries and all class distinctions must be swept away. A world socialist system in which war means no economic gain for anyone is the only system to establish certain peace.

comprised in more or less equal parts of exhibitions of vocal or manual dexterity and "popular" music which is supposed to appeal to the masses.

I think this is partly due to the fact that the artists very obviously derived sincere enjoyment from their singing. This seems to be characteristic of groups of this type, for the same personal pleasure in their work was exhibited by John Goss and his London Singers here last year.

Although the choruses are weak, the soloists are of such fine quality that any other deficiencies are easily overlooked for it is seldom that Toronto is privileged with such an excellent performance as last night when the San Carlos Opera Company played Faust their second night at the Royal Alexandra.

It is unfortunate that this excellent company should fall down, however, in so simple, yet important a matter as staging and sets. And in this their old-fashioned style is the cause, rather than bad management. Instead of a few simple pieces of furniture against a severe background, they string up flowery designs and scenery; and when Mephistopheles shows Faust the vision of lost youth, or in the finale, when Marguerite dies, in both cases pretty colourful scenes are thrown sentimentally on the background.

Yet why should we criticise such things which are mere details of their high quality singing. The garden scene was done perfectly, beautifully harmonious both in acting and singing. The trio of Valentine, Faust and Mephistopheles before the duel was very fine, as was the whole of that act. They eliminated the short but very lovely scene with Marguerite praying at the church, but the last act was perhaps the best sustained, most poignant of the whole performance, which considerably made up for the disappointment of missing the other one.

Although Leon Rothier failed to have the usual terrifying laugh of the usual Mephistopheles, he played his part so excellently and sang with such tone, that he seemed sufficient without it. His clear enunciation was especially effective.

The other very excellent member of the cast was Thalia Sabanieva, who was a perfect Marguerite, slim, blonde and naively gay. Her voice was a round full lyric, and though it might have had more volume, she held her own in the trio in the prison scene with Faust and Mephistopheles.

Toronto is happy to have this company in town, and as the house continues to fill up, we are glad to observe that Toronto is conscious of merit. J.P.M.

CORRESPONDENCE

do not imply by this that Coburn is necessarily wrong but since I saw both Arms and the Man and Hedda Gabler and heard several opinions expressed after the performance, I am inclined to agree with the downtown papers and believe that Coburn either suffers from a jaundiced eye when reviewing amateur productions or else that he is useless as a dramatic critic.

As for Miss Morton, I would ask her to read the review of See Naples and Die, by Ross Parmenter, a former dramatic critic of The Varsity which appeared in Saturday's Evening Telegram. Mr. Parmenter found several faults with the play but they were intelligently given and not of the same brand as the prize remark in her review that "George Ignatieff as Kossoff, did not have an accent as constantly foreign as the others". She might as well say that a Frenchman does not speak with a French accent!

Finally, if there is to be any worthwhile student interest in dramatics at Hart House, there must be criticism and plenty of it, but let it be at least given by somebody who knows something about the theatre.

Yours sincerely,

P. M. Morley,
II Forestry.

Any Degree of Participation

Punishable

"Theoretically, Governor Rolph of California can pardon any persons arrested for the recent lynchings in that state, but this would indicate scandalous circumstances," explained Professor F. C. Auld of the Law Department, in an interview with The Varsity.

"All persons who participate in a lynching are guilty not only of the murder of the people whom they intend to, and do, hang but are also guilty of murdering those who happen to be killed in the accompanying violence," Mr. Auld continued. "Not only is that person guilty of murder who actually puts the rope around the victim's neck, but all persons who in any way aid the perpetration of the crime are also guilty."

"It should be noted that all those present at a 'lynching bee' may be found guilty of having participated, at the least, in an unlawful assembly. If this assembly moves toward the execution of its purpose and violence is actually offered, all participants may be guilty of having taken part in a riot, which is punishable with a two-year term. If the rioters continue to assemble for more than half an hour after the 'reading of the riot act', they may be found guilty of an indictable offence and liable to imprisonment for life."

"It is obvious," continued Professor Auld, "that the duty of any prudent citizen is to separate himself as quickly as possible from such a gathering. More than that, all such men of a reasonable degree of courage ought to

The National Council of Education has been responsible for many fine lectures by famous men for the benefit of the Canadian public. President Cody is a member of the Executive Committee of the Council and takes a very keen interest in its work. Interviewed by The Varsity yesterday, President Cody said:

"The chief aim of the National Council of Education is adult education apart from the ordinary curriculum. This is best obtained by bringing noted speakers from the Old Country to give lectures under the auspices of the Council. Most of these men come without any remuneration and give their lectures as far west as Winnipeg, and often right out to the coast. Among the noted men to speak

Planned Economy Solution to

ADVOCATE STATE CONTROL

Opponents State Programme of C.C.F. is not Practicable

"The banks of Canada have not failed, but a great many of the people have," said J. S. Woodsworth, guest speaker at the Hart House debate, on the motion, "That this House sees no acceptable alternative to the two older political parties in Canada," which was lost 126-167. "The growing needs of the masses can only be met by a planned economy, in which the dictatorship of the banks and big business will be replaced by state control. This state control will hold the natural resources of the country in trust for the people."

In reply to questions asked by previous speakers, Mr. Woodsworth said that under the C.C.F. administration, Canadian nickel would be one of the first products to be nationalised, and its export limited if in world interests; while he cited the Hydro as an example of public ownership in which salaries and responsibility to the people most nearly approached by the C.C.F. ideal.

Mr. Sam Hughes, opening the motion, expressed his dismay at having to effect a reconciliation with the Liberal party, and accused the C.C.F. of having had the bad taste to come forward with a "Plan" instead of following the good old Conservative dictum of "muddling through". He wanted to

"No thinking man can be satisfied with things as they are today. All of us believe that something better is needed—call it transformation, progress or what you will. But any such change must cost. And the challenge to all of us today is so to throw ourselves into that change that we may bear our share of what is accomplished must cost."

The speaker was Professor John Line of Victoria College in the course of his address in Hart House last night. His address was the last of a series of five on "Our World Today" organised by the S.C.M. Taking as his subject "The Responsibility of the Individual", he sought to gather up the threads of the previous four addresses and to show the demands which they made upon us.

"There are in my opinion," he said, "three responsibilities laid upon us as individuals. The first is that we make and keep ourselves intellectually informed on the world about us. Without a wide diffusion of knowledge and intelligent purpose democracy will not thrive."

Sir Arthur Currie Dies

Montreal, Nov. 30. (CIP). After waging a brave but weary struggle for his life in the face of great odds, Sir Arthur Currie G.C.M.G., K.C.B., Principal of McGill University and Commander-in-chief of the Canadian Forces during the Great War, passed away at the Royal Victoria Hospital at 2.50 a.m. Sir Arthur failed to rally after an attack of pneumonia which set in towards the close of a 23 day illness. His death came at the age of 67 years.

All McGill lectures are cancelled until after the funeral, which will be held Saturday.

President Cody, when informed by The Varsity of Sir Arthur's death, stated: "The University of Toronto profoundly regrets his passing and assures Lady Currie, McGill University and his family of its sympathy. All Canada stands in debt to Sir Arthur for his singular services during the war and equally singular services in the post-war period."

"He was a great man with force of character and kindness of heart. As Principal of McGill he revealed the same qualities of leadership and good judgment and the power of choosing colleagues that marked his military career. All Canada mourns his passing and dedicates itself to a realization of those great ideals which were so dear to Sir Arthur's heart."

The department for the study of economics in agriculture was instituted by the Dominion Government only four years ago, although some of the provinces had developed such a division before this time, but in no case before 1922, thus making the venture a comparatively recent one.

COMBINATION DISPLAYED

Game Twice Tied as Poloists Burst into Scoring Orgy

By G. T. Burt-Gerrans
Varsity seniors and Central "Y" thrashed their way through a grueling water polo game in Hart House pool last night with Varsity squeezing through on a 4-3 score. It was a clean, fast-moving game from start to finish and provided plenty of thrills for the few spectators present.

After less than a minute of play Leerie picked up a pass in front of the Central "Y" goal and ripped the net for the first counter. With Varsity playing better combination in this first half than Central, the ball flew up and down the pool for three minutes with many close saves being made by both goal keepers before the next score came. Benedict, Central "Y" forward, ended a neat bit of combination play by planting the ball where McLeod in the Varsity net could not even begin to reach.

Shortly after this, Brophy of Central drew a two-minute penalty for jumping at the ball from the side of the tank. His team-mates redoubled their efforts however, and kept Varsity outside till half-time came with the score tied at 1-1.

In the first minute of the next period Central lost possession and appeared to fall asleep. The ball travelled leisurely up the tank to Davey, who was uncovered due to Brophy's penalty. He sized in a corner shot that Cornfield, Central goalie, made no (Continued on Page 3)

S.C.M. Corner

For the Kingdom of God, by Richard Roberts. S.C.M. Press.

Like Toyohiko Kagawa to whom this little book is dedicated, Dr. Roberts has here done much "to renew for this generation the hope of the kingdom." For everyone who attended the Lenten Mission last year, this book will bring back every reaction and inspiration which Dr. Roberts' addresses awakened. Every moment of the Mission will live again to any reader of this print of the five addresses given there.

Those were no mean moments. We students came close to a great student mind. We were thrilled with a sparkling parade of profound illustrations. The need for direction in life became a vivid phrase. We were drawn out of ourselves by a picture of human nature as unfulfilled and perverted. Like William Blake's little man "we wanted" too. We responded deeply to the graphic person of Jesus who lived through us as Dr. Roberts' description flowed on with his inimitable literary precision and scholarly insight. Our various thoughts assented quickly and firmly to the philosophy of Jesus as the disclosure of God and human nature. And then as we looked around, life was now suddenly awakened to the possibility of reverence for personality, respect for truth, the unity of mankind, and the law of love.

However, these moments are no longer the selfish heritage of those who attended the Mission. For anyone who appreciates apt humour, for any lover of contemporary authors or of literary brilliance, for any philosopher in cultural developments, for any seeker after life's deepest meanings—we heartily recommend this book, For the Kingdom of God, by Richard Roberts. ### Reporter Scans the Latest Ads They Cater Now to Coed's Fads

By Fanny Schwartz

The Varsity is growing up! We know it, we know it, we know it, because:

(1) In 1830 women at the university were as rare as stocking ads, and as scrupulously ignored in its dignified columns, and

(2) Now even the ads have S.A.

And the personal appeal is getting closer to the realities . . .

And somehow from the recesses of memory we pick a gem. One morning as we were reading The Varsity during a lecture (in our usual nonchalant way) we happened to notice the caption, "Where is this Young Lady Going?" As we were glancing at the picture attached, we heard a voice behind us remark, "Where in the world could she go, in an outfit like that?"

We've often wondered just who is attracted to the ads—if any. Some seem to have a purely feminine point of view, but we have seen masculine eyes turning—turning . . .

"It's new—it's male!" For a moment we were about to yield a point to the men—and we shook off all responsibility for non-temperance ads, when we noticed that malt was merely a new hosiery shade.

Another ad gone wrong!

On looking through last year's files we find an ad on stuttering—but we decided it had nothing to do with education.

But perhaps the one asserting, "Rent a New Sport Sedan for the next Party or Dance", might . . .

We decided to look into this co-educational business in ads—so after much searching we dug up an old paper from a non-co-ed college, just to see what purely masculine ads were like. Right on the back page the heading glared at us: "Please all your girl friends, get duplicates of your year pin or key—in sets of three and over."

We'd like to pin a few of those Romeo right down to facts.

It seems pretty clear to us by now that women have not only entered college life but are dominating the ads in college papers. For surely men don't profess an interest in female knick-knacks—"Siliconettes are made, not born"—a purely feminine appeal, we hope!

And the triumph of co-education: "Take her to the ——— after the theatre" or "Get her her college pin for Christmas". (Advt.—see any of last year's Varsity's of November or December.) Or even—"Dancing Lessons"—no more maidens dancing with tears in their eyes!

THE HART HOUSE DEBATE

The large vote at the Hart House Debate last night indicates that students are indeed taking their politics seriously, and they are interested in theory as well as in the actual machinery of government. This may be taken as an expression of the attitude of the people of Canada today. They are thinking, not merely of what the party they are interested in is doing, but of what it proposes to do.

The C.C.F. has a plan, a plan for which it may be criticised and condemned, but nevertheless a plan. The policy of the older parties has been mainly to stand pat, and to resort to the Anglo-Saxon method of "muddling through", as one speaker expressed it. From the majority cast in favour of the C.C.F. last night it would appear that students favour the party which has some definite and concrete proposal to make. Undoubtedly there are those who will "vieve with alarm" the vote cast in favour of the socialist party at the University of Toronto. Those who have attended Hart House Debates know that the vote may be merely a tribute to the Honourable Visitor, or a tribute to the eloquence of the speakers for the Opposition. Aside from that, it does indicate, however, that the policy of the C.C.F. meets with the favour of a good many students.

The two older parties are nearing a crisis, it is a time to prepare for action. To date their leaders have been content with standing pat, and have been cautious about committing themselves. The older parties will have to come forth with a vigorous policy and a definite platform, if they wish to command the attention and hold the allegiance of the thinking people among the electorate.

THE ATTENDANCE AT ORGAN RECITALS

The attendance at Dr. Healey Willan's organ recital at Convocation Hall on Tuesday afternoon was so small that it excited comment on the part of an exchange student from another university. The difficulty in attendance is, we venture to think, due to the fact that no admission is charged. We seem to be suspicious of anything that is "free"; while you hear students bewailing the fact that a ticket to the Symphony or the Hart House String Quartette is impossible for them, yet these same students ignore the opportunity offered by the organ recitals.

Dr. Willan is reputed to be the foremost organ composer on the continent. His works are well-known to students of the organ both here and in Europe, his execution is of the quality that one would expect from a man of his accomplishments, and the programmes that he offers reflect his discrimination in matters musical. It is little to be wondered at that his concerts are so enjoyable to those who take time to attend them. For this same reason it is deplorable that this group is so small. To those who have neglected to avail themselves of the excellent opportunity offered to hear music well-executed let the injunction be given, that they realise their blessings.

A LIBERAL PROTESTS

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I wish to draw to your attention some features of the Hart House debate last evening. The motion before the House gave an opportunity to debate on the C.C.F. and its acceptance by Canadians. The result was that the speakers for the C.C.F. were given an opportunity to condemn the present state of affairs and to offer a plan for salvation with no method for its fulfillment.

In the meantime one of the C.C.F. speakers proceeded to castigate the Liberal Party and its policies, well knowing that there was little chance of being brought to task for his statements, as all the main speakers opposing him were Conservatives. To make his position secure the majority of the speakers from the floor who were permitted to speak against him by the dictator in the chair, were of the same faith.

Surely the time has come when the small clique dominating the Debates Committee should be severely censured. At least the Liberals should have been given a fair chance to defend themselves and given an opportunity to present to the House the case for Liberalism.

The Debates Committee should also be censured for the ambiguous wording of the motion, which should have directly stated rather than to have implied that the debate would be on the C.C.F. I suppose that the nearness of Queen's Park might have been a deterrent. But now that Mr. Woods' worth has come to the university and the C.C.F. has obtained the support

A CRITIC REPLIES

An interesting phenomenon, which occurs nearly every year with the greatest regularity, is the annual deluge of attacks upon the Art, Music and Drama critics of The Varsity. This year's epidemic is apparently well under way, with three letters already received and more probably on tap.

The attacks are practically the same every year, and the most recent examples are entirely typical. To tabulate our sins, we are accused of unsportsmanlike behaviour, lack of sagacity or understanding, priggishness, self-advertising and self-assertiveness, puerility and immaturity, deceptiveness, prejudice, insanity, jaundice, and (save the mark!) failure to concur with the infallible judgments of the downtown press. All, or nearly all, of these charges have been repeated so often that one wonders whether these self-appointed critics have not been receiving inspiration from the files of previous years. It seems strange that a long succession of critics should all have been infected with the self-same maladies.

Another consistent feature is the vicious character of most of the attacks. Such remarks as, "May I have the opportunity of replying to the drooling effusion of vile prejudice which appeared in a recent issue of The Varsity?" and "May I ask how much longer The Varsity intends to continue publishing the puerile criticisms from the pen of So-and-So?" are strictly according to precedent. Dispassionate criticism is exceptional. It is rather amusing to observe how frequently those who are most ready to accuse us of puerility and immaturity betray those same characteristics in their own lack of emotional control.

Some of these charges, however, do merit a reply. The first is that we critics are too self-assertive. It appears that a critic should have no opinions, no view-point, no personality. "A more impersonal statement of fact," says Mr. Rice, "is sufficient." The perfect critic, apparently, sits remote upon the high peak of omniscience and points out flaws with unerring pen. Unfortunately this is impossible. Every critic must have his own standards. He must have his own, personal opinions of what is good or bad, and he must base his judgments upon them. I should advise Mr. Rice and any others who agree with him to read Music in London, the collected criticisms of George Bernard Shaw. Whether or not you agree with Shaw's ideas, you can scarcely call him a puerile, priggish or insane critic. I do not think you can call him anything but a very good critic. Yet compared to Shaw's criticisms, those of The Varsity are marvels of dispassionate objectivity.

A second complaint is that The Varsity too frequently (invariably is the charge, but I must protest it is an exaggeration) disagrees with the verdicts of audiences and of the downtown press. As far as audiences are concerned, their judgment is scarcely infallible. Last year, for instance, the Irish Theatre Players, one of the best companies to visit Toronto, played to lamentably small houses, while much inferior companies had capacity crowds. A large percentage of most audiences don't know good drama or good music from second-rate stuff. Their opinions are molded by their prejudices. They like what they think they ought to like. I have no doubt a Trinity audience would respond enthusiastically to any Trinity play which was not hopelessly inadequate, but it is fantastic to suggest that they do so as the result of an impartial, analytical judgment.

As for the downtown press, its judgment also is warped. To be a successful critic on any Toronto daily one must view everything through rose-coloured spectacles. I have been told by one reviewer, in fact, that a criticism of his was actually rewritten before it reached the press, because he had been too harsh. The policy of the press is to please everybody, and especially its advertisers. With respect to amateur productions especially, it sees fit to adopt an attitude of benignant condescension. The most cutting form of criticism it allows itself is to restrict the review to a paragraph or two of polite nothings. The Varsity is frequently adjured not to follow the lead of the downtown press in its news columns. I pride myself that the advice—and it is sound advice—has been consistently applied also to the columns of criticism.

Mr. Rice also charges that The Varsity's criticisms are not sanely analytical. This is not true. If Mr. Rice will consult back files and read carefully every criticism which has appeared over my initials, I think he will retract his statement. A case in point is the review of Hedda Gabler. Whether he agrees with it or not, he cannot deny that a definite attempt was made to analyse both the play and the performance. It is not easy to rush from the theatre to the press and construct a carefully thought-out criticism with only an hour or so to do it in, but in the face of all dogmatic assertions to the contrary I shall maintain that most of my reviews are both sane and as far as possible analytical.

I am convinced that most of the objections to The Varsity's criticisms have their real basis in objection to the review of certain amateur and semi-amateur productions in which the objectors have been interested. In a future issue I intend to explain exactly why The Varsity adopts the attitude it does to these productions. Meanwhile, I rest my case.

Elman the Violinist

Next Monday evening, December 4, Mischa Elman will be heard in a recital in Eaton Auditorium. Elman is one of the greatest and most popular of living violin virtuosos, and the concert-goers of Toronto are privileged in being able to hear him once again. The concert is the second of the series managed by Mr. I. F. Suckling—a series which will later bring John Charles Thomas, Sigrid Onegin, and Walter Gieseking.

U.C. "FOLLIES" TICKETS ARE SOLD APACE

The first day of the sale of U.C. Follies tickets resulted in a great rush at the Lit. office, where the line-up kept those in charge busy for two hours. Owing to the fact that all those desiring tickets could not obtain them at that time another sale will take place today, for all men desiring tickets.

When interviewed yesterday, Mr. Woods, the social director, stressed as an added feature the playing of three squash exhibitions by some of the leading players in Hart House, both grads and undergrads. The year skis are also of a high calibre. The U.C. water polo team will attempt to avenge the defeat suffered at the hands of Dents last week.

It is also rumored that in lieu of a third year skit, some outstanding members of a well-known male chorus have been procured. Everything taken into consideration the annual U.C. Binge ought to outdo all previous efforts. The committee will not be responsible for damages suffered.

The patronesses will be Mrs. M. W. Wallace, Mrs. W. J. McAndrew, Mrs. L. T. Morgan and Miss Marion Ferguson. The guests, all U.C. undergraduates.

The U.C. senior volleyball artists stepped up to tie the Senior Vic in their group when they defeated the O.C.E. "A" team in the upper gym last night. The scores were 15-6, 13-15, 15-9.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

There are games—and games—but not many like that School of Nursing-U.C. Senior encounter of last night. Anyway, the Nurses had them fooled till half-time when the Red and White team settled down to play and finally managed to get their passes working. We take off our hats to those Nurses—they put up a gallant fight to the very end—and we hope they have found this year sufficiently successful to convince them they ought to enter the league again.

But we do not mean to belittle the work of the U.C. team. They are a live-wire outfit and will now meet St. Hilda's in the semi-finals as Vic Seniors got the bye.

And there was the young lady from Trinity, who when changing her sweater on the floor in full view of the assembled multitudes—but then, it wouldn't be nice to tell that, would it? (Algeron, you weren't looking, were you?)

With Trinity's war cry still ringing in our ears we would like to suggest to the other colleges that they back up their teams in a similar manner. The game last night between St. Mike's and St. Hilda's was the fastest so far this season and was most exciting to witness. The semi-finals and finals promise some more real basketball. Why not show some interest, U.C. and Vic?

By the way, would you like to hear about the basketball game between U.C. Jrs. and Meds on Tuesday night? It was more of a rough and tumble evidently than an exhibition of basketball "as how she should be played". Three U.C. players were put off for personal fouls—a fact which completely disorganized the U.C. lineup. The fact that the game made no difference in the standing of the two teams caused them to loosen up the play to a very great extent. The game ended with U.C. Jrs. on the right side of a 40-16 score.

BLUE WATER POLOISTS DEFEAT CENTRAL "Y"

attempt whatever to block. After this lapse the "Y" team settled down and made things hum. Nevertheless it was McCatty who scored the next goal, making it 3-1 for Varsity. He burned in a high corner shot that left Cornfield wildly grabbing at nothing.

Play became faster than ever and a man from each team drew penalties for ducking each other. Stevens and Askey ran in two more for Central and again it was anybody's game. Varsity were very nearly the recipients of a really tough break when there were only two minutes left to play. There was a scramble in front of their net, in fact it was right on the goal line, and when the spray had settled it appeared that Central had a free pass, because a Varsity man had held the ball under his hand. It was touch and go when the ball was passed in front of the goal, but McCatty intercepted a shot and cleared away up the tank. Soon after this Smith threw a hard pass to Bancroft in front of the "Y" goal. He bounced it off the palm of his hand into the corner of the net for the last score of the game.

McCatty, Learie and Bancroft were the best men on the Varsity team, while Lorenzen, Benedict and Askey shone for the losers.

Varsity — Goal, McLeod; defence, Smith, Rogers; half, Learie; centre, McCatty; wings, Davey, Bancroft.

Central "Y" — Goal, Cornfield; defence, Light, Stevens; half, Askey; centre, Benedict; wings, Brophy, Lorenzen.

Referee — Lew Ayres.

BLUE JUNIORS IN FINE SHAPE

C-C Pucksters Possess Greater Aggressiveness This Year

LEAGUE OPENS DECEMBER 6

Judging by the display given last night when they held the West Toronto National senior to a 3-1 win in a practice at Varsity Arena, the Blue juniors may cut a wide swath in the O.H.A. ranks this season. On paper they do not appear as strong as last year's representatives, but the fact that there are no standouts, augurs well for their combination.

The team is rounding nicely into shape, and as the league schedule will not begin before December 6 at least, the rough spots in the team's play will probably be polished up by that time. Varsity will most likely be grouped with Young Rangers, Parkdale Canoe Club, Toronto Canoe Club and West Toronto Nationals, which means they will be meeting stiff opposition from the first game.

In Owen and Shipman, Coach Bill Dewar has two net minders capable of turning in bang-up games, with White and the one and only Art Upper combining to form a capable rear-guard. Hamer, Poupore and Ripley appear to have the inside track for the front line chores, but Coach Dewar is still juggling the others to obtain the best combinations possible. With Wainwright, O'Leary and Sissons available for alternate defence work, and Walkey, Morgan, Wilmont, Lavery, and Putnam for alternate forwards, there is assembled a squad able to give any team a battle as last night's score shows.

The team possesses a fighting aggressiveness which was strangely lacking last year, and this fact may make all the difference between a win and a loss in a crucial game. Even if the juniors do not land a championship this year, Bill Dewar has several good puck chasers eligible for the next couple of years.

KNOX DEFEATS S.P.S. 16 TO 10 IN BOXLA

Victory Places Winners at Head of Their Group

Knox decisively outplayed S.P.S. to win a box lacrosse game held yesterday afternoon in the big gym in Hart House, by a 16-10 score. This win is an important one for the Knox team as it puts them at the top of their group and they now enter the playoffs. The game was fast enough, but was inclined to roughness at times, which Referee Kerr was quick to check.

The winners were never behind, although at the end of the first period they held a slim 3-2 lead. In the next session, however, they sank four goals to the Engineers' none, and the final two periods saw them play consistently good lacrosse to overcome School's desperate rally. MacEachern, Caslor and Cochrane were the three sharpshooters for Knox; all played an excellent game and worked long passes and short rushes to the goal to perfection. Jacobs was top scorer for the Science men, while Murray and Sharpe also turned in good efforts for S.P.S. Both teams played as though the first goal had yet to be scored and the checking was, therefore, rather heavy. School's defence was liable to crack at times and Weir, the Knox goalie, had only half as many shots to block as his rival.

Knox — Weir, Davidson, Cochrane, Jamieson, Caslor, MacEachern, Wilson. S.P.S. — Millar, Hamilton, Taylor, Bates, Sharpe, Walkey, Murray, Bruce.

Jacobs, Stroude, Bready. Referee — J. Kerr.

M. François Mauriac, the essayist, novelist and poet, has been elected to the French Academy.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By Paul B. Smith

Victoria and S.P.S. renew hostilities today when they meet at Varsity Stadium to settle intercollegiate football supremacy this afternoon. That the teams are very evenly matched was demonstrated last week when they battled to a tie score; overtime did not suffice to break the deadlock. Both squads are keyed up to championship pitch for today's struggle and a "rare old battle" is anticipated. The heavy rain of yesterday will undoubtedly make the field heavy, but both teams should be handicapped equally; the fast running Vic halfbacks will be slowed down, while the heavy School linemen should find the plunging rather difficult. However, when two such evenly matched teams meet under such unfavourable conditions the breaks are usually six for one and half a dozen for the other. The brand of football that these boys displayed last week was enough to satisfy the most fastidious fan, and there is no reason to believe that the same will not hold true today. The treasured Mulock Cup is a great incentive, and for many years has been the direct inspiration for some of the finest displays of the fall pastime seen in Toronto. Lovers of football will never forgive themselves if they miss today's classic. The time, 2 o'clock. The place, Varsity Stadium. Student ticket No. 13.

The Varsity junior hockey team are a different aggregation than that which lost out to St. Mike's in the first round of the S.P.A. The old adage "practice makes perfect" has been taken to heart, and profitably applied. The junior Blues held the West Toronto Nationals, a senior team, to a two-goal margin in a game the other day. Bill Dewar has been working indefatigably with his charges of late, and the net result is a very much improved team. The redoubtable Bill knows a lot of hockey, and if the youngsters can absorb the clever mentor's words of wisdom they will be right up there when the final reckoning comes. Supporters of the junior squad have every reason to be optimistic over their chances; the first game can be thrown out. It didn't really matter anyway, but watch them from now on. They boast a few players who need no introduction at all: Johnny Poupore, Art Upper and Shipman compare quite favourably with any of the junior stars campaigning in the age-limit class. As for the others, they will make their presence felt and their identity known to all and sundry before the season is very far advanced. Keep an eye open for the date of the first game.

Now that the celebrated snooker tournament has drawn to a successful close, and a worthy champion declared, we can direct our attention to other diverse forms of entertainment. The chess enthusiasts should soon be crowning their champion, although mention of that more intellectual pastime should be reserved for the honoured spaces of the editorial column. However, we will endeavour to keep you posted on the various indoor, rainy-afternoon activities. We will publish a complete list of those who cover themselves with glory, or mud, either by running twenty points or trouncing their partner's ace.

ST. HILDA'S TAKES ST. MIKE'S 29-24

O.C.E. gym was the scene last night of a women's basketball game between St. Hilda's and St. Mike's for their group championship which St. Hilda's won with a 29-24 score. St. Mike's opened the scoring with a fast offensive that netted them three baskets in the first few minutes of play. Throughout the game they displayed keen combination and team work. The St. Hilda's outfit showed real ability in shooting and were most successful in snappy short passes. Heavy body checking caused K. Grubbe to be put off for personal fouls. There were a great many fouls being made on both sides, technical and personal. At half-time St. Mike's led by one basket, 13-15.

In the second half, the St. Mike's defence, who had been doing some wonderful work at their end of the floor, seemed to tire in their efforts to check the shift St. Hilda's forward line, with the result that the fast Trinity trio gained a lead. M. L. Carre turned in a fast game for St. Hilda's as did E. Ardagh. Rosamund McCullough was outstanding for St. Hilda's.

St. Mike's — M. McConvey, E. Dunn (7), R. McCullough (10), A. Gardner, P. Callen, M. Haines, M. Vining, H. Darte (7), C. Kennedy, M. Darte.

St. Hilda's — M. L. Carre (8), E. Ardagh (12), M. Rose (7), K. Grubbe, E. Palmer, M. Lanbe, M. McDonald (2), E. Wilson, A. Butler.

Referee — Phyllis Griffiths.

U.C. SENIORS DEFEAT SCHOOL OF NURSING

U.C. Seniors won last night's women's basketball game with the School of Nursing in the O.C.E. gym by a 24-16 score.

School of Nursing (16) — B. Parker (6), M. Thom (1), M. MacEaelern (9), E. Smith, L. Horwood, F. Sparling, M. McLoughlin.

U.C. Seniors (24) — B. Logan (8), Q. Mennell (14), G. Gristwood (2), M. Page, E. Parr, K. Shepherd, E. Wallace, B. Spence, L. Reid, J. Atkinson.

Referee — Phyllis Griffiths.

last year was the Marquess of Zetland, and this year we had the honour of hearing Sir Arthur Steele-Maitland and Sir Norman Angell.

"It is to be regretted that some of the lectures have not been well attended," continued Dr. Cody. "although the films of Scott's Expedition drew good audiences during British Week. We are endeavouring to bring speakers of different nationalities to Canada. This week a noted Canadian journalist is lecturing on Russia, and in January three famous Italians will give a series of lectures."

Mr. Carl J. Ketchum, who is speaking every evening this week at the auditorium of the University of Toronto Schools, is a qualified authority on Russia. Born in Ottawa, he first took up newspaper work there, and after four years' service in the World War, for which he was decorated, he has done journalistic work in England, Ireland, Greece, Russia, The Soudan, China, South Africa and India. He has just returned from his sixth visit to Russia, where he travelled over the entire country from east to west, studying Russian life and industry minutely. His study of agriculture and industry should be of special interest to Canadians.

know whether the C.C.F. intended to base its programme on the suggestion of a group of psychologists and psychiatrists as suggested in a recent manifesto, and finally advocated a spiritual reorganisation under the leadership of Premier Bennett.

Mr. A. C. Smith, in opposing the motion, wanted a group of economic statesmen, rather than a closed ring of capitalists, to govern the country. He blamed much of the present drop in currency and credit to the present system of interlocking directorates.

"The formation of the C.C.F. party merely demonstrates the lamentable weakness of Canadian economics," said H. J. Fair for the affirmative. In an extremely well delivered speech, he asked the member from Winnipeg how the control of public utilities, transport, and the like was to be achieved, and pointed out the extraordinary resemblance between the C.C.F. platform and 'A Plan for Britain' a document recently issued by the British Socialist party.

"After a century and a half of experience, it is time for us to turn to experiment," said H. G. Skilling. Never could the term "Liberal-Conservative" be applied more readily than at the present time, when the two older parties were alike in their desire to maintain private enterprise and prevent nationalisation of industry.

NEED OF CHANGE URGED

but we must be willing to pay the cost of making our vision reality. If in living up to your convictions you are not brought to the place of cost you need to check your convictions—are they adequate? Merely conforming to standards is not enough; as Christians there must be about us something distinctive, a margin of obligation in right living over and above conformity. As I understand it, it is this margin for which the Oxford Groups are striving when they demand their 'absolute'.

"And then there is the need to establish the principle of wholeness in our lives if we would follow Christ. The development of the inner life is no less important for the busy activist than is the need of applying the social message of Jesus for the mystic."

The address, as usual, was followed by opportunities for questions. The series has been an unusually popular one and has been well attended by men of all faculties.

INCONSEQUENCE

Trinity College is admirable. It is like a bee-hive, for whenever any individual dares cast reflection on their merits, they swarm around their Queen and beloved college, and repulse all non-patriots. Indeed they howl. It is notable that the three letters which have appeared to date in The Varsity are opinions of Trinity people, exclusively, not of the University. It is time they should learn the ways of the world and take the smooth with the rough.

But, to state my case simply, so as to lead Trinity-lovers out of the misapprehension on the one point which seems to be annoying them most, that concerning "George Ignatieff as Kos-off" did not have an accent as constantly foreign as the others'; I have been informed, although I have not as yet met the gentleman, that his accent is perfectly English; it would be very simple for him to lapse at times, easier than for the other members of the cast who had learned theirs painstakingly. That was the basis of my whole criticism, that the easiest and most familiar parts were the poorest, while the smoother acting was done by those who had something definitely new to learn.

As for objections about my reference to "melancholy impressions", I hardly need comment. If those who criticise the "puerile criticisms" of Mr. Coburn and myself, cannot recognise a little satire in a perfectly well-constructed English sentence, it is their cue to study English literature before they condemn critics of the stage.

However, to show there is no hard feeling, I have revised the review for the benefit of Trinity and the world. I hope indeed that other colleges will not take exception and call it partiality!

BULLETIN BOARD

Bulletin Board and Coming Event notices must be handed in at either the men's office in Hart House, or at the women's office in University College. Both men and women hand in your biography cards to the S.A.C. office, Hart House. Tomorrow is the last day, so act now!

Here it is.

We were all overcome with mirth, last Friday night, when we saw the Trinity Dramatics' performance of See Naples and Die. How Mr. Dixon Wagner could have found so many funny lines in this play of Elmer Rice's, and have played them up so well to the audience is beyond our comprehension.

You have the action, certainly, and plenty of excellent actors itching to amuse you; certainly failure could not come from the cast.

The play was a difficult one, and Trinity Dramatics should be accorded first place on the campus for the extraordinary skill in which they handled their production. See Naples and Die was so full of excited outpourings of vociferous foreigners who mumbled imperfect English that even professionals would have hesitated before attempting it.

It rather took one's breath away to hear languages thrown about so glibly. Patricia Cleland had such a first rate performance that we humbly suggest she is wasting time until she reaches the London Academy of Dramatic Art. Elizabeth McMullen also was beyond criticism. As for George Ignatieff, his accent was so good that at times he lapsed into Russian, quite forgetting that he was playing to an English audience.

For an amusing American trio, we have seen nothing to surpass the excellence of Lloyd Sommerville for his smoothness; Margaret Farmer for her intonation; and Doris McCordick for her spontaneity. Eileen Holden's was a difficult part, and on this we withhold criticism, for if we praise, reflection is perhaps cast on her honour and her morals. We leave it at that. J.P.M.

HART HOUSE CHAPEL

The first in a series of three weekly services of worship will be held in Hart House Chapel today at one-thirty—closing promptly at two o'clock. A short address will be given by Prof. T. W. Isherwood of Wycliffe College. Members of the House are invited to attend.

VIC GRADUATING CLASSES

All biography cards must be handed in to Eileen Fife or Laurie Cragg this week. They may also be placed in the Acta Victoriana box in the college hall. There are still some men who have not received their cards—they are requested to obtain them from Laurie Cragg.

U. OF T. SKI CLUB

The second meeting of the season will be held today in the Debates Room, Hart House, at 5.00. A week-end trip is planned as soon as weather permits and the jumping and running trials will be held to determine the team to represent Varsity this winter at Lake Placid, Lucerne and Dartmouth. Additional business, such as the decision of the whereabouts of our winter lodge and the election of officers will be settled.

VIC MUSIC CLUB

As has been intimated there will be no rehearsal tonight. The practice instead will be held in Alumni Hall from 1-2. Have you seen the notice boards yet?

CHESS TEAM

The following have been chosen by the executive to play in the chess match between Varsity Chess Club and Upper Canada College Chess Club tomorrow evening: A. D. McConnell, R. J. Burgess, J. Hillier, A. L. Rubino, A. P. Hopkins, J. R. Grant, J. R. Mountjoy. These players are requested to be at Upper Canada College at 8 p.m. sharp.

Another pernicious custom which I would draw to your attention is the custom of drawing for main speakers, only those who have spoken before from the floor of the House. It is next to impossible for an interested person who is not in the inner circle to obtain permission from the speaker to talk to the House.

I trust with these matters being brought to their attention the committee will take steps to prevent a repetition of this injustice to any groups interested in their debates.

That Newfoundland is entirely ready to accept her new colonial status and complete financial control by the British Government, as recommended by the Royal Commission investigating conditions in that country, was the belief expressed by Dr. H. A. Innis of the Economics Department, when interviewed yesterday by The Varsity. Newfoundland has become almost completely dissatisfied with the form of government which has ruled her in the past and will welcome the new commission form of government because of the closer union with the Mother Country which it implies.

"The citizens of Newfoundland are particularly proud of the fact that they are the oldest English colony and the proposal to give them colonial status again and to take away their privilege of self-government will meet with no great opposition. Because of the complicated tariff and financial system based on the production of cod,"

Lack of Interest Causes

Debates

NO FAVOURITISM

According to Mr. Harley's letter in yesterday's Varsity, the Liberal party had no chance whatsoever to defend itself or reply to the castigations of the C.C.F. speakers.

On interviewing several students connected with the Hart House Debates Committee, a number of statements, rather contradictory to those of Mr. Harley, were received.

Mr. Bruce, a member of the Liberal party and one of the speakers from the floor at the last debate made the very remarkable statement that the present state of affairs was the fault of the Debates Committee but rather of the Liberal Club itself for not having taken more interest in the debates.

It was also stated that the choice of speakers from the floor was a matter of priority of application for speeches.

BLUES PLAY PORTS TOMORROW NIGHT

Senior Pucksters Will Be Out to Break Losing Streak

HAVE NOT WON YET

Undaunted by their five successive setbacks sustained at the hands of the opposition, during the current Senior O.H.A. race, a determined squad of Blue-clad warriors will engage the league-leading Sailors from Port Colborne at Varsity Arena tomorrow night. To date under the guidance of Warren Stevens the Varsity senior O.H.A. entry has shown to all and sundry that they have plenty of aggressiveness but are rather weak defensively. In nearly all games played Varsity have had a considerable edge over their opponents, but somehow the faculty of winning games has eluded them, and it is rather surprising that they have not as yet garnered a victory.

The sensational attacks of the Big Blue forwards such as Cunningham, McPherson, Hendry, McLelland and the stellar work of Williamson on the Varsity rearguard have constantly baffled their opponents, and they should cause plenty of trouble to Matthews' Mighty Mariners. Without a doubt the game should be a hard struggle

BLUE BASKETEERS FACE CRUCIAL GAME

West End Y Have a New Play Which May Puzzle
Senior B's

SHOULD BE CLOSE GAME

The leadership of the Y.M.C.A. Basketball League will be at stake when Varsity's Senior B team meets West End Y on the latter's home floor on Saturday at 9.15 p.m.

West End is undoubtedly one of the strongest teams in the league, having such stars as "Pud" Watson, Collie Gillespie and a host of other players of repute on their lineup. They have evolved a new and unique system of play this year which had Central Y baffled last week, and it will be up to the Blue team to fathom their style of attack if they hope to come out on top.

Coaches Hayman and McCutcheon are faced with a very serious difficulty in selecting their team for this crucial game, as any player competing in two Y league games is ineligible for Big Six competition. Vanderlick, Himel, Gild, Gordon and Levy made such good impressions in last week's game with Broadview that the coaches have decided to keep them with the "A" team. However, there is no dearth of good Senior B material and there are a great many players from which a team of senior calibre can be chosen. The team will be composed in the main of players who have as yet to play their first game in senior company, but if the class they have shown in

NOT INTERESTED IN SELF

Never Was a Time When He Was not a Great Soldier

"A big brute of a man, not so much the kind to be 'loved' but profoundly respected by his troops." Such was the sentence-character-sketch of General Sir Arthur Currie, given The Varsity last night by Major-General Garnet Hughes, who as major in the Gordon Highlanders in Victoria, knew the Canadian commander years before the war.

"There was never a time," said General Hughes, "when Sir Arthur was not a great soldier. Long before the war he was the outstanding figure in the militia on the Pacific Coast, his heart and soul in his regiment; and although in those days there were few officers who believed a great European war to be possible or who could imagine Canada taking her part in such a struggle, when the time did come there was never a doubt in Arthur Currie's mind as to his course."

"He was not an aggressive man in his own interest; he volunteered as a regimental officer and I think, in his modesty, he was astonished when Sir Sam Hughes selected him to command the Western Brigade in the Canadian Division. He was young as generals were regarded then, but his vigour and knowledge and determination carried him to success from the beginning."

"I remember during the first two days of the Second Battle of Ypres, when the brigade in which I was brigade-major was bearing the brunt of the German attack, how Currie made every effort—personal effort—to assist my general. And when we called on him for help, it came."

"After the battles of the spring of 1915 he was badly pulled down in health; his great figure was distressingly shrunken, but he would not give

"Love is the Sweetest Thing" Parliamentary Club Doth Sing

By Frank E. Pujolas

Three cheers for Cupid! One more battle won! But he is still blushing! In the U.C. Parliamentary Club yesterday the Government, led by W. E. Beamish, reverted to a light subject in "Resolve that this House deprecates the existence of Cupid." They were defeated by the Opposition under W. Stobie. Again, three cheers for Cupid!

oh—oh

"Where would we get such beautiful songs about love, dove, above—such as, er, Love is the sweetest thing if it were not for Cupid?" Mr. Shaffer.

oh—oh

"Love at first sight—Cupid—with-out consideration of realities results in incompatibility over the morning grapefruit. It is the acid test that counts."

oh—oh

"Mistakes! Undoubtedly you, yourself, have been troubled by Cupid."—Gentlemen, referring to a recent debate it was decided that the Speaker was sexless."—"Mr. Speaker, I move that an investigation committee be appointed."

oh—oh

"Mr. Speaker, the honourable member of the Government has removed one of Cupid's most important appendages."

oh—oh

One of the members went so far as to address the Speaker disparagingly thus: "And furthermore, Mr. Cupid, I . . . Ten minutes off to restore quietude."

oh—oh

Mr. G. H. Robertson: "Woman is still the rib of Adam and just about as much good to him."

oh—oh

"Mr. Speaker, you are a farmer." (This from J. M. Patrick.) "And as such you are undoubtedly acquainted with the Bull. I ask you, what happens, when you enter a field containing a bull, with a tie around your neck such as the honourable member across the hall displays—red. (Voice: "Communist, eh.") Mr. Speaker, what happens is a direct result of Cupid."

ah—ah

More from Mr. Patrick: "If you had to choose, which would you prefer—a bad, bare boy or a beautiful, voluptuous goddess?"

Victim is Immediately Removed to Wellesley Hospital and Given Blood Transfusion of Two Pints; Condition Reported Fair

THUG MAKES GET-AWAY; POLICE OUT IN FULL FORCE

Reward of $200 Posted for Information Leading to Arrest; Police Making Every Effort to Apprehend Armed Fugitive

At 6.30 this morning a special bulletin issued to "The Varsity" by the Night Superintendent of Wellesley Hospital expressed satisfaction with the immediate condition of Johnny Copp. He had regained complete consciousness from the anaesthetic and was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

At 6.00 o'clock police headquarters stated that the search for his assailant was still unsuccessful. Extra reserves have been called out, and the full strength of the department is now concentrated on the search, which has now been extended to outlying centres by radio and teletype.

Grappling with a burglar at the rear of his home at 96 Wellesley Street shortly after 10 o'clock last night, Johnny Copp, popular back-field star of the Varsity Senior Rugby champions, was critically injured by a shot through the abdomen. He was removed to Wellesley Hospital, and was immediately taken to the operating room, where he was given a blood transfusion of two pints. Attending surgeons gave him a fair chance of recovery.

Meanwhile his assailant made a clean get-away, and the elaborate city-wide search instituted at once by the full strength of the police department has nothing more to go on than contradictory descriptions supplied by Copp and a friend, Ed Houston, who was with him at the time. A reward of $200 has been posted by Chief Constable Draper for information leading to the apprehension of the gunman.

Describes Assailant

While being rushed in an ambulance to the hospital Copp, completely conscious, was able to give Detective McCathie a full statement of the circumstances leading to the shooting, as well as a detailed description of the thug.

Johnny Copp is the conductor of the well-known orchestra bearing his name and, according to his statement, was discussing with Ed Houston, one of the players in the orchestra, plans for the coming Athletic At-Home, for which his band was to have provided the music. They were in an upstairs back room when a man was noticed on the balcony through the open window.

"I ran down into the back yard," said Copp, "and yelled to the man, 'You had better come down.'"

"He replied, 'Get back into the house.'"

"I repeated, 'Come down,' whereupon he suddenly jumped down from the balcony and in a second I was grappling with him, and was shot." Copp retained complete consciousness until the anaesthetic was administered in the operating room.

An immediate response was made to the call for volunteers for blood transfusions and within a few minutes over a score of young men, most of them college chums, were at the hospital undergoing tests. It was necessary to draw blood from three of them to offset the large amount of blood lost.

Official Statement

An official statement issued to The Varsity at midnight, after Copp had been removed from the operating room reads: "The bullet produced an intra-abdominal injury with perforation of the intestinal mesentery, producing internal hemorrhage. He is

A GREAT SOLDIER AND EDUCATOR

Death has taken one of Canada's greatest citizens, in the person of General Sir Arthur William Currie, but his life will leave its imprint on the pages of history. Of him it may be said that he proved to be a great leader, in a time when Canada needed strong and wise and competent men. As Commander-in-chief of the Canadian Corps he was respected and admired by all who came into contact with him, and he won the hearts of his men by his faith in them, his devotion to Canada, and his simple, sincere piety.

We of the younger generation are acquainted with Sir Arthur Currie the educator, more than the soldier. For thirteen years he has held the position of Principal and Vice-Chancellor of McGill University; graduates and undergraduates of his time now mourn the passing of a scholar, a leader, and a friend. His service to his country in the capacity of an educationalist may not be as well known as Sir Arthur's military record, but by the sons of Old McGill it is deeply appreciated and will be long remembered.

As the representative of the undergraduates of the University of Toronto The Varsity extends a message of condolence and sympathy to the undergraduates of McGill University.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Before going to the Follies tonight, or your neighbourhood theatre, or wherever it is you go on a Friday night, drop in at O.C.E. gym. U.C. Seniors are playing Trinity there at 6 o'clock in the first game of the semi-finals for the interfaculty championship. Both teams were seen in action on Wednesday night when they won their respective games to give them their group titles.

Vic Seniors, who coasted through their group schedule without any particularly hard games, drew the bye into the finals, and will not emerge from the seclusion of practice hours until the winner of the semi-finals is declared. But when that time comes—watch their speed! They were successful last year in downing all comers and they have a good many of the old players back. Unfortunately, Beth Jenking will be absent from the line-up, as she is still impatiently nursing a sore arm.

Rosamund McCullough continued her brilliant work in Wednesday night's game. She was the pivot point for most of the St. Mike's plays, and accounted for a large percentage of the points scored. In spite of a wicked-looking eye, Callie Dunn played throughout the game.

St. Hilda's have a well-balanced line-up of hard-checking guards and accurate forwards. They are the general favourites for their college and they can depend on their college to back them up. Mary Louise Carr and Edith Ardagh are two good reasons why St. Hilda's have won their games to date.

Following the custom of other years, for the semi-final games and the finals which will be played in Hart House, an admission of ten cents is charged. There is no doubt about them being worth that much, so—brother, can you spare a dime?

Seniors!

It is imperative that all biography cards for Torontensis be returned to your faculty or college representative not later than tomorrow (Saturday).

PROFESSOR WILL INTERPRETS BALZAC

To Balzac Society was God—there one could find and live according to God. "Egotism is the scourge of Society and religions are at the very base of its proper interpretation.

"All of Balzac's books represent the course of an individual in society upon whom fall external forces," as in Eugenie Grandet, "in which the characters live in a real world under typical social relations. Thus there is a return to the traditional French spirit of observation.

There is also the philosophy of progress and perfectibility in Balzac, namely that "knowledge observed from phenomena will solve the human problem and bring happiness to the human race".

The prestige of science became one of the many religions of the 19th century and for fifty years it dominated mankind, transforming the moral world as surely as the physical. There were also many other supporting reactions—a political reaction, a reaction to classicism, the Bohemian reaction and a reaction in criticism itself.

Gautier, a contemporary, began as a romantic but by determination to get outside of himself, the external world takes on reality for him, and his genius emphasises itself in a beauty that depends on the richness of his design.

"The difficulty in realism is the domination of form but even emotion is the very expression of form and form suggests its own beauty. The poet must show imagination of rhyme, and with rhyme comes reason."

Massey Hall

Ruggiero Ricci, phenomenal young Italian violinist who is assisting artist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra at Massey Hall next Tuesday night, December the 5th, at its last concert until the New Year, played two recitals in Havana last week, where he was acclaimed by enthusiastic audiences at both concerts with recalls and cheers. Ricci is the first foreign artist to perform in Havana since the revolution, and comes to Toronto directly after playing a two-day engagement with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

The orchestral feature on Tuesday will be Brahms' Symphony No. 3—the programme also including Handel-Elgar Overture in D minor and Dukas' The Sorcerer's Apprentice (Scherzo).

St. Thomas' Church

A half hour of Choral music of wide appeal and great variety will be given over CFRB at 5.30 p.m. on Sunday, coming to you from the Chancel of St. Thomas' Church. You will hear a richly harmonised setting of a Negro Spiritual, "Deep River", followed by a unique setting of the well-known hymn, "Softly and tenderly, Jesus is calling", sung by the Male Chorus. A short Cathedral anthem by a contemporary English composer, "Hail gladdening light", is included on this broadcast, which concludes with the Choirboys singing Schubert's Ave Maria.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Johnny Copp, aged 22 years, who was wounded last evening by a burglar attempting to enter the home of his father, Dr. Charles Copp, is one of the finest and most popular athletes in the University of Toronto. He has been one of the best running and plunging halves on the Varsity football team since he made the team three years ago, and one of the most sportsmanlike players in the intercollegiate series. As a fourth year medical student, a member of the House Committee of Hart House, the leader of a fine orchestra and as organizer of the rooming service provided by the Students' Administrative Council, Johnny made countless friends within and beyond the confines of the university. Starting out with the Orphans team of 1930 and since then playing on the half line of the intercollegiate senior team, twice champions, his record in sports has been admired by all the players with whom he came in contact. Coming to the university from U.T.S., he was respected by Headmaster J. G. Allhouse of that school as the most outstanding student there in the last ten years. At U.T.S. he played hockey and football, won the Nesbitt gold medal for leadership, was elected by his classmates as school captain, the highest honour possible to attain, and entered U. of T. with scholarship standing.

His achievements as a university student and athlete speak themselves of his character. Never was there a more courageous and plucky player on the Varsity team since his coming. It was just that same dauntless courage that made him charge an armed marauder at his home last night. While playing with his band in Orillia last summer and after returning to school in charge of the S.A.C.'s rooming service he made many fast friends because of his kind treatment of every boy he met no matter what the circumstances. With every athlete and student of Varsity we hope that his clean living, his fine physical condition, and a fighting spirit will speed him to a complete recovery.

It is with regret that we learned of the death of Sir Arthur Currie, President of McGill University, yesterday morning. As a soldier and a sportsman he evidenced a very keen interest in the sporting activities of his students. Those who made the trip to Montreal for the intercollegiate football opener this fall and witnessed that great rowing race on the Lachine Canal will remember the enthusiasm shown by the late Sir Arthur as he, with Chancellor Beatty of McGill and our own beloved President Cody, followed the crews down the course in the accompanying boat. The Redmen have lost a great friend and sportsman and we wish to tender our sympathy to them at this time.

The intercollegiate water polo game billed for tomorrow night in the Hart House pool with McGill's natators has been postponed for the present. When definite arrangements have been completed you will be notified of same.

Congratulations to the School of Practical Science. The Mulock Cup, historic trophy emblematic of the interfaculty football championship, rests once more within the walls of the Engineering Building after a sojourn of five years at other points throughout the campus. There wasn't much doubt as to which was the better team and the score is quite indicative of the play. The Schoolmen covered themselves with glory and mud and deserved their victory on the performance. It was a great game. With the exception of a few minutes after the second half started the Scarlet and Gold team from Victoria was never in the picture. They played a great game at times but they didn't have the punch displayed by the winners. Bridgland's kicking was the best we have seen in the interfaculty series this year or in several years. McNichol's runs counted for big gains too. Baker, who was struck on the head shortly after the game started, didn't know at six o'clock last night what had happened much after the kickoff. Yet he put up a good showing throughout the game. Barry, the punch of the Vic outfit, had been rendered ineffective by a former leg injury but he, with Diehl, the scrappy Vic quarter, put up a battling performance that was not supported by several of their team-mates.

The S.P.S. military band made its appearance at half time and gave the large crowd of fans a real show. The music rendered was not altogether harmonious but the musicians were not worrying much about that. Mae West, as drum major, led them around in very seductive fashion with all the contortions displayed by that glamorous screen siren. For a while we thought the boys were serenading us with the Queen's song but we learned that the tune of "John Brown's Body" is also the music for School's song. The well-shaped 'S' formed by the band also deceived us. Sorry boys, but it was well done anyway.

Need any student be reminded that the Athletic At-Home is a week from tonight?

Dec. 8th, a week from tonight, is the date of the U. of T. Athletic At-Home. It is the last big dance of 1933. It is held in honour of Varsity's athletes. This prom is one of the best affairs on the campus each year, if not the best. The boys in whose honour it is held have brought us four intercollegiate senior titles this year already and the junior rugby team deserve a hand for their record showing besides. Some fellows around the campus have the idea that they are not welcome to this gala event. This dance is open for any student in the university and all he has to do is drop into the Athletic Office and sign the lists. They are supposed to close today so make it snappy.

Don't forget that you are invited to the Athletic At-Home on Dec. 8th.

Tomorrow night the Varsity senior hockey team will entertain the Port Colborne sextet at Ross Workman's abode, namely the Varsity Arena. The Blue seniors have, as everybody interested knows, failed to break into the win column as yet. To date they have been a losing team. That is perhaps true in one respect. But in another it is far from the truth. Those boys at the start of the season seemed to be far outclassed by their opposition. Yet in every game they have played since the O.H.A. Sr. schedule has begun they have not been outclassed. At times they have been outclassed, but not always. Never have they been outscored. Against every team they have looked good. Anyone who has seen them play will tell you that. They have been up against great odds. They have not been supported. Yet they have fought on. They

ARE WORTHY HOLOERS

School Demonstrate Superior Ability After Drawing First Game

Riding on the top of Bridgland's mighty kicks and constantly pressing a stubborn Scarlet and Gold team back to their own line, Senior S.P.S. yesterday afternoon at the Stadium gave ample evidence of their ability to hold the Mulock Cup, emblematic of interfaculty rugby supremacy, by defeating Victoria in the final game of the series by a score of 11-0, after one unsuccessful game that ended in a draw.

On a mud-soaked field and with neither team able to progress through their opponents' line, the deciding factors of the game were the kicking of School's stellar half and the tackling of their outside wings. Vic were held in their own territory for the entire game except for a momentary spurt at the beginning of the third quarter when three long passes were completed from Al Diehl's hands for an approximate gain of 75 yards. A fourth incomplete pass inside the 25 yard line gave School the ball, to avoid the only possible score for the Scarlet and Gold for the whole fixture.

School's first score came in the initial quarter when Bridgland's kick from centre field was fumbled by Deihl on Vic's 15 yard line and recovered by MacLachlan, S.P.S. outside. An end run, Walden to McNichol to Bridgland, netted fourteen yards to put play on Vic's 1 yard line and Walden scored on his second plunge. Walden, Webber, Baker and Doughty did fine service for the Science men and were responsible for most of their yards. The attempted convert failed.

In the second quarter Bridgland added three more points on singles, hooting high and with the wind, usually on the first down.

Seventeen Victoria forward passes featured the second half of the battle as the losers strove desperately to overcome their handicap and register a score. Five of them were completed and four more intercepted by School for gains that ended in points. Bridgland, too, was responsible for another point in the third quarter and two more in the fourth, making the final score 11-0. The backfield running of Deihl and Pratt improved greatly in the last quarter. Only five times were yards made on plunges, four of them for S.P.S. Taylor, Barry and Vaughan and Colmer did good work for the losers.

S.P.S. — Flying wing, Dawson; halves, Bridgland, Doughty, McNichol; quarter, Warring; snap, Monsaroff; insides, Grosse, Powlesland; middles, Baker, McBride; outsides, Glover, MacLachlan; subs, Brigham, Walden, Welch, Farquhar, Walters, Finch, King.

Victoria — Flying wing, Moffatt; halves, Pratt, Barry, Colmer; quarter, Deihl; snap, Ellsie; insides, Reid, Stinson; middles, G. Colmer, D. Amos; outsides, W. Vaughan, Dufton; subs, have come close to beating three teams. As a matter of fact they should have, on the play. They try hard from start to finish and they have always looked good in defeat. That is what counts almost as much as victory. We do not believe in ballyhooing a losing team but this Blue-clad bunch of hockey players are not a losing outfit. Give them a hand. They always put up a good game and they are worth going to watch. Port Colborne can be beaten.

Dr. Les Black, the newly appointed Varsity boxing coach has a tough proposition on his hands and nobody knows it better than he does. Last year's team has been riddled to a mere skeleton of its former self. On January 27th they will entertain the Syracuse U. team here. The Alma Mater of Warren Stevens last year garnered the U.S.A. intercollegiate boxing title. So you see just what kind of a show it will be. In his search for new men Doc Black has not been greeted by many new faces. It would almost seem that the wealth of material in this university did not know that the training season is under way. Get out there you mitt-men and don't delay. There are some great opportunities open for new men to earn the much-coveted "T" this year in the ring.

Knox Take Sixth Successive Soccer Title by Win from Pharmacy

GO INTO GAME WITH LEAD

Score is 5-0 on Game, 9-1 on Round; Knox Have Easy Win

Knox College last night mounted once again the throne of soccer supremacy which they have adorned for the past five years, when they turned back the Pharmacy team 5-0 in the final game of the interfaculty series. The winners went into the game with a three goal lead, having defeated the Druggists 4-1 in the first game of the series to take the round 9-1.

The smallest faculty in the university, Knox, have long dominated the soccer fields. Five intercollegiate men are available, but a ruling limits them to three. These three, Davidson, McCullough and Cuthbertson, form the nucleus around which the college has built up their team.

The game last night was rather ragged. Going into the game with a comfortable lead, Knox were inclined to take things easy and the disorganised Pharmacy team were unable to make any headway against the Purple and White's defensive tactics. Cuthbertson found the net in the first half for the only two counters of that period.

In the second, Rowland opened up with a rush which beat Wilson in the Druggists' nets. Rowland added another one a few minutes later when Knox were awarded a free kick, when the Pharmacy forwards started roughing things up. Weir completed the scoring, with a few minutes to go, when he was handed a pass right in front of the Pharmacy nets.

Knox are worthy champions. All through the season they have played real soccer, and in the playoffs, although they met with some difficulty in getting down in front of Victoria, they won their spurs in no uncertain manner by the decisive way in which they turned back the Pharmacy threat.

Knox — Stewart, Jack, Davidson, Long, McCullough, Young, Cuthbertson, Milroy, Weir, Rowland, Taylor, Pharmacy — Wilson, Armour, MacDougall, Evans, Hoffman, Eisenbach, Briscoe, Ballantyne, Milburn, Wilton, Bridge, Ramsay.

The greatest problem is, however, not for these people, but for those brought from their native villages into the mines, where they find a new world of commodities, amusements, standards of living and social amenities. The taboos of the native village do not hold and with the discovery of this, the black rapidly picks up both the vices and the virtues of our civilization. Here the missionary is of tremendous importance in the readjustment of a people from one mode of living to another. The missionary is at once doctor, craftsman, miner, arbitrator and instructor of book education and religion.

PREFER TO BE A COLONY

Canada would hardly find it worth while to take over Newfoundland. Moreover, the Newfoundland people themselves would rather join with the English again," he said.

The general attitude of the people in Newfoundland towards Canadians is very similar to that held by Canadians towards Americans; they regard Canadians as a very noisy people and, on the whole, rather undesirable as fellow countrymen.

The present complicated situation in Newfoundland arises out of the depression in the cod industry which has existed during most of the last decade. Cod fishing is not only the chief, but also almost the only important industry carried on in Newfoundland. She has thus put "all her eggs in one basket", and since the Iceland fisheries have largely replaced Newfoundland fisheries in the European market, Newfoundland has suffered greatly, Dr. Innis explained.

"Moreover, the heavy railway overhead incidental to the fishing industry has aided in producing the financially chaotic conditions that resulted in the Royal Commission's investigation. Each fishing port along the coast requires a branch line off the main route and it has meant a tremendous capital outlay. Any disadvantageous economic condition which affects profits in the fishing industry is immediately felt because of this heavy railroad overhead," Dr. Innis stated.

Asked whether he thought there was any possibility that Newfoundland would regain her Dominion status in the near future, Dr. Innis replied that the chances were very remote. He felt that a better and more efficient system of government is possible under the new commission and that Dominion status will, for a long time at least, lack any particular appeal for the people of Newfoundland.

Hockey fans are reminded that there will be a big double-header game at Maple Leaf Gardens on Monday next, December 4th. This show will be staged by the T. & Y. Mercantile Hockey League, and you will see the best senior players in the city in action. The City Service team will play in the first game, and you are sure to see the blood and thunder type of hockey which appeals to everyone. There will be plenty of entertainment, which will include Ernie Bruce and his 10-piece clown band. A bumper crowd is expected, so why not join the big parade Monday night next? 7.45 p.m.

JOHNNY COPP SHOT BY ARMED GUNMAN

coming out of the anaesthetic nicely and his condition is regarded as fair."

It was explained that in an injury of this kind, any change for the better can only be very gradual for the first four days. The bullet, of course, has not yet been removed. The surgeons in charge of the operation were Dr. G. J. Gillam, Dr. McDonald and Dr. J. W. Rush, the latter being the consulting physician for the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team.

Father Notified

Johnny's father, Dr. Charles Copp, was absent at the time of the shooting, and only heard of the injury an hour after it had happened. He rushed to the hospital and joined in the battle for his son's life.

Dr. Miller, who was in his home next door to the Copp residence, when the incident took place, related how he was told by the maid of the firing of a shot and, rushing out, found Copp lying on the kitchen floor, where he had staggered unassisted. He administered a hypodermic and attended him until the arrival of an ambulance, then accompanying him to the hospital.

Houston Describes Incident

According to Mr. Houston, he and Copp were discussing orchestra business in the attic while a bridge party given by Mrs. Copp was in progress downstairs. Copp had occasion to come down to the second floor to make a phone call and in passing his father's room on his way back upstairs noticed a face at the window.

He went on up and in a joking manner told Houston that he had seen a man's face at the window in his father's room. Both boys came down and turned out the light in the room, but could see no trace of the mysterious visitor on the balcony. Copp, remarking that the windows were not locked, told Houston to stay behind while he (Copp) went down into the yard.

Phone Police

After Copp had gone, Houston, seeing the man going around to the side of the house on the balcony, went to tell Copp's sister and they phoned the police. Going downstairs, they were told by the maid that Johnny had staggered into the kitchen wounded.

Neither Houston nor Miss Copp heard the shot. Dr. Miller, from next door, came in, administered a hypodermic and summoned an ambulance. Copp was in the hospital fifteen minutes after the shot was fired.

Police Comb City

When police headquarters learned that the fug had escaped, every available man was called into action and a dragnet laid for many blocks around the scene of the crime. Every back lane and hostel was given a thorough combing in the hope of discovering some trace of the wanted man.

Descriptions Differ

In several important details, The Varsity understands, the description given by Houston differs from that of Copp, adding to the difficulties of the search. Houston declares that the marauder was not wearing an overcoat, while Copp in his statement was positive that his assailant had had one on.

All local radio stations, in their late news broadcasts, carried the complete description in the hands of the police, of the wanted man.

Tribute from Cody

Dr. H. J. Cody, President of the University, when informed by The Varsity of the unfortunate affair, paid a fine tribute to the injured student, describing him as "a fine fellow". He expressed profound sympathy for the family.

DEBATES COMMITTEE REFUTES CHARGE

The choice of main speakers is naturally confined to those who have, in speaking from the floor, shown some ability, and so the question rests entirely upon a speaker's ability and not on his party.

As to the statement that the Liberal party did not have a chance to defend itself, it is entirely erroneous. It has been the custom to try to choose the speakers from each party alternately until the allotted time is filled, so that favouritism is in no way shown.

The consensus of opinion was that if the Liberal Club would take a Fresh from a victory over the highly touted Torontos in their home arena the other night, the Port Colborne Sailors, led by the veteran Morrill at pivot position along with Vince Upper and Gray, should give Frank Shipp, the cool net guardian of the Varsity citadel plenty to worry about. Considering that the Varsity Big Blue team are gradually becoming more finished around the nets and steadily improving their backchecking in which department they have been weak in the past, the Sailors will have to be at their best to hold them and a hectic session of clever puckchasing should ensue.

WILL BROADCAST GRAVESIDE SERVICE OF CURRIE FUNERAL

Tributes to His Memory Come from the Far Corners of the Globe

HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

McGill C.O.T.C. Guard Body of Departed President at His Home

The graveside service of General Sir Arthur Currie will be broadcast on Tuesday at 3.30 p.m. from the Mount Royal cemetery, Montreal, by the Canadian Radio Commission over its national network. Microphones are being installed in the cemetery so that the entire religious and military service, from the sounding of the "Last Post" to the final salute over the grave, may be carried into the homes of thousands of Canadians, who will thus be able to participate in the last tribute to the commander of the Canadian Army Corps. Military and civil leaders have conveyed to the Commission their approval of this arrangement.

President Cody, representing the University of Toronto, will be in attendance at the funeral service, along with other distinguished men, to pay (Continued on Page 4)

Work Sponsored by Government as Relief Measure, May aid Graduates

The proposed opening up of two new experimental areas for reforestation work by the Dominion government will, in all probability, have no effect on the forestry students of the university. Formerly the budding woodmen had to spend a summer doing practical work in the North before they could receive their degree, but the depression and its ensuing lack of jobs, has made this impossible. Dean Howe of the forestry department, stated that there was no likelihood at present of the summer work again being made compulsory.

"The reforestation work sponsored by the government is purely a relief measure, and as such will not concern the forestry students," Prof. Whitford told The Varsity. "It is not so much forestry as roadwork. The actual planting of trees is a month's work (Continued on Page 4)

VISITOR PLEASED WITH UNIVERSITY

Dr. Wilf Has Had Fascinating Career in Many Countries

FINISHES LECTURE SERIES

The fascinating career of Dr. Jose de Magallanes Wilf, has had a distinctly unusual background—to quote his own words, it has consisted of "the whole world, with the exception of the western United States and the north and south poles." In an interview given to The Varsity Thursday afternoon after his final lecture on the Portuguese language, he, somewhat laughingly, described how his time had been divided between diplomatic circles and university lectures—but, unfortunately, did not say which he preferred. Professors, however, were spoken of in the most sincere and glowing terms. Referring to the members of the Spanish Department, he said: "Those whom I have met, speak the language with such fluency and purity of accent as to almost make it appear their native tongue." The ability and accuracy of the Oriental Department was also a subject for congratulations.

In reply to the query as to his general impressions of the university, Dr. Wilf strongly emphasised the difference between the feeling here and that (Continued on Page 4)

All lectures and labs will be cancelled to-morrow from 2 p.m. to permit students and staff to be present at the funeral service.

STUDENTS VISIT OTHER UNIVERSITIES UNDER EXCHANGE

Announce Exchange Scholarships Under National Federation Plan

DIVIDED IN FOUR GROUPS

Students Will Study Without Payment of Tuition Fees

With the announcement of the Exchange Scholarships for 1934-35, a limited number of students at the University of Toronto have the opportunity of obtaining a year's scholarship at some other Canadian university. These scholarships, which are sponsored by the National Federation of Canadian University Students, enable students to study at an "exchange" university for one year without paying tuition fees or Students' Union fees. The N.F.C.U.S. representative on this campus is Mr. Gordon Skilling and prospective applicants can obtain full details from him.

The Exchange of Undergraduates Plan was initiated about six years ago by the executive of the N.F.C.U.S., and came into operation five years ago after the presidents, registrars and financial authorities of the Canadian universities had given their consent. Under the plan the universities are divided into four groups—the University of British Columbia, the universities of the Prairie Provinces, the universities of Ontario and Quebec and the universities of the Maritimes. Scholarships may be awarded only where a student of one university wishes to obtain a scholarship at a university in a different "division". This is subject to one exception—the Ontario students may apply for schol- (Continued on Page 4)

LIFE IN ARGENTINE DESCRIBED BY RIGGS

Noted Explorer Lectures on Travels in South America

ABUNDANTLY ILLUSTRATED

"Travels and Researches in Argentina" formed the basis of the Royal Canadian Institute lecture given by Dr. Elmer S. Riggs in Convocation Hall on Saturday night. Dr. Riggs is an associate of the Field Museum of Natural History of Chicago and was in charge of the Marshall Field Paleontological Expedition to Argentina, 1923-24 and 1927.

After their first voyage on "The Southern Cross" the explorers arrived at the southern provinces of old Patagonia and returned overland, gaining much interesting information about the Santa Cruz beds and the remains of extinct life found there.

The work of the second summer was centred about the oil ports of Comodoro Rivadavia with a systematic search over the region lying between the coast and the Cordilleran Mountains.

A third summer was spent in the more populous regions of south central Argentina. Among wheat and grazing lands, along river channels and (Continued on Page 4)

LOSES STRUGGLE

Succumbing to the effects of the wound he received Thursday night, Johnny Copp passed away at 2.45 Sunday morning in Wellesley Hospital. He was in his twenty-third year and a student in fourth year Medicine at the University.

A true sportsman, a distinguished student, a great athlete, an accomplished musician and a leader in student affairs, he was respected by all who knew him and is deeply mourned by the University and his many friends.

The funeral service will be held in Convocation Hall tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock. Interment will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

WIDESPREAD SORROW EXPRESSED AS OUTSTANDING STUDENT PASSES

JOHNNY COPP

Finest Medical Skill Unable to Check Gradual Weakening

MANY PAY TRIBUTE

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted from Convocation Hall Tomorrow

"The finest medical skill available failed in the battle to save the life of Johnny Copp when death occurred in Wellesley Hospital at 2.45 yesterday morning. Early progress had led to strong hopes for his recovery, but a relapse Saturday noon was followed by a gradual weakening of his condition, till near midnight he became unconscious.

As the fact of his death became generally known, not only University staff and students but all who had known him joined in expressions of sorrow at the loss of one in whom were typified the highest qualities of youth.

"He was one of the finest lads I have ever known," said Dr. H. J. Cody, President of the University, "genial, kindly, upright, wholesome, with firm, deep principles."

"I consider him to have been the outstanding student of the past ten years," said J. G. Althouse, Principal of U.T.S., which Copp attended previous to coming to Varsity. "His leadership at all times was of the highest calibre."

"John Copp grew up in our Sunday School and Church," said Rev. Ronald MacLeod of Rosedale United Church. "He was one of the finest specimens of young Christian manhood I have ever known. He became the secretary of our school when he was still in his teens and kept the office until he started to teach a class. Through all his varied activities, at the University of Toronto Schools and at the University he never missed his class or Sunday School work at any time when he could possibly be there. I never knew a young man of finer character; he was a good sport, a good friend and a most contagious personality. I feel as if I had lost my own flesh and blood."

From all sections of the city came expressions of sympathy. Even men and women who had known him only through his connection with the Rooming Service of the S.A.C., phoned in repeatedly to ask his condition on Friday and Saturday.

Long before he entered the University Johnny Copp exhibited the qualities which have won him leadership in many activities. While at U.T.S. he played hockey and rugby, being captain of the rugby team in 1927. In his final year he was named Captain of the School, a three-fold award for scholarship, character and participation in athletics, the highest honour which can be conferred on a U.T.S. student. He also held the Nesbitt Gold Medal for leadership.

DECIDE TO CANCEL ATHLETIC AT-HOME

Athletic Directorate Make Decision in View of Tragedy

HONOUR COPP

"Certainly the dance will be cancelled. There is no question about it at all." Such was the immediate and emphatic reply of T. A. Reed, Director of University Athletics, questioned by The Varsity last evening as to what course would be taken with regard to the Athletic At-Home, in view of the tragedy which has saddened the entire university.

"As soon as we received the news this (Sunday) morning," continued Mr. Reed, "the Athletic Directorate decided unanimously that the dance could not be held. There was of course, a double reason for cancelling. As well as being one of the university's most distinguished colour-bearers, Copp was to have led the orchestra for the occasion."

"We have had no time yet to decide whether or not the At-Home will be cancelled altogether, but at any rate it will probably not be held before Christmas, since the following Friday is taken with another affair, and the week after that with term examinations."

PHILOSOPHY CLUB FOR FOURTH YEAR

Believe Junior Years Would Receive Little Benefit from New Society

HOLD FIRST MEETING

That modern realist theories fail to explain the problems of illusion was the conclusion drawn by Mr. T. A. Goudge at the first meeting of the newly formed Philosophical Club which was held Thursday night at the Women's Union. After examining the theories of such men as Alexander Montague and Broad, he agreed that the introduction of the substance of the sense only complicated the issue without providing a solution.

Professors Brett and Anderson guided the members of the club through the intricacies of this difficult epistemological problem.

This club is to be distinguished from the Philosophical Society in that its membership is restricted to fourth year and graduate students. It was felt that the undergraduates of junior years would not have sufficient philosophical background to enable them to derive much benefit from a club devoted to the study of advanced problems. Mr. J. K. Thomas was elected president. At the next meeting, to be held on December 13, Mr. T. M. C. Spring will read a paper on "Beauty".

CORRECTION

In the issue of last Friday, 1st December, The Varsity quoted Major-General Garnet Hughes as describing General Sir Arthur Currie as "a big brute of a man". General Hughes informs us that nothing could have been more foreign to his conception of Sir Arthur, and that he could not have used the words. The Varsity keenly regrets having misunderstood General Hughes, and apologises sincerely for the embarrassment he has suffered as a result.

THE VARSITY, MONDAY, DECEMBER 4th, 1933

The students of the University of Toronto pay tribute to the memory of Johnny Copp, a gentleman, a scholar and a sportsman. The tragic circumstances of his death add to the sorrow which we feel both as a university and as individuals. His life is an inspiration; and although the world may be poorer by his death, the university is richer for his memory.

"The Varsity" extends to his family sincerest sympathy in their hour of sorrow as an expression of the unfeigned grief and genuine sense of loss felt by all his fellow-students.

With the Theatres

Imperial—

Following in the footsteps of The Phantom of the Opera, Frankenstein and Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, H. G. Wells' The Invisible Man sets a new high for hair-raising thrillers of this type. The scenario is a magnificent story to work with, and while they have deviated from the original in several respects, they have not impaired it. The only important deviation is that in the film the "Invisible Man" goes insane as an effect of the drug which makes him invisible, while in the novel he is merely driven to the verge of insanity by the force of circumstance. The picture might have been more subtle had this approach been retained, but I doubt if it could have been put across effectively.

Claude Rains, in the title role, is given little opportunity for acting of the conventional type, but he carries through a difficult role extremely efficiently. Much credit also must be given for the direction of James Whale (who also directed Journey's End and Frankenstein), and for some superb trick photography. William Harrigan also carried through a difficult part with ability and much needed restraint.

Short features include an interesting news reel, a reasonably good Edgar Kennedy comedy and the always popular Screen Souvenirs. A Popeye cartoon is only fair. The stage presentations and musical overture are rather below the Imperial's usual high level.

C.L.C.

Shea's—

Alice Brady successfully interprets a difficult part, when she imposes her authority as "Stage Mother" on Maurine O'Sullivan, whose career and unhappiness are both assured by her masterful management. The story is perhaps a trifle overdone on the emotional side, but contains plenty of real human interest and, of course, a helping of sentiment. The musical comedy shots are as varied as something from the "Goldiggers", and what they lack in music they make up for in pathos. Altogether, it is interesting, well presented and well worth seeing. The British travel picture "Rye" gives you glimpses of an English castle.

The stage presentation can hardly be called sensational, but it has some

United Church and Sunday School, he was particularly interested in boys' work. He was a councillor for several years at Camp Cayuga on Lake Timagami.

Although he was known to the student body chiefly as an outstanding athlete, his capacity for leadership found expression in many other University activities. He was a member of the House Committee of Hart House; for the past two years he took charge of the Rooming House Service of the Students' Council, making personal friendships with scores of freshmen and others with whom he came in contact; his musical talent found expression in the organization and leadership of a successful dance orchestra.

A widespread appeal was broadcast by General Draper by radio last night in the search for Johnny Copp's murderer. "There is no doubt," he said, "that there are citizens in Toronto who possess information which might eventually lead to the capture and conviction of this murderer." The entire available strength of the Force is being concentrated on the search, a large proportion of the men having already worked for over forty-eight hours, almost without sleep. The reward has been increased to $1,000.

Fourteen friends of the young man will be his pallbearers, fraternity brothers, associates at Rosedale Church and members of the Varsity championship intercollegiate football team on which he had played. They are Donald Mustard, Stewart Ferguson, Andrew Henderson, Edward Houston, John Sinclair, George Boomer, Jack Corrigan, Gordon Keith, Fredrick Douglas, Hugh Kerr, Ted Barton, Fred Humes, George Stringer and Peter Wright.

Victoria Dramatic Society

To praise knowing that one must take courage on the part of a critic, yet Lewis Beach's play, The Goose Hongs High, the play presented by the Victoria College Dramatic Society last Friday and Saturday at Hart House Theatre, was particularly well chosen, and well casted.

It is not a clever, but an amusing play on the subject of family love. You consider the child as the individual, the child in relation to his parent, and the questioning of unselfish parental love.

In being well chosen, it is to say that it was not beyond the powers of these Victoria amateurs, and much more in keeping with their tradition than Lady Windermere's Fan and How to Succeed in Business Without Really Knowing It. The director, showed skilful casting ability, with only one notable exception, for the actors were picked naturally in accordance to the characters in the play. This was, of course, a decided asset to the vividness of the production. Besides, the sets were effective, the costumes charming and make-ups were mostly good.

The myrtle goes to the twins, sophisticated young things, just home from vacation from college. Rex Boyd as Bradley Ingalls could have saved the play easily, if it had ever needed saving. He was so happy on the stage, he may be either the makings of a good actor, or else so hilariously enjoyed himself that natural good spirits gave him the spotlight. Betty Boylen, the other twin, Lois, was nearly as happily placed, although her manner did not have the easy flow which Rex Boyd had accomplished.

Joan Garton, as the cousin, Julio Murdoch, did a bright piece in the first act, as also did Donald Stuart as a tough city councillor; Henry Gemmill, the other councillor, Elliott Kimberley, was equally convincing as to bull-headedness in the second act.

Many of the others were probably fortunate in falling into parts which suited their personalities. George Johnston made a good Ronald Murdoch; Norma Beecroft was sweet as Dognor Carroll and with George Hutchings as the fiance, Hugh Ingalls, managed the honeyed lines very simply, not giving way to caustic amusement as the audience did; Royce Robertson as Grandmother Bradley would have had a better showing if she had not spoiled some really good acting by an inclination to giggle. Nesta Hinton as Rhoda and Egerton Young as Noel Derby both had small parts which they performed properly.

As for Robert Christie, who was the father, Bernard Ingalls, it is hard to decide. At times he was excellent, but suddenly he would fall, growing stiff and unnatural in tele-a-lets. On the whole, he put across a good picture of an unselfish, rather humble father who went shabby to give his children luxury. Evelyn Stewart did not do so well as the mother, Eunice. She was negative and stiff throughout, and her make-up increased her dullness. A sentimentally fond mother need not become a kind of hovering spirit; no wonder her children ignored her.

However, the whole production is one of the best productions which Victoria Dramatics have presented in recent years. J.P.M.

Symphonic Lectures

The lecture-demonstration on symphonic music will be given at 5 o'clock this afternoon as usual in Hart House Theatre. The lecturer will be Mr. Allan Sly, who will speak on the works to be played at the concert of the Toronto Symphony on Tuesday night.

Friday Afternoon Recital

There are few pianists in Toronto who have endeared themselves to university audiences as has Mr. Victor Kihl. Likewise it is on rare occasions that an artist so completely catches the imagination of his listeners as did our guest artist of Friday afternoon. The whole assembly could scarce contain its enthusiasm even to the artist himself and we believe that no one received more pleasure in the listening than did Mr. Kihl in the playing.

The programme began with an Andante and the "Waldstein" Sonata, both by Beethoven. There is no doubt that Mr. Kihl is an authoritative interpreter of the classics, but it is in the works of the Romantics that he especially glories. He is of the great school of Liszt-Paderewski, which style of playing is fast disappearing.

Art Gallery

"There is a certain truth in Mussolini's saying that if you cannot find anything good to say of the government, don't say anything at all," said Mr. Lismer recently, "and it may be also applied to Canadian art." Whatever Mr. Lismer's motives are, I can't accept his hint, especially after visiting again the Art Gallery. Both the new Group of Canadian Painters and the Group of Seven are still exhibiting recent works, and on the whole it is a very poor show, rather disappointing, aside from a few exceptions.

Why on earth should an Art Gallery accept works like P. Heward's Girl in a Bathing Suit? The drawing is not bad, there is an evident effort towards some composition, but . . . the whole is an appalling painting, lifeless, simply indecent for its lack of emotion, and any idea of beauty. Such work is not art but merely advertising and bad advertising too. Luckily for us there are still some artists who possess an understanding intuition joined to a creative vision which enable them to communicate their experience to the public.

Mrs. Paraskeva Clark's Self-Portrait is a fine example of modern art; the character is expressed by simple lines and few colours. It is indeed rather suggested, while the full treatment of the detail is abandoned. Most striking, too, is Miss H. M. Way's Woman's Head; there we have technique, plus an intense emotion that is rendered more forcefully by the treatment of the background. At first sight I did not appreciate rightly R. S. Hewton's two portraits, yet his colours have a warmth and a charm that cannot be denied. Besides his portraits possess "form" in a sense that is very near classical and has beauty. L. T. Newton's many portraits are all characterised by a modern technical freedom, akin to Mrs. P. Clark, though they are lacking in intensity.

The painting of human figures is a recent venture in Canadian art, and it is to be hoped that this effort will be continued, even intensified. By confining itself almost only to landscape painting, art in this country has lost much in vigour and discipline; if one excepts the landscapes shown by W. Weston, F. Carmichael, Miss E. Carr, Mrs. P. Clark, Brooker, and they represent not more than one-sixth of the paintings now hanging at the Grange,—there is really little to speak of. Looking at all those paintings helps one to understand John Russell's rage at "this lack of training, standard and technique." . . . though one can't turn to him for an answer. In my previous review I praised G. Pepper's Rocks and Sea, but, to be sincere, I must admit that since then my judgment has changed, and a second visit failed to help me to find again any good grounds for my first liking. This review is too short and superficial—due to lack of space—but I hope to be able to substantiate later on, more fully, some of my statements.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

At a meeting of the women's Athletic Directorate last Thursday, Jimmy MacPherson was appointed coach of the intercollegiate hockey team and Marnie Faulds was appointed manager. Intercollegiate practices will probably be started by the end of this week or the beginning of next, as soon as the best days for practice are decided on. No arrangements have been made as yet regarding interfaculty hockey.

In the first game of the basketball semi-finals, St. Hilda's were obviously the better team, showing unquestionable superiority in all departments of the game. The fact that Alice Butler was off the floor for the greater part of the time considerably upset the combination and smoothness of the play. With the St. Hilda's squad on in full force tonight, there is little doubt that they will chalk up another win.

Despite the fact that she twisted her ankle rather badly in the first part of the game, Edith Ardagh continued to play and turned in a very creditable performance.

The second game of the semi-finals will be played tonight at O.C.E. gym at seven o'clock. U.C. Seniors have a nine-point lead to overcome as points count on the round. They have a fast-moving line-up but are considerably handicapped by a lack of height in their players.

U.C. SENIORS SUFFER DEFEAT BY ST. HILDA'S

First Game of Semi-Finals in Women's Basketball Played at O.C.E.

St. Hilda's defeated U.C. Seniors by a score of 27-18 in the first game of the semi-finals in the women's basketball series on Friday night at O.C.E. gym. Greater precision and steadiness coupled with more accurately worked-out plays gained the victory for St. Hilda's.

Alice Butler, the backbone of the St. Hilda's team, was eliminated in the first half and the Saints showed the lack of her usual steady influence, with the result that U.C. mounted up a score which was only three points behind at half-time. In the second half the Saints recovered themselves and gained a nine-point lead.

Eleanor Wallace, the U.C. centre, was outstanding throughout the entire game, displaying brilliant floor work and marked ability in breaking up the passes. Betty Logan was the strength of the U.C. forward line, as was Mary Rose on the St. Hilda's team.

The forward lines appeared much stronger than the defence, although in the last few minutes of the play both teams were well on their guard.

U.C. (18) — Q. Menell (10), B. Logan (8), M. Page, E. Parr, E. Wallace, L. Reid, B. Spence, J. Atkinson, St. Hilda's (27) — M. L. Carr (12), E. Ardagh (9), M. Rose (6), A. Butler, M. McDonald, K. Grubbe, E. Palmer, M. Lambe, E. Wilson.

PROFESSOR STATES DISCOVERY NOT NEW

"Extraction of Alcohol from Potatoes Previously Known," Says Funnell

(From the Halifax Herald) — "Word comes from Dublin that an industrial alcohol, to be used as fuel for motor cars as well as in dyestuffs, heating and lighting, has been developed from potatoes and will be made a government monopoly. The estimated production cost is sixpence a gallon. The potato is a lovely vegetable but there certainly is nothing lovely about a development which holds out such immense possibilities. It is just one more evidence of the remarkable advances being made in scientific research in these amazing times."

When interviewed on the subject by The Varsity, Professor Funnell of the Chemistry Department stated that this "amazing discovery" has been known (Continued on Page 4)

SAILORS VICTORIOUS IN O.H.A. FIXTURE

Blue Sextet Defeated by Port Colborne Team with Score of 4-2

PLENTY OF NETWORK

By Frank J. Lambert

After unleashing terrific attacks which kept the crowd in a frenzy of excitement, and setting a dazzling pace throughout the second and third periods, the youthful Varsity senior O.H.A. team were finally subdued by the more experienced sextet from Port Colborne by a score of 4-2 at Varsity Arena last Saturday night. By taking full advantage of the over-anxiousness to score on the part of the Varsity crew, and staving off the brilliant onslaughts of the Big Blue forwards, the Port Colborne Sailors were able to emerge victorious.

In gaining this victory Matthews' Mighty Mariners assumed sole possession of the league leadership, while Varsity sustained their sixth straight loss in the current senior O.H.A. campaign. For the students the first string forward line of McLelland, MacPherson and Hendry were outstanding, while Shipp and Moore, the rival citadel guardians were called upon to make great saves on numerous occasions.

Led by the veteran Morrill on the opening of hostilities the Port Colborne Sailors crashed through the Varsity defence several times only to have Frank Shipp outguess them. Continuing to press hard the Sailors battled furiously and on a perfect pass from Wade, Morrill scored the first tally, after five minutes of play. There was an exchange of plays and the Varsity forwards failed to make any headway against Moore. On a solo rush Jeffrey just missed scoring when Moore barely blocked his shot. As soon as Upper was penalised the Varsity started a gangling attack but their efforts were in vain. Breaking fast, Morrill and Gray of the Sailors coasted in on Shipp, firing two hard shots, but the Varsity goal tender was equal to the occasion and the gong sounded with the score of 1-0 in favour of Port Colborne.

While Gray was serving a penalty for tripping Rey, Varsity again surged forward and MacPherson lost a great chance to even up the score when the puck rolled away from him. On another solo MacPherson made a good pass to McLelland but the crafty Moore smothered the shot. After ten minutes of play Hudson, sturdy Sailor defenceman, added another tally.

Throwing caution to the winds the Blue forwards gradually forced play into the Port Colborne defence area and rained a hail of rubber on Moore, having their efforts finally rewarded when McLelland scored a brilliant goal when he picked the unprotected corner of the goal. Both teams strove valiantly to break the deadlock but the period ended with the score 2-2.

The final session saw the best display of offensive tactics in the game, and both Shipp and Moore were called upon to make many miraculous saves. Barging his way through the Varsity defence, Reid took a hard shot and before Shipp could clear he rushed in and scored. Imbued with indomitable courage the fast-skating Varsity forwards set up a barrage of attacks which made the Sailors retreat into their own area. Time and again "Dinty" Moore was called upon to make great stops on the Big Blue snipers. Try as they might with five men in the Port Colborne defence area, the Varsity crew were unable to get the equaliser and with but one minute to play Gray, clever centre of the Sailors broke clear, going down the left boards to score the final goal of the game, making the count Port Colborne 5, Varsity 2.

Port Colborne — Goal, Moore; defence, Reid, Hudson; centre, Gray; wings, Upper, Morrison; subs, Morrill, Gallinger, Wade, Horne.

Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, Campbell, Rey; centre, McLelland; wings, MacPherson, Hendry; subs, McConvey, Sweney, Jeffrey, Williamson.

Referee — J. Mitchell, Guelph.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

WEST END DEFEATS VARSITY SENIORS

Cage Game Keenly Contested by Blue Team on Y.M.C.A. Floor

APPLEBAUM STARS

By W. A. Crocker

Struggling desperately in a vain effort to overcome a superior and more experienced quintet from West End Y, Varsity's Senior B cagers met with a 33-23 defeat in a fast and colourful contest played on the West End floor on Saturday night. The win, which certainly was deserved, gave the Y squad the leadership in the senior Y.M.C.A. basketball race.

From the opening whistle the Y aggregation went to work with a will, displaying their queer and unusual method of attack to perfection. Less than two minutes after the initial whistle they were leading 5-0 and were never seriously threatened during the rest of the game. The half continued with the Blues netting the odd basket now and then on individual plays to keep within range of the West End team. Half-time found the purple and gold squad in the lead 17-9.

The second half saw the Y cagers begin just where they left off. Their blocks had the Blues baffled, while their defence hurried every shot which the Varsity squad sent in the general direction of their basket. At one time in the half West End led 30-16. Suddenly a dazed Blue team came to life, and displaying a little of the form which was shown last week, worked some beautiful plays, only to have tough luck rob them of the much-sought-for points.

Thoroughly out-lucked the Blues resorted to long shots and again were disappointed as only Applebaum seemed to be able to ripple the twine. The final whistle found the Blues still running around in circles with the Y team having a comfortable lead.

Although outclassed, Varsity's squad of batters attempted to put up a good fight. The Blues had their more experienced rivals worrying at times with their never-say-die spirit. From the fact that only eight out of forty-six Blue attempts rippled the twine it is quite evident that with a little more luck the Varsity five might have carried off the verdict in spite of their failure to cope with the West End attack.

Very little can be said in praise of Varsity's team work as only two out of the eight baskets scored resulted from passing plays.

The feature of the game undoubtedly was the fine work of "Pud" Watson of West End. In addition to acting as field-general for his mates Watson sailed in a number of times to score. He was ably assisted by Baird, the two scoring about half of the Y points. On the Blue squad the work of Applebaum was conspicuous both offensively and defensively. Newman, because of his fighting spirit, showed to advantage, while Gibson, a red-headed batter, will no doubt develop into one of the stars of the team if used more often.

Varsity — Applebaum 9, Newman 3, Mitchell 2, Willis 1, Stronach, Gibson 3, Skolko 1, Magwood 4, and Ronson.

West End — Beard 8, McBroon 3, Goble 4, Watson 7, Sandford 3, Gillespie, Butler 3, Aubrey, Martin 5, and Bolton.

STUDY OF EATING NEW CLUB'S AIM

Trinity College Students Eat Russian Food and Like It

SAY FOOD IMPORTANT

Eating, that all-important habit, to which mankind is completely enslaved, is the subject of a careful scrutiny by some members of Trinity College, banded together to form the Edological Society.

The chief aim of the society is, not to discover the superior meal, but to study the methods of eating, the food required and the immense enjoyment derived from the execution of this daily task. The entire future of the race, certain members maintain, may rest entirely with this seemingly commonplace matter of eating, who knows?

One of the delightful tasks of the club is to sample foods from different parts of the world and to comment on these varied dishes. At the last meeting a Russian meal was served in the typical native fashion and met with the approval of all concerned. The society hopes to hold a German meal (beer included) in the near future, and, when the members have sufficiently mastered the art of using chopsticks, will partake of some Chinese delicacies.

The discoveries of the society, in this rather strange field of study, prove interesting to the ordinary layman. One member has fasted for two weeks without displaying any ill effects and hopes to continue for another fortnight.

The Varsity learned from Rev. Father North, that the society claims that an ordinary human being can live, while fasting, for a longer period than ordinarily believed possible, since death, if it took place too prematurely, would only be caused by psychological means, not by mere physical conditions. The subject would believe it was inevitable that he would die within a week, but this is contrary to physiology because the natural resources of the body would sustain life. He added that he believed one could eat whatever one desired and retain vitality as long as variety of food was maintained.

The idea of fasting may prove interesting to the undergraduate who has in mind the saving of money from meals and the necessity of more hours for studious pursuits. Any one desiring information is requested to write the Edological Society at Trinity. The society is rather exclusive but intends to broadcast a meeting over a local radio station in the near future.

SITUATION GRAVE ALL OVER EUROPE

International Rivalry Cause of Great War, Says A. E. Zimmern

GERMANS THREATEN TO ARM

(Special to "The Varsity") Vancouver, B.C. (C.I.P.) — An insatiable lust for power is the major cause of political ferment in Europe.

This was the keynote of the final address delivered by Dr. A. E. Zimmern, noted authority on international relations at the University of British Columbia here.

According to the speaker the Great War was not caused by commercial maladjustment but by an intense national rivalry for power. A desire for equality and glory is the inspiration of all forms of militarism and until the people of the world realise that the doctrine of power-politics is outdated permanent peace cannot be assured.

Dr. Zimmern believes that the matter of peace and war would lie largely in the hands of the masses if the powers of economic boycott could be effectively applied. He stated that the Kellogg Pact was of greater force in preserving peace than the League of Nations since the latter's failure in dealing with the Far-Eastern crisis. The materials necessary in the manufacture of implements of war have to be imported from many countries. If war threatened a simple consultation among the nations could quickly mobilise world opinion against the aggressor—then an economic boycott would follow and lengthy war would be impossible.

The speaker admitted that the present European situation is grave. Germany has threatened to arm unless granted the privilege of maintaining a standing army — in fact she is re-arming at the present moment. Britain is acknowledged to be a more important power than in pre-war days since it has been conclusively demonstrated that an efficient navy can defeat a continental army by simply cutting off supplies. However, Britain is no longer effectively isolated from the continent by the English Channel since the advent of the aeroplane.

In conclusion Dr. Zimmern stated that disarmament cannot be accomplished until the necessity for having

EISENDRATH TO SPEAK TO AVUKAH SOCIETY

"Germany and the Problem of World Jewry"—Should Prove Interesting

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisenrath will address the first open meeting of the Avukah Society tonight in the auditorium of the Women's Union. The Avukah Society is a Zionist study group that was organised on this campus four years ago and has been affiliated with the Zionist Organisation of America.

Since the demise of the Menorah Society a number of years ago the Avukah Society has held a number of open meetings in order to give the Jewish students on the campus a contact with Jewish life. While it is limited in membership for study group purposes the society holds open meetings several times every year.

"Rabbi Eisenrath, who will address the meeting on the subject of "Germany and the Problem of World Jewry", will discuss the relationship of the rise of the Nazis to power in Germany with their militant and virulent anti-Semitism to the precarious position of the Jews throughout the world. A systematic anti-Semitic campaign of vilification is being met with the organisation of Jews throughout the world to counteract this threat to their newly acquired religious, economic and political freedom.

While the Avukah Society is Zionist in its affiliation it represents no particular Zionist point of view, drawing its members from all parties. Zionists, despite their factional differences, are generally agreed that the establishment of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine offers the most feasible solution of the Jewish problem for the more persecuted Jews of the world and that Palestine will become the intellectual and spiritual centre of world Jewry. Rabbi Eisenrath is at the same time a believer in Reform Judaism and Zionism, but does not subscribe to the precepts of nationalism.

Armaments has been removed. Armies are only useful for purposes of conquest or threat. If these uses were removed by the abolition of power-politics and the application of economic boycott war would be absolutely unnecessary and disarmament would follow quickly. Until public opinion is educated to a belief in these principles peace cannot be maintained.

Service.

BULLETIN BOARD

Bulletin Board and Coming Event notices must be handed in at either the men's office in Hart House, or at the women's office in University College. No notices will be taken over the telephone, after 6 p.m. notices must be taken in the Press Building. Notices for the Bulletin Board are limited to ONE insertion only.

VARSITY BAND

Very important practice tonight
(Monday) at 5 p.m. Everybody out.

VIC WOMEN'S S.C.M.

"The Place of Women in the World of Today" is the subject of a discussion to be held by Miss Gertrude Rutherford, S.C.M. of Canada, in Wymilwood from 4.5 p.m. today.
Everybody welcome.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Important meeting of the Movement for a Christian Social Order, on Tuesday, December 5 at 5 p.m., Alumni Hall. Subject: "Should we affiliate with the S.C.M. or maintain our own identity?" Victoria and Emmanuel students urgently required to attend.

VIC S.C.M. SUPPER PARTY

On Thursday, December 7th, 5.30 to 8.00, Vic S.C.M. are holding another big supper party in Wymilwood.
The speaker will be Prof. N. A. Mac-Kenzie on the subject "Japan: Race and Nationality".

N.F.C.U.S. CONFERENCE

The Executive Council of the National Federation of Canadian University Students will meet this year at the University of Western Ontario, it is announced by Percy Davies, M.P., N.F.C.U.S. secretary. Starting on December 26th, the meetings will continue until December 29th. It is expected that delegates will be present from almost every university in Canada. The last conference was held at McMaster University in December,
1931. At the conference this year,
Melvin Kenny of the University of Toronto will preside—Kenny has been president of the Federation for the past two years.

VISITOR PLEASED WITH UNIVERSITY

existing in American colleges. "The term, University, itself exemplifies successfully the attitude which I think permeates this institution," he said,
"and it definitely links itself with England and the continent." In fact, this close kinship with England creates a very distinct impression upon the visitor to Canada. Dr. Will feels that the United States is so absolutely cut off that it appears, its language excluded, a foreign country. Canada, on the other hand, although undoubtedly independent, is nevertheless able to maintain strong connective bonds with the mother country.

Dr. Will then gave a few facts concerning himself and his plans. Preceding his series of lectures on the Portuguese tongue, he was at the Louisiana State University Medical Centre, but his stay here is, as yet, indefinite, pending upon arrangements with Professor West. He described himself as agreeably surprised with the conversational powers of the Spanish students as well as being very favorably impressed by the efficiency of the moderns department.

down to the southern coast, the objects of the search were followed.
The lecture was abundantly illustrated. The city of Buenos Aires was presented as a place beautiful with flowers, fountains and buildings exquisite in their architectural design.
The stone native to this region contains too much iron to be used for decorative purposes and what lumber they have is too heavy to be floated in water. Consequently, most of their building materials come from the coasts of Norway and Sweden.

Pictures illustrating the life and customs of settlers, their carts drawn by as many as fifteen horses, and Welsh and Spanish families were shown.

Illustrations of the district where Boers settled after the South African war and the oil fields of Southern America as well as an Argentina cow catcher, whose horse wore a harness inlaid with gold, proved interesting to the audience.

SCHOOLMEN

There are still a few Schoolmen who have not yet purchased their tickets for the dinner. Please see that you have yours immediately so that arrangements for accommodation can be made. Don't be one of the "Foolish Virgins"—get it now!

ATHLETIC AT-HOME

Due to the tragic death of one of the university's most distinguished athletes, Johnny Copp, the Athletic Directorate has unanimously decided to postpone indefinitely the Athletic At-Home scheduled for next Friday evening, 8th December.

SYMPHONY TICKETS

Tickets for Tuesday evening's Symphony Concert will be on sale for university students at the Hall Porter's desk in Hart House on Monday and Tuesday, 12-2 p.m.

SYMPHONY LECTURE

Mr. Allan Sly is lecturing today in Hart House Theatre at 5 p.m. on the following programme: Brahms' Symphony No. 3, Symphonie Espagnole Lalo. Isidor Presser will play the first movement of the Symphonie Espagnole with Miss Parson as the accompanist.

374 U.C.

It is absolutely necessary that ALL men and women fill out biography cards and hand them in to the S.A.C. office in Hart House. This MUST be done no later than tomorrow.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

The Mitchell Cup will be shot on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of this week. Everybody out and shoot for your faculty.

STUDENTS VISIT OTHER UNIVERSITIES

arships to French-Canadian universities in Quebec for the purpose of taking special studies in the French language, and vice versa.

Any student, male or female, may apply if they are at the time of application, in the second year of their course or, in the case of five year courses, in the second or third year.
It is a condition of each appointment that the Exchange Scholar must return, at the conclusion of his scholarship year to complete his course at his "home" university. Consequently a sophomore taking the usual four-year Arts course may be awarded a scholarship for his third year; in the case of five year courses the scholarship may be awarded either for the third or fourth year.

An Exchange Scholar is expected to be a representative student of his "home" university in every way. It is not necessary that he should have a first-class academic standing but he must be a competent student who will be able to enter freely into the life of the "exchange" university without fear of classroom consequences.

About fifty-five students have received Exchange Scholarships during the past five years. This year a total of six are enjoying the privileges of the Exchange Plan—one at McGill, one at Dalhousie, one at British Columbia, and three at Toronto. In most cases the saving in tuition fees more than balances the transportation costs involved. Applications must be handed in to the N.F.C.U.S. representative before March 1st, 1934.

leisure time thus given to men by the introduction of the machine was used in the enjoyment of material rather than spiritual pleasures. Motion pictures, radio, and motoring provide the material pleasures with which the majority of people nowadays enjoy their leisure moments. The higher spiritual pleasures such as the reading of good literature and the study of fine art are neglected.

"The need for excitement," the speaker continued, "is not peculiar to any race or people. The machine home from debt, that he has become an ardent inflationist. What would you do in so trying a circumstance?

Esmeralda did it. She eloped with the landlord.

The class of 375 supplied a male chorus which, in true Greek style, introduced the other skits. In addition, it paid some very high compliments to the quality of the celebrated Hart House soup and buns.

"The Soph Follies of 1933" gave the audience a glimpse (pardon us, several glimpses) behind the scenes, and, incidentally, introduced what may, or may not, become the season's greatest song hit "The U.C. Sophomore Blues".

In their skit "The Three Little Frosh", the freshman class showed how to subdue the Big Bad Professor, and gave their conception of Utopia in the university. The prize, by the way, for the brightest saying of the evening goes to the frosh who constructed the sentence using the word "pencil".

A large and merry throng danced in the big gym to Murray Griss's melodies. Subdued lights and gay streamers contributed to placing the 1933 Follies on a par with those of other years. A water polo game, in which U.C. defeated Dents and squash exhibitions, were additional features of the evening's entertainment.

The patronesses were Mrs. Malcolm
Wallace, Mrs. J. W. McAndrew, Mrs.
L. T. Morgan, and Miss Marion Ferguson.

PROFESSOR STATES DISCOVERY NOT NEW

for years and years. "Russian vodka is made from potatoes," he said. "The sale of this spirit has been common in Europe for a long time."

Before the war Canada used to buy alcohol made of potato spirits from Germany.

merely brings it into prominence." The tediousness of present day machine labour makes some form of excitement necessary in the leisure hours.
On top of this active forms of the use of leisure time are rapidly supplanted by passive ones.

"People do not play, they are played to. They do not sing, they are sung to." Thus the material emotions which are stimulated by the senses of sight and hearing are satisfied.

The world as yet has not given education a fair trial. The children of the machine age go to modern schools equipped with up-to-date libraries and laboratories. It is the duty of the school and the university to promote

RUSSIA ADVANCED

BY SOVIET UNION

exhausted by war, both internal and external, and completely smashed as far as industry was concerned. After this came a period of repair and reconstruction up to 1928, when industry had just come up to the pre-war level, though agriculture was still in the Middle Ages. The fear of attack forced the decision to make a terrific drive for expansion in industry and for complete reorganisation in agriculture.
The Five Year Plan was not carried out by a small bunch of people sitting in Moscow but by collective decisions in every farm, factory and even in the schools. No country has ever before built capital out of day-to-day income and this accounts for the shortage of consumable goods. But there is nobody there who does not realise that they are going without things now in order to have much more in a short time.

"The recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States is more interesting to the States because they need it more. They see in Russia a market for the goods which are piling up under the N.R.A. and are threatening to cause another crash." The chief importance to the Soviet Union lies in the additional security against war, for she wants peace more than any other country in the world, and has put up with all sorts of provocations from Japan in order to prevent another war.

"One of the chief impressions made by the Soviet Union is the conflict between old and new." The conflict about religion is mainly an economic one. Whereas the older religious people want to begin ploughing on the feast of St. Jeremy, the younger ones, who are learning about agriculture, say that this is at least a fortnight too late. The conflict with regard to the family life is occasioned by the young peasant being able to leave home as soon as he marries. He used to be dependent on his family and had to bring his young wife to live at his home, where she was treated as a slave by his father. Naturally he broke away from this as soon as the collective farm gave him the chance.

After only six weeks here Mrs.
Strong declares that she is longing to get back. In the Soviet Union people lead a life that has more purpose in it and for that reason they are happier.
Even the school children are allowed to help with the five year plan, though recently they had to be checked because they were endangering their health by working too hard.

PROFESSOR AULD DECRIES CUSTOM OF OWNING ARMS

Hopes Public Will Assist Police in Stopping Vicious Habit

MUST HAVE PERMIT

But Great Many Weapons Are Carried by Unauthorised Persons

"Chief Draper's message on the radio with respect to the tragedy which has caused so much sorrow will meet with the hearty endorsement and approval of all right-minded citizens," said Professor F. C. Auld of the Department of Law, when interviewed yesterday by The Varsity. "It is to be hoped that the public will afford every assistance to the police in their determination that the mischievous custom of owning or carrying revolvers and other pocket firearms shall be brought to an end.

"No one is authorised to carry with him offensive weapons unless a permit is granted by the police. If anyone not in possession of a permit is found to be carrying upon his person any offensive weapon he is guilty of an offence and is liable to a fine not exceeding $100 and costs or imprisonment not exceeding three months. These provisions, it will be noted, apply to and punish persons who carry weapons even without any evidence that such weapons are being carried for any sinister purpose. But the law goes further than this: anyone who has upon his person a pistol or air gun with intent therewith unlawfully to do injury to any other person is liable to a fine not exceeding $200 or imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour. If, in addition to this, it is found that a person has in his possession any offensive weapons with any purpose dangerous to the public peace, he is liable to imprisonment for a term of five years.

"These general provisions of the Criminal Code," continued Professor Auld, "show the extent of the seriousness with which public authorities view the carrying of dangerous weapons. It would be a very good thing if the public authorities insisted upon the surrender of all firearms of whatever character in the hands of private persons and granted permits for their retention only in very exceptional circumstances where police help is not reasonably procurable and where present danger of armed assault might reasonably be apprehended.

"The question sometimes arises as to whether it is not better to have a law which would make it a crime to carry a weapon without a permit." (Continued on Page 4)

Christmas Literary Issue

Contributions are being received for the Christmas Literary Issue of The Varsity which will be published on Friday, December 15. All students, except those listed in the masthead of this newspaper, are eligible to compete for the prizes offered. Manuscripts should be typed or legibly written upon one side of the page only, and sketches should be made in ink.

All contributions must be accompanied by the full name, faculty, and year of the student. Prizes will not be given in any class in which the material is not of sufficiently high quality to merit an award. Contributions should be left in the S.A.C. Office in Hart House before noon of Monday, December 11.

Eight prizes, totalling $36.00, are offered as follows: prose, first prize, $5.00, second prize, $3.00; poetry, first prize, $5.00, second prize, $3.00; humorous prose, $5.00; humorous verse, $5.00; for the best sketch of a campus subject, $5.00; for the best sketch of a general subject, $5.00.

GERMANY THREAT TO WORLD PEACE

Happenings in Germany Not Solely a Jewish Problem

JEWS TOO EGOCENTRIC

"The Jews have not seen the German problem in all its general implications. In this event we have been too egocentric," said Rabbi Maurice N. Eisenrath in his address to an open meeting of the Avukah Society last night.

"The Jews have seen what is happening in Germany as a Jewish problem. If it were only a Jewish problem our cause would be lost. We have in Germany today the complete suppression of all the inalienable rights which we in the western world hold to be the sun and substance of liberty.

"In the militarism of Germany lies a threat to world peace. In Germany one sees little children from the age of six and upward fully uniformed in brown garb drilling as for war. The (Continued on Page 4)

FENCING COURSE PROMOTES POISE

Perfect Form is the Thing
When Co-eds Learn Fencing

HAS SCIENTIFIC SIDE

It gives grace, poise, and agility—and it's not a breakfast cereal. It is the honourable art of fencing, which is taught to girls in the special Physical Training course. They call them "Diploma Girls" up there, and no wonder, for besides giving the aforementioned virtues, it trains you in quick thinking. We recommend it as an option for Latin! But never mind, there is may be a class for the "ordinaries" later in the year, especially if someone leaves a million dollars for a new girls' gymnasium.

Perfect form is the thing in fencing. No! No! We don't mean it in the way you do. Perhaps we should say perfect technique. It has its scientific side too—the feet always have to be at right angles. A mixture of the French and Italian methods is taught here. The French is "fairer" and "fairier", as would be expected. The Italian stomps toward you in his attack. (Evidently the Italians mean business.) The main point in waiting for an attack is to watch your opponent's eyes. How about some bouts between Hart House and Lillian Massey?

Now, if you see some girls walking across the campus with poise, grace and agility written all over them, you will know they're taking lessons in "It".

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the entire staff of The Varsity on Wednesday at the Women's Union. A full turn-out is requested. Tea will be served at 4.30 p.m.

GIVE MULOCK CUP AT SCHOOL DINNER

President of Engineering Institute Will Be Guest
Speaker

44TH CALL TO DINNER

Forty-three years of experience will play its part in the production of one of the largest and best attended functions of the male undergraduates of the campus when some seven hundred students and faculty members from the School of Science join in the rousing 44th Annual School Dinner in the Great Hall at Hart House this evening. Elaborate preparations have been under way for weeks, and the dinner promises to uphold the tradition that for nearly half a century has made it outstanding among the university activities.

Dr. O. O. Lefebvre, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, will be the guest speaker, and Sir William Mulock, the donor of the Mulock Cup, will present the cup to victorious Senior S.P.S. rugby team, the winners for this season.

CENTRAL BANK NEEDS GOODWILL OF FINANCIERS

Professor Jackson Discusses Macmillan Report Before
Canadian Club

REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT

Type of Central Bank to be Established is Question

"Whether the Central Bank is to be a success or not depends upon the goodwill of the body of men in command of the financial institutions of Canada," Professor G. E. Jackson stated in an address on the Macmillan Report delivered to the Canadian Club at a luncheon at the Royal York Hotel yesterday.

Professor Jackson surveyed the Report in his capacity both as a student of economics and as an associate of one of the chartered banks of Canada. He called the audience's attention to the remarkable achievement the Commission had gained in compiling the report of some 120 pages in the record time of eight weeks and two days. In comparing it to the British Macmillan report which took two years to compile and covered not only Britain's financial situation but offered a remedy for the adjustment of the world's ill, Mr. Jackson pointed out that the Canadian Report was a perfect study of the anatomy of Canadian financial institutions but offered only one recommendation, namely the formation of a Central Bank of Canada.

He called two points to the attention of those interested in the formation of the Central Bank. In the first place the most important consideration was not whether a Central Bank is to be established but rather what type of Central Bank was the most efficient. In the second place the decision to form the Central Bank was really taken in 1923 when the Finance Act passed during the war-time emergency was written into the Constitution, which made the next step of forming a Central Bank inevitable.

In regard to the first point Professor Jackson reviewed the various alternative forms that a Central Bank could take. Privately owned and government owned institutions, those which have the sole right to issue notes and those which have not, those which compete with chartered banks (Continued on Page 3)

ARRANGEMENTS MADE TO ENABLE STUDENTS TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Funeral Arrangements

Attention is drawn to the following arrangements for the funeral service of Johnny Copp this afternoon. Doors open 2.15 p.m. to students. Entrance by North Door, Convocation Hall. Admission on presentation of registration card. Doors open to the public at 2.45 p.m. As the seating accommodation of Convocation Hall is limited students are requested to be on hand as early as possible.

The President of the University has announced that all lectures and laboratory classes will be cancelled today after 2 p.m.

All members of the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Council are requested to meet in Room 82, University College at 2.15 p.m. today, and will proceed in a body to the service in Convocation Hall.

Members of the staff of the University planning to attend the service this afternoon in Convocation Hall are asked to be in their places by 2.30 p.m. as reservations cannot be held later than this.

GROUP TO PRESENT CANADIAN PLAYS

Playwrights' Studio Group Will Give Three One-Act Plays

ENCOURAGED BY STONE

Five playwrights, women of this city, known as the Playwrights' Studio Group, are to present the fourth group of one-act plays which they have put on at Hart House, on Thursday, December 8th. The group consisted at its initiation a year ago last June, of three women. There are now five members: Dora Smith Conover, Leonora McNeilly, Lois Reynolds, Rita McClean Farquharson, and Virginia Payne Knight. Only two of these clever women are university graduates. The members intend to limit their number to six.

The aim is to give original Canadian plays a showing, to enable the playwright to see her play produced. They do not pretend to give a full performance. These one-act plays are presented with very little setting and with as little expense as possible. Canadian plays billed at Hart House have not received the support of an audience. Last year in three nights at Hart House, eight short plays were shown to large and appreciative audiences.

Mr. Stone, Director of Hart House Theatre, has encouraged the production of these original plays in order to give Canadian plays test productions, and Canadian playwrights much-needed encouragement. He looks over the plays and appoints the directors. Hart House players are in no way affiliated with the group, but have given it their assistance as actors and producers.

On Thursday evening, the following three plays will be presented, His Man, a French Canadian tragedy by Leonora McNeilly; Jolly Good Fellows, by Lois Reynolds, Victoria 370, which won first prize in the I.O.D.E. contest, and The Joker, an Ontario Country Comedy, by Dora Smith Conover.

Special Sections Reserved in Convocation Hall for Separate Groups

BELL IN TOWER WILL TOLL

Many Outstanding Men in Sports and Public Life
Will Attend

The big bell in the Soldiers' Tower will begin tolling shortly before 3 p.m. this afternoon when the funeral procession of the late Johnny Copp enters the university grounds through the east gate. The bell will continue to toll until the entire procession has entered Convocation Hall.

Careful arrangements have been made to enable students and associates of John Copp to be present at the service and it is hoped that the students will help prevent confusion by getting seated before the general public is admitted at 2.45 p.m.

At 2.15 the north door of Convocation Hall will be opened to those presenting registration cards. Ushers chosen from among the fourth year of the Medical School will show the students to their places.

Special sections are being reserved for the immediate relatives of the unfortunate youth; for the house committee of Hart House, of which the deceased had been an active member, for his fraternity brothers, for the Students' Administrative Council, for members of the city council, for members of the university staff and also the staff and senior students of the University Schools, as well as other groups with which Johnny was connected.

The Lieutenant-Governor will be present to pay tribute to this outstanding young man and the captains of both the Queen's and University of Western Ontario rugby teams will bow their heads in tribute to the sportsmanship of the man against whom they so recently played. Two members of the Winnipeg team have remained in the city to pay the respects of their team and a touching message of sympathy (Continued on Page 4)

CO-ED CONTESTS REACHING CAMPUS

Possibility of Judging the Typical Freshette Finds Favour

MIGHT BE UNPOPULAR

What could be more startling than to discover some morning the outbreak of a popularity, feminine pulchritude, typical freshette, or similar contest within the dignified precincts of the university? Yet perhaps we too shall soon succumb to the mania that has spread over most of the colleges of the United States. And, judging by the reactions of some of the co-eds around the campus when approached about the question, such a contest would be welcomed in some quarters not without acclaim.

One student, who preferred to remain anonymous, perhaps from modesty, exclaimed, "I think it would be a wonderful idea. If the contest is carried out by votes, the judging might not be correct, because the most beautiful girls might be the most backward in a case like that. Nevertheless it would be lots of fun while it lasted."

On the other hand, another viewpoint was presented by Miss E. Gordon of II Moderns, at University College, who replied: "The winner would become not only conceited, but unpopular. Such an idea is silly for a university that prides itself on its high intellectual standing, for it is not typical of (Continued on Page 4)

A KINDLY CRITICISM
The Editor,
The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

Since certain kind souls have been so generous with their opinions, may someone from the opposing ranks venture an appreciation?

To me, most of the literary, dramatic and musical criticisms have been a source of intense satisfaction and delight—particularly those by C.L.C. Referring back to past issues of The Varsity, I carefully re-read several of his articles and was much impressed by his skill in extracting the true essence from play or music.

In his review of Music in the Air, he caught something of the lifting, careless gaiety in which lay much of the charm of the whole musical adventure. His criticism of the Late Christopher Bean was so delicate and sympathetic as to satisfy the most fastidious reader.

He penetrates unerringly to the core of the theme, knows what the author is trying to express and waits for the actors to unfold it. Should they fail to bring out the expected interpretation, he is quick to detect the failure—though equally swift to appreciate fine shades of worth, while fundamentally disagreeing.

It would be well for our amateur players to bear in mind that appreciation from the clear-eyed critic is to be merited, not elicited; and to remember that when it is merited, it will be given unstintingly, and with an honesty and discrimination that make praise worthwhile.

Sincerely,
R. J. Crocker (grad.).

THE PRYNCE OF WALES

The Drama Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

May I reply to the delightfully naive chunk of transparent sophistry which appears in Thursday's Varsity as an answer to the criticisms of the Dramatic Critics? I supposed on first reading it that due to some typographical error the Champus Cat column had been put under the Music, Drama and Art column.

A CENTRAL BANK FOR CANADA

Since the recent report by a Royal Commission on the advisability of a Central Bank for Canada, and even before that group of men met to deliberate on the problem, the economists and the bankers aired their views at great length. So much so, that the expressions of the so-called lower and middle classes have gone unnoticed if such expressions have been forthcoming. The report recommends a Central Banking system for this country. Two representatives of the banks sent in dissenting reports because a function, which they hitherto had in their hands, would be removed—a function which will no doubt be an extremely powerful one in the future. The salvation of our banking system to date for which the bankers claim credit, has been achieved because the interests of the banks have been parallel to those of the country's business. Without a Central Bank, should the interests of the banks become differentiated from those of the nation's business, the interests of the general public would go by the board in favour of the banks. A hint of this latter condition in more recent times has been the most deciding factor in the matter coming to a head. Consequently an attempt is being made, because of the pressure of public opinion, to establish an impartial institution to represent the nation's interests. At present when many are in the extremities of distress and people are asking the government to provide them with credit, the banks agree to lower their interest rates on savings but loans are still difficult to obtain. No wonder the laymen are questioning whether banking functions are in sufficiently disinterested hands, with powers sufficient to cope satisfactorily with the situation.

It would appear that the banks are afraid to depart under any given circumstance from established practice. The situation has become strained both for them and their customers. Looking at the problem in the way that the general public sees it, we cite an example for consideration. There is much to be said in support of such a man's attitude and position. He bought a home, made a down payment, borrowed the balance due from his banker, and agreed to meet it in regular installments. Out of employment, he is unable to meet his obligation, his securities on which the loan was made have been exhausted, and his standard of living has been lowered to a minimum. Then the bank takes the attitude of Shylock and demands "the pound of flesh". In this they run true to form. Perhaps it is no fault of the bank but it would seem that all moral obligation on the part of the banker is disregarded, yes, even forgotten.

He asks why the interest he owes to the bank should not be reduced to a half since wages, profits, and real estate values have met with a similar reduction. There is an element of simple justice in his request. On the other hand the bank claims inability to raise the value of its securities and lower its rate of interest from time to time as the necessity should arise with the fluctuation of prices. These same prices are at times false. So we would say that the banker cannot be expected to answer the question at all. To some extent the Royal Commission's report attempts to answer it in simple terms.

The problem that faces Mr. Bennett now is to appoint to the head of the Central Bank, if created, a group of governors who will not be the playthings of the financial interests parallel to those that made the Federal Reserve Bank of the United States the plaything of Wall Street with dire consequences in their bank crisis. In our financial institutions and in our universities there are men who are capable and brave enough to undertake such a task. But where are there men willing to accept such positions? First of all they have to be led by a man in whom the people have confidence. That man and his fellow-officials will have to be men of unquestionable ability and integrity.

Surely the Central Bank has been seen as a necessity by now. In the other Dominions of the British Empire they are already established or in the process of creation. It will regulate the expansion and contraction of credit. It will control the note issue. These functions will remove at least a quarter of the privileges now in the hands of the banks. Besides, as in England, the nation's exchange position abroad will be centrally and more easily guarded. The capitalisation of such an institution is to be inexpensive according to plans already submitted. None of the recommendations of the Commission are radical. With these facts in view why should Canada not rise to the situation and assume the position of leader of the other Dominions of the Empire, rather than maintain its present tardy system in banking procedure?

Bitter Sweet, at the Royal Alexandra Theatre this week, provides nothing exceptional in the way of entertainment. Certainly it is not outstanding, and I think it is by no means up to the standard one expects from a combination of Ziegfeld and Noel Coward.

Of course, Ziegfeld is dead, and Noel Coward is in England. Perhaps that explains it. For while there is excellent material in the vehicle, and while the high spots are for the most part done to perfection, the little things have been hurried over; the director seems to have lacked the master touch which misses no detail, however trivial, and creates a production which is a living whole, instead of a loosely connected series of brilliant individual scenes.

(Note to the unintelligentsia. This is sane, analytical, constructive criticism. You will find something like it in most of my reviews.)

Undeniably the high spots are good. Margaret Carlisle in the feminine lead has a lovely voice and figure and—what is too frequently lacking in musical productions—genuine dramatic ability. Allan Jones, playing opposite her, is a little too much the conventional matinee hero, but a good voice of which he makes the most, covers a lot of sins of omission. Leonard Ceeley and Berna Deane have relatively small parts, but they give everything they have to them and deserve no little credit for the brilliant success of the second act. The same is true of Hope Emerson, Larry Rich and Harry K. Morton, a comedy trio who provide the most hilarious moments of the evening.

Noel Coward's lyrics and music are good, though not all of the numbers are put across as effectively as they might be. Two of them, Zigzag and I'll See You Again, are particularly fine, and deserve to be revived as part of the popular music of the day.

As I have said, Bitter Sweet lacks the master touch, but on the whole I think you will find it satisfactorily adequate for an evening's light entertainment. If you have only part of an evening to spare, the second act is by all odds the best part of the show. C.L.C.

Standard Theatre

It is extremely difficult to express one's self adequately about Eight Men Speak, presented last evening at the Standard Theatre. The play and presentation as a whole was surprisingly good and disappointingly bad. The play centred around the eight Communists incarcerated in Kingston Penitentiary as political prisoners and briefly that is all there is to it. That would seem to be plenty to give a decent sense of connected action even to a play of six acts and nineteen scenes, but sadly enough this was what was most lacking. The Progressive Arts Club undoubtedly know what they want to say and they go about it sincerely but they have not as yet been able to express themselves clearly and effectively.

To pick out and explain criticisms of the different shortcomings would require more space than is available for, as I have said, it all seemed wrong and it all seemed right; dramatically it was patchy, hit and miss and in many cases it relied on melodramatic tricks and parlour stunts for effects which could have been done to better advantage with the spoken word. The glaring example of this ineffectiveness was the use of a shadowgraph to illustrate a whipping as one prisoner describes it which leaves us with a befuddled picture of a horrible scene, a picture which is instantly associated with very bad vaudeville. The dope-fiendish portrayal of Guard X was positively indecent and unworthy of the worst of amateurs; invariably with his pitiful manoeuvrings he distracted from the speeches which were meant to be distinctly the propaganda of the art. Last year P.A.C. gave us their mass recitations and at the peak of this play the mass recitation of the eight convicts speaking was the great achievement of their whole work. Here, unsullied by poor burlesque and insufficient technical regularity, for the one outstanding time they presented their case in a gripping, forceful and conclusive manner. For the most part the acting was incongruous, the parts of working men were acted convincingly but the bourgeois parts were burlesqued beyond credibility. Evidently the proletarian art leaders consider themselves incapable of damping the capitalists on their inherent demerits. Surely even the proletariat are familiar with human beings as they are even if they take the form of exploiters or parasites!

The scenery was meagre and noticeable only by its unnecessary bleakness. There was little originality in the sets which was unfortunate as the play lent itself particularly to experimental work. The one exception to this general feebleness in production was the group of scenes in the second act which depicted a cross section of Canada and their bourgeois reactions to the Communist trial. All these scenes were simultaneous and set against poster work which was supposed to be lighted up with the spot light as the protagonists of each sub-scene spoke.

One of the most gratifying features of the evening was the large audience, the Standard Theatre was packed to the roof. In conclusion I reiterate that the spirit and sincerity of the production almost outweighed the obvious deficiency in the actual presentation. M.B.L.

Massey Hall

Mischka Elman, the artist at the second of Mr. Suckling's series of concerts, is conspicuously a sentimentalist—a fact evidenced not only by his playing but by his programme last night. His sentimentality is of a peculiar type, not exaggerated or sensuously beguiling; rather it runs to a sort of individual complacency, not always especially pleasing. For all that, he is a great violinist, whose work is on the whole mellow and satisfying. And his programme—the same as that which he will give in New York next week at his twenty-fifth anniversary recital—was certainly superior to the collections of musical balderdash most violin virtuosos present.

The finest thing on the programme was the Handel Sonata in E Major, played superbly. Elman's tone is generally very beautiful; in the Largo of this composition he achieved a full, pure loveliness unsurpassed in the whole concert. Next came the Brahms Sonata in A Major. This is the second of three sonatas for piano and violin Brahms wrote at a fairly late date, when his creative powers were mature. It is an exceedingly fine work: the first movement especially reveals the rich poignant beauty to be found in great Brahms compositions such as the third Symphony. The last movement was somewhat marred by too much pathos in the performance—but, once again, the total effect was very satisfying.

Vieuxtemps, the composer of the Concerto in A Minor which Elman also played, was a great violinist of the last century. Works by outstanding virtuosos are often primarily for the display of virtuosic skill—like the Conus Concerto which Heifetz played here recently. The ending of this Vieuxtemps composition, however, is extremely well conceived. After the cadenza begins a closing section which is of considerable emotional intensity; and Elman without doubt did a magnificent job.

The second half of the programme consisted of smaller works, much less attractive than the important compositions of the first half. The limitations which I imputed to Elman at the beginning of this review were most noticeable in this part of the concert, for obvious reasons. Nevertheless, it would be idle to suggest that even here Elman was not a master, displaying his merits to much advantage. The Mozart and Beethoven arrangements (Continued on Page 4)

Tivoli—

Footlight Parade is another picture in the series of Forty-Second Street and The Gold Diggers. There is some attempt at originality but the producers might be accused of pursuing the old policy of "squeezing the last drop out of a lemon".

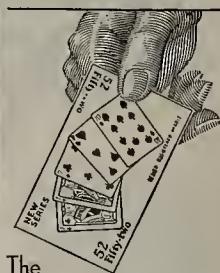

James Cagney is in the leading role but it is Frank McHugh who steals the show. The old reliable team of Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler provide the heavy heart throbs while Joan Blondell is just as good as she was in The Gold Diggers. The picture provides good entertainment, some snappy songs and splendid photography. As Archie Lampman says, "The waterfall scene could not disappoint a student of anatomy".

Mickey Mouse, of course, always draws down his share of applause and a travelogue and Screen Souvenirs completes a well balanced bill.

Loew's—

Christopher Bean, at Loew's this week, is a perfect vehicle to illustrate the artistry of Lionel Barrymore and Marie Dressler. The picture is obviously designed for these two and they dominate every scene they are in. The plot is novel and entertaining, dealing with an old country doctor, portrayed by Barrymore, who suddenly (Continued on Page 4)

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Yet another aspect has come up regarding the basketball game between Vic Juniors and School of Nursing in their group playoffs. The substance of the matter is this:

"At the meeting of the Women's Athletic Directorate held on Thursday, November 30th, regret was expressed that any slur had been cast on the sportsmanship of the Victoria Junior basketball team, due to the protesting of their game played with School of Nursing on Monday, November 27. The Directorate would like it known that the protesting was undertaken entirely by one member of the team without the support of the other players, who felt that, as the game had been played, it should stand as it was."

By defeating U.C. Seniors by a decisive score last night, St. Hilda's proved themselves undoubtedly superior on the basketball floor. Every player on the team was on tip-toe throughout the game and they all deserve a great deal of credit.

The breaks were certainly against the U.C. team and their plays just could not seem to connect. Quita Men-nell and Eleanor Wallace on the U.C. lineup deserve mention for outstanding performances. Both have been strong threats all season and in the last game of the series gave further evidence of their ability in ball-handling.

For sheer speed and deftness in passing, the bouquets must go to Trinity. On Thursday they meet Vic Seniors in the first game of the finals when—well, when we shall see what we shall see.

DENTS' SOFTBALL PLAYOFF

Backing up the superb pitching of "Seal" Harris, with brilliant fielding, third year took second year into camp last night to the tune of 10 to 5 to win the Dents' inter-year softball championship. Third year took the lead in a first inning rally, but Rollaston and Harris settled down and henceforth were well-supported by their team-mates. Three double plays featured the game.

Third year — Chodoross, Harris, Spence, MacKie, Clark, Joynt, Green, Garrett, Oswald, Lankin, Johnson.

Second year — Rollaston, Mason, Toy, Tritt, McDonald, Rey, Pearson, Dunlap, Mulholland, Stapleton, McDowell, McCutcheon.

Officials — Hackett, McCubbin.

ASSAULT PROMISES EXCITING BOUTS

Entries Are Up to the Mark of Most Previous Years

U.C. HEADS LIST

On Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock the junior interfaculty assault gets under way. The lists for these events close at 5 o'clock today, so your entries must be in before that time. The entries to date are up to the mark of previous years and some exciting bouts are sure to emerge. At present the number of entries total 60, with wrestling having 28, boxing 22 and fencing 10.

U.C. heads the list in entries in fencing and boxing, but the big, bold, bruising engineers are far in the lead in the grunt and groan pastime. The other faculties are well represented, however, and some keenly contested events are anticipated.

Several of the faculties have held their own assaults and have champions declared in the different weights, but the other faculties seem prepared for them. The weights vary from 118 pounds up, and the pairings are being made up at present. Due to the large list of entries, some events will probably be run off at 4.30 p.m. Wednesday and the assault will be finished on Thursday. Anyone would be well advised to take in this assault, and see the high brand of talent that is being developed.

CORRESPONDENCE

rationation one might read, as you suggest, Bernard Shaw's London criticisms in order to conclude that your criticisms were all right. Personally I can't do it. You might just as reasonably say that a T.T.C. street car has rattles and a rattlesnake has rattles, therefore a rattlesnake is a street car. Of course, no one can call Shaw a puerile, inane or priggish critic—he was kept from being any of the three by having what you lack, dramatic intelligence, discernment and a sense of humour.

You say that the opinions of the average audience are moulded by their prejudices; of course, of course, but when the critics express their thoughts they change the word prejudice for reasoned judgment. I did so appreciate the use of the word "also" in your paragraph "as for the downtown press, its judgment also is warped". Your statement that a large percentage of most audiences don't know good drama or good music is a statement, of course, that couldn't be applied to a large percentage of critics, although, to me, it does seem very applicable to a select lot of minority of two.

The policy you should follow in your criticisms is to ponder the advice of the late lamented Mr. Whistler to the late lamentable Mr. Wilde, who, criticising one of Whistler's pictures as not being any good, called forth the following: "No, no, dear Oscar, you do not mean that the picture is bad, because it is beyond your comprehension to know whether it is bad or not, what you really mean to say is that you do not like it." With which cutting remark I bid you adieu.

Sincerely,

Prynce Nesbitt.

(A suggestion to Mr. Nesbitt. Exercise a little ordinary rationation and after due ponderousness apply the advice of Mr. Whistler to your own attitude toward the critical columns of "The Varsity". With which cutting remark, etc., C.L.C.)

A SUGGESTION

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I presume that the dramatic critics of The Varsity have taken offence at the insinuations which correspondents have levelled at them in the past week. And why should they not? It is undoubtedly fair that a "bona fide" critic should have full scope to utter his or her personal, intelligent judgment. Also in their somewhat enthusiastic com-

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By J. A. Rumlens

At last a definite date has been set for the Yale-Varsity hockey game when Warren Stevens' Blues will entertain the U.S. visitors in return for the visit they made down south last Christmas. It is Saturday, Dec. 16. The Varsity team will at that time attempt to repeat their last year's feat of conquering the crack American hockeyists and redeem a reputation that badly needs reviving. Last Saturday night they went into action against Port Colborne and emerged with their sixth consecutive loss in the O.H.A. series. Why this record should be theirs is rather hard to understand, for in every O.H.A. game they have played, with the exception of their encounter with the Hamilton Tigers, they have looked classy enough to take the game and certainly are not poor enough to be beaten six times in a row. Last year it was the same way. They finished in the cellar position of the O.H.A. series and then went off on their American tour and made a decided impression by defeating Harvard and Yale and put up a good showing against McGill in the intercollegiate series.

To say that the Blues are a hard-luck team, much as it may seem to be a fact, is not to give a correct analysis. Nor is the secret of their poor showing to be found in their defense system as many claim, simply because their difficulty is in not overscoring their opponents when the chances present themselves which is different from preventing scores. They are a light, fast team that Warren Stevens has worked up from almost nothing to a comparative degree of efficiency. Their rushes down the ice are sufficient to bring all fans to their feet and their speed brings them chance after chance to score, but they never seem able to take advantage of these chances. The main difficulty with the team as it now works is disorganisation and choppy playing around the opposition's goal mouth, not in their defensive department. The O.H.A. seems to be a jinx to them, but Saturday the 16th should see a real game with a real team defending the honour of the U. of T.

On the same date the postponed water polo game with McGill will take place when the second game of the home-and-home series will be played. The Varsity swimmers entrain for McGill to play there this Saturday night according to schedule. Last year they won the series in the local game after losing in Montreal, but a stronger aggregation has been formed this year and with things breaking evenly they should add another title to the four already won by Varsity.

And speaking of swimming—Mr. Winterburn has gone to the trouble of securing some literature on life-saving in cases of ice accidents which is very valuable and worth reading. It is posted in the plunge room and at this time of year especially, he advises all and sundry to glance over it.

The entries for the junior interfaculty assault are well up to par this year and promise some good competition for Wednesday night. The lists close today in the Athletic Office, so if you don't want to write your Christmas exams anyway, stroll over before 5 o'clock and tell them about yourself.

BOXLA AND VOLLEYBALL PLAYOFF ARRANGEMENTS

Most Groups in Interfaculty Series Are Already Decided

In view of their win last night, Trinity lacrosse team clinched their group. The result of one of the groups is still in doubt but will be cleared up this week. Knox have won group one with four wins and a loss against U.C., who have recorded three victories against one defeat. Victoria are favoured to win group three as they have not been defeated in two starts. Senior S.P.S. are in second place with two wins and a loss.

Jr. Meds, Jr. Vic and Emmanuel have won their volleyball groups. Sr. Vic and U.C. are tied, and a playoff will be necessary to decide the winner. In group four Sr. Meds have two wins against one by Sr. S.P.S. and O.C.E. "B" team. Senior School have still to meet Sr. Meds and O.C.E. "B" in postponed games.

A meeting is being held Wednesday to decide the dates of the playoffs in the various lacrosse and volleyball groups.

ments the indignant correspondents have, in their turn, offered nothing constructive to the ART of criticism.

There is a decided difference between a Critic and a Reporter . . . the first reports what happened and why (coloured by an individual taste) . . . the latter merely reports what happened from a general point of view. Now it is a question which of these modes should be adopted by a publication such as The Varsity. Should the productions of dramatic societies be reported to the whole student body from an exclusive or a comprehensive point of view? The profession of Critic should not be dispensed with, but I think that a consensus of opinion might very easily be presented simultaneously. We would then have a first rate controversy without calling in the aid of eager correspondents.

Yours sincerely,

R. Douglas Blagrove,

Trinity '35.

FINAL RALLY GIVES TRINITY GROUP TITLE

Four Goals in Last Quarter Defeat Pharmacy 8 to 7

A last quarter rally, netting them four goals, gave the Trinity lacrosse squad an 8-7 victory and a group title as they shattered the hopes of the Pharmacy quintet in an exciting struggle in the big gym last night. A victory for the Druggists would have given them a tie with the leading Trinity team, necessitating a return game to decide the title.

The game produced the best lacrosse to be witnessed on the local floor for some time. Both aggregations played a clever, tricky and speedy game over the entire route. On the play it was anyone's game. The advantage shifted from one team to the other and Trinity were a trifle lucky to be on the long end of the score when the final whistle went. In the first half Trinity outscored the Druggists 4-3. In the third quarter the Pharmacy team took the offensive and were leading 7-3 when the teams changed ends. In the final frame a determined attack by the Red and Black men gave them four counters and held their opponents scoreless to let them through for the victory.

Allison and Burchell turned in the best efforts for Trinity, while Inch, leading the scoring with four goals, was the most effective for Pharmacy.

Trinity — Knight, Allison, Burchell, Stewart, Davis, McLelland, Martin, Grant.

Pharmacy — Wilson, Armour, Inch, Evans, McDougal, Gallagher, Poole.

ST. HILDA'S BEAT U.C. IN SEMI-FINAL GAME

Overwhelm Opposition by Huge Score in Basketball Playoff

St. Hilda's defeated U.C. Seniors by a score of 44-10 in the concluding game of the semi-finals of the women's basketball series last night at O.C.E. gym. St. Hilda's outplayed U.C. throughout and undoubtedly earned their 34-point lead.

Al Butler played her usual stellar game and the entire St. Hilda's defence proved far too powerful for the U.C. forward line. Mary Rose and Mary Louise Carre were the outstanding forwards on the Saints' team and both played real basketball.

U.C. did not shakken even in the face of a large score against them. Eleanor Wallace gave the U.C. team her usual sure and steady support. Quita Men-nell and Betty Logan fought hard and made the most of all their chances to score.

U.C. — B. Logan 2, Q. Men-nell 4, M. Page, E. Parr, E. Wallace, L. Reid, B. Spence, J. Atkinson, G. Gristwood 4.

St. Hilda's — M. L. Carre 22, M. Rose 14, E. Ardagh 4, M. McDonald 4, A. Butler, K. Grubbe, E. Palmer, E. Wilson, M. Lambe.

JUNIOR U.C. LOBBERS DEFEAT TRINITY 2-1

Neither Team Shows Good Form Except in Service

In the upper gym, Hart House, yesterday afternoon, the Junior U.C. volleyball team defeated Trinity, two games to one. The scores of the games were 15-6, 12-15, 11-6. The game was rather slow and only at rare intervals did either team show anything like good form except in the matter of service.

In the first game, a series of errors permitted service to pass from one side to the other. U.C. ran up a total of thirteen points (chiefly due to the serving of Himel and Blanchard) before Trinity was able to get organised and score. Trinity then ran five points in a row on Somerville's service, but U.C. then tightened up and finally ran the game out at 15-6.

In the second game, Trinity put up an argument throughout and came out on the long end of a 15-12 count. For the last game, U.C. took out their subs, but even then play, after the count was tied at 4-4, was ragged, with neither team showing particular aptitude at setting-up or spiking. However, the U.C. forwards proved somewhat more aggressive and were the main factor in winning the last game 11-6.

The serving of Blanchard and Himel for U.C. and Somerville and Monteith for Trinity provided the bright spots of the game.

Junior U.C. — Lipman, MacFarlane, Goulding, Blanchard, David, Damsky, Weinstein, Gardstein, Himel.

Trinity — Gibb, W. D. Macdonald, Hayward, Whitbread, Somerville, Monteith, Wykoff.

and those which do not, are some of the alternative forms possible.

In closing Professor Jackson pointed out that there were very few if any people in Canada who know a great deal about Central Banks and that the success of the bank would depend upon the personnel of the governing body. "Following the sound British custom of leaving the power of the controlling body unhampered by elaborate restrictive legislation, the directors of the Central Bank will have to feel their way along and learn to walk before they attempt to run."

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Important meeting of the Movement for a Christian Social Order today at 5 p.m. in Alumni Hall. Subject: "Should we affiliate with the S.C.M. or maintain a separate identity?" All students from Victoria and Emmanuel Colleges interested in the study and solution of social problems from a Christian point of view are urgently invited to attend.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB

Meeting today at Women's Union at 4.30 p.m. Mr. W. S. Wallace, librarian of the university, will give an illustrated lecture on "Early Journalism in Upper Canada", showing slides of first edition in the days when the editor hand-set the type for his own editorials and during later development. Open meeting, all interested are welcome. Tea.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS

After the service, which will be conducted by Rev. Ronald MacLeod of Rosedale United Church which Johnny had attended for years, the procession will leave Convocation Hall and proceed past the Engineering Building, Medical Building, Library and by way of the East Gate to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

From the time the solemn procession leaves Convocation Hall until it passes from the university grounds, Dr. Richardson, at the keyboard of the Hart House carillon, will play, "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" the favourite hymn of the well-loved student.

No public procession has been planned to the cemetery but any friends are, of course, free to attend the interment if they so desire.

U.C. WOMEN'S S.C.M.

On Wednesday, Dec. 6, 7.30-8.30, the first in the series of the theme "A Student's Search for God" will be held in Falconer House common room, 85 St. George St. Mr. Wasson will speak on "What can we believe about God?" All U.C. women whether in or out of residence are cordially invited to attend.

Another student of II Moderns added to this that while such a contest might succeed in a small university, the number of students here would prevent any accurate judgment, and it would have no significance.

A co-ed of English and History at University College was even more severe, stating that popularity contests were typical of the American university, where academic standing is not given its proper place. They should not, she stated, be encouraged in Canada. While they do not in her opinion injure a university's reputation, they change the viewpoint in which universities are regarded, and give them a certain likeness to Hollywood, where, after all, the main aim is not scholastic learning.

PROFESSOR AULD DECRIES ARMS-CARRYING CUSTOM

to whether homicide resulting from the accidental discharge of a firearm carried by a wrongdoer constitutes the crime of murder," explained the professor. "It seems perfectly clear that if a burglar who is armed is interrupted in his commission of the offence and if in an affray that ensues, his firearm is discharged, the burglar is guilty of murder though he may quite honestly have desired no bloodshed. Section 259 of the Criminal Code says that culpable homicide is murder if the offender for any unlawful object does an act which he knows or ought to have known to be likely to cause death and thereby kills any person, although he may have desired to have effected his object without hurting anyone. Murder is the offense of killing any person with malice aforethought, the death occurring within a year and a day."

Asked whether it would be difficult to convict the murderer of Johnny Copp if he was apprehended, Professor Auld replied, "If he can be identified and if it can be proved that he was attempting a burglary and that he fired the shot, then circumstances would appear to be such as to convict him of murder. I don't wish, however, to theorise upon a situation in the absence of a knowledge of the facts which might be provided in court."

GIVE MULOCK CUP AT SCHOOL DINNER

A striking effect in decorations has been arranged, and the tables will present a truly Engineering appearance with their miniature high tension power lines in School colours mounted on silver towers. Gay menus in Gold, Blue and White will contain eight pages of wit and humour on Engineering problems, and the songs and addresses will be given as only the bashful Engineers know how to give them.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained at the Engineering Society's store until noon today, and in order that arrangements may be complete, all School men who have not as yet purchased their tickets are advised to do so as early as possible.

GERMANY IS THREAT TO PEACE OF WORLD

Germans have as yet refused to recall the biography of Herr Hitler which contains such sentences as, "In eternal peace mankind is ruined; in eternal warfare mankind is glorified."

The Rabbi went on to say that this phase of National Socialism should be of as great importance to Jews as if no Jews had been harmed. The Jew should be prepared with adequate data to point out to non-Jewish friends the implications of the Nazi regime with regard to world peace and civilisation.

The Church itself is being polluted and converted to becoming a cheap tool of the Nazi band. There is one group of evangelical Christians in Germany that has been vocal against what is happening there. It is to this consecrated band of Christians that the National Socialists have made their only compromise. If they win, the door may be opened to other victories.

Many institutions which have arisen in Germany are being destroyed. The German trade union movement was one of the strongest in existence but has been wiped out. All the benefits which it gave to the large working class have been taken away with one stroke.

It has often been said that "Many a brown shirt is lined with red." Communists are Germans. Germans cannot be bad. They have been led astray by Jews and poisoned by Marxian propaganda. Therefore the Communists can be forgiven. This reasoning is really believed by many Germans. They assume that whatever is evil in Germany today is the consequence of Jewish influence.

A high official in Geneva is quoted as saying, "Not one-tenth of what has happened in Germany has as yet been told." Every single means of substance is being surgently, surely and deliberately taken away from the Jews gradually in some places and more rapidly in others.

Zionism is not the salvation to the Jewish problem. Palestine cannot welcome for a long time to come more than a small portion of the inhabitants of the ghettos of Europe. Zionism may help but it will not end the problem.

Homage

(Special to "The Varsity")

Montreal, Que., Dec. 5 (CIP) — Representatives from every line of endeavour gathered today to pay final tribute to General Sir Arthur W. Currie at funeral services which were held in Christ Church Cathedral, the Reverend John Farthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal, conducting the services. Lord Bessborough and R. B. Bennett attended personally.

After the services in the Cathedral, the hearse, preceded by the honorary pallbearers and dignitaries of the church, proceeded to the McGill campus. Behind followed the chief mourners: Garner Ormsby Currie, a son; John Currie, brother; A. Dunford, son-in-law; followed by the highest ranking British Dominion, Federal, Provincial and Municipal representatives.

Theatre

AUSPICES OF S.C.M.

"To the Arctic by Aeroplane" is the subject of a moving picture to be shown by Archdeacon A. L. Fleming in Hart House Theatre this evening at 5.10. The film depicts in concrete fashion a journey from Edmonton to Coppermine River and ought to prove of interest to students of Canadian economic history. Part of it was taken from the aeroplane and part on the ground. The scenes vary from the city of Edmonton to the Arctic coast where Eskimos are driving their teams of dogs, building igloos and eating raw fish. The Archdeacon himself took part of the film, the remainder was taken by officers of the Dominion

Christmas Literary Issue

Contributions are being received for the Christmas Literary Issue of The Varsity which will be published on Friday, December 15. All students, except those listed in the masthead of this newspaper, are eligible to compete for the prizes offered. Manuscripts should be typed or legibly written upon one side of the page only, and sketches should be made in ink.

All contributions must be accompanied by the full name, faculty, and year of the student. Prizes will not be given in any class in which the material is not of sufficiently high quality to merit an award. Contributions should be left in the S.A.C. Office in Hart House before noon of Monday, December 11.

Eight prizes, totalling $36.00, are offered as follows: prose, first prize, $5.00, second prize, $3.00; poetry, first prize, $5.00, second prize, $3.00; humorous prose, $5.00; humorous verse, $5.00; for the best sketch of a campus subject, $5.00; for the best sketch of a general subject, $5.00.

COLLEGES DEBATE FASCISM TOMORROW

Varsity Women Hosts to McGill While Other Team at Queen's

"Resolved that Fascism is the salvation of and not a threat to civilisation" is the subject of the women's inter-collegiate debates that are taking place on Thursday, December 7. McGill is debating at Toronto, Toronto at Queen's, Queen's at McMaster and McMaster at McGill.

Margaret Lister, IV Trinity, and Margaret Gillooley, IV St. Michael's, are upholding Toronto against McGill, while Eleanor Burrows, IV University College, and Margaret Farmer, III Trinity, are challenging Queen's.

I. K. Thomas, IV Trinity, will be chairman at the Toronto meeting which is to be held in the Auditorium of the Women's Union at 4 p.m. It is free to the public, but the decision will be made by judges chosen from the university staff and will be based 60 per cent on matter and 40 per cent on delivery.

The other Toronto team is debating at Kingston at 8 p.m. Tomorrow marks the close of the women's inter-collegiate debating activities for the year.

MEETING CALLED OF VIC STUDENTS FOR REVISION VOTE

Amendments to V.C.U. Constitution to be Placed Before Entire Student Body

IN ALUMNI HALL

No Change Has Been Made
Since Charter Drawn Up
Five Years Ago

A meeting of the entire student body of Victoria College will be held Thursday afternoon in Alumni Hall to revise the constitution of the Victoria College Union which was drawn up five years ago. Since that time there have been no constitutional changes and it will be the object of this meeting to legalise the various innovations that have been adopted since that time.

The original constitution was drawn up by Joe Binning and Ed Jolliffe, who is now studying at Oxford on a Rhodes Scholarship, was the first president. Lawrence Cragg is in charge of the committee on constitutional changes and he will present the proposed amendments to the assembly.

LAFLAMME AT FRENCH CLUB

As an appropriate part of the programme of the U.C. French Club this evening, Mr. A. K. Laflamme will speak very informally on French Canada and the "Canadien". Mr. Laflamme is himself an canadien and the representative of Quebec on the French staff. Two visitors from the University of Montreal will also be present, on their return from the first French-speaking debating tour held in Canada. Carol singing in French will be followed by refreshments and dancing.

SPEAKER OUTLINES WORK OF EINSTEIN

"Einstein has shown that physical laws to be true in this world must also be true in worlds moving with a relative velocity; this leads to the ultimate goal of reducing physical laws to a minimum," stated M. P. Gibbs in a paper given before the Trinity Science Club last night in Trinity House.

The speaker referred to history, quoting cases in which scientific shocks had been administered to the unsuspecting world, which after a time were absorbed. The parallelism between Newton and Einstein was drawn in regard to the few who were able to follow the mathematical logic involved at the time of presentation. Many analogies were given to illustrate relativity in terms of a "Looking Glass" world. The idea of time variance and space variance in terms of men in row boats in a stream. Worms were

BENNETT VISITOR AT NEXT DEBATE

Prime Minister Will Be Present for Tenth Anniversary of H.H. Debates

ON JANUARY 10TH

The Right Honourable R. B. Bennett will be present as honorary visitor at the next Hart House debate which will take place on January 10th, 1934, according to a report received by The Varsity from the Debates Committee. The Prime Minister's presence will fitly signalise the tenth anniversary of Hart House debating which occurs on January 11th. Mr. Bennett's attendance at this function may be considered all the more noteworthy as this will be the first time that the present Prime Minister has so honoured a Hart House debate, although several previous committees have unsuccessfully endeavoured to persuade him to attend.

It is interesting to note that as far back as 1929 when Mr. Bennett was Federal Leader of the Conservative Party the Debates Committee vainly attempted to get him to speak on the resolution, "That in the opinion of

EARLY JOURNALISTS SEVERELY TRIED

Editors of Hundred Years Ago
Frequent Visitors to Jails Says Wallace

TRACES HISTORY OF PAPERS

In his talk on "Early Journalism in Upper Canada" to the Press Club yesterday afternoon, Mr. W. S. Wallace, librarian of the university, periodicals grew out of the newspaper, the direct antithesis of literary development in England. Many early newspapers have completely disappeared; this is unfortunate, because they contain the only records of deaths and of debates until 1872.

Mr. Wallace traced the history of Upper Canada newspapers from the first one published in 1793 at Niagara-on-the-Lake by a publisher whom Governor Simcoe had brought from Quebec.

"The very first article printed was a speech by Simcoe," said Mr. Wallace. "It is now a treasured possession of the University of Toronto Library."

Slides were shown of a very rare picture of York in 1803, of the only known copy of the Grenville Gazette published in 1838 at Prescott, and of the Kingston Gazette, 1818, which shows the first real literary element in Canadian newspapers.

"The Colonial Advocate, published at Queenston, 1824, by Wm. McKenzie, was followed by his removal to York," continued Mr. Wallace. "Here he published the same paper in 1826, the year his press was thrown into Toronto Bay. I have seen the articles to which the assailants took exception and the punishment was certainly none too severe. All the Free Press papers passed out of ex-

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Dr. Macleod Conducts Funeral; Province and City Represented

Convocation Hall, so packed with friends and students that it was impossible for the public to be admitted, was ample manifestation of the place Johnny Copp, medical student and football player, held in the hearts of those who knew him best. In a silence, poignant and full of meaning, that was broken only by the mournful strains of the funeral march, the casket was wheeled down the main aisle to a position immediately below the platform in the centre of the hall.

On the platform, every member of Johnny's class, fourth year medicine, was standing, while in the sections in front, were present his family, representatives of the province and the city of Toronto, and various church and other organisations with which Johnny Copp had been connected. Hundreds upon hundreds of floral tributes piled high against the platform, with beautiful wreaths from his classmates, students of the University, and members of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity immediately surrounding the casket, paid silent tribute to the youthful medical student's memory.

The service began with the Rev. Dr. Ronald Macleod, pastor of Rosedale United Church and intimate friend of the family, reading verses 1 and 2 of the 90th Psalm. Everyone stood while he read a prayer of invocation. After the singing of "O, God, Our Help in Ages Past", Rev. Dr. Frank J. Day, of Chicago, former pastor of Rosedale United, read passages from the Scriptures.

Owing to his absence in order to attend the funeral of Sir Arthur Currie in Montreal, Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, prepared a message which Dr. Macleod read. Dr. Cody expressed the esteem and affection in which Johnny Copp was held by his fellow-students, and also went on to tell of Johnny's ability as a musician, football player, and diligent medical student.

Inconsequence

We, the members of the Student League, have no quarrel with the criticism of Eight Men Speak appearing in yesterday's Varsity, which we regard as objective, honest, and sincere. However, a controversy has arisen on the subject of the bourgeois versus the working-class point of view of drama. The working-class point of view is that every play has propaganda value and the criterion is how far it succeeds in this object; bourgeois art attempts to conceal its propaganda and its success must therefore be judged by other standards. In consequence there has grown up the whole structure of conventional dramatic criticism. M.B.L. complains that the capitalist characters were burlesqued. Proletarian drama recognises that the individual capitalist may be a loving father and a moral husband, and live up to other ordinary standards. The Workers' Theatre is interested only in the relation between the classes. Its experience of the capitalist class is the basis for its dramatisation of this class and the bourgeois is therefore formalised as an oppressor and in the play Eight Men Speak as a murderer also. (Not "burlesqued" as M. B. L. states).

The question arises why the working-class parts should not also be

AN OLD FRIEND

The opinion that debating excites very little interest among the women of this university may or may not be true; that question will be settled to some extent by the attendance and the quality of the speeches at the forthcoming debate. However, to compare the results with those of any Hart House debate without considering the attendant circumstances, would be to err grossly.

The main factor in the success of the latter is Hart House itself. At this point you will perceive reverberations of the time-worn campaign for a women's building. The necessity does not diminish as the need increases: that the women are apathetic after many years of discouragement is no indication that the project should be forgotten. The facilities offered by the Women's Union and Wymilwood, are not, contrary to popular opinion, sufficient to fill the need. Even if the rooms in which meetings can be held were large enough to meet the requirements, the necessity for a library, gymnasium, and a swimming pool would still exist. In fact the necessity exists if comparisons are to be made, for all those things which are offered in such a glorified type of club-house as the men are fortunate enough to possess.

To elaborate on this is useless: it is recognised by everyone who is closely connected with student affairs. It is not implied that they could, with the help of any number of buildings produce anything that would rival the quality of Hart House debates, but it might be possible for them in the mellow atmosphere of a charming grey stone structure, to find an opportunity to indulge in literature superior to the type offered by domestic monthlies, to meet students of other faculties more frequently and to discover that spirit of comradeship in their extra-mural activities which Hart House seems to foster.

It is evident that we require a philanthropist, unless, of course, the Student League would care to include it among the reforms that they advocate. If these could be persuaded to co-operate it is quite possible that we might get results.

INCONSEQUENCE

formalised. The workers knew each other as human beings and the Workers' Theatre is therefore justified in representing the working-class characters in a natural manner. Their role must be to arouse the sympathy of the audience, which gives the excuse even for the approach to stuffiness in Tim Buck's reading of his daughter's letter. From the point of view of bourgeois criticism there was much to say against the play and we can understand why M.B.L. gave the views he did. But in this case the play must be criticised from the standpoint of its enthusiastic reception by the audience.

B.G.

In answer to the accompanying comments on the criticism I gave the Workers' Theatre yesterday I might say at first that I have been to some extent misunderstood. To begin with I have previously stated my position on art and propaganda which in short amounts to the fact that I agree that art and propaganda very often are the same thing and can be readily mixed. With the firm belief that at present we have little time to waste on art that is not propaganda I tried to criticise Eight Men Speak from the viewpoint of the means and effectiveness of the propaganda. The only time in the play that any convincing propaganda was put across was in the scene where the eight political prisoners at the Kingston Penitentiary speak to the masses from behind the prison bars. The reason for this is obvious. In the first place a tangible, very real and immediate problem was presented and more important it was done without the interference of distracting, semi-humorous elements from other parts of the stage. At almost all other crucial points in the play the "message" was crippled by ludicrous actions taking place at the same time.

I hold that this so-called formalisation of the capitalist is not effective. I say that the obvious and blatant injustices and natural impossibilities of the capitalists, if shown adequately, are more than sufficient to damn them and arouse the desired degree of hate and action in the hearts and minds of the working-class. The Workers' Theatre did not, as they claim, show the capitalist as an oppressor and a murderer, but rather as a clown, dope-fied or buffoon.

My criticism of the play as a whole was not very different (but a bit more analytical) than that of the audience in general. Their enthusiasm was only great in the prison scene which I have now twice commended; their general enthusiasm was for the spirit of the whole play which was arty rehearsal for the great majority of them.

In conclusion may I give some of the greatly desired constructive criticism in case Eight Men Speak should be produced again as indeed I hope it will. Some director who is acquainted with the propaganda and spirit of the play should be given dictatorial powers to re-arrange some of the scenes and check up on some of the characterisation. The play has many merits and contains many effective scenes but it lacks the coherence and force which would give the production the right to call itself art or to consider itself good propaganda. M.B.L.

U.C. Players' Guild

It is a pity that Shakespeare's "problem comedy" Measure for Measure is so seldom seen on the stage; for censorship difficulties usually prevent it being played by any other than small amateur groups or organisations of such wide prestige as the Stratford-on-Avon company. It has one speech at least as great as anything Shakespeare ever conceived, besides many others of distinguished merit. The situations, though sombre, are at once tense and piquant—and even at the least, problematical. The part of Angelo has been played by Charles Laughton and might be contrasted with his more recent interpretation of Henry the Eighth.

This part is being taken, in the Guild production this afternoon, by Gordon Robertson, that of Isabella by Margot Clarkson. Robin Godfrey is taking the part of Claudio, her brother, who as the scenes to be played open, is under sentence of death; and Ted Seythes that of Lucio, the witty young man-about-town. The production is under the direction of Robin Godfrey.

PROGRAMME

Overture in D Minor .... Handel-Elgar
Symphony No. 3 in F ..... Brahms
Symphonie Espagnole ..... Lalo

Ruggiero Ricci—solo violinist
Scherzo—L'Apprenti Sorcier .. Dukas

Last night, in the usual series of Tuesday evening concerts, the Toronto Symphony Orchestra presented, under the baton of Dr. MacMillan, as piece de resistance the Third Symphony of Brahms. An added attraction was the appearance of Ruggiero Ricci, the boy violin prodigy.

We pass over the Overture, merely remarking that a certain raggedness was noticeable in the string section and that the work as orchestrated by Elgar for full modern orchestra, presents a stirring and invigorating work of Handel's which was effectively played.

The Third Symphony in F is the least known of Brahms' four symphonies, having less popular appeal than the second and being somewhat over-shadowed by the two other tremendous works in this form, the First in C Minor and the Fourth. It is, nevertheless a work of great beauty and partakes of the heroic nature which is inherent in the first and the last symphonies. Built upon embryo themes, developed and transformed in a thousand subtle ways, this composition is characterised by a depth, energy and sombreness so typically "Brahmish" which are woven in and through the contrapuntal treatment of the themes. There are no glaring contrasts of orchestral colouring but the attention is focused upon the actual material of the music.

This great and moving masterpiece was somewhat unsatisfactorily handled by the orchestra. Discrepancies were evident in the wind sections and there was a general vigour and flow lacking in the performance. However, there were moments of real beauty. The last movement, which contains some of its choicest writing, showed more consistently good playing.

To say that the playing of Ruggiero Ricci was adequate is to say nothing at all. This youngster of thirteen possesses a comprehension and execution which would do honour to an artist of twice his years. The decisiveness of his playing and the quality of his tone are two points to which attention might be drawn. The performance of the Lalo Symphonie Espagnole as a whole, was most successful. The orchestra supported the soloist with a fine accompaniment when that was necessary, subduing itself to the exigencies of the moment, and in its own particular parts providing a stirring rendition. The response of the audience was indeed an ovation and the youthful artist obliged by playing the well known Prelude in an amazingly facile fashion. This was followed by a second encore.

The concert concluded with a stimulating reading of the Dukas Sorcerer's Apprentice, which drew from us a sigh of regret that the programme could not be reversed with the Brahms' to follow, performed in an equally capable manner.

HERE are the advantages that make Dominion Ring Books longer lasting, more convenient to use and better looking:—

Steel Hinges, anchored right into the leather cover, not only make the book flat-opening for easy writing, but prolong its life at the point where ordinary books wear out first.

Fibre Back, coloured and grained to match the leather, prevents scuffing.

Flattened Steel Rings have greater capacity and are easier on punched sheets. Available in 3 or 7 rings.

Yet with all these advantages Dominion Steel Hinge Equipment costs no more than ordinary ring books.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

The first practice of the intercollegiate hockey team is called for this Friday noon at 1.15 in Varsity Arena. If you have ever played hockey or have any desire to learn the noble art of stick-handling, come out there. You stand a perfectly good chance of getting a berth on the team as several of last year's players have graduated and there are openings for those who are interested and have the ability.

Do not be bashful about showing up at the practice as the Hockey Club is anxious to have anyone interested at least try out for the team. If further information is desired get in touch with Eleanor Sanson, the president.

When Vic Seniors appear on Thursday night in their game with St. Hilda's in the first game of the inter-faculty basketball finals, they will have the same trio on the forward line as they had last year. No one was able to conquer them there and with another schedule of play behind them, their co-operation and organisation is very highly developed. The trio consists of Helen Smith, Mabel Curriston, and B. Longley.

On the defence line we find Pat Palmer of intercollegiate fame, Grace Becker, Jean Fenton, Jo Harley and Marion Bernhardt, who played last year for Vic Juniors. Since they have not encountered any very serious opposition to date, it is very difficult to predict just what the outcome of the St. Hilda's game will be.

GALA SPORTS NIGHT FOR FANS TONIGHT

In this game is found in the fact that Irving Lorenzen, the man behind the St. Kitt's squad is an S. P. S. graduate and a member of the intercollegiate team of a few years ago. St. Kitt's are the surprise team of the group, having defeated Varsity in their home tank which is rather narrow, and Varsity being a large tank team, are confidently expected to splash out a win in the return engagement.

no under-estimation in tonight's affair. The Senior B basketball team renews the combat of last Saturday night with West End Y, and if they play 40 minutes of the same type of basketball which they unleashed in the last 10 minutes of that game, it is not too much to expect a Blue and White victory. The Varsity team will remain the same for this game with the exception that Henderson will replace Skolko, who tore a ligament in his leg at practice and if you keep in mind that only one of these boys had had senior experience previous to this season, in their ability to hold West End, last year's Y.M.C.A. league champions to a 33-23 win speaks well not only for their ability but also for the work that coaches Hayman and McCutcheon are doing. You will be able to observe the Blue "A" team swing into action on or about Wednesday, December 13 when they engage in the initial encounter of the Big Six schedule.

The junior interfaculty assault also is holding forth but further news of this annual event will be found elsewhere on this page.

ANNOUNCE DRAW OF JUNIOR ASSAULT

Preliminaries This Afternoon at Four-Thirty, Continuing in Evening

NEARLY EIGHTY COMPETING

At four-thirty this afternoon at Hart House the preliminaries of the annual junior interfaculty assault will get under way. They will continue in the evening with wrestling, boxing and fencing on the card. Nearly eighty students are taking part in this year's assault and it should be a natural. The boxing team is fortunate in having as coach a man of Dr. Les Black's ability who, for several years, held the intercollegiate welterweight title.

The draw for the assault is as follows. Afternoon at 4.30 o'clock:

WRESTLING

- 135 lb.—Joliffe vs Austin.
Robertson vs Godden.
Wilson vs Jamieson.
Holden vs Pauli.
Bannister vs Rothman.
Minicher vs Rule.
145 lb.—Crossley vs Rumpel.
McKenzie vs Bolend.
Hunnissett vs Pickout.
155 lb.—Hamilton vs Lloyd.
Smith vs Moore.
MacIntosh vs McMichael.

BOXING

- 135 lb.—Gibson vs Erwin.
McCarthy vs Daly.
Millson vs Bell.
Pallett vs Kemp.
Barber vs Milnes.
145 lb.—Gouch vs Powell.
Demarco vs Morningstar.
Procunier vs Woods.

WEDNESDAY EVENING

WRESTLING

- 125 lb.—O'Leary vs Troster.
Bartlett vs Heller.
145 lb.—Winner of Hunnissett vs Pickout meets winner of McKenzie vs Bolend.
155 lb.—Dolbear meets winner of McIntosh vs McMichael; winner of Hamilton vs Lloyd meets winner of Smith vs Moore.
165 lb.—Kantola vs Turner.

minent School graduate, in proposing a toast to the University, gave some of the impressions of a graduate, and the memories of his college days and enlivened the proceedings considerably by making Col. Coburn of the C.O. T.C. the object of a number of extremely witty and pointed remarks. With the singing of the "Blue and White", Mr. J. J. Gibson, chairman of the property committee of the Board of Governors, gave a fitting reply that enlightened the engineers of the tremendous extent of the University. Figures showing the number of buildings, the amount of coal used to heat them, and the amount of money required to carry on the activities of the University, prefaced his remarks on the high calibre of the teaching staff and the distinction the University en-

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

And now that football is over we are being treated to some long overdue football weather, which we will use for an excuse for resurrecting this subject. Seldom has the popular fall pastime met with more unfavourable weather conditions and seldom if ever has the brand of football been of a higher quality than in the season just past. It is interesting to note that compared with the football as played across the border the Canadian game measures up fairly well. The chief differences between the games as played by the champions of each country seems to be about 70,000 people. In the kicking department the Canucks have a slight edge, at least on last Saturday's games they did. In the Princeton-Yale game Frank Johns of Princeton averaged 38 yards and Keesling of Yale got 43. These measurements were taken from where the ball was kicked. Ab Box of Argos on Saturday averaged 38 yards from the line of scrimmage which would give him a decided edge if the measurements were taken from where the ball was hooped. Army, who have as their mascot a mule, and consequently should be able to kick, averaged 43 yards. Lukats of Notre Dame outdistanced Buckler of Army by six yards but these measurements were taken from the point where the ball was kicked which would give a distance of less than 40 yards from the line of scrimmage. Sinclair, Wing and Westman, three intercollegiate booters, have on games averaged 45 yards from the line of scrimmage. Sinclair and Westman were hoofing 37 yards in the last intercollegiate game here and they had to use a step ladder to get out of the snowdrifts before booting the ball. Looks as if the day is not far distant when post graduate courses in French will lose their appeal to our over the border friends.

Tonight Varsity will start their second lap on the O.H.A. track. All the teams in the circuit have been met and Varsity has still to register a victory. Warren Stevens takes his little boys in Blue to Kitchener tonight and the two teams will be introduced for the second time this year. This is a great chance for Varsity to get off on the right track over the second lap of the series and they stand more than an even chance of upsetting the Empires. The Blue team have been showing more scoring punch lately and are a long time overdue with a win.

A three-star feature is appearing on the sports card at Hart House tonight. Included in the calendar are the water polo game, a basketball game and the junior interfaculty assault. Varsity will tangle with St. Catharines in the water polo game, while the basketball match will be between Varsity II and West End Y. The price of the show is 25c or student coupon No. 36.

When the boys go into action tomorrow night in the opening of the junior assault there will be displayed plenty of what the hockey team lack—punch. Almost eighty individuals will be in there to prove that they are the champions of their divisions and what a lot of persuading they are going to take before giving up the idea. All the classes of boxing and wrestling are well represented. The lightweight wrestlers lead the lists with twelve entries, while the boxers have ten. The five boats in the 135 lb. division should be good. This class always has plenty of punch and are much faster as a rule than the heavier and harder hitting boxers. Incidentally we wouldn't be surprised if S.P.S. failed to live up to the standards set in previous years. The engineers are entering under a handicap as they held their annual bean feed last night and when the engineers have a party they have a party.

We are indebted to Mr. Al Simmons, whose real name is spelled with three z's and a "ski" on the end, of the Chicago White Sox for an idea which is certain to be popular. Al, it seems is a baseball player and a pretty good one too. His pet pastime is knocking home runs and it was in this practice that he ran into difficulty. At Coniskey Park where Al and his mates hold forth the bleachers are a long way from the home plate. Now when Al stepped up and whammed the pill for what should be a home run he usually found that the fielder had backed up to the fence and all he had to do was open his glove and the supposed home run popped into it to put Al out. Deeply chagrined at his failure to pound out his happy homers while his competitors were becoming famous on smaller fields, Al decided to do something about it. So after going into a huddle he emerges with the idea that the only solution is to move the bleachers nearer the plate. This is at present being done and no doubt Mr. Simmons will soon be famous again as a home run hitter. Now if this idea of adjusting the park to suit your needs is adopted we can look for many interesting results. For example, Bill Pigott would have had the nets lowered and the courts lengthened in his tennis match with Shields. Varsity would move their opponents' goal line 10 yards nearer and this would eliminate that last 10 yards for a touch which are so hard to get. In fact, by adjusting the grounds to suit the teams Varsity should be able to figure out a way to win almost every event in which they compete.

joys of ranking among the foremost in the world. A humorous incident of his student days indicated his high regard for the Faculty of Applied Science.

Dr. O. O. Lefebvre, the guest of the evening, after his introduction by Brig. Gen. C. H. Mitchell, D.S.O., Dean of the faculty, advised the students of the importance of keeping up with scientific advances, and being able to give clear concise reports of their work whether written or verbal.

"Engineers must have an accurate knowledge of the scientific principles involved in the problems which they must solve, but they must also be able to present a clear concise report dealing with the matter from all angles, and containing reasons for the recommendations included. In addition to writing clear reports, it is essential that an engineer be able to render verbal reports forcefully, and the ability of expressing himself clearly and without hesitation is most easily acquired when one is young." He strongly advised the students to take advantage of all the opportunities presented at the University for acquiring the art of self-expression.

The importance of being up to the minute in scientific advances was pointed out, and "A graduate should continue to be a student all his life", was one of his closing remarks.

At the conclusion of the evening, the undergraduates treated Dr. Lefebvre to a rousing sample of their faculty yell, "Toike Oike".

Among the guests present were: Dr. O. O. Lefebvre, Montreal, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada; Mr. J. J. Gibson, chairman of the property committee of the Board of Governors; Col. C. S. L. Herberg, of the firm of Harkness and Hertzberg, who designed the structural steel for the Bank of Commerce Building; Mr. A. B. Lambie, Ottawa, president of the Association of Professional Engineers; Mr. A. B. Creslock, chairman of the Toronto Branch of the E.I.C.; Col. A. D. LePan, Superintendent of Buildings; Mr. W. G. Dunlop, of the Department of Extension and Publicity; Mr. A. B. Fennell, Registrar; J. R. Gilley, Comptroller of Hart House; Col. Smythe of the Technical Service Council; Mr. Wright, of the Queen's Engineering Society; Brig. Gen. C. H. Mitchell, Dean of the faculty; W. S. Wilson, Secretary; and Professor C. H. C. Wright, who is attending his last School Dinner as a member of the faculty.

Nels Kelly and his Varsity Kampus Katz provided the music.

DETERMINED TEAM TO MEET KITCHENER

Senior Hockey Squad is Out for First O.H.A. Victory Tonight

NEW FORWARD LINE

Having met all the opposition, without any success, in so far as winning games is concerned, the battling Big Blue team are out to come out on the right side of the score sheet when they clash with Irving Erb's Empires at Kitchener tonight. Leaving the initiative first part of the Senior O.H.A. series into the past, the youthful Varsity squad are out to prove to all hockey enthusiasts that victory will not elude their grasp very much longer.

In their last encounter with the Kitchener-Waterloo sextet Varsity were defeated by a score of 4-2 but throughout the entire game Warren Stevens' proteges had a decided edge in the actual play, being unlucky when they tried to beat the agile Berner in the Kitchener nets. However, since that game, the Blues have improved in their work around their opponents' fan plenty to worry about. In the game played with Port Colborne last Saturday night, Varsity's power plays were working at their best and it was only the stellar work of Moore which kept Varsity from scoring more than two goals.

The new forward line of McConvey, Sweeney and Jeffrey should turn in a good game against Kitchener as they are all improving steadily, while the defence of Campbell and Williamson, along with the relief work of Ernie Rey should give Frank Ship, clever custodian of the Big Blue nets, ample protection against the onrushes of Roth and his dashing cohorts.

Here and There

The Royal Scot, famous British flyer, will soon again be in Montreal prior to dismantling and shipping from that city to Great Britain. This great train has been travelling through the West of Canada subsequent to being one of the major exhibits at the Chicago World Fair.

The vehicle of the future will be an automobile that can also take off into the air, or an airplane that can land and travel along the highways, a speaker addressing the Society of Automobile Engineers told his audience at the Royal York, Toronto, recently.

Canadian scenery dwarfs that of Scotland, a lake in the Gatineau Valley was more magnificent than Loch Lomond while Lake Louise in the Rockies was to him almost a celestial vision, according to Lord Macmillan, chairman of the Royal Commission on Banking, expressed just prior to sailing on the Empress of Britain for England.

Informal discussion on closer working relations between the Canadian railways and aviation companies of the Dominion are in progress. With Canada lying on the most direct route between Europe and the Orient, this country is in a unique position to take care of a large proportion of the traffic now moving between Europe and the East.

Constituting what is regarded as the finest collection of mounted square-tailed speck trout ever assembled from the same locality in a single season, seventeen fine specimens of this variety and one rainbow trout were entered in the Nipigon River Camp Guides mounted trout contest recently judged and prizes awarded by the Tourist Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A Christmas and New Year's cruise to the Caribbean and a round the world cruise later by the same ship, the Empress of Britain, a Mediterranean cruise by the Empress of Australia; two Duchess of Bedford cruises to the West Indies and twenty trans-Atlantic sailings from Canadian ports are scheduled for Canadian Pacific liners for this winter season.

The second reunion of all pilots and observers who had commissions and wings before November 11, 1918, will be held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Armistice Day. First reunion was held April, 1922, when 228 wartime flyers from a number of countries attended. The second reunion is expected to be one of the most brilliant functions ever held at the palatial Canadian Pacific hotel.

Wide-spread interest in John Murray Gibbon's book, "The Magic of Melody" is again illustrated by the gramophone contest conducted by the "Gramophone" and "Everyman", London publications. Empire-wide response to this contest resulted in an Overseas prize being awarded to Miss Gladys Klippen of Toronto, for a poem, written to the music of the Sonata Pathétique.

VICTORIA MOVEMENT ALLIES WITH S.C.M.

the churches to the urgent need for taking a positive stand towards the chaos of our present economic order. Everywhere, now, the churches are not only conscious of the gravity of the crisis, but are also studying what is to be done, even more stating clearly their position, as shown by the resolution voted by the Toronto Conference. Therefore the Movement for a Christian Social Order does not need any more to work separately, but must, and does already work actively within the church. It would seem natural for the Victoria Group to become affiliated with the S.C.M., which would enable it to spread its action throughout the other colleges.

Rev. Mr. Dixon spoke then for the S.C.M. and emphasised the point that by such an affiliation the present group should not lose its identity, nor relax its activity. Both C. de Mestral and Ed Newberry insisted that it was most essential that what the Movement stood for should not be shelved. On the contrary it is very necessary, now more than ever, that Christian students be not only brought to study today's problems, but also challenged to take a definite stand, and let others know about it. Professor Line encouraged the Movement to co-operate more closely with the S.C.M. "We must confine our activity to study groups, for we have a mission. From the beginning we have aimed to bring individuals to take position towards our economic, social, political and moral issues now at stake. We have no political ties but it is logical that those we challenge become more critical of the programmes offered by the existing parties."

The group adopted unanimously a resolution asking its committee to take the necessary steps to bring an affiliation with the S.C.M. It pledged itself to a more aggressive policy next term, when steps will be taken to have the meetings held in the various colleges. During the discussion it was suggested that the name of the Movement for a Christian Social Order might be changed, and replaced by such a name as Professor King Gordon's group within the Montreal S.C.M. which is called the Christian Socialists of the S.C.M.

STUDENTS HERE ELEGIBLE FOR VALUABLE FELLOWSHIP

Among the scholarships and fellowships open to students of the University is the Alfred Yarrow Scientific Research Fellowship in Girton College, Cambridge. The Fellowship is awarded for a minimum period of three years. Graduate women students are eligible. The Fellowship will be awarded upon the following terms:

1. A Fellowship of the value of £300 a year is offered for research in Mathematical, Physical and Natural Sciences, including such sciences as Chemistry, Electricity, Engineering, Botany, Geology, Medicine, Agriculture etc.

2. The Fellowship will be awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Board of Electors, provided that in the opinion of the Board a candidate of sufficient merit present herself.

3. The election of the Fellow will take place in time to permit of the award by the Council being made not later than June 30th, 1934.

4. Women who are graduates or have taken Honours in a final degree examination of any University, and members of the Girton College Roll, shall be eligible. If in the opinion of the Board of Electors no candidate of sufficient merit has presented herself, the Council may offer the Fellowship to some specially qualified woman, or may withhold it.

5. The Fellow shall be elected for three years in the first instance. She may be further reappointed annually for not more than three years.

6. Applications for the Fellowship shall be sent to the Secretary of the College on or before February 1st, 1934. Each candidate shall describe a course of research, and submit a dissertation or published work, in addition to any other evidence she may desire to furnish of her fitness to undertake the proposed course of research.

7. Unless the Council otherwise decide, the Fellow shall reside at the College during full term. She shall not engage in tuition or other paid work without the approval of the Mistress. She shall report to the Council not later than June 1st each year as to the progress of her research and the continued holding of the Fellowship shall be conditional on such report being satisfactory.

8. The tenure of the Fellowship shall be as from July 1st or October 1st,

VIC MUSICAL TICKETS

Sign for double tickets to the Hart House Musicals in the College Hall today (Wed.) from 1.45 to 2. The tickets will be given out Thursday at the same time.

ITALIAN-SPANISH CLUB HEARS TALK ON SICILY

"Sicily and Its Cities" was the subject of an address to the Italian-Spanish Club last night in Wymulwood by Dr. R. Invidiata. He gave a general description of the climate and geography of the seven provinces, mentioning the volcano of Mount Etna and the earthquake of 1908 which occasioned a period of reconstruction at Messina. He then spoke of the cities, describing the cathedrals, especially that of Catania, and the universities. The University of Palermo, at which Dr. Invidiata took his own degree, is particularly famous for its faculty of medicine. At Syracuse there is a Greek amphitheatre in which classical dramas are still produced.

In conclusion he described the industries of wine manufacture, for which Marsala is renowned, and of orange growing, saying that the reason California oranges are so good is that they are grown by Sicilians.

Following this address Professor G. E. Holt of University College sang three Italian songs. Then an "opera buffa" in Italian was produced by Rev. Father Truffa, Mr. Joseph Ponesse and Mr. Frank Miceli.

Major F. Davy, O.B.E., is to speak at the next meeting of the club on "The Spanish Main and the Buccaneers".

The Alma Mater Society of Queen's University has appointed a committee to investigate the fraternity question there.

sentatives, as well as representatives of foreign states, leading educationalists of North America, every military unit, graduates and undergraduates.

Arriving at the university the casket was taken into the Arts Building to await the military funeral which followed a few minutes later.

At this time a nation-wide broadcast of the funeral was given by R. C. Featherstonhaugh, editor of the McGill News.

At 1.30 the bier, draped with the Union Jack, was brought out and placed on a waiting gun carriage. It was followed by two officers carrying the orders and decorations of the deceased.

The carriage then proceeded to Fletcher's Field. The procession stretched to a length of over two miles and over 100,000 people, who lined the streets, stood silent and dhatless as the carriage passed.

A few moments after the cortege began to move the first of the 17 guns boomed across the city.

At Fletcher's Field all the military and civil units marched past to the tune of "O Canada" in salute.

The quick march was then ordered for the remainder of the procession to the cemetery.

this House Toronto deserves its reputation for intolerance". Since then the Prime Minister has spoken in various universities in the West. It will be remembered by some of the older undergraduates that when Mr. MacKenzie King was honorary visitor at a Hart House debate several years ago, a line-up of members seeking to attend started at five o'clock in the afternoon and hundreds were unable to gain admission.

The popularity of Hart House debates has been increasing yearly, and the forthcoming meeting will certainly see a very large number of members present. The committee have therefore decided that the debate attendance will be strictly limited to members of Hart House and the usual privileges with regard to introducing guests by members will be suspended in this instance. Undergraduates are advised that they will be required to show their registration cards.

The debate will be augmented in interest by the fact that it will mark the tenth anniversary of Hart House debating. The committee is communicating with those who participated in the first debate with a view to their being present. Undergraduates of today can scarcely realise that Hart House debates are only a decade old. These functions have taken on a definitely traditional place in the life of the University. The majority of outstanding graduates in the past few years have participated at one time or another in the debates and the University through them has acquired a prominent position in the world of university debating.

Although the topic of the forthcoming debate has not yet been announced, it will doubtless be of national importance and undergraduates will as usual be permitted to speak on the resolution from the floor of the House.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—If a freshman loses a pair of pants on Black Friday in Ann Arbor that's not news. But if the freshman is still searching for his pants a month later that is news. One of the University's yearlings apparently lost his breeches at the fray between the freshmen and sophomores and he has virtually turned the campus inside out in his persevering search for them.

Especially worried have been the family of Professor Philip E. Bursley, who is freshman's counsellor, and his son, Gilbert, who is President of the Undergraduate Council. The trusting freshman has repeatedly phoned the Bursley residence appealing to them to get back his long-lost nether garments.

GAME CLOSE

Blue Poloists Start Scoring After a Minute of Play

By W. G. Reid

As a finale to the programme of sports conducted in Hart House last night, the Varsity intercollegiate water polo team played host to the St. Catharines team, and after an interesting game, the Blue warriors emerged with the score 8-4 in their favour. The game was closer than the score would indicate, as the St. Kitts team found the larger tank somewhat of a hindrance until they became adapted to it. The half-time score was 4-1, which seemed to spur on the visitors, but they were unable to seriously threaten the lead which Varsity had accumulated.

The game started off at a fast clip, giving early evidence of the interesting game which was to follow. Both teams played a close-checking game, allowing little opportunity for combination. However, the play was mostly in St. Kitts' end of the tank, so that Eacott in goal was given a busy time. Bancroft opened the scoring for the Blues about a minute after the start of play. Davey added another, and Bancroft made it a trio before their opponents were able to make any reply. McGarrigle, on a lovely back-hand shot from the side, made it 3-1.

Household Science Holds Initiation

The fine art of donning hat, dress, umbrella and rubbers in the split second between the time one wakes and that nine o'clock lecture was one of the secrets revealed to the Household Science Freshies when they were initiated last night. This was done by means of a relay race in the course of an interesting programme of skits, music and charades.

The initiation, which has been delayed owing to the pressure of academic work in the upper years, was held in the Household Science gym, which was decorated with red and green balloons for the occasion. Miss Benson, Professor of Food Chemistry, and Miss Laird, Head of the Faculty of Household Science, were present, the signing of the register by the freshies being conducted by Miss Dora Fox, President of the Household Science Club.

IRISH FREE STATE UNLIKELY TO SECEDE

Influence of Irish Cabinet Constitutes a Strong Deterrent

FARMERS OPPOSED

Separation between Great Britain and the Irish Free State is unlikely in the opinion of Professor MacDougall, interviewed at Baldwin House yesterday. Although de Valera is wholly in favour of separation he is prevented from carrying through the separation by other members of his cabinet who realise more clearly than he the disadvantages of such a move. This appears to be merely a move on de Valera's part to stir up the flagging enthusiasm of his party once more and it is improbable that the idea will be carried much farther. If, however, the Free State does effect the separation, Britain will not take any action against them.

MATERIAL INTEREST CAUSES WORLD CHAOS

Religion is Strong Unifying Force in One's Life

NOT A SEPARATE THING

"The root source of world chaos today is material interest," was the statement of Rev. E. L. Wasson, speaking to the women's S.C.M. of University College in Falconer House Wednesday evening. He attempted to clear up some of the religious problems of today concerning "What we can believe about God." This was the first in a series of four addresses.

The speaker went on to say that we have been thinking of religion as something apart from life, and that the result has been impoverishment. Religion is really a unifying factor in life, and its function is that it opens the way whereby we may attain the fullest possibilities of life in terms of living.

Religious beliefs must change, the speaker declared, and in a great many cases difficulties arise, which rather than being really difficulties are merely a failure to adjust ourselves to changing conditions of life. To make this

Four Knockouts Are Scored During Interfaculty Assault

SHOCK OF MODERN TRAFFIC ENDANGERS OLD OXFORD

Through the shock of modern traffic some of the most venerable buildings in Oxford are in danger of collapse. This was stated in a report by Warden Fisher of New College and Sir Michael Sadler, master of University College, which was based on a series of experiments with seismographs. A "by-pass" now in the course of construction, will carry heavy traffic around the town, and will therefore relieve the situation.

Professor Arthur, of the Architecture Department, when interviewed yesterday afternoon, had no remarks to make regarding the destructive effects of the reverberations of traffic. He did inform us, however, that most of the stone used in the construction of the old buildings would have been quarried locally and that Oxford stone was very poor. These ancient edifices have been crumbling for years. He cited the case of St. Paul's Cathedral as another example of poor building material. Recently hundreds of thousands of pounds were spent on reconstruction work.

"Out of thirty-one actors in Eight Men Speak only four or five had ever had any experience of acting before. Some had hardly ever seen real plays. It was the first major production of a theatre club only two years old. He made some remarks about the Chuck Down, II Dents: "The Meds and Dents don't get out till 5 o'clock, which rather lets us out of these school tees. Personally I'd rather have a swim at Hart House any time. Leather flew fast and hard as the junior interfaculty assault got under way at Hart House last night. Sixteen boxing bouts were staged, four of which, to add colour to the events, ended in knockouts. The wrestling events were also thickly populated, with twenty-two bouts being run off.

This movie was shown in Hart House Theatre yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Student Christian Movement to a crowd of about 300 students.

In the course of his talk the lecturer pointed out that although we consider the Eskimo a primitive person and in reality he is a member of one of the most primitive races in the world, he none the less has managed to solve

ALTERED CONDITIONS REASON FOR CHANGES

Today's Meeting to Consider Alterations in V.C.U. Constitution

ELECTION REGULATIONS

"The present constitution of the Victoria College Union was drawn up four years ago by a committee whose chairman was Ed Jolliffe. It was written to satisfy conditions which existed at that time but many of which have since been altered." Such was the reason given to The Varsity yesterday for the meeting to be held this afternoon to consider changes in the constitution.

"The constitution and function of the new Initiation Committee will be incorporated in the V.C.U.," informed Laurie Cragg, chairman of the Royal Commission appointed to draw up the proposed innovations. "All amendments proposed and passed during the last four years will also be incorporated in the constitution at this time."

The most important proposal of the Royal Commission will be a change in the regulations concerning election of officers to the V.C.U. The new ruling, if carried, will determine the number of officers which may be held by men and women, respectively, and will specify which offices these are to be.

The members of the Commission felt positive that there would be no change in the existing ruling which states that "There shall be no women's auxiliary to the Bob Committee."

GREECE OF TODAY COMPARED WITH OLD

Many Similarities in Social and in Political Life

TOO MANY LEADERS

"I should like to think of Greece as one of its olive trees, standing in the corner of the pasture, old, very old, shaken, its heart eaten out, only the shell left, but even though long past the period of fruition, I should like to feel that there are some who still like to sit under its shade and enjoy the old olive tree," said Professor Thompson in concluding his speech on "Aristophanes in Modern Greece", at the joint meeting of the U.C. and Victoria Classical Clubs last night.

"There are few lands which contain such a wealth of historical influence. One might very profitably spend a year working on the birds and flowers of Greece, studying the old fortifications and the fine mosaics; but unfortunately few people know very little more concerning modern Greece than the young lady of that country who was crowned Queen of Europe or the American millionaire who adopted it as his home."

SENIOR PUCKSTERS DEFEAT KITCHENER IN SPEEDY STRUGGLE

Senior Team Redeems Itself by Scoring 6-4 Victory

FIFTEEN HUNDRED ATTEND

Kitchener Opens Strongly to Weaken in Third Period

(Special to "The Varsity")

By Paul B. Smith
Kitchener, Dec. 6.—The University of Toronto Senior O.H.A. hockey team redeemed itself last night by registering its first win of the season. The Blue team took the measure of the Kitchener Empires by the score of 6 to 4.

The game was fast and exciting and kept the fifteen hundred spectators in a frenzy from start to finish. Kitchener started fast and kept the students pretty well on the defensive. Roth opened the scoring by putting Kitchener one up before one minute had elapsed. The Blue team retaliated vigorously and were rewarded when Cunningham scored. Varsity were hard pressed with Williamson getting two successive penalties.

Fast play again featured the second period. McClelland scored on MacPherson's pass. The home forces pressed hard and MacPherson broke away, only to be outguessed by Berner. Vrooman evened matters up with a goal that earned off Ship's stick. Hendry and MacPherson both missed goals by the narrowest of margins. The students completely dominated the play in the third period. Hendry scored on a shot from inside the defense.

S.C.M. Corner

"Cry 'Havoc' and let slip the dogs of war!"
"All aboard the Bloody International Ltd. bound for Death, Mutation, Suffering, Famine and Hell," or more politely, for War.

People have been very blind and stupid about war, only they didn't call it that. They say "Patriotism" and "Adventure", and they think about flags, and shiny brass buttons, and marching feet and music.

But that's not what war is. The next war will be "The mass murder of civilians". It's no use mincing matters. Beverly Nichols doesn't.

Germans being shot by German guns in the hands of Frenchmen; Englishmen being stricken by English explosives from the hands of Germans: where does it lead? who is causing it? what is this ghastly farce? Let's be rational about the thing. Only when the individual brings the grisly problem home to his own doorstep will we get sane and concerted action.

Does it seem like a cynical joke to think of a Frenchman being imprisoned for two years at hard labour because, believing that war and Christianity are incompatible, he refuses to go through the state-required period of military training? It's a fact. His name is Philippe Vernier, and he is a secretary of the French Student Christian Movement.

"Can we have peace?" asks Lloyd Reynolds in the current number of the Canadian Student Magazine. It's your responsibility and mine. It's for us to say, for us to create public

THE O.H.A. AND OSHAWA

The Ontario Hockey Association has had its share of troubles in recent years, and now to further complicate matters the Oshawa situation arises. The Oshawa club was refused transfers for four imported players, but not to be outdone by eligibility rules, they tried to qualify these players for the S.P.A. junior semi-final by claiming that they are eligible under the student clause of the O.H.A. constitution.

It appears that the players in question have registered in a "pre-medical" course in the Oshawa Missionary College, a school with some seventy students which is operated by the Seventh Day Adventists. The strange thing is that the four junior players all went to Oshawa seeking work, and had employment before they registered as students. Their nine hours per week in history of education and chemistry will not interfere with their wage-earning positions.

As yet the four young men have not played for Oshawa, as they are waiting for a ruling on their eligibility from the O.H.A. Last Friday night they were prepared to step out on the ice, but the O.H.A. officials at the game refused to commit themselves on the matter of whether they could legitimately play as students. The Oshawa club is anxious to use the imports, and its officials are prepared to make trouble if permission to do so is denied.

In the interests of the colleges and universities to whom the student rule really means something, it is hoped that the O.H.A. executive will take a definite stand on the interpretation of the clause which permits a bona fide student at any recognised college to make his choice as to whether he will play with his home town OR his college team. Since the imports hail from Timmins, New Liskeard, and Galt, and since the college concerned has no team entered in the O.H.A., there should be no hesitation on the part of the authorities as to what should be done.

The O.H.A. started its house-cleaning with the Marlboro Club affair. We hope that the good work continues. There are a number of clubs which would bear investigation. At the risk of being accused of discriminating against a faculty of the University, we make mention of the St. Michael's College junior team. It must be admitted that this vigorous hockey organisation owes its reputation largely to imported players, brought in under the student clause. St. Mike's may be observing the letter of the law, but certainly not the spirit of it in this respect.

The University of Toronto is interested because of its connection with the O.H.A., as one of the colleges competing in good faith, and in the hope of promoting the cause for amateur sport in this province. For the sake of the college organisations which have abided strictly by the rules, the O.H.A. authorities should give a definite interpretation of the clause. More than that, the O.H.A., if it is to hold the respect of amateur sportsmen, must continue the long overdue campaign which it commenced with its investigation of the Marlboro Club.

TRAVELLING SCHOLARSHIP OPEN TO WOMEN GRADS

Conditions of New $1,250
Award Are Announced

A Travelling Scholarship of $1250 has been offered by the Canadian Federation of University Women and any woman holding a degree from a Canadian university is eligible for it. A preference will be given to those candidates who have completed at least one or two years at graduate studies and have a definite plan of advanced study of research in view.

Those interested in this scholarship should make application by letter to D. A. Weber Douglas, McGill University, Montreal, not later than February 1st. This application should contain an account of the applicant's educational training and a statement in full of the plan of study research she intends to pursue and should be accompanied by a written statement from the president of the college or university awarding the degrees held by the applicant to the effect that her application as a suitable candidate is approved. Testimonials as to her health, character, ability and scholarship should be sent in and should be in writing. These papers or reports of investigations, published or unpublished, should be submitted and will be returned to the applicant if postage is sent for that purpose. All confidential letters will be kept.

The choice of the university at which the successful candidate shall pursue her study or research work, is left to the Committee of Selection in consultation with the candidate. The scholarship is payable in two equal instalments on July 1st and January 1st by the treasurer of the Federation, provided the successful applicant sends her address before those dates. At the end of her tenure, the candidate shall send a report of her work together with a statement of its worth from the professor or other authority (Continued on Page 4)

U.C. Players' Guild

Isabella ..... Margot Clarkson
Lucio ..... Ted Seythes
Angelo ..... Gordon Robertson
Claudio ..... Robin Godfrey
Heartiest congratulations to the Players' Guild on their presentation of four scenes from Measure for Measure yesterday. As is inevitable with an amateur production, it was not without its flaws, but taken as a whole it was an admirable piece of work. The players were practically word-perfect, and the rehearsals must have been painstakingly thorough. Not only did they know their lines—what is equally important, they knew their parts. And they brought to them a sympathy of interpretation and an emotional power which would have done justice to a much more ambitious undertaking. The stage technique was extremely good, with on exception—Ted Seythes (Lucio) was rather wooden in the first scene, standing much too long in one or two poses. The only other obvious flaw was in the delivery—particularly that of Gordon Robertson (Angelo). His gradual building-up to an emotional climax was superb, but lost some of its effectiveness because a number of his speeches failed to come out clearly. C.L.C.

Sketch Room

After John Russell's exhibit we could not have a more striking contrast than the sight of Mr. Goodridge Roberts' drawings and water colours. Whether we like John Russell's work or not, is not the question, and everyone will readily credit him with a splendid technique, backed by a long intense study. Not only is his drawing sure, but he is a painter with a good command of his palette. But I can't say as much of the work of Roberts, which shows rather plainly that he does not know yet how to make the best of his colours, though his drawing is good, usually, offering an adequate frame for the use of the colours.

Mr. Roberts, a Canadian from New Brunswick, studied first in Montreal, at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, then he went to New York, where he was a pupil of the Arts Students' League. Since then, he has taught for some years in Ottawa, and recently has been appointed Art Director at Queen's University, a strange thing when one considers his present exhibit in the Sketch Room.

Most of his landscapes are just rough, and while we can still trace his original crayon drawing that shows a keen sense of the composition, the colours usually destroy entirely the painter's original purpose. In many landscapes the treatment of colours gives you an impression of sloppiness, carelessness that no cry for "modern treatment" can ever justify. His study of a town shows well how when confronted with well-defined surfaces and forces he is at his best, while when he is more free in his subject, for the sky and the meadow of the foreground is less forcefully rendered than the houses, the railway station and freight cars. Whenever making use of a single tone, grey or brown, Roberts is, however, far better, as in his studies of trees.

There is also a series of caricatures and quick sketches that do more justice to his drawing ability, but even there it is astonishing to find glaring errors of perspective. His figures are too flat, there does not seem to be any space behind them, and the same remark applies to his two "still lifes". On the whole the exhibit is uninteresting and too much in favour of "child painting" that too often represents only a dislike for real study and discipline.

In the Print Room the Sketch Room Committee has a new series of reproductions of French Masters from the XVII and XVIII centuries, where many will find a ready consolation after a walk through the Sketch Room—which does not mean that any old painting is necessarily superior to modern work. ### A PROTEST MASS MEETING The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:
We wish to protest against the following letter which has been sent to a large number of students in the Faculty of Arts:

"Dear Sir:
"I am instructed by the President to draw your attention to the following regulation which appears in the Calendar of the Faculty of Arts:

"Students must have paid the fees due in the first term before proceeding with the work of the second term."

"The Governors have directed that this regulation be strictly enforced, and that the registration of all students whose fees for the Michaelmas term are in arrears be cancelled for the Easter term."

"I am informed that your fees for the Michaelmas term have not been paid in full. Will you be good enough, therefore, to see that the fees in which you are still in arrears are paid before the close of the Michaelmas term on December 21, 1933, in order that you may be eligible to continue your registration in the University for the Easter term which opens on January 3, 1934."

"Yours very truly,
"(Signed) A. B. Fennell,
"Secretary,
"Faculty of Arts."

This means that unless some immediate action is taken by the student body, the hundreds of students will not be able to return after the Christmas vacation. The enforcement of this regulation is certainly not going to raise more money for the University—it is a clear case of discrimination against the poorer students. It is a further step after the increase in fees in spite of the deepening crisis to limit attendance at the University to those who can easily afford it. For those (Continued on Page 3)

HAMILTON TIGERS PLAY BLUE HOCKEYISTS HERE SAT.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Tonight's the night and the place is Hart House gym at eight o'clock. Once more the old rivals, St. Hilda's and Victoria, clash in the first game of the interfaculty finals to dispute basketball supremacy. Last year St. Hilda's were eliminated in the semi-finals by Vic Seniors who were successful in taking the championship. The year before that, Trinity lost in the finals by one point to Vic Juniors but three years ago they defeated all comers. With such a history behind them, excitement is running high in both camps, and the "crosshairs" struggle of this evening will see the two squads putting every ounce of their strength into the play.

With the exception of Margot Thompson, all the players of last year are back on the Trinity line-up with the addition of Ellen Wilson and Mary Macdonald. There is no doubt about it being a formidable array of cage stars who will trot on the floor tonight to oppose the fast Scarlet and Gold outfit.

SENIOR U.C. DEFEATS VIC IN VOLLEYBALL TUSSLE

Slight Margin Gives Victors Leadership in Group III

Senior U.C. captured the championship of Group III in the volleyball series last night by defeating Senior Vic in the upper gym. The scores of 15-8, 12-15, and 15-13 give some indication of the closeness of the games.

In the early stages of the match both teams showed a lamentable tendency to leave it to the other man and, as a result, many easy points were given by each team. As the game progressed, however, the squads showed some sterling team play.

The last game kept both the teams and the spectators on edge with one team gaining a short lead and then losing it. The brilliant spiking of McQuigge and Murphy finally overcame the Vic resistance and gave the game to the U.C. boys by a bare two points.

For the winners Applebaum, Murphy and McQuigge were outstanding while Vanderlick, Cragg and Aylsworth starred for Vic.

Senior U.C. — Applebaum, Shulman, Murphy, Cruikshank, Klebanoff, Levy, Mutteroff, McQuigge, Hazen.

Senior Vic — Cragg, Dyke, Aylsworth, Dingman, Neale, Vanderlick, Harris.

WRITTEN BY CANADIAN BOOK DESCRIBES QUEBEC

The University College French Club meeting, held last night in the Women's Union, was honoured by the presence of two French-Canadians, M. Duvois and M. Courvoyer, students in Montreal. They both extended their greetings to the club in short, humorous speeches.

The guest speaker of the evening, however, was M. A. K. Lafamme, lecturer in University College, who spoke to the club on Wilfred Bovey's book, "Canadian", published only this year.

M. Lafamme said that though the author was a Canadian of English origin, he has grasped the spirit of the French Canadian. A great many books have been written about Quebec, he informed the audience, but in Bovey's "Canadian", is a more direct knowledge of the French Canadian. This book contains over fifty excellent illustrations.

"The only way to understand us," declared M. Lafamme, "is to put yourself in our place. The Canadian of English origin has a distinctly different taste from the one of French origin." Wilfred Bovey, in the estimation of the speaker, had succeeded admirably.

Each member of the French Club was presented with a copy of the work, and Christmas carols were sung.

WEST END 'Y' TAKE BLUE CAGERS 35-8

Score Quite Close at Start but Ends in Scoring Orgy

VARSITY RALLY FAILS

By Ken Burns

West End Y.M.C.A. went into the lead of the senior city basketball loop when they defeated Varsity Seconds last night on the Hart House floor by the score of 35-8. The purple and gold team have not been defeated in three starts and last night's exhibition proved that they are the team to beat.

In the early stages of the game the score was quite close and with only fifteen minutes to play Varsity were trailing by a point. The West End team then put on the pressure in no uncertain manner and netted twenty-five points while they held the Blue team scoreless.

Normie Newman opened the scoring in the early stages of the game when he sank a foul shot. Stronach quickly followed this up when he shot a nice field goal to put the Seconds three points up. However, West End quickly tied the score and the play was very even throughout the half. Watson scored four points near the end of the half and West End came off the floor with a lead of 8-5.

Varsity rallied at the beginning of the period and brought the count up to 10-9. However, the Blue team lacked the experience of the Y squad and could not get organised to withstand the West End attack. The West End team played a waiting game but when there was an opportunity they made the most of it by breaking fast and shooting effectively. On the other hand Varsity hurried the play with the result that their shooting wasn't as accurate and they often overran the play.

The scoring statistics show that Varsity only had one less shot on goal than the West End team but their scoring average was not nearly so high. Out of forty-seven shots on goal West End got sixteen baskets while Varsity could only net four. Varsity scored one foul shot out of two tries while West End got three out of ten.

Goble and Watson were the pick of the winners and Normie Newman and Stronach played good games for Varsity.

West End Y.M.C.A. — Goble, Baird, Gillespie, Sanford, Watson, McBroom, Martin, Bolton and Butler.

Varsity Seconds — N. Newman, Mitchell, Stronach, H. Newman, Magwood, Applebaum, Ronson, Henderson, Gibson, Vanderlick.

DEPRECIATION FUND ALLOWS FOR UPKEEP

Hart House Sets Aside Fund Each Year for "Wear and Tear"

ACCURATELY CALCULATED

It is twenty-two years since Hart House was built; twelve years since it was presented to the University. During this period wear and tear on the furnishings has necessitated replacements and repairs. For this purpose, the administration of the building has provided a depreciation fund.

In the office of the Comptroller three large ledgers are to be found, in which every replaceable article in the House is listed. The catalogue includes billiard tables and salt shakers, mattresses and hair-brushes. Every department has its utensils and furnishings clearly itemised on a card. Along with its description, location and cost, the estimated life is given. On the basis of cost and the life, the comptroller's staff figure out a depreciation rate.

The depreciation rate provides for a certain amount of money to be paid into a fund each year so that at the (Continued on Page 4)

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crochower

Coming through with a long overdue victory Warren Stevens' Blue hockeyists registered their first win of the season last night against Irving Erb's Kitchener Empires. The Blue team apparently began where they left off in the last encounter in which the two met and this time carried off the verdict in no uncertain manner. Now that the Stevens-coached aggregation have partaken of the delights of victory, the disastrous first portion of the Senior O.H.A. series will be forgotten and new successes expectantly awaited. On Saturday night the U. of T. pucksters will endeavour to capture their second victory at the expense of the Hamilton Tigers. Let's see you go, Blue team!

Over eighty eager athletes started over the road in search of fistic fame in last night's junior interfaculty assault. For novices the boys put on an exceptionally good exhibition of boxing and wrestling. Four of the boxing bouts ended with knockouts. Owing to lack of condition the bouts were inclined to start fast and slow down to a walk before the third round was over. The assault will be completed tonight and anyone interested in this sport would be well advised to be on hand.

Last night's basketball game between West End Y and Varsity's Senior B team amply proved that West End is the class of the league. Undeclared in three starts the Purple and Gold cagers will be hard to beat down the trail to the Senior Y.M.C.A. cage title.

The game might easily be reason for hearing the long-silenced wail of "What's the matter with Varsity". The Blue cagers just went through the motions in the first half and the only thing they had was a number of good uniforms. However, it isn't fair to condemn them as a thoroughly bad lot. Young and inexperienced in the arts of senior ball they have a lot to learn. In addition, they had plenty of bad luck around the baskets. The West End quintet were held fairly well up until the middle of the second half when the Blue team cracked wide open and remained that way for the rest of the game. The Y cagers scored almost at will and it was pitiful to see a struggling band of inexperienced young basketekers absorb undue punishment as the Y cage leaders continued to rub it in. However, we look forward to some improvement which will no doubt be forthcoming soon.

While on the subject of basketball it is interesting to note that the rumour which had Coach Lew Hayman running off to London has been definitely denied. In the meantime, Coach Hayman is quietly going about the task of building a strong Senior A team which will play its first game of the season against St. Michael's at Hart House on Dec. 13. Let's all be on hand to give the team an encouraging start, something which the Senior B's didn't get.

The decisive victory which Varsity's poloists scored against St. Catharines in Hart House pool last night amply made up for previous losses suffered by the Blue swimmers. It was a treat to watch the smooth teamplay displayed by the U. of T. seven. The St. Catharines team was an hour late in arriving but this was completely forgotten in the excitement of the game. This display on the part of the Blue squad will send them into the splash against McGill on Saturday with the necessary confidence to earn the decision.

JUNIOR ASSAULT

a big handicap to many of the competitors who, lacking in science, tried to make up for it in aggressiveness. However, the calibre of talent displayed was very encouraging to the coaches who are faced with the task of almost completely rebuilding the intercollegiate teams.

The best bout on the boxing card brought together McCatty and Millson, two flashy lightweight. McCatty used a stinging left to good advantage, which gave him a margin in the early stages and held Millson off in the last round. Another boxer who looked good was Demarco, who showed plenty of promise in winning his first bout but ran into an upstart which floored him for the count in the first few seconds of his fight with Grant. Powell also looked impressive in his fight. Powell and Grant, who are welters, should produce a real scrap when they meet tonight.

The wrestling matches gladdened the heart of Mr. Martin, who is in need of new material on his teams. The Troster-O'Leary scrap was a stand-out, while Robertson also turned in a brilliant performance to get the nod over Godden. Results:

McCatty then was fed a nice pass and he made no mistake in putting the ball behind Eacott, to make the score 4-1, where it remained till half-time.

After the intermission, the Henley town aggregation were able to secure more of the play, getting in several hard shots on MacLeod, but were unable to increase their total. Meanwhile, Varsity added two more goals. McGarrigle again came to the aid of his team with two goals on identical plays. After eluding his check, he sped up the side of the pool, pausing in time to net the ball from a very difficult angle. Varsity was quick to take advantage of a penalty to St. Catharines, to make the score 7-3. McGarrigle then made another nice scoring effort, which was quickly offset by Davey's goal for Toronto. This completed the scoring, although the visitors tried to penetrate the Varsity defence.

For Varsity, all played a steady game, but the work of Davey and Bancroft gave the team the extra scoring punch. For St. Catharines, McGarrigle, with his four goals, and Eacott in goal were the standouts.

Here and There

One of the largest cargoes of lumber shipped from Saint John on the Canadian Atlantic sea coast was forwarded to Great Britain recently. It consisted of 3,048-596 feet, mostly of deals.

Output of nickel in Canada in 1932 totalled 30,327,968 pounds valued at $7,179,852. Production during the first six months of 1933 amounted to 22,502,434 pounds as compared with 21,162,786 pounds for the corresponding period of 1932.

Every home at some future date will have "air conditioning" and the word "heating" will pass out of use among home owners. J. J. Donovan, General Electric Company expert, told a largely attended meeting of the Electrical Club at the Royal York hotel, Toronto, recently.

Steep grades of the Rocky Mountain areas presented no difficulty to the Royal Scot, crack British flyer, en route to Winnipeg and the east from Vancouver recently. The all-British train is attracting great popular enthusiasm throughout Canada on its return journey to Montreal.

Montreal's "million dollar hole" on Dorchester street, where a railway terminal was to have been built, will become the world's most costly sunken garden, if Canada sees eye to eye with a couple of Montreal aldermen who advocate beautifying the gash with flowers and shrubs.

Canadian Pacific employees under 21 and minor sons of employees are again offered the opportunity of two University of Montreal scholarships by competitive examination, according to an announcement by Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the company. Applicants have until May 1, 1934, to make application.

Twenty-one months of training in a recognized shop, Junior matriculation or its equivalent and a course in an academy to be established in Toronto is the ordeal for novices for Ontario registration as barbers and hairdressers. It was stated at a meeting of honorary arbiters at the Royal York hotel, Toronto, recently.

Five ports hitherto not on the schedule of world cruise liners have been added to the 1934 itinerary of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain when she leaves New York, January 4 next. They are Semarang, Java; Boeleng and Padang Bay, Island of Bali; Penang, Straits Settlements; and Zambanga, in the Sulu Archipelago.

In making a choice between transportation by rail and by road, shippers should consider what the railroads are doing and have done for their advantage. G. G. Ommann, development commissioner, Canadian Pacific Railway, told the Rotary Club of Lyndenville, Vt., recently. He cited many cases where the railroads had first inventoried, then developed the natural resources of the continent.

MEDIEVAL ARTISTS LACKED PERSPECTIVE

We Must Interpret in Terms of Will, and Not Skill

In tracing the development of the artistic tradition from the Byzantine mosaics down to Botticelli, Professor H. R. MacCallum pointed out that "it is in terms of will and not of skill that we must interpret these manifestations of art." It is not sufficient to pass an opinion on a particular period, it is necessary to try and appreciate the particular message the artist was interested in conveying. The creators of the Byzantine mosaics were not interested in presenting their characters in life-like form. Just as the creator of the Parthenon could never have desired to construct a Gothic cathedral the artists of the Medieval School had not the will to create aught but their primitives.

Their art lacked perspective and organic form. It was the expression of "the medieval man's attempt to escape the deceptive and the variable being".

"Giotto was the precursor of the universal man of the Renaissance as he was proficient in sculpture as well as painting". With him is seen the definite break with the austerity and lack of realism of the Byzantine School.

Leonardo and Michelangelo represent a different branch of the Renaissance development from that of Raphael. With the former the influence of scientific study greatly affected their work in the portrayal of the human body.

With Botticelli the tradition begins to change. There is a note of sadness introduced.

Prof. MacCallum will give the last of these four well-attended lectures next Wednesday.

end of its natural life the article may be replaced. So precisely is the rate estimated, the purchase price of billiard tables recently bought, which ran into four figures, varied only about five dollars from the sum provided for replacement.

The fund is created from the fees paid by members of Hart House, augmented by special tariffs levied on dances and stunt nights. On these occasions the wear and tear is more than usual due to the amount of moving necessary.

Much of the repairing is done within the House itself and every spring an inventory is taken to determine the state of the furnishings. During the summer various tables and chests are taken out of commission and sent to the workshop.

This continual repair and replacement, which helps to keep up the high standard of the building, is one tribute to the efficiency of the Hart House administration.

M. AND P. SOCIETY

The Mathematical and Physical Society will meet on Thursday, December 7th, in Room 43, Physics Building. The speaker will be Professor Sygne, of the Department of Applied Mathematics with the subject, "Archimedes, the First Mathematical Physicist", and Mr. G. M. Lawrence on "Dialectical Materialism and Philosophy of Science".

HART HOUSE CHAPEL

The second of a series of three weekly services of worship will be held in Hart House Chapel today at one-thirty—closing promptly at two o'clock. A short address will be given by Prof. T. W. Isherwood of Wycliffe College. Members of the House are invited to attend.

U. OF T. SKI CLUB

A meeting of the Ski Club will be held in the Debates Room, of Hart House, on Thursday at 5 p.m. Any person interested in skiing who has not yet attended a meeting is cordially invited. Plans for the winter are now being formulated, and it is expected that a trip to Caledon will be made this week-end if snow conditions are favourable. Trials will be held in order to decide who shall be on the ski team representing the University.

LAW CLUB

The Hon. Mr. Justice Wright, noted criminal trial judge, will speak to the Law Club, Thursday, December 7th, 8 p.m. in Junior Common Room of U.C., on the "Conduct of a Criminal Trial". Members only.

GREECE DF TDDAY COMPARED WITH OLD

The present condition of Greece with regard to the last war resulting in the loss of Smyrna, is quite comparable to Athens in the 5th century and the Greeks have met it with the same courage as the Athenians at the time of the Peloponnesian upheaval. Aristophanes described the refugees as living in rocks and oil cans and you still find these refugee cities all through Greece.

"There is not nearly so much unemployment as in this land," said Professor Thompson; "that is, you don't hear so much about it. Many live by selling candy and chewing gum to one another and poisoning one another's shoes."

"You don't hear so much about parties in Greece but rather political figures, and that is a good deal as it was in classical Greece. There are too many outstanding leaders, for trying to do what they think best they cannot get along together—ostracism has been replaced by assassination."

The plays of Aristophanes must have had great political influence for they appealed to the best elements of Athenian citizenship. "One of the finest qualities of Aristophanes is his confidence in Hellenism combined with a pride in Athens—a characteristic that has pretty well disappeared from modern Greek thought."

A foreigner is a privileged person and there is no caste in Greece. Thus Aristophanes would feel very well in the social life of Athens today, for the most remarkable part of the 5th century was the democratic principle.

The social life of woman has changed very little with time. "She cooks as her ancestors of the 5th century, still carries things on her head and still plagues her husband."

Nor would Aristophanes have felt utterly strange in the church life of today, in which there are certain fixed services but no obstruction regarding one's views and conscience. The Greek still loves his festivals and processions and observes them in much the same spirit of jollity as in classical times.

Oscar Ryan is also the editor of the Canadian Labour Defender and told The Varsity reporter some facts about the Canadian Labour Defence League. This was founded eight years ago, to defend the coal miners of Drumheller in Alberta, arrested during a strike there. "Our chief task at the moment is to expose the plot to murder Tim Buck in Kingston Penitentiary last year. Eight Men Speech was produced for that purpose. We are also working for the release of Joe Derry, whose case is coming on soon. He was arrested in Vancouver under Section 98 of the Criminal Code, for addressing a meeting of young workers at an Anti-War meeting when there was strong protest against the visit of the Japanese fleet."

"The Canadian Labour Defence League is a section of the International Red Aid which numbers fourteen million members, with headquarters at Amsterdam, where it was transferred after the old headquarters in Berlin were wrecked. The work of the organization is to defend political prisoners at their trials and to provide support for their families."

clearer he gave an example. "If, as a child, you decided that the sun revolved around the earth," he pointed out, "and later found out that this was untrue, you would not cease to believe in astronomy." The same should be true about religion, too. Many people are still "arguing and thinking in terms of childish concepts."

"If you were to ask for a definition of religion, I could not give one," declared Mr. Wasson. "But you can describe it. It means the enhancing of life, freedom, vision, and unification of human society."

"The kingdom of God is a kingdom of social relations, whereby God realizes his physical existence in human personality!"

Mr. Wasson declared that he thought that religion was coming into its own, and felt that we are going through a period of reformation.

the problem of the arch held together by a keyblock as shown in his structure of the igloo.

The pictures consisted of some which Archbishop Fleming had taken himself and some of which were taken by Captain Finney and shown in Convocation Hall last winter when Captain Finney was in Toronto.

The pictures were instructive and amusing, and varied all the way from showing how Eskimos celebrated the return of daylight after a long winter by indulging in a lively game of soccer, to busy streets in Edmonton, where, to the surprise of many in the audience, street cars are a commonplace.

Making his base at Aklavik, a little town over 100 miles north of the Arctic Circle but equipped with a frame hospital housing the most modern X-ray equipment and boasting electric lights, Archbishop Fleming travelled thousands of miles by dog team and got to know the Eskimos quite intimately.

"They were always kind to me, even when it involved great sacrifices on their part. They saved my life on two occasions, and although their scale of living is primitive and they may seem to us to be degraded they are really not immoral but unmoral and who, educated their standards are admirable," he stated. "We must remember that they are fellow Canadians and a very virile people fighting for a living in a land where frozen rivers are not uncommon even in July, and where forests and therefore fuel are scarce."

And then again, maybe it's the depression.

DEMAND FOR FEES IS JUSTIFIED SAYS FENNELL; STUDENTS OBJECT

University Has Legal Right to Demand Payment in Fall Term

TRY TO BE REASONABLE

No Deliberate Discrimination Against the Poorer Students

"The University has the right to demand that fees be paid in full at the beginning of the fall term, just as, for example, Queen's University does," declared Mr. A. B. Fennell, University Registrar, in commenting on the criticism levelled in The Varsity's correspondence column yesterday against his letter urging students to pay their fees due this term before December 21st on pain of being declared ineligible to continue their courses in the second term.

"The information regarding fees," continued Mr. Fennell, "is set forth in the Calendar, and when a student enrolls in the fall he knows, presumably, that certain fees are to be paid at certain times. By the act of his enrolment he undertakes a contract with the University to pay these fees at the stipulated times. He is expected to fulfil the contract."

"It is certainly not a deliberate discrimination against the poorer students as alleged in the letter," replied Mr. Fennell in response to a question of The Varsity. "The University tries to be reasonable in the question of

GERMAN STUDENTS PLAY 'WAR GAMES'

Claims Hitler "Undoubtedly Developing Militaristic Attitude"

PLATFORM OF FORCE

(Special to "The Varsity")

Vancouver, B.C. (CIP) — "Undoubtedly Hitler is developing a militaristic attitude in Germany," states F. H. Soward of the University of British Columbia here.

German schools, he says, give two hours weekly to the so-called "war games", which are merely lessons on military tactics. The Storm Troops, the terror of German life, parade with fire-arms. Although Hitler declared himself nothing if not a pacifist, at the present time pacifists are in prison.

Hitler says, "We are to prepare to-day, for wrestling back German freedom tomorrow." In her present state, Prof. Soward considered, Germany is unable to go to war with anyone. It would be about five years before the peace of neighbouring Europe would be threatened. The Nazi initial print.

Marked Decline in Attendance Prophesied if Payment Insisted Upon

OBJECT TO "RED TAPE"

Many Misunderstandings with Regard to Payment of Smaller Fees

The letter which appeared in the correspondence column of yesterday's Varsity regarding the payment of fees has called forth much protest from the student body as a whole. It seems that there was a misunderstanding on the part of some students at the beginning of the year with regard to the payment of the extra fees. In most cases the letter was received by many students who have paid half of their tuition fee and no extras at all.

Miss F. Goldhart, II U.C., "Although I did not receive a letter I think that the whole idea of compulsory payment before December 21st is ridiculous. There are many students to my knowledge who will not be able to pay their fall term fees before the Christmas vacation. If the authorities carry out their threats, I fear that we shall see a marked decline in the attendance next term."

Miss C. L. Gisborne, III C. and F., Trinity College, exclaimed: "Everyone I know at Trinity seems to have received one of those silly letters. They have all paid their tuition fees. Last year everyone was allowed to pay their extra fees at the end of the year. What's the matter this year? Why is there so much red tape connected with the whole thing? We should have been notified at the beginning of the term that the small fees had to be paid as well as the tuition fees."

Miss M. Anderson, II Trinity College: "Do they actually mean to prevent students from returning next term because they owe four dollars for extras? The whole idea sounds ridiculous. If I have to pay that four dollars now it will mean that much less with which to buy my Christmas presents."

FRENCH REALISTS STRESS SOCIETY

In Romantic Period Emphasis on Feeling as a Principle of Life

FORM ESSENCE OF REALISM

"During the Romantic period in France the principle of life was feeling, whereas it is society in the period of Realism," explained Professor Will while lecturing yesterday afternoon on these two periods. La jeune France has died down and the uncontrolled imagination has been leashed. The accompanying thought is positivism; organic, relative and sympathetic and has as its end the improvement of man's life in this world.

Already with a scientific background no others made so much fun of the world as the realists. The prevalent belief was that man is the creator of harmony in life, for man is imaginative, and the image of the world we live in may be due to the idiosyncrasies of minds. The soul is awakening. It cannot live in the infinite, because the infinite is lacking in humanity, which is essential to the soul. Balzac's works alone depict a world in which the Romantic hero had felt everything and seen nothing. The hero could hardly look at the heroine without swooning.

The issue of Realism is form. The artistic ideal is the controlling factor in Realism. Everything is done in the interests of beauty. Thus the output

WESTERN POWERS INFLUENCE EAST

Japanese Militaristic Attitude Forced by Economic Conditions

PRDF. MCKENZIE LECTURES

"Recognition of the U.S.S.R. by the United States has certainly relieved the tension in the Far East and set back any immediate danger of war between Russia and Japan," said Professor Mackenzie last night at the Vic S.C.M. meeting held at Wymilwood.

Speaking on "Japan: Race and Nationality," Mr. Mackenzie compared the attitude of the three great powers of the Far East: Russia, China and Japan, towards race and nationality. Up to recently Communistic Russia has not been concerned with race or nationality, being essentially international in its outlook. Recent events, however, point out that Russia too is getting organised along nationalistic lines—a complete reversal from Trotsky's views—and this will make it more aggressive towards its immediate neighbours. On the other hand China does not possess, so far, as a whole, the idea of nationality as we know it. The people belong to the Chinese race but this does not entail any feeling of unity.

PRESIDENTS LAUD EXCHANGE SYSTEM

Students Sent as Ambassadors Through Scholarships of N.F.C.U.S.

A STATESMAN-LIKE PLAN

High praise has been given to the N.F.C.U.S. by university presidents for the initiative and statesmanship displayed in their plan of exchange scholarships:

President R. C. Wallace of the University of Alberta thinks the plan has worked well. "The important things seems to me to be," Dr. Wallace has said, "that students of ability be sent out as ambassadors, who will not be so bound down to their studies, because they find their studies difficult to keep up with, as to be unable to mingle in the student life. They ought to be able to bring back to their university both sides of the university they have visited. . . . I think we all agree that the scheme is a statesman-like one and we ought to remember the credit of our Canadian undergraduates that they initiated it by themselves."

President Murray of the University of Saskatchewan, in whose opinions Principal Wallace of University College (Toronto) concurs, thinks that there are two excellent reasons for supporting the scheme. The first reason is educational. "There is a great

VICTORIA WOMEN DEFEAT SAINTS

Scarlet and Gold Carry Lead of Five Points into Final Game

FOULS MANY; GAME ROUGH

By Evelyn Stewart

Struggling valiantly to overcome a lead established early in the game by their opponents and held throughout, St. Hilda's women's basketball team suffered a 22-17 defeat at the hands of Victoria Seniors at Hart House gym last night in the first game of the interfaculty finals. Play by both teams was very rough, with the result that a great many personal fouls were called. E. Palmer, A. Butler and G. Becker being put off the floor for four offences each. A gallery of about one hundred witnessed this first of the two-game series to decide the interfaculty championship.

From the moment the ball was put in play, the Vic forwards were on their toes, and their clock-work precision in passing was a feature of the first half of the game. The St. Hilda's defence were powerless against their pivoting and shifty floor work. The first half closed with Trinity staging a strong offensive but the period ended with the score 16-8 for Victoria.

Although the Scarlet and Gold sextet opened the scoring for the second half, their pace was considerably slackened and their passing became very sloppy. The most of the play remained at the St. Hilda's end of the floor, but they were unable to sink their shots, due to the close checking of the Vic defence. Pat Palmer was out.

Fascism Threatens Civilisation Contentment of McGill Debaters in Toronto

DEFINITIONS DIFFER

Marg Farmer, Eleanor Burrows Uphold Affirmative Argument in Kingston

The negative side carried the day, and it was decided that Fascism is a threat to civilisation, at the Varsity. McGill women's intercollegiate debate, on Thursday afternoon at the Women's Union. Miss Tait and Miss Howard were the members of the victorious McGill team.

The motion was carried in the debate at Queen's, giving the home team the decision. Eleanor Burrows and Margaret Farmer were the representatives of the University of Toronto.

The main arguments were based on the definition of the term "Fascism", about which there seemed to be much difference of opinion. The members of the affirmative, Miss Peggy Lister and Miss Margaret Gilleoly, both of St. Michael's College, maintained that Fascism is an institution which protects the rights of the workers by representation.

On the other hand, the upholders of the negative stated that Fascism is capitalism by force, and as the Grand Council is composed mostly of employers, the cause of the worker has not got a chance. They said also that a complete control of the press and of education prevented the airing of any grievances.

In proving her point, Miss Howard of McGill University cited the following incident which took place when Hitler was speaking in southern Germany: Hitler asked the audience, "Who has brought you into all this poverty and misery? The Jews." A small voice from the back murmured, "The cyclists." "Why the cyclists?" asked Hitler. "Why the Jews?" answered the voice.

Varsity Meets Hamilton Club

Saturday's Game in Arena Promises Excellent Hockey for Fans

DEFEAT KITCHENER 6-4

On Saturday night the Varsity puckchasers entertain the powerful Hamilton club at the Arena in a regular senior O.H.A. fixture. This bids fair to be a real contest and one that should not be missed by Blue and White hockey enthusiasts.

Wednesday night the team stepped into the little old town of Kitchener and knocked off Irving Erb's Empires to the tune of 6-4. Going into the last period with the score tied at 2-2 the Blues capitalised on their dormant power and rifled four goals in to win the game 6-4.

In their last encounter with the Yellow and Black the Varsity sextet came out on the short end of a big score, namely 7-3. However, the Tigers have always been a hard team to beat on their own ice and the Blues have the break in this respect on Saturday.

Having won their first game of the second series, each team having met and played once, they will be in there trying every minute to make it two straight.

The forwards are beginning to click around the nets and promise to keep guardian Marsh busy keeping the elusive puck out in front when they once start their already well-known

WATER-POLOISTS IN INITIAL GAME WITH RED TEAM

Second Game of Return Series to be Staged Next Week in Hart House

BLUES WELL CONDITIONED

City League Schedule Ended Thursday with 8-4 Win

Tonight the Varsity water polo team will gather up their swimming costumes and head eastward to Montreal where they will meet McGill in their annual intercollegiate water polo tilt. The teams will play a two-game series, goals to count on the round, and the Red team playing the return game here the following Saturday.

The Blue team will be at the peak of their power as they go into the contest in defence of the title they have held for the past two years. A long and strenuous season has rounded the squad into real shape and they will not be suffering from lack of condition, a handicap which has been felt in previous intercollegiate games.

The students completed the schedule in the city league polo Wednesday night by tucking in an 8-4 victory. Getting off to a poor start the Varsity team found themselves occupying a lower berth in the league before the season was very far advanced. However, as the season progressed the Blue team began to show their real ability and finished the series right up with the leaders. Their failure to get

PARLIAMENTARIANS VETO PATRIOTISM

Deplored as Animal Instinct an Emotional Condition of the Masses

UNIVERSALISM IS GOAL

Yesterday afternoon the U.C. Parliamentary Club rejected a motion introduced by the Smith Government that "Patriotism is a Desirable Thing" to the tune of 23 votes against and 13 for.

In presenting the motion Mr. M. B. Golder pointed out that patriotism is only one of many loyalties which a man accepts as being part of his life. In the broadest sense of the word it means loyalty to one's country as a whole, and not to any special interest within the country. It is seen at its best in history when nations were seeking to free themselves from oppression. Such was the patriotism stirred up by Garibaldi in Italy and by the Revolutionary leaders in France. In the case of Canada a true patriotism at the present day would seek in a rational way to instil in the people a faith in the great possibilities of our resources, and also to wipe out the sectional interests which are now exploited for selfish ends.

In opposing the motion, Mr. MacDonald deplored patriotism as being an emotional condition of the masses, and, such, quite bigoted and intolerable. Mass emotion such as patriotism is incapable of education to a high end. Hence there must be substituted for it something that is broader and less selfish. Universalism is the true goal at which to aim.

Mr. McCallum, speaking for the Government, granted that fanatic flag-waving was undesirable, but saw no reason for not accepting the dictionary meaning of patriotism — "zealousness for one's country's rights".

ON THE MATTER OF FEES

Again the Student League of Canada breaks into the limelight with the announcement of another mass meeting, this time to protest against a form letter which has been sent out from the Registrar's Office to those students whose fees for the term are in arrears. Speaking as usual in generalities, a member of the League makes the startling statement, "unless some immediate action is taken by the student body, hundreds of students will not be able to return after the Christmas vacation." Our correspondent of yesterday goes on to suggest that "it is a clear case of discrimination against the poorer students."

Elsewhere in our columns will be found the reply of the Registrar to the letter from a member of the Student League, and it needs no elaboration. The University is within its rights in asking that students fulfil their financial obligations. The form letter is sent out as a warning, and should be regarded as such. A number of students to whom letters have been sent have omitted to pay some of the smaller fees, and they should find no great difficulty in doing this. If they must use the Christmas vacation as a means of earning the required sum, the Registrar has suggested that they may be re-instated after Christmas upon payment of the fees in arrears.

Those students who have been unable to pay the large sum of the tuition fee are in greater difficulty. They must have foreseen earlier in the term that the amount required could not be obtained easily, and they entered upon the fall term either in the hope of earning money as they proceeded, or of attending lectures without the formality of paying fees. Our sympathy is for the student who finds himself unable to proceed, but it must be admitted that anyone in such a position commenced the term with the odds against him. He was aware that he would be unable to write the final examinations without paying his fees, as this is an established rule at the University. More than one student has in the past defrauded the University by enjoying the privileges of classes for two terms, and neglecting at the end of that time either to fulfil his financial obligations or to write the examinations.

The type of student that has been dishonest in this way in the past has brought on such action by the University authorities. It is only right that fees should be met when they fall due, as is expected in commercial and social organisations. The University is not a charitable institution, and leniency in the past has led to the abuse of privilege.

Let the Student League hold its mass meeting, with the announced proposal that "only mass pressure can force this discriminatory ruling to be withdrawn". The very fact that the letter has been sent to all who owe fees, whether they be large or small, shows that there has been no intention of discrimination. Students who overlook the harsh text of the form letter, and weigh carefully both sides of the matter, will recognise that the Board of Governors is within its rights in enforcing the regulation in question. The latest action of the Student League is another typical gesture of contempt towards authority.

St. Thomas' Church

The half hour of choral music presented by CFRB on Sundays will be given at 5:45 p.m., commencing this Sunday. Their programme opens with a modern English anthem, "Hark, a thrilling voice is sounding". Master Barry Jones will sing an Aria from Mendelssohn's "St. Paul". The Male Chorus offer a new choral work of great dramatic power, "O Son of Mary", with Albert Hodgins singing the solo obligato throughout. Master Richard Freeman has been requested to repeat "God shall wipe away all tears". This outstanding broadcast will conclude with excerpts from the Bach cantata "Sleepers Wake!"

Eaton Auditorium

When such an undeniably fine artist as Tito Schipa honours the concert stage with his presence, about the only criticism—as distinct from a mere review—which can be offered is a criticism of the programme offered. Certainly as far as the general audience was concerned, last night's recital in the Eaton Auditorium was an unqualified success. The Auditorium was packed and two or three encores were demanded at the close of each group.

However, I think one valid objection to the programme may be made—it was too light in character. Not once did Mr. Schipa even begin to display any strong emotional power. As exhibitions of technical artistry on the part of a singer who is possessed of a marvellous voice and who has mastered to perfection the technique of using it, the numbers were delightful. The whole programme was charming; but it was not emotionally stirring. And while the audience did seem fully satisfied with what they got, I think that if Mr. Schipa had really let himself go, he could easily have brought down the house.

I don't think there's much point in reviewing the programme. Apart from the English group it was all Italian, with a dash of French and Spanish in the encores. Mr. Schipa's mastery of voice production can scarcely be surpassed. Clear and full in tone, it (Continued on Page 4)

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Will you oblige by publishing the following at your earliest convenience in the columns of The Varsity.

In reading the otherwise accurate report of the University College French Club meeting last Wednesday I was quite surprised to have had the following statement ascribed to me: "The Canadian of English origin has a distinctly different taste from the one of French origin". As a matter of fact, I did not use the word taste or "gout" a single time in the course of the short, informal talk I gave there. Secondly, I would never have ventured to make such a general, sweeping statement because my sincere conviction is that, in several respects, it is not true; in the matter of sports, for instance. Mr. Lay, the President of the Club and a few colleagues of mine who were in the audience can, if necessary, corroborate my version.

Sincerely yours,

A. K. Lafamme.

January 15, 1934. Public opinion has arisen to such an extent that there was little comment when the Fees Clerk was lynched at the semi-weekly Protest Meeting of the Student League on the front campus. The Attorney-General, when interviewed by The Varsity, said that no action could be taken because the lynching occurred on University ground. It is difficult to find anyone to refer the matter to, as the Board of Regents fled the country in a body last week. It is proposed that the remnants of the Joint Executive of the S.A.C. will take control, but due to his activities as City Administrator for the New Regime, Mr. Shilling of the C.F.F. declared that it was impossible. When interviewed by Gordon Sinclair, Mr. 'Avealand' suited him fine, and he didn't care about missing R. B. Bennett at the Hart House debate anyway.

FRENCH REALISTS SOCIETY

is small compared with that of the Romantics. Flaubert took at least five years to write any one of his books, so great was his attention to detail. The realists had the faculty of adding all their past experiences to the circumstances of the setting they were observing and describing.

Differentiating from Romanticism, Art in the period of Realism must be impersonal. Style is subject to beauty, and one important outcome of the great devotion to form was the creation of the novel, by adopting the biographical form for the dramatic form. Insisting on form in poetry seems to parcel out the world and rent the garment of the universe. In the end, the world will demand that the tears be mended, and made one again.

WESTERN POWERS INFLUENCE EAST

or solidarity of the nations; it explains to us the chaotic condition of this country.

Japan is in a different position. Though the Japanese race is composite, it is unified actually, and its leaders have managed to create a nation in the full sense of the word. Up to 1860 Japan was closed to the West, but realising from the conditions of China, which was exploited on a grand scale by the Western powers, that these could not be beaten except by their own weapons, the government began to modernise their country. Their quick rise can be compared to the rise of the German Empire which, in many respects, was in a similar position, both from an economic and a political point of view. Japan is intensely populated, has no raw materials; to assure its existence it adopted Western imperialistic methods, fighting successfully against China first, then against Russia; this with the tacit agreement of England. From 1920 to 1930 Japanese leaders believed that they could become independent if they could become more industrial and export on a large scale. By the end of this period, however, the market became saturated with goods, and Japan suffered severely from unemployment. The army and navy, capitalising on this situation, took a strong hand by striking against China, while the rest of the world was too busy or troubled to interfere. This proved to us that neither the League nor the Kellogg Pact was strong enough, mostly because those behind it—Canada as well—did not care to take the matter seriously. As a nation Japan is not more militaristic than the British Empire; under the pressure of economic conditions it has used the same methods that France, England or Italy have used in the past.

GERMAN STUDENTS PLAY "WAR GAMES"

ciples are military preparation and hope of expansion eastward.

Hitler's platform has been a gospel of force, not of peaceful achievement. It has unified European opinion against German equality of armaments. Even the London Times claims that the reign of Hitler is a diluted St. Bar. tholomew's Eve. All international organisations have been confiscated; German Masons, Rotarians and Boy Scouts no longer exist. The youth of the country is being trained to believe in the glory of war.

One of the characteristics of the Nazi regime is a fanatical insistence on racial purity. A desire for a purely Aryan race obsesses Hitler. The Nazi paper in Berlin calls Jews swindlers and claims that Jewish propaganda is responsible for the outcome of the World War and finally calls Jews and Marxism the greatest enemies of Germany. Jews are being persecuted by all classes and being excluded from many walks of life. Yet of the forty Nobel Prize winners in Germany, twelve are of Jewish extraction.

This same policy of hate and terror, ordered by Hitler and executed by the barbarous Storm Troops, has created great changes in a short time. It has substituted the soldier type for the German citizen. Systematic beatings of both men and women have extracted any promise from radicals that the Nazi government desires. There is, said Prof. Soward, an average of 20,000 men in concentration camps, put there without legal warrant, drilled and underfed, because they do not agree with Hitler.

Foreign press agents, in danger of their lives for exporting information, have reported these facts and yet the German electors returned Hitler with a large majority. Prof. Soward explained how Hitler's conquest has been one of propaganda and arousing of mass emotion so that the Germans believe their country to have been humiliated by outside nations and betrayed by Jews and Communists. Then Hitler came, as other dictators have come, to a desperate country.

In concluding his address, the speaker expressed the hope that Hitler the propagandist and orator, would acquire the art of true statesmanship and become more conservative.

Hart House Theatre

Last night at the production of the Canadian Playwrights, the search once more was resumed for the foundations of a Canadian theatre which in this reviewer's opinion seems as elusive as ever.

The first play, His Man, by Leonora McNeilly, had to be sure a Canadian setting, in that it took place in a French Canadian settlement, but it is surely time that would-be playwrights stop regarding the backwoods as the essence of Canadian life. There is surely room for some play in a bourgeois setting—even the Abbey Theatre does not confine itself to the mystic or the low comedy—witness the plays of Lennox Robinson.

Apart from the lack of originality in setting the play itself was faulty in construction, the catastrophe being wholly unintelligible and the comic far exceeding the tragic elements.

The second play, Jolly Good Fellows, was what the announcer was pleased to describe rather loosely as a farce; this reviewer has seldom seen anything more stilted. The playwright has attempted the very difficult task of writing propaganda in the form of comedy, a job which has only been done really well by Mr. Shaw. On the whole this play is best suited to Sunday School groups rather than to an adult audience. It was rather painful to see actors of such distinction as Mr. Grier and Mr. Peddie and of such charm as Miss Clarkson and Mr. Marshall floundering through a piece which offered practically no scope for interpretative acting—the other juvenile seemed to be hiding his emotions behind an insurmountable front, at least that would be the most charitable explanation of an utterly expressionless performance.

The final play of the evening, The Joker, offered sufficient entertainment to make up for anything that the others lacked. While this play was somewhat reminiscent of Tomken's Corners, nevertheless the characteristics both written and acted were crisp and incisive. Here was a play especially fitted for amateurs, one that required merely enthusiasm and a fund of good humour to offer a really entertaining performance. Though the play was slight it was good theatre and both Dora Smith, Conventor, and the players are to be commended, especially Mr. George Frost in the title role.

Several other excellent bits might have been mentioned had there been a programme; any omissions or mistakes must be excused on this account.

EARLY DEMAND FOR FEES JUSTIFIED, SAYS FENNEL

delayed payment of fees, but it simply does not obtain sufficient grant from the Government to enable it to give free instruction."

"Do you think that those students who can earn enough money by working during the Christmas vacation, ought to be given the opportunity of paying their fees after the holidays?" asked The Varsity.

"I have little doubt that if a student comes prepared to pay the required fees after the vacation he will be reinstated," answered Mr. Fennell. However it is possible that he would have to make a petition to the Board of Governors, who alone have the power to restore to him the privileges of the University, The Varsity learned.

Mr. Fennell declared he did not see why a student could not make a satisfactory arrangement with the bursar to pay regular instalments of a specified amount towards his fees.

A fairly large number had been sent the letter subjected to criticism Mr. Fennell admitted, but many of them were students delinquent only in the smaller fees which apparently had been overlooked. No information could be given about the five dollar registration fee which so far has not been collected from the student body. The Board of Governors has as yet given no definite instructions in regard to it.

Petition to be Circulated on Campus to be Presented Thursday

Under the auspices of the Student League of the University of Toronto a "mass" meeting, at which some twenty-five persons were present, was held at the Women's Union on Friday afternoon to protest against the new ruling concerning the payment of fees. The chairman, Mr. M. Wayman, suggested that the small turnout was due to the editorial in Friday's Varsity, which had probably turned the tide of student opinion against the meeting. He also stated that the purpose of the meeting was not to abolish the ruling but to form some sort of effective compromise.

Mr. Bert Gold, speaking as representative of the Student League, said that "to a poorer student, this new ruling that the entire fees for the first term, including all the small fees, must be paid by December the twenty-first, means that he must give up his course. Many students count on money earned during the Christmas holidays to make up the full amount of their fees. There (Continued on Page 4)

MANY ATTEND GROUP

"The Irish question is coming to a focus, and Ireland is about to decide whether she will stay in the British Empire or not," stated Mr. Earl Lautenslager, speaking to the Current Events Group in Wynmwood yesterday afternoon. He went on to say that the apparent readiness of England to give Ireland up may change the Irish opinion.

"We have not the sense of restraint in anything that there is in the older countries," said Mr. Lautenslager, referring to the scenes reported to have taken place in the United States on the return of liquor. In connection with the liquor question he spoke of indications of the new economic policy in the manner in which the United States is keeping the balance by the (Continued on Page 4)

ACTIVE IN STUDENT LIFE

Skilling is Talented Musician, Political Organiser and Social Leader

Climaxing a brilliant career at the University, after an equally outstanding achievement at Harbord Collegiate, Mr. H. Gordon Skilling, president of the University College Lit. and first class honour student in Political Science and Economics, has, with Mr. John Russell Baldwin, graduate of McMaster University, been nominated as Rhodes Scholar for 1934 by the Committee of Selection for Ontario. Mr. Skilling has taken a prominent part in campus activities and has distinguished himself not alone by his brilliant academic record, but by his able display of those qualities of leadership with which the Rhodes Scholars are required to be endowed.

Comparable to his achievement in the academic field is his excellent record as a student of music, having received his A.T.C.M. degree in piano. For many years he was actively identified with The Varsity, passing from the position of News Editor last year to an Associate Editorship. He has been active in debating circles and has spoken on numerous occasions in Hart House and in U.C. He is the acknowledged leader of the organized socialist group on the campus and has actively identified himself with liberal movements during his academic career. The Rhodes Scholarship is considered the highest achievement open to an undergraduate and his selection has met with loud applause as a fitting recognition of his brilliant and colourful career.

"The only salvation for civilisation lies in the moral power behind the united Anglo-Saxon peoples, Great Britain and the United States," stated Mr. R. D. Blumenfeld, the "Dean of Fleet Street", and retired editor-in-chief of the London Daily Express, to the Pleiades Club at Eaton's Auditorium Saturday evening. "Without the use of guns or ships they could say 'Stop this nonsense' to Germany with immediate results."

The Jews in Germany are doomed, Mr. Blumenfeld went on to say. Herr Hitler, who has no personality off the platform, dings into his audience of sixty-five million people by meeting and by radio, the doctrine that only by the sword can Germany recover her honour. In his book, "My Struggle" which was expurgated in the United States, he reveals in such phrases as "by the might of the victorious sword" and the prayer of German youth "Lord, bless our battle!" "There is possible no more peaceful outcome in Europe than for four wildcats in a box," Mr. Blumenfeld stated, pointing out the warlike attitude of France, Switzerland, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Russia—the new, dear friend of the United States, whom they are supplying with (Continued on Page 4)

IN CONVOCATION HALL

"The essential characteristics of the research chemist is faith," said Dr. Harold Hibbert, of the Department of Chemistry, McGill University, in the concluding remarks of his entertaining lecture in Convocation Hall, Saturday night. Dr. Hibbert's subject was "Cellulose—its Scientific and Industrial Significance", and in the course of its exposition he demonstrated many times the amazing results which are likely to reward such faith.

In reviewing the advances made by the scientist as to the knowledge of the chemical structure of cellulose, Dr. Hibbert pointed out that largely through the work of a German scientist and with the aid of the X-Ray it has been established during the last six years that cellulose consists of approximately 200 dehydrated sugar molecules in a long chain held together by molecules of oxygen. "The importance of this discovery is evident," he explained, "when you realise that the production of poor paper and poor silk depends upon the length of the chain." In the course of an incidental experiment, Dr. Hibbert and his colleagues (Continued on Page 4)

This year for the first time, the women students in first year physical training are being given tests for tuberculosis. Although great reluctance was shown to discuss the matter with The Varsity, a little information was secured in the Hygiene Building from a doctor who preferred to remain unknown.

It is not through any great alarm in regard to tuberculosis that these tests are being carried out, but only to go a step further in determining the level of student health in the University. These tests are compulsory for the students, not voluntary, and are being given as a part of the physical training course laid down by the caput. ### DEBATE SUPPORTS CANADIAN NAVY

Trinity Lit. Votes that Navy

MOTION VOTED DOWN 14-13

"An examination of the Canadian naval estimates reveals the fact that this country possesses four destroyers and three mine sweepers," said Sam Hughes at a meeting of the Trinity Lit last night on the motion "That in the opinion of this House the Canadian navy is a menace to world peace" which was narrowly defeated, 14-13. "Ships with such names as Festubert, Armentieres and Ypres, are bound to revive memories of the last world struggle, while the formidable array of dockyards, parade grounds, and electrical contrivances at the disposal of this armed force, show that Canada, as yet, does not seriously support any movement towards world peace."

"Canada, like the other Dominions, must pay something towards the cost of naval upkeep," said W. D. Roberts, leading for the opposition. He related how at the time of the purchase of the last destroyer by the Canadian government, there had been only two dissentient voices, J. S. Woodsworth and Aggie McPhail, the latter brightening the proceeding by singing "Abide with Me".

George Johnson quoted the destruction of a Nova Scotia hen house during target practice as an example of the menace of the navy, while the presence, recently, of two Canadian de- (Continued on Page 4)

Professor Plumtre Describes

Across Country

REGIONALITY IS FEATURE

Outlining in some detail the experiences of the Banking Commission which investigated Canadian banking conditions last summer and with which he served as under-secretary, Professor A. F. W. Plumtre, in an informal address delivered last night at a meeting of the Commerce Club, recounted some of the difficulties which the Commission encountered in collecting the evidence it required. Among the interesting things which he observed, Professor Plumtre laid particular emphasis upon the differences which were evident between the types of people in the West and in the East who gave evidence and also the differences in the kind of evidence given in these two sections of the country.

Beginning with a brief sketch of the members of the Commission, the speaker proceeded to narrate the most interesting events of the tour which the Commission made across Canada. Starting from Ottawa, after obtaining some preliminary banking information, the Commission proceeded first to Victoria, B.C. where it took its first evidence. Moving then to Vancouver and afterwards travelling eastward, stopping at most of the larger towns (Continued on Page 2)

PLAY HERE AT WEEK-END

Spurts of Speed Provide Lots of Excitement in Montreal Game

By B. J. McGuire

A last minute rally plus a Varsity penalty enabled the McGill water polo team to thresh through the Columbus tank to a 7-5 win over Varsity in Montreal in the first game of the two game series for the intercollegiate water polo title. The capacity house which watched the game was kept in a frenzy of excitement as the teams battled for the goals which will be so precious before the series ends. Trailing 4-1 at half time the hard fighting Blue team came right back and fought their way to a 5-1 tie with one minute to go. A penalty to Hardy at this stage gave the McGill team an advantage and they capitalised on it for two goals. The Varsity team will play the second game in defense of their title here this week-end.

Anything but outplayed the Blue team looked just as good if not better than their conquerors. In the first half of the game both teams had thirteen shots on goal. However, the Montreal team were more accurate in their shooting than the Toronto squad. Time after time the ball went sailing just over the McGill net or hit the post when a scoring chance presented itself. Davey on the Varsity forward line was particularly unlucky in this respect. Of the thirteen shots that were fired at Wayland in the McGill nets in (Continued on Page 4)

SENIOR B TEAM BEAT CENTRAL 'Y'

Blue Basketeers Remain in Running for Y.M.C.A.
Title

SCORE IS 31-19

Outplaying their opponents from the opening toss-up by Alphon Phillips, Canada's Olympic driver, Varsity's Senior B team remained in the running for Y.M.C.A. basketball honors, when they defeated Central Y on the latter's home floor by a 31-19 score on Saturday night.

Displaying a complete reversal of form over their exhibition on Wednesday when they were badly trounced by West End, the Blue team were never behind or even threatened at any stage from the moment that Applebaum put them in the lead early in the game with a beautiful long shot. Playing a brand of basketball superior to their red-shirted rivals, Varsity took a commanding 21-3 lead at the half-way mark, holding Central to a basket and a foul shot in the twenty minutes. However, the score should have been much closer as Central were outkicked on quite a few occasions when shots from close in just missed tipping the twine by an eyelash. Applebaum was the spearhead of the Varsity attack in this half, scoring eight of their points, while Mitchell and Stronach looked good on the defensive.

Play continued at a fast clip in the second half and with both teams firing rapidly, some ragged basketball was produced. Varsity continued where they left off in the first half, Normie Newman, ace of last year's junior Blue team, running wild to score nine of the ten points garnered by his team in the last half. The Y team were coming strongly towards the end of (Continued on Page 4)

VARSITY SKATERS AGAIN DEFEATED

Hamilton Bengals Win Easily from Jinxed Varsity Pucksters

SPEEDY GAME ENDS 6-2

By George C. Vair

Although displaying the same high class brand of hockey as on Wednesday last the Varsity puck-chasers at the "T" Arena Saturday night were forced to absorb a 6-2 setback at the hands of the speedy Hamilton club. The students turned in a sterling effort but were forced to bow to the superior passing attack of the Bengals.

For the first fifteen minutes play was fast, with both teams maintaining a mile-a-minute clip. Williamson was fenced for tripping and Shipp put in a hot two minutes, robbing Farrell and Bennett of sure goals in quick succession. However, the determined Hamilton attack was not to be denied and they were finally rewarded when Radke went down the left boards, drew the defence, and slipped a pass to Cain who drilled it into the lower right hand corner for the opening counter after sixteen minutes of play. This disorganised the Varsity defence and Cain wiggled through alone to beat Shipp from close in. With seconds to go a Bennett to Blake combination made it 3-0 for the visitors. The Blues looked decidedly weak on the last two goals.

With the opening of the second period Varsity pressed hard and after a minute of play notched their first goal when McPherson, whose spark- (Continued on Page 3)

Playoffs

DEFEAT BUSHMEN 11-6

In the lower gym, Hart House, on Saturday morning, the Vic lacrosse entry clinched its right to continue in the playdowns for the interfaculty title by taking the Forestry team into camp by a score of 11-6. This gives the Scarlet and Gold team a half-game lead over the S.P.S. team for the title. The game was fast throughout, but it was necessary for Referee Kerr to hand out only one penalty near the end of the game.

Forestry drew first blood in the encounter when Haggie took a nice pass to give English little chance to save. The lead, however, was short-lived, for first Clipperton and then Young scored for Vic, establishing a lead which they did not lose till near the (Continued on Page 3)

THE SUNDAY EVENING CONCERTS

The Sunday Evening Concerts in the Great Hall of Hart House have always attracted a large and appreciative audience of undergraduates, who evidently enjoy these opportunities for musical education and entertainment. The two piano recital last evening was typical of the excellent programmes which have been provided by the Music Committee, and was just another indication that the Committee is doing its part in keeping the programmes up to the usual high standard.

With the spell of the concert still upon us, we wish to express a word of appreciation to the members of the Music Committee for their contribution to the cultural life of the campus. Those undergraduates who are regular attendants at the Concerts will no doubt agree that the Committee merits this brief tribute.

THE CHRISTMAS LITERARY ISSUE

To date there has been a lamentable lack of interest in the Christmas Literary Issue, which for some years past has been a special feature of The Varsity. The deadline for contributions has been set for two o'clock today, in order to allow the judges sufficient time to do their work.

The editorial staff hesitate about taking such a drastic step as abolishing what has proven to be a most interesting issue of The Varsity in the past, and we feel that the majority of our readers would not want such a step to be taken. However, if sufficient material is not turned into the S.A.C. office by 2 p.m. today, it will be impossible to publish the annual Literary Issue.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Undergraduates of the University will be pleased to learn that Mr. H. Gordon Skilling of University College has been nominated for a Rhodes Scholarship by the Committee of Selection for Ontario.

Mr. Skilling is not only a brilliant scholar, but he has shown himself to be proficient in athletics and executive work as well. The Varsity has enjoyed his services as news and associate editor, for this reason the staff of this newspaper extend to him our heartiest congratulations on the honour which he has won for himself and the University of Toronto.

CLUB DISCUSSES

BANKING ENQUIRY

and critics, the members listened to evidence from whoever thought he had some criticism to offer. The Commission held sittings every day and travelled every night.

The type of evidence heard, Prof. Plumtree described as extraordinarily restrained. People in the West appreciated that the commercial banks could not lend money on poor security, and there was little unreasoning criticism of the banks. But they had two complaints to make: they complained that loans had been urged upon them by the banks when "times" were good; they also declared themselves in favour of nationalisation of the banks in view of the fact that the main source of annoyance to the Western farmers was found to be the petty charges made by the banks; notes had to be renewed every three months despite the fact that the banks knew that the farmers could not repay their notes within less than six months. The interest on these notes was compounded and the attitude of the Commission was that since this compounding meant only a few cents a year profit, the policy should be dispensed with because of the bad feeling it was creating among the farmers. Much of the opinion in the West was favourable to a central bank.

After leaving Winnipeg, the Commission travelled to Halifax and there a distinct difference in opinion was noticed. People opposed a central bank simply because the West favoured it. "I had never realised the inter-regional suspicion which exists in Canada until I made this trip," Professor Plumtree declared. He pointed out that the people in the Maritimes thought the West was favoured far too much in the granting of loans, etc. Quebec, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa were the final stopping points and the investigation was concluded with the obtaining of the bankers' evidence, which was the most important of all.

One of the important questions raised during the discussion which followed the speaker's address, related to the absence of a money market in Canada. Professor Plumtree replied that a money market is not entirely absent in Canada but that a real money market cannot develop here without a central banking institution. Bill-brokers would frequently be bankrupted unless they had a central bank to go to for funds if necessary.

Hart House String Quartet

PROGRAMME

Sextet in B Flat Major, Opus 18 ..... Brahms Quartet in B Flat Major ..... Mozart
(The Hunting Quartet)
Quartet in D Minor, Opus Posth ..... Schubert

It seems inevitable that whenever two critics review the same programme more or less wordy differences of opinion should ensue. Having discussed the Friday and Saturday evening recitals of the Hart House String Quartet with N.F.L. (whose criticism of the latter follows mine of the former) I find that events are following their usual course.

N.F.L., of course, has the inestimable advantage that he knows quite a lot about music, while I have only opinions as to what I like or dislike. Concerning the Brahms Sextet, for instance, I can only say that I didn't understand it. Like a few others, I fear I am prejudiced against Brahms, but I think this composition in particular exemplifies the muddiness and lack of general coherence which so often make his works difficult to appreciate.

Perhaps it is because it followed in direct contrast to the Brahms number that I found the Mozart Quartet so much more enjoyable than the Schubert, but I think that by any standard, except perhaps that of intention it may be judged the better. My impression of Schubert has always been that he would have been a greater composer had he drunk more champagne (or even whiskey) and less beer. His intentions are always of the best, but somehow in fulfilment they are lacking in sustained strength. Admittedly the Quartet in D Minor is less open to this charge than most of his works, and the Quartet on Friday night put as much strength and fire into their interpretation as they possibly could, but still, following the Mozart Hunting Quartet, the deficiencies were very clear.

The latter, though by no means one of Mozart's greatest works, was thoroughly enjoyable. There is a clarity and perfection of style in it which Schubert could never achieve. And in their reading of this number Friday night the Quartet gave it in addition a depth of feeling which convinced one hearer, at least, that we could do with a great deal more Mozart on their programmes. C.L.C.

Another writer in these columns last year suggested that Brahms, notwithstanding Schubert, was the greatest melodist of the nineteenth century. The more I hear of Brahms, the more I believe in the truth of this statement. Brahms has written works of much more importance than the Sextet in B Flat, played by the Hart House Quartet on Saturday night. That goes without saying: but the composition does illustrate very well the master's truly remarkable powers of melody. It is an early work, not, most critics maintain, representing the mature Brahms style. But perhaps the very youthfulness of the composer helped give it its warm, flowing beauty, especially marked in the lovely first movement.

The Schubert posthumous Quartet in D Minor, known as the "Death and the maiden" Quartet because the theme of the second movement is that of an earlier composition by that name, was, of course, the greatest work of the programme. Schubert quartets tend to be somewhat diffusive, but with the possible exception of the last movement, this work does not possess that limitation. The first movement is of very great beauty, and seems to me extremely well conceived. The mood is serious throughout, and the total effect is very strong indeed.

The playing of the Quartet on Saturday night was sometimes rough. But it is idle to cavil over anything the Hart House Quartet may do—an ensemble with an inimitable and generally perfect style. N.F.L.

Loew's—

Judging from the remnants which the Censorship Board has seen fit to allow the public to view, Blood Money was merely another underworld picture dealing with a racket which had not previously been "exposed" on the screen. It is good entertainment because of the acting of George Bancroft, which is slightly marred because the censors blotted out his voice on several occasions. As a kleptomaniac, Frances Dee is very alluring, and it is to the credit of the directors that they didn't weaken and make her love affairs turn out happily. She is represented as a double-crossing little cheat, who is thrilled by crime, and acts her part perfectly, but unfortunately she can't convince the audience of her thorough despicability. Judith Anderson, a recent convert from the stage, does some good acting as the underworld partner of the racketeer.

It is rather unfortunate that Hollywood has taken to excusing their too frequent underworld films by calling them "startling exposures" of the rackets which they portray. Blood Money which is supposed to expose the bail-bond racket, merely shows a man running a bail-bond business, and apparently prospering at it. As far as exposure is concerned, the bondsman is glorified as quite a kind-hearted fellow, far from the cruel, ruthless villain of the advance notices.

VIC & ST. HILDA'S IN WOMEN'S CAGE FINAL TUESDAY

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By J. B. A.

There was a large turnout at the first practice of the intercollegiate hockey team on Friday. Although Margot Thompson, Dot Starr and Janet Gow, three of last year's regulars, are not back this year, Coach Jimmie MacPherson should be able to round out a good team. Of last year's intercollegiate champions, Dama Lumley, Billie Fowler, Marg Rous, Pat Thompson, Eleanor Sanson and Jean Atkinson were among the enthusiastic players out Friday.

Amongst the newcomers who have answered "puck's call" are many promising players and the prospects for a good hockey season seem bright. If the enthusiasm shown by the players who attended the practice spreads to those who confine their activities to interfaculty sports, the interfaculty schedule should provide some interesting games. Victoria, St. Hilda's, U.C., and the combined Meds-S.P.S. team have signified their intention of competing and St. Mike's are possible contenders.

Nothing definite can be said regarding the interfaculty schedule until the arrangements are made concerning practice hours. A new difficulty arises with the decision to have only a few outdoor cushions, and these at Victoria.

The intercollegiate team, besides playing a home and home series with Queen's for the intercollegiate championship, will doubtless play exhibition games, and in the proposed city league.

For those who are planning to turn out for hockey, there are to be practices this week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday and one on Friday definitely. They start at 1.15 sharp. Watch the Sport Notices for further details.

JUNIOR QUINTET LOSE CLOSE GAME

Broadview 'Y' Scores Victory Over Varsity Juniors in Fast Battle

FINAL SCORE 31-21

On Saturday night at Broadview Y gym a game Varsity squad dropped a hard junior tilt to the Broadview quintet 21-31. The game was fast throughout and both teams applied themselves earnestly to the following of Coach McCutcheon's basketball principles.

Since the introduction of the ten-second rule into junior basketball the game has been speeded up a great deal as were the senior battles, and Saturday night's game was no exception. Broadview presented a tight defence that kept the Blue team out from under the basket. At the same time they used a cross-passing system of offence that took them in to the basket several times where they lost out by sloppy shooting. Varsity, on the other hand, made sure of such shots as they took at the basket and were much more accurate. For this reason the score was almost even at half time, standing at 13-12 for Broadview. In this period the Varsity passing and ball-handling were ragged but they made up for this by their activity and keenness in going after the ball.

At the beginning of the second half Varsity forced the play and drew into the lead with some lightning fast plays that ended in scores. As in the other period they made all their shots close while Broadview were uncertain in their shooting, particularly on free throws. Scoring one of these, their first count of the period, they took heart. Running a series of close combination plays that took them right under the basket they jumped again

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Although the Varsity senior water poloists suffered a 7-5 defeat in Montreal Saturday night they are not out of the battle for the title yet. Last year the same thing happened in Montreal and they came back in the return match here to win despite the lead the Redmen had. The class that they show in their own tank is sufficient cause for the maintenance of hope. At present McGill and Varsity are tied in the race for senior titles with four apiece. The water polo crown will break the tie before the fall term is over and then after Christmas the race for the remaining four titles will be resumed in earnest.

The Blue and White puckchasers went down to a rather decisive defeat Saturday night on their home ice when the Hamilton Tigers added another two points to their credit. The efforts of Blake and Bennett for the visitors savoured of real hockey—the kind you don't see so often in these parts now. Whenever the Tigers were a man short they came on and the loss of a man on the bench was not felt so badly as might be expected. For the students McPherson was the standout. He was in there trying hard all the time and his effectiveness could not escape attention. McClelland was also good but not as much so as in the previous two games. He got up out of bed with a cold to don his uniform. The power plays and the short accurate passing of the visitors, the weak defensive playing and the lack of a determined full front attack for the losers, were the features of the win for Hamilton.

Next Saturday night will see the big hockey fixture for Varsity of the current season. Yale's sextet will play McGill in Montreal on Friday and then Varsity here the next evening. As another column has said, this game will draw like a mustard plaster. Ross Workman is expecting a large crowd because at last Toronto will have an opportunity of seeing an American college team in action. Yale always ranks with the best amateur outfits across the line, along with Princeton and Harvard. It should be a great game with Varsity playing more or less in their own class of competition. It is rather depressing to have to play against the cream of amateur players who are hand-picked from year to year. None of these same players ever think of coming to college and they can hardly be blamed for that when they can get employment with their hockey ability.

This week will see the end of the volleyball and lacrosse playoffs for this season in interfaculty competition. Vic tied S.P.S. in lacrosse Friday but won their group by virtue of a win over Forestry Saturday on an 11 to 6 score. Vic and Knox play a two-game series today and tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Big Gym with goals to count for the semi-finals. The winner will play Trinity following that in the finals. Victoria won the title in 1931 and O.C.E. took it last year.

VICTORIA TIES S.P.S. IN LACROSSE GAME

Wide Open Game Ends in 6-All Deadlock as Teams Battle for Decision

BOTH TEAMS IN PLAYOFF

Victoria and Senior S.P.S. battled desperately to a 6-6 tie in a group semi-final game of the box lacrosse series played in the big gym, Hart House, on Friday afternoon. The tie made it necessary for the Scarlet and Gold to play another game before deciding group honours.

Neither team played especially brilliant lacrosse although the play was wildly exciting. Victoria was leading 5-2 at half time but the Schoolmen came right back with a rush to see both teams enter the last period with the score at 5-5. A win for the Victoria team would make them eligible for the playoffs while the Engineers had still a chance for the same if they won.

The S.P.S. men played a close checking game all the way through while into the lead. From here they dominated the play and did not again drop behind. They substituted frequently and changed their positions each time so that the Varsity men were hard put to it to find their proper checks before play was resumed. In this way the Y men drew farther ahead and with five minutes to go led 27-17. Varsity then fathomed the switches and penned the play in Broadview territory but the spurt was not quite good enough and to make things sure Moore, of Broadview, dropped in two long shots in the last minute of play.

Broadview — Centre, Bredin; forwards, Carter, Martin; defence, Kornbloom, Moore; subs, Andrews, Bach, Chessum, Samme, Manson.

Varsity — Centre, Harlock; forwards, Miller, Kinsey; defence, Krikauer, Mullen; subs, Toole, Gladish, Straughton, Zarsky and Doan.

Referee — Gordon.

Victoria in their hunt for goals used a more open brand of play; their men in their rushes at times were checked up by the opposing guards and several penalties were hotly contested.

Victoria — English, Dyke, Clarke, Young, Clipperton, Brydon, Bryers, King.

Senior S.P.S. — Kennedy, Webber, Caldwell, Knapp, Bell, Lilley, Sommerville, MacMillan, Walters, Birss.

VARSAITY SKATERS AGAIN DEFEATED

ing back checking featured the game, snared the puck from Howard and circled the defence to slip the disc past Marsh. Fitzgerald was chased for a high stick and two seconds later Campbell joined him in the cooler. With the clock at eight minutes McPherson centred nicely to McClelland, who, parked on Hawse Marsh's doorstep, slapped home Varsity's second goal. Play was slowed up considerably when each team incurred two penalties. While the Blues two men short Blake and Cain missed splendid chance by erratic shooting and the period ended with Stevens' men trailing 3-2.

After two minutes of the last session Conick caught the Blue team flat-footed to boost the Tiger tally to four. Play ranged fairly even until Radke sifted through the whole team and passed to Blake, who made no mistake in scoring the prettiest goal of the night. With three minutes to play Stevens sent out four forwards, but the students got a tough break when Cunningham took a two-minute rest for a high stick. With Shipp out of the nets, after stopping sensational drives by Conick and Bennett, Rey saved a sure goal by blocking Bennett's rebound directly in front of the goal mouth. Catching the Varsity team in Hamilton territory Conick and Bennett broke fast to conclude the scoring. Shipp had no chance on the shot.

Both teams were considerably weakened, the Yellow and Black by the absence of McGowan, star centre man, and Varsity by the fact that the diminutive Normie McClelland, although playing, was suffering from a severe cold. Marsh, Bennett and Cain were outstanding for the winners with McPherson, Shipp and Rey deserving star rating for the homesters.

Hamilton — Goal, Marsh; defence, Farrell, Howard; centre, Conick; wings, Bennett, Blake; alternates, Cain, Radke, Bellingham, Fitzgerald.

Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, Campbell, Rey; centre, McClelland; wings, McPherson, Hendry; alternates, Cunningham, Williamson, Sweeney, McConvey.

Shots on goal: First period, Varsity 10, Hamilton 11; second period, Varsity 13, Hamilton 12; third period, Varsity 8, Hamilton 11.

Referee — Johnny Jones.

the game and with Reeves, Olsen and Haberin showing some good form around the Varsity hoops brought the score up from 31-10 to 31-19 in the last few minutes to give their supporters a chance of exercising their lungs.

The game was comparatively clean, Varsity scoring seven of the twelve foul shots handed to them by Referee Tom Pogue, and Central three out of eleven. For Varsity Newman, Applebaum, Stronach and Mitchell showed clever ball handling and shooting ability, while Vanderlick was a tower of strength at centre, using his height to good advantage. Reeves and Olsen were the pick of the losing team, with Haberin, White and Wagnan also being effective.

Varsity — Newman 11, Applebaum 8, Vanderlick 2, Mitchell 4, Stronach 5, Magwood 1, Ronson, Henderson, Central Y — Wagnan 1, White 3, Olsen 4, Haberin 4, Blues, Oggie, Shiels, Reeves 7, Melville, Kates.

MCGILL WINS FIRST OF WATER POLO GAMES

the first half, six came from him and his shots were just as numerous in the last half and yet he only counted one of Varsity's five goals.

Led by their captain and speedy forward, Phil French, the Montreal team took a one goal lead in the first quarter and extended it to four in the second before Davey was able to notch the Blue team's opening counter. In the opening minutes of the second half Truman bagged a fifth goal for the McGill team. From then on it was all Varsity. Winice McCatty put the Blues back in the race with two goals within a minute of each other. Two more counters by Bancroft tied the score 5-5 with but one minute left to play. Here Hardy was penalised and Stein was given a free shot. The ball was partially blocked but floated by McLeod to put the Red team one up. In their efforts to tie the score the Varsity team left Truman uncovered and he picked the corner of the net to conclude the scoring and give McGill a two goal advantage on the round.

An interesting feature of the match was the swimming duel waged by Winice McCatty and the McGill centre each time the ball was centred off. The Red team alternated Stein and Bourne on each throw in and each time the race for the ball was close and provided plenty of excitement. In the first half Winice won only three of the eight sprints but in the last half he broke even. Bancroft also turned in a real game, getting two goals and an assist. Davey was always a threat to the McGill team but Freeman, who played opposite him stuck tight to him all night, with the result that he had to hurry his shots away, which explains his missing the net so often. In the entire team there was not one weak spot but the powerful Red team, playing a close checking game, waited for the breaks and got them.

The fact that McGill scored two of their counters on free shots and another while a Varsity player was drying off for a penalty shows just how evenly matched were the teams. Another bright aspect of the game was the fact that Wayland, the McGill goalie, worked considerably better in the shallow end of the pool than in the deep end. As there is no shallow end to the Varsity tank the home team will go into the final game under conditions which make the McGill lead look small.

McGill — Goal, Wayland; defence, Skinner, Shragowitz; forwards, Freeman, Stein, Shapiro, French; subs, Bourne, McLean.

Varsity — Goal, McLeod; defence, Smith, Middleboro; forwards, Learie, McCatty, Davey, Bancroft; subs, Rogers, Hardy.

Referee — Rev. P. Mathans.

produced potato plants which bore ordinary potatoes on one side of the plant and on the other side, starch-free potatoes; and Dr. Hibbert suggested the possibility of these results leading to a new development in agriculture in the interests of diabetics.

"Carefully prepared wood-pulp produced cellulose which is just as pure as that found in cotton, and at the same time provides a cheaper source of supply—hence its industrial importance in Canada, in spite of the fact that Canada's forests have been so sadly depleted," continued the speaker. Cellulose was first used during the war as a covering for the wings of aeroplanes. Today Canada has practically a monopoly in the manufacture of rayon. Wood-pulp is responsible for every grade of paper from fine tissues to newsprint, for cellophane and rayon stockings. With the help of a large display of articles ranging from insulates to sausage-casings, and including among other objects a sample of the artificial leather covering of the latest edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Dr. Hibbert made it increasingly evident that cellulose can apparently provide man with all the necessities of life except food.

At the beginning of the second period, Clipperton scored on a long pass, only to have Crossley tie things up again at 3-3. Victoria then put on the pressure and ran in four goals, the last one being a lone rush by Dyke the length of the floor. This made the score at the half 7-3.

In the third frame the Forestry team matched their opponents goal for goal, each getting two, to make the score 9-5. In the last session, Forestry scored once and Vic twice.

Collegiate Institute prior to entering the University and at the matriculation examinations was awarded the First Edward Blake-Scholarship in Classics, the James Harris Scholarship in Classics, the George R. R. Cockburn Scholarship in Greek and the Carter Scholarship for General Proficiency. All through his course at the University, Mr. Skilling has obtained first class honours, and has been awarded numerous scholarships. Mr. Skilling's leadership is not confined to the intellect alone, he has always been an outstanding and popular figure in student life, both social and athletic, having taken a vital interest in the undergraduate activities of the University since his freshman year. Besides being president of the University College Literary and Athletic Society, vice-president of the Students' Administrative Council, on the executives of the Historical Club and the Foreign Affairs Club, and a member of several other organisations, Mr. Skilling was mainly instrumental in the creation of a C.C. F. party on the campus.

Mr. Baldwin graduated last year from McMaster University with honours in English and History. He has a fine academic record. In his third year he was awarded the Governor-General's medal for the highest rank in scholarship, in personal character and influence and in qualities of leadership. He was also the winner of the McGregor-Smith-Burr prize and the Gilmour-McSmith prize. He was recently awarded the War Memorial Fellowship of the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto and is at present pursuing graduate work in History at Toronto. Besides being a

THE STUDENT LEAGUE HOLOS PROTEST MEETING

are hundreds of students affected, but for the most part few take any action about it, adopting an apathetic attitude of "what can we do anyhow?" Mass protests have been effective in universities in Europe, the United States and Cuba, but they never accomplish anything unless, as the Student League desires in the present case, they have the whole-hearted support of the entire student body.

After explaining how greatly the fees have been increased during the last three years, and saying that he saw no reason why fees should be paid before the end of the present term this year, since although a ruling to this effect has formerly existed, it has never been strictly enforced, Mr. Gold declared that the new ruling is a "challenge to all".

The meeting was then thrown open to a general discussion, for the purpose of forming some plan of procedure. A petition, which had been drawn up, was discussed by the meeting and the wording of it somewhat modified, after much argument. It was decided to circulate this petition. The suggestion that an actions committee be elected was approved. The work of this committee was determined to be the direction of the circulation of the petition, the interviewing of leaders of important student organisations, with a view to gaining their support, and the control of all future activity connected with the protest.

After some delay, part of which was due to an attempt to elect The Varsity reporter to said committee, a committee of four was elected.

It was further decided that all petitions must be signed by twelve o'clock on Thursday. There will be a Student League representative in front of Simcoe Hall, at that hour, to receive the petitions.

Sonata for two pianos by Brahms. This Brahms is not an extraordinarily interesting work, but it is one of considerable power. But the performance cannot easily be over-praised. Mr. Malcolm and Mr. Godden played with the greatest incisiveness and clarity—with all the brilliance for which they are justly famous. The slow movement was rendered with much subtlety; the tone climaxes, particularly in the first and last movements, were full and strong. With this kind of work these pianists will not have much difficulty retaining their reputation.

The modern group was of much slighter proportions, but satisfying, and, again, extremely well played. This team seems to make nothing of the difficulties involved in performing compositions like Henselt's If I were a Bird, or the rippling encore which was given. This sort of work, involving very delicate co-ordination, is always sure and perfectly balanced when done by Mr. Malcolm and Mr. Godden. And there is no doubt that the team not only possesses much deftness, but a real style. This, by the way, is high commendation, even for a single pianist, let alone for a pair. Quite a lot of two piano work is being done these days; but few piano teams ever attain a genuine and important character, over and above mere skill in playing corresponding notes at the same time.

This is the first of such tests that have been made in the University of Toronto, but similar ones have and are being given in other universities, Yale being mentioned particularly. There, however, the tests are given to both the men and the women, while at Toronto they are confined to the women taking physical training. The intention is to carry on these tests in succeeding years, it was learned.

The tests are not yet complete so that any discoveries that might prove to be startling have not been disclosed. The students concerned with these tests seem to consider it a very good idea, the majority being in favour and showing a fair amount of enthusiasm.

MUCH DISCUSSION CONCERNING FEES STILL RAMPANT

Unfair Discrimination Against the Poorer Students Alleged

PETITION AGAINST RULING

Prospect of Earning Money Slight in Christmas Holidays

There is a great deal of discussion going on among students regarding the payment of fees. Last Friday the Student League made plans for a petition protesting against the new ruling and yesterday forms made their appearance on the campus.

The Student League is protesting against an alleged discrimination against poorer students. They maintain that some students count on the money they earn during the Christmas holidays to cover the fees. But in the opinion of W. S. Rogers, I Political Science, the prospect of earning much money is very slight due to the few working days during the break and because of the scarcity of jobs. The lenient attitude of Mr. Fennell towards those who hope to pay with holiday earnings seems to belie any discrimination.

On the other hand the members of the League who are circulating the petition claim to have found enthusiastic support for their end. Their

Gordon Skilling Reticent
About Future Plans

H. Gordon Skilling, whose nomination from this university for a Rhodes Scholarship award was announced yesterday, is as yet undecided as to his definite plans for the future. Interviewed at a late hour last night he stated that he had not settled upon the college, or even the course, which he will enter when he takes up residence on the continent, and was somewhat inclined to be reticent as to his reactions to the good news. Using words of which, as our former associate editor, he well knew the significance, he said: "I am afraid I can't give you enough information for a story", but promised that when a decision was reached, which would be at about the end of the week, he would grant another interview and make known all his plans.

CANADIANS FORM OWN TRADITIONS

MR. LISMER LECTURES

"Water colour is a far more difficult medium in art than oils, for, aside from its being a revelation of the artist himself and his ideal in a picture, it implies a certain refinement and delicacy," stated Mr. Arthur Lismer, at the George last night. He went on to show that these elements are particularly evident in British water colours; artists of the old country feel a scene as something to cherish rather than a composition of line, balance, light and shade. Design has no part in this painting which embodies the infinite subtlety of English character and thought. "Nevertheless," Mr. Lismer continued, "there is a movement prevalent at the present time whose members are trying to prove that atmosphere and shadows are merely transient things which must necessarily give way to design, a feeling for space and understanding of volume."

"Canadians, on the other hand, are presented with a country which they do not yet fully comprehend, a country

Professors See No Wrong in Moderate Use of Split

PEOPLE CAN BE TOO FUSSY

Most of Expressions Cited

"People are altogether too fussy about split infinitives," Professor W. H. Clawson stated when asked his opinion regarding the statement of Professor C. C. Fries of the University of Michigan who "sees nothing wrong with split infinitives, or singular verbs with plural subjects". Professor Fries also gives academic approval to such expressions as: "It ain't being done", "I've got to go", "None of them are here", and "It is me". He also made the statement that "Usage is the basis of all correctness there can possibly be in language."

"Most of these expressions have been accepted by their usage in the works of the best authors but I would not accept 'It ain't being done,'" said Professor Clawson. He explained that Professor Fries was a very eminent student of languages and that such authorities are usually more tolerant of colloquial expressions because they have seen how often similar usages have been incorporated in the language in the past.

Sir Arthur Currie Outlines His Report

BLAZE FRESH TRAILS

Should Kindle Imagination and Awaken Power of Vision

In his last report to the Board of Governors of McGill University, which was completed by Sir Arthur Currie, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of that institution, a few days before he was overtaken by the illness which finally resulted in his death, Sir Arthur outlined the role of the modern university in modern times. The report was published only after approval had been obtained from the Governor-General of Canada in the capacity of Visitor to the University.

The role of the university "in the desperate battle of modern life" the report reads "is not that of a mere reservoir of knowledge, a storehouse of equipment, a base of supplies, but rather it must be the creator of forces for the moulding of human destinies by promotion of sane, enlightened thinking."

"Education merely as a decoration is despicable," Sir Arthur continues. "Education for utilitarian purposes has some justification. But education that kindles the imagination, awakens the power of vision, teaches man to create, to evolve new ideas, to blaze fresh trails—this is the very loftiest aim of a university and the most splendid support it can perform for the State."

Sir Arthur goes on to say that economic difficulties have not left McGill

NATIVITY PLAY PRESENTED

The presentation of an Irish Nativity play by Lady Gregory, added a unique touch to the Dean's Christmas Party, an annual event for U.C. women, which was held last night at the Union. The play was put on by the U.C. Alumnae Dramatic Association under the direction of Eleanor Barton Woodside, and was particularly good in its tableaux effects.

Two gaily decorated Christmas trees, garlands of green along the staircase and a streamer greeting "Merry Christmas" gave a proper festive air. The guests, among whom were grad-

ORATORS ADDRESS FORESTERS' CLUB

"The type of dog that seems to be most popular now, is the little fellow who comes around and sniffs your trousers," said Ernie Reeves, of the fourth year, speaking at a meeting of the Foresters' Club when representatives from all four years addressed the meeting.

Peter Morley, speaking for the second year, gave a description of the silvicultural systems in operation in Europe.

The different woods used in archery was the subject of the speech by A. W. Porter of the third year.

"The French taught at Toronto does not equip a man to bargain with a village of French lowbrows," said J. Yeomans of the first year.

Reduced Rates

The Railway Companies are issuing to students of the University round-trip tickets at the rate of a single fare and one-quarter. Students desiring to take advantage of this reduction are requested to leave their names with the Registrar of their College or the Secretary of their Faculty or Department on or before December 16th. The necessary certificates will be issued at the College, Faculty or Department Office at noon on December 21st.

NOVEL TYPE OF AMUSEMENT

Once again the David Dunlap observatory is to be the headquarters for the observation of a meteor display. In spite of the disappointing Leonid shower a few weeks ago, a party of students from the University are spending the night up there to view the Geminids. This is an annual shower of meteors coming from the constellation Gemini. The maximum will take place Tuesday night but observers will be out from 7.30 until 3.30 on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Opposition Claims Newspapers

That the Toronto daily press is a menace to the development of intelligent public opinion was the decision of the Victoria College Debating Parliament after a heated debate at the last session of the House for the fall term in Alumni Hall last evening. The vote taken indicated that 25 were for the motion and 18 against.

Dick Simpson led off for the government with a scathing denunciation of the practices of the downtown press. "Toronto is a strange city," he said, "perhaps the strangest city due to the idiotic public opinion of this city which is entirely due to the daily press."

R. C. Todd, speaking first for the opposition, claimed that it is in the masses of the people alone that intelligent

TEAM MUCH IMPROVED

Tonight the ex-Marlboro puck-chasers act as hosts to the U. of T. sextet at Maple Leaf Gardens. The last time the teams clashed Varsity finished on the short end of a 2-0 score, but on the play deserved a better fate and are out to prove themselves this evening.

Many opportunities have been lost in past games owing to lack of polish around the opponents' nets, and this was particularly noticeable in the last match against Torontos. However, this seems to have been attended to, as shown by the last three games, in which they have scored a total of 13 goals. The defence is clicking much better than before and with Shipp in goal and the forwards keeping up their terrific pace, Torontos are due for a

Christmas Holidays Not For Fun Lots of Study Must Be Done

Only twelve more school days until Christmas! Do your examination studying early. Don't wait until the last minute rush! But some are even doing it late. Kay Coleman (I Vic) expects to be one of the stray souls parked in Victoria library from nine to five-thirty every day during the Christmas week. And so, studying far, far into the holidays!

These serious people! Lynette Roddy (I B. and M.) is concentrating on "Holy Living and Dying" (Jeremy Taylor) with an occasional dip into St. Thomas Aquinas. She has been so busy reading books on Medicine and Biology that she hasn't had any time to do any really serious reading. And they say we come to Varsity for a good time!

Are we disappointed? That log we saw being carried into Burwash the other day wasn't a Yule log after all, only something the Champus Cat dragged in. Maybe that's where they get that Shredded Wheat for breakfast that we've been hearing so much about.

We still can't understand why so many people are going to froval—not froval—froval, this Christmas. (There is a distinction.) So few have really noble ideals. Nora Loeb declared that she was going in for "parties from six to twelve and then from twelve to six!" That's what we call not only burning the candle at both ends but cutting it in half and burning all four!

Flowers please! That big bad vaccination has the poor freshies at their wits' end. Dot Henderson (I Vic) is actually going to spend her holidays recuperating from its after effects. Dot, how could you?

In talking to St. Mike's famous Mae West impersonator last week, we found that he was expecting to do a lot of business during the holidays. Some girl is going to have a wide choice of gifts!

We wonder why everyone is so eager to get away from the campus this Christmas. We never leave it—not even for lectures. And we won-

MORE ABOUT FEES

A new angle to the question of students who foresee the necessity of dropping out of the University through inability to pay half their fees before returning next term is raised by a letter in today's Correspondence Column. The situation of this particular student is that while he is reasonably sure of being able to meet the full requirements by the date specified in former years, he is not at present in a position to make any payment. While this is the only case of that nature which has been brought to our attention, it may very well be that there are others who find themselves in much the same position.

During the past two or three years particularly many students have been able to meet their expenses only by dint of the most scrupulous economies on the part of their parents and themselves. It seems reasonable to suppose that some of these, at least, not having noted the new regulation in the Calendar, should have been counting on scraping together the greater portion of their fees during the Spring term, especially where they have already incurred more or less heavy and unavoidable expenses in the Fall for books, clothing, etc.

It is obvious that in such cases a grave injustice would be committed if the Christmas payment were insisted upon. It would be a gracious act on the part of the authorities to make every possible allowance for those who can give some assurance of eventually meeting their obligations, even at the risk of finding their trust misplaced in a few instances. It is true that the University has in past years been defrauded by students who have taken a full year's work without paying a cent of fees, and no reasonable person can object on principle to the efforts which are being made to curb such tendencies. Undoubtedly if no such steps were taken there are some who would deliberately take advantage of the situation. But the Registrar has already been quoted to the effect that "the University tries to be reasonable in the question of delayed payment of fees," and many students who have actually been allowed to write their papers while still in arrears can bear witness to the leniency shown. It is to be hoped that this policy will be continued as far as is consonant with proper protection against deliberate evasion of obligations.

Another correspondent has also brought forward a suggestion that the University might solve the problem by accepting, in lieu of the Christmas payment, a promissory note backed by some responsible person. If such a plan is at all feasible, it should go far to relieve the pressure on many who are in temporary financial difficulties.

The root of the whole matter, of course, is still untouched. What is to be done about students or would-be students who find lack of funds an insuperable obstacle in their path? We may well question the soundness of our social order, when young men and women who are willing to devote four extra years to enlarging their capacity for service to society, and who are in every other way qualified to take advantage of the magnificent educational facilities prepared for them, find themselves debarred through poverty, and poverty alone. Premier Henry, who is also Minister of Education, has made it fairly clear that no assistance beyond the present grant can be expected from our provincial Government. As for the University, it is having its own struggles to make both ends meet, and cannot possibly afford the extravagance of educating free of charge those whom in happier circumstances it would gladly welcome.

The only other source of assistance which suggests itself to us is private philanthropy. In spite of the current depression, this Province still has a number of rich men who, if they shared the burden between them, could do a great deal to alleviate the situation. We are not suggesting that they make any outright gifts whatever. But there is a crying need for substantial addition to the loan funds which already exist for the assistance of needy students. These funds are at present miserably inadequate to meet the demands which are made upon them, but even a few thousand dollars would add greatly to their usefulness. The advantage of the loan fund principle, of course, is that the money is not merely doled out once and for all as it is given, but returns in the payment of loans to be used time and again. A certain proportion may be lost beyond recovery, but if the funds are properly administered there is no reason why they should not be able to function indefinitely with a minimum of depreciation.

Art, Music and Drama

Eaton Auditorium

Last night in Eaton's Auditorium Angna Enters pleased a large audience with her performance of dance-mimes. Her presentation she terms "Episodes and Compositions in Dance Form". Most of her fourteen different numbers could be generalised as being dramatic monologues, done entirely in pantomime by the most graceful Angna Enters, who was in a musical conspiracy with her pianist, Mr. Kenneth Yost. There is, it seems to me, great scope for criticism of Miss Enters' work; however, the audience, including myself, derived a great deal of enjoyment from the whole performance. One half of the programme was pure satire of the highest calibre. The first number was an account of dance floor technique since 1914. To anyone who had any idea of the truth of the subject, the humour was delectable.

The peak of her Swift-like satire was her take-off on the Delsarte era of dance technique. In two numbers she gave an exaggerated and convincing interpretation of those dancing days of heart rending motions and tear producing emotions at which the audience, itself once thrilled with the good conventional bunkum which once passed as dancing, laughed heartily and laughed at themselves. In these monumental scenes Miss Enters passed the acid test of real satire and may well count herself in a class with the great Bernard Shaw.

Descriptions of each number would take too long and be much too inadequate: Angna Enters uses a technique which embodies not only imitative imagery and rhythmic movement but characterisation which brings out all indescribable mood effects.

After the take-off on the modern edition of the Delsarte style, the serious and original dances fell a bit flat because the audience could hardly realise when she had stopped pulling their legs. If, however, the serious dance episodes were valid they were much more artistic in the dance sense than were the satiric numbers. Miss Enters is able to catch the mood and spirit and not merely show it obviously but make it a part of a dance atmosphere.

Throughout the whole programme the point that grows on you more and more is the high degree of what is known as intellectualism. This factor Angna Enters can claim for her own. Intellectualism has been for all time prominent in other fields of artistic endeavour and was bound to refine itself in the basic of all expression—the dance. It is to Miss Enters' fortune and also to her credit that she must be the innovator. Critics are thrown out of their stride to find the subject of expression dominate the mode of expression. Only in the last few years has the dance ceased to rely on inner emotion and sentimental style and find the world of reality a field for interpretation.

Although nothing of great thrill and excitement accompanied the performance of Angna Enters, as has been so with other exponents of the modern dance, nevertheless a new factor is present, namely the intellectual or more purely mental stimulation.

THE FEES QUESTION

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

It is obvious that the writer of Friday's editorial has not gone very deeply into the problem. Since no attendance is taken at most lectures and the lecturers therefore know no one, any outsider can attend University lectures without paying a cent. It is evident, then, that this ruling will not prevent any student who does not wish to pay his fees from attending. The ruling will, therefore, strike at those students who are working for a degree.

Apart from those students who hope to earn money over the holidays, there is a class of students who all dependent on their parents for the major portion of their fees, and whose parents are engaged in seasonal occupations.

With the Theatres

Tivoli—

All for dear old England, says Henry VIII th and plunges into another matrimonial venture. This picture, gives an insight into this mighty monarch's private life and how this gay old bird could take it.

Fortunately for the producers Henry was considerate enough to stop at six wives and make it possible to put it on the screen. As it was they had to scrap the first two big moments in his life to get it within the two hour limit.

Charles Laughton, as the amorous King, gives an excellent display of acting. The way this boy can register surprise and anger is in itself worth seeing. Anne of Cleves as the bride who prefers to play cards till she gets acquainted, is also good.

There is little or no plot to the story but rather an amusing study of his life and loves. Sure we blushed, but why not? B.J.M.

Question? Is it the ingredients of the soup at Burwash Hall that cause the editor of Acta Victoriana to fall asleep in his lectures?

C—C

This is the story of Ernest. Ernest was the little boy who always came home from school and asked his mother if there were any errands to run. It was not that he would not have rather been out playing with the boys, but Ernest had been taught that it was his duty to run errands after school. And Ernest ran them ragged. One day Ernest came in from school with his head under his arm, and his mother said Ernest, dear, I want you to go around to the grocer's and get me a half a pound of cheese, and Ernest said I am sorry but I will not go around to the grocer's. As you have guessed Ernest's mother fainted. When she was revived she said Ernest, what is wrong? And with a terrible oath Ernest said don't you realise this is my twenty-first birthday? I will take orders from you no longer. With that he stalked out through the door and never returned.

Chapt. II

Ernest roamed through many lands, emitting terrible oaths whenever anyone asked him to do anything, so he joined the army. And Ernest became very sullen (and, of course, morose). Now one day there came a war to the land, and the enemy began shelling, not of course, peanuts, but great big shells filled with dynamite. And the general catching Ernest in a subconscious mood said Ernest, will you run an errand for me, and before he knew it Ernest said yes, Mother. And through force of habit Ernest took the message. But when he arrived at his destination, he found everything all blown up, not in the sense of inflated, but rather in the sense of destroyed, so Ernest retraced his steps, as it were, but when he returned he found everything, including the general, blown up. So Ernest said, thank goodness my mother taught me to run errands, so remembering it was mother's day he phoned home by long distance (adv't), and thanked her. This story is told so simply that it is hardly necessary to point out the moral, which is, of course, that a good habit

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

Tonight will see the final game in the interfaculty basketball series when Victoria Seniors and St. Hilda's meet in their second game at Hart House gym at seven o'clock. The Scarlet and Gold team will carry a five-point lead from their 22-17 decision over Trinity last Thursday night. But five points are only five points and St. Hilda's have a perfectly good chance of turning the tables. In the first half of the game, Vic undoubtedly showed greater ability in shooting and in combination, but failed badly in the second period. With enthusiasm and determination running high in Trinity circles, Vic will have to play real basketball throughout to maintain their leading position.

Then there is the little matter of support. In spite of the fact that they prove most anything, statistics indicate that approximately ninety-five per cent of the fans at the game last week were straining their vocal chords on St. Hilda's behalf. Several rousing cheers were given to encourage the blue players but never a whisper for Vic. Where are the Scarlet and Gold supporters?

And if not, why not?

Those interested are sincerely hoping that the brand of basketball to be played tonight will be a good deal cleaner than that displayed in the other game. An aggressive form of attack used by both teams along with a feeling of over-anxiousness, combined last week to produce very rough play and a great deal of fouling. Since they have met once and measured each other's strength and speed, there is no reason why three players should be put off for four offences, with most of those left on the floor suffering from the weight of three persons hanging over their heads. The players on both teams are experienced and know quite well that speed and accuracy count for a lot more than body checking and charging.

KNOX DEFEATS VICTORIA IN LACROSS FIXTURE

Margin of One Goal Decides Hotly Contested Game in Lower Gym

In a hotly contested game of box lacrosse in the lower gym at Hart House, last night, Knox gained a margin of one goal over Victoria in the semi-finals, by outclassing them 10-9. The game was a very close checking affair, so that play was not spectacular, but nevertheless there were no dull moments. Each team suffered two penalties. These teams meet again on Wednesday afternoon.

In the first period play was evenly divided, but Knox were more accurate in their shooting. Young opened the scoring when he took Clark's pass right in front of the Knox goal. Clark then scored on a pass from Clipperton, but Knox knotted the count on quick goals by McEachern and Cochrane. Just before the period ended Dyke made it 3-2 for Victoria.

The second period began with Dyke serving a penalty for Vic, so that Knox put on a ganging attack which netted them two goals. When Dyke returned, he made a nice rush to score on Weir from close quarters. Young then scored for Vic and McEachern for Knox, making the score 5-5 at half time.

The third period saw both teams playing cautiously, so that each scored only once. First, Clark for Vic on a pass from Clipperton, then McEachern for Knox. In the last session, the pace did not slacken. Young scored for Victoria, with Clipperton netting another right after. This appeared to put Vic in the driver's seat with the score 8-6 in their favour; but Knox

U.C. SENIORS WIN VOLLEYBALL GAME

Defeat Meds in First Game to Lead in Volleyball Series

BOTH TEAMS EXCELLENT

In the first of a four game series between Senior U.C. and Senior Meds to decide one of the finalists of the interfaculty volleyball league, the Arts students were victorious, winning two of the three games, by the scores of 15-9, 11-15 and 15-12.

The games were all fiercely contested and productive of some of the best volleyball seen on the upper gym floor this year. Both teams proved themselves masters in the art of spiking, and many points were scored as a result of well set-up place shots.

U.C. started the first game with a three-point lead, soon equalised by the Meds, but from that point they maintained a slim margin with the spiking of McKiggan and Murphy coming to the fore to give them the game 15-9. With Cruickshank serving, Meds had U.C. disorganised and ran into an eight-point lead before the Red and White could find their bearings, and showing strong recuperative powers, tied the game up at nine-all. Fine playing by Anderson and Legat toward the end of the game gave Meds a well-deserved win, the final score of the game being 15-11.

The third game was a duplication of the second, Meds again running up an 8-0 lead, but this time after U.C. had tied it up at 9-9 the lead changed hands with both teams having a one-point advantage at one stage until Applebaum's service gave U.C. the points needed to eke out a 15-12 victory. McKiggan, Cruickshank, Levy, Murphy and Applebaum were the stars of the U.C. squad, with Anderson, Legat and Rosenberg being the best for Meds.

Senior U.C. — McKiggan, Cruickshank, Applebaum, Murphy, Levy, Hazen, Shlimman.

Senior Meds — Rosenberg, Goldstein, Robertson, Anderson, Legat, Kyle.

Referee — Vanderlick.

JARVIS C.I. CELEBRATION

"It is quite fitting that Jarvis Collegiate, which was founded over a century and a quarter ago, should share in Toronto's centennial celebration," exclaimed Colonel Alley, chairman of the centennial committee, at an alumni get-together in Jarvis Collegiate last Friday night.

"The first educational institution in Toronto, the old Grammar School which is now Jarvis, numbers among its graduates a great many of the men and women who have been responsible for the city's growth and progress."

At the informal party which was well attended, plans were announced for a gala banquet and dance to be held by the Alumni Association at the Royal York early in 1934.

came back strong. First Cochrane notched a counter. The Vic team were unable to stem the thrusts of Knox and permitted Caslor to score twice within a few seconds, the second coming after a smart passing attack. Cochrane notched another, but this was offset by Young's efforts. Though both teams tried hard, no further scoring resulted.

The scoring points were well spread among both teams. Both goals, Weir and English, played smart games. Young, with four goals, was the high scorer.

Knox — Weir, Davidson, Caslor, Cochrane, McEachern, Wilson, Jamieson.

Victoria — English, Dyke, Clipperton, Young, Clark, Brydon, Bryers, King, Dickie.

Referee — R. Coulter.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Can Varsity overcome the two-goal advantage the McGill team enjoy in the water polo series when the Blue team plays the second game in defence of their title here this week-end? The team is quite optimistic about the outcome and as far as they are concerned the Herschel Cup is staying put for another year at least. However, the McGill team is a real threat. In Bourne and Stein who alternated at centre they have two of the speediest swimmers in the game. Wince McCarty of Varsity is the one man who can hold them as far as speed goes. Down in Montreal they pack the houses in these water polo tilts and there is no reason why the games are not patronised here. This week-end will see some of the best polo to be displayed here this season and an evening of exciting entertainment is assured to all who turn out.

The first half of the interfaculty sport has drawn almost to a close. However, the best is yet to come as the finals are just getting under way. Vic and Knox staged a rare old battle last night in the final game of their lacrosse series. Knox will carry a one-goal advantage into Wednesday's game when these two teams meet in the second of the two game series. The winner will meet Trinity on Friday and Monday in another two games. Volleyball has also reached the play-off stage with U.C. stopping Meds in the first round. This game which was making its appearance for the first time this year, has enjoyed immense popularity.

Coach Hayman's newly assembled senior cagers will step out on the floor for their first game of the current season Wednesday night in Hart House when they take on their old rivals from St. Michael's College in the first scheduled game of the Big Six series. From all indications this will be just starting the story from where they left off in last year's final chapter. Those who saw these two outfits in action last year will remember the basketball that they dished up. The two teams were very evenly matched with Varsity having the edge necessary to pull out in front for the Big Four and Big Five titles. Both teams have added considerably to their ranks since the close of last season. Varsity will likely be represented by a strong team from the Argonaut football club to the Nebraska chess team, new star players from across the line. The Juniors will play against Y.M.H.A. in the first game at 7:30 o'clock with the second contest billed for 8:45 p.m.

Varsity will take another shot at the West Toronto Nationals when they meet at the Gardens tonight. The Blue clad team have hung up their only win since they met before and stand a good chance to register their second win at the expense of the Wests. Another game tomorrow night which will probably attract quite a crowd is the St. Hilda's-Victoria College basketball game in the big gym. The girls play real ball and look real cute in their Virginia Dare get-ups. (adv.)

More echoes from the gridirons—One team Lou Hayman, who has been reported to be lined up for the coming season with every team from the Argonaut football club to the Nebraska chess team, won't be coaching next year is Notre Dame. Elmer Layden has that job. While we are on the subject of football why not a Rose Bowl game between Toronto Argos and the winner of the Stanford-Columbia tilt? Glebe College at Ottawa and Carleton Place High School are scheduled to meet for a championship football game of something or other. They have decided to play the game next spring. Good idea.

VICTORIA PARLIAMENT CENSURES PRESS

gent public opinion can be created and therefore the newspapers must descend to the masses, which explains the storm of criticism raised frequently against their practices. "I maintain that the newspapers of Toronto have succeeded in educating the masses and in converting them into an intelligent public opinion."

Jean Beattie, replying to the government, scored the sensational methods adopted in reporting news and the erroneous impressions created in the public mind by certain travelling reporters of the downtown press. "In the matter of politics," she stated, "the Toronto daily papers are a real menace to public opinion. The editorial pages are one-sided. The Mail and Empire is an excellent example of this. The Telegram is full of bringing up before the public archaic ideas which should be dispensed with." Miss Beattie condemned the representation of atrocious verses as typical of good Canadian poetry and spoke heatedly against the inaccuracy of many news reports. In concluding she suggested, "I would propose the establishment of a government press managed by a body of journalists, independent of the Cabinet, and operating under a Royal Charter."

Mary Urquhart, fourth speaker on the paper, claimed that in adopting sensationalism the press was merely catering to the public taste. "The government cannot censure the press because in so doing they censure themselves since their opinions have been informed by what they have read in the daily press in their youth. Public opinion as it is in Toronto today is a menace to the development of an intelligent press. I am opposed to the motion because insofar as it is possible for the press to influence public opinion the Toronto press has influenced it in the development of intelligent public opinion."

A government speaker claimed that "the comic strips form the most important part of our daily papers. Mr. Speaker, statistics show that more homes have been broken up fighting over the comic pages than through any other cause. They corrupt the mind of our youth."

Government speakers criticised the press for failing to criticise art intelligently. "The criticism in the downtown press is defunct," it was claimed.

big surprise. Torontos have been bolstered by the addition of three of last year's National team, who broke away in mid-season because of trouble in the club. Two of these are the famed Paul brothers. Also, a win tonight, coupled with a loss by Port Colborne to Niagara Falls will give them undisputed leadership of the league.

A win for Varsity will put them in a tie again with Kitchener, and with the stellar distance of vacating the cliff position. Varsity are about due for another win. Although outplayed in the last game by the classy Hamilton team, they have in the rest of the games deserved at least an even break. As a matter of fact, Hamilton is the only team that has had a decided edge over the U. of T. and only erratic shooting around the opponents' nets has kept Varsity from scoring more than one victory.

The team gets little or no support in these matches at the Gardens. How about getting behind this hard fighting team, who in the words of a downtown paper "have been more outluckled than outplayed" and cheer them on to their second victory?

PRIMITIVE MUSIC UNSUITED FOR PRESENT-DAY CONCERT

"There is a great difference between Gypsy music and Hungarian music," said Mme. de Kresz. Hungarian music is composed of wild strains, played on flutes—sometimes on fiddles, but much less so. The sad strains are played on an instrument resembling the bagpipes.

Bulgaria and Yugoslavia have a few promising young men. Greece and Turkey have not yet produced any great composers. "This is because they are still too much in the soil," declared Mme. de Kresz.

STUDENTS OBSERVE METER SHOWER

The observers will all use star maps and trace in the path of the meter and its exact time. They hope to obtain spectrographs of the Gemini and special arrangements have been made to insure good results. Dr. Millman of the Astronomy Department, has invented a new heating unit that helps to keep the lens of the camera clear in frosty weather.

Although the temperature is extremely low, the students will probably enjoy themselves. The basement of the observatory is open and they can go in from time to time and drink coffee. Besides this the bright M. and P. students have invented other ways of keeping warm such as playing "double Dutch" with the electric wiring.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING DONATED TO WESTERN

(Special to "The Varsity")
London, Ont. (CIP) — The Board of Governors of the University of Western Ontario announces that arrangements are under way whereby it is expected that an adequate and handsome library building will be erected shortly on the Arts grounds of the University. These proposed arrangements have been made possible through the nucleus of a fund provided in the will of the late Mrs. Frank Lawson for the erection of a suitable memorial to her husband. The executors of Mrs. Lawson's estate, on their own initiative, suggested to the Board of Governors that the sum thus set aside, with the addition of an amount provided by the executors themselves, could fittingly be applied to the building of a University Library in memory of both Mr. and Mrs. Lawson.

CHRISTMAS PARTY GREAT SUCCESS

ates and professors, as well as students, were welcomed by the Dean of Women, Miss Ferguson; and the singing of carols under the direction of Mrs. Dow was followed by refreshments.

This is one of the few occasions on which graduates and undergraduates of University College have an opportunity of meeting each other, and the Dean's Christmas Party is becoming an important feature of U.C. social life.

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 8.—The Canadian Pacific Liner Duchess of York, Capt. R. N. Stuart, V.C., D.S.O., R.N.R., docked here this morning with mail, passengers and cargo from Liverpool, Belfast and Glasgow and leaves this evening for Saint John, N.B.

Two special trains left the ship's side shortly after arrival, the first with passengers and their baggage and express and the second with the Duchess of York's heavy mail of nearly 6,000 bags.

Both trains are bound for Montreal via Saint John, N.B.

Prominent among passengers arriving were Lady Clark, wife of Sir Wm. Clark, High Commissioner of the United Kingdom in Canada, returning to Ottawa with Mrs. E. C. Grant and Mrs. James F. Crowley of that city; N. Yarrow, managing director of Yarrow Ltd., shipbuilders of Esquimaux, B.C.; Miss K. Galt and Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. S. M. Macleod of Montreal.

Saint John, N.B., Dec. 8.—J. M. Skinner was a passenger for Europe today in the Canadian Pacific Liner Duchess of Athol, but as a C.P.R. telegraph messenger discovered delivering a telegram addressed to this gentleman proved a somewhat harassing quest.

"Telegram for Mr. Skinner," he cried. "Are you Mr. J. M. Skinner?" ... to a gentleman peering the deck who seemed willing to answer to the name. "My name is J. M. Skinner, but this can't be for me," was the reply as Mr. J. M. Skinner glanced at the message. A second Mr. Skinner, also "J.M." was located and proved to be the rightful recipient of the telegram.

By a unique coincidence, J. M. Skinner, manager of the Chateau Frontenac branch of the Bank of Montreal at Quebec, and Col. J. M. Skinner of the Indian Medical Corps at Madras were both passengers on the ship. Though both from the old country, they are not, so far as is known, related.

PETITION AGAINST RULING OF EARLY FEE PAYMENT

one difficulty is to get students who believe with them to sign their names. E. B. Griffith, a Commerce and Finance student, who was in sympathy with some parts of the protest, pointed out the awe in which the authorities of the University were held and resultant hesitancy of many to buck the powers that be.

One drawback to such a petition is seen in the fact that many will sign out of mere bravado and will not be in sympathy with the motives of the organisers. The influence of the document on the Registrar was questioned by some students. The very nature of its sponsors was enough to make some refrain from signing.

Mr. N. F. Berlis, an English and History student who has spent some time in the United States, pointed out the difference between the fees here and in the States. There the fees are considerably higher and the rates charged here seem very fair to poorer students. He also thought that quite a number of those who have not paid up were in the position to do so. Most of the poorer students saved up enough money to come to college before they left home. The University has to have money to carry on its work and if people wanted to come to the University they should be prepared to pay the fees.

MR. LISMER LECTURES ON ART EXHIBITION

of harsher contrasts, more vigorous and moving designs and less half-tones." The older artists, like Jacobi, were fully equipped and trained before they even began to paint; in addition, they had as an audience a people whose make-up contained very definite aspects of the old country. "Perhaps we feel that Canadian paintings are reproached by the finish and technique of the Scottish collection now on exhibit," Mr. Lismer said; "it must be remembered, however, that they are done by artists who have not yet learned to worship tradition. The British create a completed product, the Canadian, a sketch of unrestrained enjoyment." He stressed the feeling of spontaneity, the desire of the painter to express what he himself sees and feels and not merely a literal representation.

The fact that "any art is a child of its own times" might account for the movement in Canada today. "We are only forming our own traditions and have much to learn although much to give." Mr. Lismer evidently thinks that a great deal can come from the delicacy and fineness of British landscape painting.

people constructively and helping them to pull these difficulties out by the roots and get away to a fresh start." Miss Finlayson, who was previously connected with the Neighbourhood Workers Association of this city, is now associated with the Department of Social Science of the University. She gave interesting illustrations of the kind of cases with which, social workers are faced and indicated the way in which they are helped.

"Social welfare work has just been done in the last twenty-five years, and so we are only just well begun," declared Miss Finlayson, stressing the fact that the work of the future depends upon the kind of homes, the leadership of the Church, the degree of vitality of schools, and universities, and the kind of care which educated women give to the general problems.

The address was one of a series which are being given weekly. The next speaker will be Miss Marion Ferguson, Dean of Women of University College on "Women in Public Life."

CORRESPONDENCE

where the season does not begin until well after Christmas. I belong to this latter class. Had this ruling been in force last year I would not have been able to come back this year. These students do not expect free tuition, but they hope for leniency. All that they ask is the continuance of the privilege that was theirs last year.

At a time when all other revenue collecting bodies recognise the difficulties under which the less well-to-do are labouring, by mortgage moratoria, extension of the time for tax payments and so on, surely the University if not easing up a bit more could at least refrain from making things harder.

It was unfortunate and inevitable that the Student League should take up the eugels on behalf of the students affected. Unfortunate since most students regard the League as a joke and inevitable since there is no other body really representing the students that would take the matter up. I have no doubt, Mr. Editor, that the real cause of Friday's editorial was the fact that the Student League has a finger in the pie.

In view of the facts cited above, Mr. Editorial Writer, is it any wonder that the Student League raises the cry of "discrimination"?

Yours Sincerely,
H.J.T.L., II Arts.

A SUGGESTION

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

May I suggest a possible remedy for the present situation with regard to fees? It seems clear that if the University insists upon payment of half the fees before we return next term, a number of us simply will not return. Some, perhaps, entered in September with no greater prospects than a naive hope that something would turn up, that some kindly providence would provide the wherewithal for the payment of fees when the day of reckoning arrived. These unfortunate are no worse off than they were before, for they would be in no better position to cope with the Fees Clerk in March than in December.

On the other hand, there are a goodly number who had, and who still have, every expectation of paying their fees in full next spring, but who can make no payment now. The new regulation was not very forcibly advertised, and many of us who live more or less from hand to mouth have been too hard pressed by other demands coincident with a university education to save much toward fees in the first term.

My suggestion is that those students who cannot make a payment now, but who are willing to give a guarantee of good faith, be allowed to present instead of cash a promissory note, payable in March, for the required sum, backed by the endorsement of some responsible person. I don't see how the University could possibly lose out on this arrangement, provided it made sure the endorsers were financially sound, and a number of students would on the stage. There isn't a dull moment while Ben is directing the proceedings, for he presents plenty of variety and pep in his entertainment. "The Big Bad Wolf" is a feature by the maestro and three of his singers, while another of the lads does a bit of a whirling act which includes an imitation of most of the birds on the continent. The stage show is not the least bit disappointing, which is rather unusual for an attraction heralded so loudly in advance.

WITH THE THEATRES

The feature presentation is the picture Sitting Pretty, a musical comedy depicting the life of the composer and song-writer in Hollywood, with its touch of tragedy and coloured by plenty of comedy. The cast includes Jack Oakie, Ginger Rogers, Jack Haley and Thelma Todd.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran team up in a rather good comedy, Dangerous Females. Jack Arthur and his orchestra present Gems from the Opera, assisted on the vocal end by one of the Imperial ushers. The Terry Toon cartoon, Little Boy Blue, is not above the average. The news reel gives an impressive picture of the late Principal of McGill, Sir Arthur Currie.

Shea's—

Dorothy Wiese, who became famous by her work in Mädchen in Uniform, makes her first appearance on the American screen in The Cradle Song at Shea's this week.

Simplicity is the keynote of this picture, which forsakes any great complexity of plot, devoting itself rather to delineation of character. The story is that of a young girl who leaves her small brothers and sisters and her father to enter a convent. At first she misses them greatly, but a young child who has been left at the convent brings fresh interest into her life. Carefully she looks after her till the time comes for her to leave the convent to marry a young engineer.

The calm and dignity of the convent atmosphere form a perfect setting for Miss Wiese's great emotional talent; her portrayal is as fine a thing as has been done on the screen in some time.

Kathleen Stokes at the organ and eight acts of vaudeville complete the bill. The Libonati trio of xylophone players gave undoubtedly the best act, though the Raviators, Four Masters of Harmony, and the Dorothy Martin Revue contributed adequately to a rather dull programme.

NO POSSIBILITY OF DICTATORSHIP SEEN FOR SPAIN

Recent Trouble Over Strikes not Considered Serious
by Prof. Cano

SOCIALISTS HOLD REINS

Strike Instigators Have not Sympathy of the Majority

The recent troubles over strikes in Spain are not likely to be productive of any sensational developments in the near future, because the Syndicalists, who have been causing the recent disturbances do not represent the real strength of the Spanish people. Such was the opinion expressed by Professor J. Cano of the Spanish Department at University College when he was interviewed yesterday by The Varsity.

The Syndicalists draw almost all of their strength from the larger cities of the north where industrialisation has approached the level common to Canadian cities, and the numbers in the Syndicalist Party are not nearly sufficient to bring about any radical changes, Professor Cano explained. The Socialists are the largest party in Spain and can be counted on to occupy a commanding position in any issue which may arise. But the very

WESTERN STUDENTS ENDORSE INITIATION

S.A.A. Votes Down Motion to Abolish "Mass Physical Contact"

RETAIN FLAG RUSH

(Special to "The Varsity")

London, Ont. (CIP) — Initiation at Western will remain much as it is, retaining the flag-rush and tug-of-war the Students' Administrative Assembly decided at its December session, Monday night. The proposal of Dunc Ferguson, head of the Initiation Committee, to abolish all forms of "mass physical contact" in initiation proceedings, was turned down by three-to-one vote of the Assembly.

The chief argument advanced for the abolition of violent initiation proceedings was that the University can be held legally responsible for any injuries suffered by students, whether the students participate voluntarily or not. The recent case at the University of Alberta was mentioned frequently. Others, however, advanced the argument—with figures to back it up—that hazing is more prevalent when there is no supervised initiation, and that serious injuries are more frequent from secret hazing than from open and recognised contests. Several ideas were advanced for evading responsibility, such as requiring freshmen to sign a statement absolving the University in case of injury.

When the question was put to a vote, 18 members voted for retention of the present form of initiation and 6 for abolition.

Literary Issue Is Cancelled

For the first time in some years there will be no Literary Issue published by The Varsity as a supplement to the final issue of the fall semester. This decision was arrived at yesterday after the committee of judges, composed of Dr. E. J. Pratt of the English Department of Victoria University, C. L. Coburn and DeC. H. Rayner, decided that the quality of the literary work submitted was not up to the expected standard. The Varsity wishes to thank all those who responded to the call for contributions, and to inform them that manuscripts and sketches may be called for at the S.A.C. Office in Hart House. Contributors must call in at the office before Saturday of this week if they wish their work returned to them.

VOTE ON REVISION AT VIC TOMORROW

Student Body to Decide on Amendments to V. C. U.
Constitution

CHANGE ELECTION DATE

The chief purpose of the open Victoria College Union meeting called last Thursday was to read out the changes and amendments made to the Constitution which had been brought up to date by a Commission, and to hear any discussion regarding these changes. Next Thursday a meeting will be held to have a vote taken by the college on the improved constitution.

Most of the objections voiced were overruled after explanatory remarks by some of the members on the Commission. The entrance of Marsh Laverty and the Bob Committee caused an interruption near the end of the meeting. They requested that henceforth the V.C.U. should foot the whole cost of the Bob cakes "presented" to the Committee members each year, instead of only a part as heretofore. This was agreed to, with the slight reservation that the cakes might as a result be cheaper.

Each member of the Commission had a special portion of the constitution allotted to his charge. Laurie Cragg revised the first part dealing with the purpose of the constitution.

One important change was made in the elections, for which section Dick Davidson was responsible. The V.C.U. elections will in the future be held on the first Friday in March. This will enable those girls who are unsuccessful in running for their offices to have a chance on one or another society. Grace Becker had charge of the appendices, dealing with the contracts with the different societies. The chief changes made here were in wording. Helen Forbes was secretary of the Commission.

Severe Economies Have Been

Slashes in Grant

As yet the University has received no official intimation of the truth of the rumour that an increase may be made in the grant it receives from the government.

According to an article in the Toronto press, the government intends to restore part of the salary cuts which civil servants have received. Whether or not this will apply to the University staff is not known. Registrar Fennell, when interviewed yesterday by The Varsity stated that he had received no information on the subject, and that he had not seen the article in question. "If," he explained, "the government intends to do something like this, the change will take the form of an increase in the grant which it" (Continued on Page 4)

Varsity Now Has College Widow Boy, Oh, Boy! and What a Kiddo!

By Colin

The College Widow is at large! And how she does carry it! When second year M. & P. went to their weekly class with C. & F. they found that the latter course had a "hang-on"—who else but the College Widow, all spruced up for the occasion.

While the rest of the class were knitting their brows—she was just knitting!

Yes, sir, believe it or not, she was knitting. She sat in the middle-aged seat of the third row with a rose-coloured knitting bag and needles, and was gracefully manipulating things to produce a rhapsody in mauve. What a picture! The suggestion was offered that it looked like a baby's sock. Who knows?

In her own words: "I asked Mac if I could come to his class and ask silly questions, and he said he would be delighted." And, boy oh boy, how she could ask silly questions.

If you have ever opened a calculus book you know what "dx" means. Well, she knew what the "x" meant but she simply had to ask the professor what the "d" meant.

Being thus enlightened, she knew she must understand what it was all about. So, after a particularly difficult point in integrals when the prof.

Christmas Dinner At Hart House

As in past years, undergraduate members of Hart House, who live in countries other than Canada or in distant parts of the Dominion and are thus unable to spend any part of the Christmas vacation at home, are informed that they may enter their names at the Warden's office for the Christmas dinner at Hart House on Wednesday, 20th December. The Canadian Singers have kindly offered to sing carols after dinner and the Warden will have a small gift for each man present.

Members intending to be present are urgently requested to signify their intentions to do so as soon as possible as it is obviously difficult to arrange the dinner and to know how many gifts are required unless the number of guests is known in good time.

SUMMER SCHOOL FINDINGS PRINTED

Proceedings of Two Political Conferences Appear in

PROFESSORS CONTRIBUTE

The proceedings of both the political summer schools that were held this summer have been published. The Liberals, who met at Port Hope, during the first week of September, have called their book "The Liberal Way". The Conservatives have entitled theirs "Canada's Problems". These two conferences brought a greater number of the professors into the limelight than at any other time in Canadian history, it being realised presumably that they were the ones most qualified to give useful guidance to the eager partisans.

Among the members of the faculty of this University who contributed are Profs. N. A. MacKenzie, A. Brady, H. A. Innis, H. Cassidy, G. Wrong, and R. M. MacIver, now of Columbia University.

ST. HILDA'S TAKE BASKETBALL TITLE

Overcome Lead Obtained by Vic in First Game of Finals

SCORE ON ROUND 40-36

By Evelyn Stewart

Although they entered the second game of the finals in the women's inter-faculty basketball series as favourites, Victoria Seniors were downed by St. Hilda's in the big gym at Hart House last night. The score of the game was 23-14 and the score of the round 40-36 for St. Hilda's. The play was much cleaner than in the first game of the finals last Thursday night, but the ball-handling of both teams was very sloppy and the footwork, for the most part, was slow.

Marg Rose of St. Hilda's opened the scoring in the first two minutes of play in spite of the hard-checking defence line. Close calling of travelling considerably slowed the speed of the game. The Vic forward line, an outstanding feature of the entire season, was unable to hit its stride and missed fourteen tries in the first half as compared to St. Hilda's missing seven. With two minutes of the first period left, M. Curstian rolled one in for Vic and B. Longley sank a free shot to make the score at half time 10-3 for St. Hilda's.

At the beginning of the second half, Vic forwards began to get away and succeeded in pulling up the score to within five points of the Saints. A. Butler, who led the St. Hilda's defence, did some very effective guarding and ably supported the shifty St. Hilda's forwards. In the middle of the period, the Scarlet and Gold outfit put on a real spur but were unable

There will be no meeting of the Players' Guild today. Members are asked to consider suggestions for production next term. Also any original one-act plays suitable for Guild programmes will receive the greatest attention. The Guild would also like to get in touch with persons who would be anxious to do some practical work in electrical work.

Visitors Day

Sunday, 17th December, will be Visitors' Day in Hart House when members may introduce visitors including ladies into the House between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. Members will be asked to show their membership cards at the door.

The building will be open for inspection.

Tea will be served in the Graduate Dining-Room between 3 and 4.30 p.m. at 25c per cover.

FIRST PERIOD SCORELESS

Cunningham Scores Single Varsity Goal in Final Minute

After holding the powerful Torontos hockey team for one period at the Gardens last night, Varsity seniors weakened badly, and for forty minutes Shipp in the Varsity goal was bombarded by flying shots, thirteen of which got past him into the net. Cunningham got one goal for the Blue team in the last minute of the game to save his team-mates from a complete whitewash.

There was too much ice in the big arena for the Varsity team to check the fast Torontos outfit closely, and Oliver and Mann got through to score three goals each. Lough and Grivel each got a pair of goals to add to their scoring percentages. The game was very fast and very open, particularly in the last period when Varsity threw caution to the winds and the Torontos forwards swept down the ice with often not a person between themselves and the Varsity goal.

In the opening period of the game, there was little to choose between the teams, except that of the few real scoring chances which presented themselves to the Varsity forwards, none were turned into goals, although the fault was not through lack of effort. Fullerton and McPherson each missed the goal by a hair's breadth in scramble. (Continued on Page 3)

JUNIORS MEET Y.M.H.A.

Tonight the Varsity senior basketball team stacks up against the strong St. Michael's squad, and the affair will provide an opportunity to size up the "A" quintet. The game is being played in Hart House and will be preceded by the Varsity junior vs Y.M.H.A. set-to. This encounter will be the seniors' first scrimmage before leaving on their Christmas tour of the United States, which tour opens at Niagara Falls, N.Y., on Friday night.

Coach Hayman does not expect his charges to be so very "hot" this evening. The practices have not been well attended so that there have been different combinations on the floor on successive nights. The Varsity squad, (Continued on Page 3)

MUNICH IS PRAISED BY STUDENT VISITOR

City Described as Beautiful and Quite Harmonious by Speaker

Munich was highly praised by Miss Joyce Tedman last night at the German Club when she recounted her experiences of the year she spent at the Munich University. "When I left I felt as though I were leaving my home city," she said, calling Munich a city where foreigners and Germans live in harmony. She described the beauties of the city and told of spending Christmas in the mountains. At the university, she says, skiing, mountain climbing and carnivals count for much more than studying does.

THE CHRISTMAS LITERARY ISSUE

It is a peculiar and lamentable fact that in the largest university in the Dominion there should be so little literary talent that The Varsity is unable to produce a Literary Issue worthy of the name. An early appeal for contributions was made this year with the hope of stimulating interest in the Christmas Literary Issue of The Varsity, and with a view to giving interested persons sufficient time to do justice to their work. The usual quantity of entries poured into the office, in fact in the art section there was a larger and greater variety of work submitted than last year. Yet the literary entries were so far below standard that the committee of judges found it necessary to cancel the issue.

Perhaps a word should be said about the manuscripts and poems submitted. The poetry was so obviously poor in quality that no prize could possibly be awarded, and the humorous prose was in the same class. There were one or two promising entries in the serious prose competition, but each was weak in some form or another. One story was written in splendid style, but lacked action and plot. A second had a thrilling series of climaxes, but a weak introduction. A third commenced in an interesting way, gave promise of being an excellent story, then ended in an abrupt and colourless conclusion. It is hoped that all contributors will call for their entries, and make use of these pointers to revise and improve them.

The Varsity may find it possible to print a Literary Issue in the spring, in which case the prizes offered for the proposed Christmas Issue will stand.

We hope that our readers will not be too greatly disappointed by the cancellation of this annual feature of The Varsity. The judges had to consider the fact that this newspaper is representative of the undergraduate body of the University of Toronto, and that it is circulated in colleges throughout Canada and the United States. We would not like to think that the work submitted was an indication of the literary talent in the University. Rather than lower the standard of previous years, and run the risk of injuring the reputation of the University, the committee of judges cancelled the proposed special edition.

EDITORIAL

It was gratifying to The Varsity to be excluded from the deprecatory remarks made about the Toronto press in general at a recent debate in the Victoria College Parliament. The motion "Resolved that in the opinion of this house the Toronto daily press is a menace to the development of intelligent public opinion" was upheld by a 25-18 vote; the remarks from both the government and the opposition indicate that at least one section of the reading public is critical.

It is obvious that The Varsity cannot, under any circumstances, be classed with the city newspapers. In the first place it circulates among the most intelligent group of its size in the Dominion. It is not a question of formulating public opinion in this case. The Varsity is more concerned with the difficulties of producing a paper that will be worthy of its readers, that will measure up to their high standards. Petty things do not affect its policy because it is financed by the students and they are concerned with universal problems rather than with matters relative to the making of a thoroughfare which would be to the lucrative advantage of the parties concerned, an accusation which was levelled at one of the downtown newspapers.

The fact that we have never wished to elect a managing editor or anyone else on the editorial board to the mayoralty, may have something to do with its policy. It is difficult to be impartial in vital matters of this kind especially when interests conflict and it seems expedient to follow a certain course of action, but when students demand to be allowed to judge for themselves the way is easy. For this reason it is not necessary to send a reporter to a meeting, political or otherwise, with instructions to write a story that will favour one particular side. The difficulties of a reporter working for an association of papers who finds it necessary to write two stories of the same event, one pro and one con, can well be imagined.

And because The Varsity is not entirely dependent upon its advertisers, its critics may express unbiased opinions, without fearing that the editor will eliminate any remarks that might cast reflection upon the merits of the production. Criticism is a valuable method of educating the public; if the writer is to be denied the right of free speech, the public can not formulate opinions that are characterized by that necessary thing, intelligence.

Art, Music and Drama

Organ Recital

Those of the student body who remained an extra hour yesterday to attend the fourth and final organ recital of the season by Dr. Healey Willan in Convocation Hall were well rewarded for doing so. The programme was exceedingly well chosen and Dr. Willan, as ever, demonstrated his consummate mastery of the instrument in its interpretation.

The Chaconne in F Major of Healey Purcell opened the programme. Fifteen variations upon an eight-bar theme constitute this Chaconne, the theme being heard largely in the bass although it undergoes several variations in itself. Dr. Willan followed this by two of the chorale preludes of Jolani Sebastian Bach, Now come, thou Saviour of the Gentiles and Sleepers, wake, a voice is calling.

The highlight of the programme was the Sonata, No. 9, in B Flat Minor of Josef Rheinberger, probably one of the greatest masters of the organ. The Sonata, which ranks high among this composer's work, is in three movements: Grave, Romanze, Fantasie and Fugue. It is a work of great beauty and Dr. Willan's interpretation of it, particularly the Fantasie and Fugue, is worthy of commendation.

Contrasting the preceding number, the University organist played next three light and graceful dance movements taken from early suites or sonatas. They were an Air by Johann Matheson, a Bourree of Johann Ludwig Krebs, and a Gavotte by Johann Christian Bach. The programme closed very appropriately with an Epilogue written in 1908 by Dr. Willan himself. As indicated in the programme notes, the work is "of a rugged character throughout, and consists of two themes of contrasted character upon which the movement is built up somewhat in the style of sonata form."

Mosley Hall

Sergei Rachmaninoff seems to have a penchant for beginning his programmes with rather austere works. Last year he led off with a Scriabin Fantasia Sonata; last night, though he announced that he would begin with a Bach arrangement, he actually opened with the Beethoven Sonata in D Minor, Opus 31, No. 2. This work, often called the "Dramatic" sonata, is a mature and effective composition, and very well known. Rachmaninoff has a decided tendency to play Beethoven in a subdued manner, with a quiet but impressive kind of subjectivism. The result, of course, is that his Beethoven is inadequate; but it contrasts pleasingly with the melodrama that is apt to creep in with many lesser performers.

The Bach Sonata (for Violin alone), arranged by Rachmaninoff, was enjoyable, to say the least, and played at a terrific speed. Enjoyable also was the limpid Schubert Rondo; and the pianist, in spite of his dark, Russian temperament, performed it with very great charm indeed. To me, the most impressive work was done in the Debussy Suite. Here again one would have thought that Rachmaninoff was unsuited to interpret the composer. But after hearing it, there can be no doubt that one is reckoning not only with a remarkable musical personality, but with a great pianist among great pianists. He is really above pure temperamental discrepancies, in many respects; yet the Suite was not simply played with much pianistic mastery, but with a fine personal command which I find strongly affecting, even though the style is not most satisfying to me.

Unfortunately, the second half of the programme (with the possible exception of Rachmaninoff's own Variations on a Theme of Corelli) was

Varsity Now Has A COLLEGE WIDOW

A white feather, mind you! Anyone who has, among others, read or seen Mason's The Four Feathers, knows what a white feather means. Tickleish proposition, eh what!

She giggled contentedly—for a few moments. Then she put two more feathers in his collar—and the class giggled with her (or at her).

The boy friend was a fine looking chap with horn-rimmed glasses, a moustache, and a surprisingly straight neck so that the feathers, sticking straight up from his collar, didn't even tickle him. He even wore spats!

Pretty soon she dug into her purse again. This time she pulled out a little cellophane bag—full of white feathers. She selected two more and very calmly stuck them in his collar.

She must have been a little too rough (or else the class laughed too much) for the boy friend became suspicious. He made a grab—and secured the last two. He looked at them—two white feathers—and passionately crushed them in his palm, but didn't dare look around.

He grabbed again—and missed the whole three that were left. Too bad! (Giggle, giggle, giggle.)

When the class ended she put on her fur coat, packed away her knitting, and dutifully followed her dear boy friend to his next lecture—with the three white feathers sticking in his collar.

Three cheers for the College Widow!

Our old colleague, Hugh Canthys Fellohby, breezed in with an interesting note on recent literary trends. It appears the Elsie Dinsmore series is being kept right up to date. Eaton's are having quite a run on "Elsie at the World's Fair."

From Hollywood comes an interesting news item to the effect that the "faking" of songs in musical pictures with unmusical heroines is now so perfectly synchronised that "not even deaf-mutes who are skilled in lip-reading can detect it."

And even if they could, they probably wouldn't tell anyone about it.

PERSONAL

Mr. Robin Godfrey, who played the part of Claudio, the Captivated Convict, in Measure for Measure at the Guild last week, was slightly surprised, we understand, to learn that his costumes had once been worn by Randolph Crowe. Mr. Crowe, in a special interview with The Varsity, merely commented: "A slight anachronism in Measure for Measure."

VARSITY VS. ST. MIKE'S IN BIG SIX OPENER TO-NIGHT

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.
Congratulations, St. Hilda's.

For the coming year St. Hilda's will be the proud guardians of the silver cup emblematic of the interfaculty basketball championship. In gaining a 23-14 decision over Vic Seniors last night, they overcame the five point lead and eked out a two basket win on the round. There is no doubting the fact that the blue and grey players displayed superior ability in ball-handling and greater accuracy in shooting. The defence lineups were outstanding and played a calibre of basketball that was very much superior to the brand shown at the forward ends of the floor.

Alice Butler was the pivot point of the St. Hilda's squad and time after time prevented the Scarlet and Gold from sinking their shots. Her teammate, Mary Rose, scored all the points for the Saints in the first half, but Mary Louise Carre, who has played sterling basketball all season, was unable to do any very effective work as she was closely checked by Pat Palmer, the Vic jumping centre.

With the Victoria forward line playing far below their usual snappy-passing quick-shooting game, that has been sensational this year, the Vic defence made heroic efforts to hold the St. Hilda's forwards from scoring. Grace Becker did some beautiful work in intercepting passes and Jean Fenton nobly assisted her in close defensive play.

No one was put off the floor for personal fouls, which is an indication of how much cleaner the game was than the one last Thursday night. Continual whistle blowing for stops interrupted the play considerably and prevented a good deal of smooth combination.

And so the girls in the little blue shorts trotted blithely off to celebrate at their annual athletic dance. Too bad we promised not to tell where the girls from across the park went.

JUNIOR MEDS WIN IN STRAIGHT GAMES

Doctors Stay in Running for Title by Defeating Emmanuel

JR. VIC LEADS SERIES

The Junior Meds kept in the running for the interfaculty volleyball championship by defeating Emmanuel last night in the upper gym in two straight games with the scores 15-10 and 15-12. This victory gives the Doctors second place in the semi-final series with one win and one loss. Junior Vic is leading with one victory, while Emmanuel is bringing up the rear, having lost the only game they have played.

The Meds started off the first game in no uncertain manner by running up seven points before Emmanuel could get started. However, with Newberry serving, the Emmanuel College squad tied the score at 7-7. The Meds did not seem to be able to get any teamwork in their play and allowed several easy shots to go for points. With the score tied, both teams settled down to good playing and points gained on either side were well earned. The spiking of Krakauer for the Meds was outstanding and was highly instrumental in winning the game with a 15-10 score.

The second game was very close throughout, both sides gaining the lead at different times. During this game, the Emmanuel squad showed a fine exhibition of boosting for their spikers, giving light to a side of the game that is too often neglected by faculty teams. The Meds spikers, however, showed a superiority that finally gave them the game by three points.

For the winners, the spiking and serving of Krakauer and the all-round playing of Crocker were brilliant. While Newberry, Metcalfe and Young starred for Emmanuel.

Emmanuel — Young, Johnson, Lautenslager, King, Bath, Newberry, Metcalfe.

Junior Meds — Wise, Gold, Crocker, Zarsky, Krakauer, Florin, Gates, Gould.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Tonight sees the opener of the Big Six basketball series in Hart House. Lew Hayman's senior squad will have a tough assignment in the battle with the St. Michael's College quintet. It will be a big game and a very interesting one for the fans. Last year these two teams surprised the Big Four enthusiasts by ending up the series on top of the heap with Varsity in first place and St. Mike's second. In the playoffs Varsity took the first game but the Bay St. outfit turned the tables in the second contest to tie the struggle up again. The third game staged at Central Y.M.C.A. drew a packed house and U. of T. came out on top after a very hectic struggle with both the league and city titles. On the season Varsity outscored every team in the group and won every series with each of the other teams except St. Catharines, taking an edge on the latter in total points scored, however. A bad start in the intercollegiate schedule during the trip to Montreal and Kingston spoiled their chances there.

This year the Blues start off right where they left off and after tonight's game it will be a bit easier to judge how chances will shape up. The opposing team from the college across the park is said to boast of about a dozen new stars. Last year they had about six good men and these players carried St. Mike's through in rather impressive style. If numbers mean anything they will be a real threat. It is rumoured that they are out for the Blues' scalps this season. The result will be a very interesting one. Lew Hayman and his charges are not under-estimating their position in the least and are preparing for a hectic struggle. The new coach has been drilling the lads at top speed every night in practice. With his knowledge of the court game they should be real opposition for any team around Toronto including St. Mike's.

Moe Mitchell and Red Gordon are two newcomers to this year's squad from last year's Riverdale Grads. Mitchell will be at centre where he performed with the last intercollegiate title holders from U. of T. That was back in 1929—a long time ago to most of us. This season the chances will be much better with the additional strength on the lineup. The centre position has been weak for three years now but Mitchell will attend to that quite ably. Phil Gold and Harold Sniderman, regulars on the rear guard last year, are back. In addition, Doc MacCallum of the 1931-32 team, who was out last year on doctor's orders, has returned and will be seen on the lineup. Hal Collins is ineligible for intercollegiate competition but will play in the Big Six games. Young, formerly of Assumption and Western, is a new forward and has conducted himself impressively to date. Levy, who was with the intermediates last year, is with the senior squad yet in this season's practices. He alternates on the front line. Himel, also included from last year's seconds. Els Willis alternates at centre and Bill Bodrug plays guard. Bodrug has not been able to get out to all the practices and may not play much until after Christmas but will be seen in action regularly after that. The year before last he was on the Central Y team and last year attended Western U. where he acted as basketball coach and physical instructor. He has secured his amateur card again and played football with the intermediate group champions. That just about rounds out the list and with these players Hayman should have a strong team moulded before very long. The first event of the evening will be a junior game between Varsity and Y.M.H.A., booked for 7.30. The senior tilt should draw a huge crowd as it is an opener and brings together the two best teams of the loop at 8.45 o'clock. Student ticket number 38 or 25 cents is all that is required for admission.

Don't miss the big hockey match Saturday night at the Varsity Arena; U. of T. vs. Yale U.

This afternoon Knox and Victoria will play the second and deciding game in the semi-finals of the box lacrosse playoff series. Monday saw Knox stage a whirlwind finish when they were two goals down with three minutes to go and come out on top of a 10-9 score. All those who witnessed the battle will agree that it is anybody's win today. Knox have an edge as stick-handlers but the Vic outfit have a much more effective defensive style of play. Both teams were exhausted at the finish with one Vic player collapsing at the end of the game. This necessitated the postponement of the second game until today. The winner of the round will play Trinity in the finals.

Be sure to get your tickets for the Yale game Saturday night early.

The Blue and White hockey team didn't do so well last night at the home of Conny Smythe's Maple Leafs. 1-1 was rather a tough dose of medicine for the lads. In the first period both teams looked about even odds with neither bulging the twins. Then the ex-Marlboros turned it on. Apparently what they were told during the first stretch was a bit searing because they made no mistake about notching their first five counters in the second frame. In the third period most of the Torontoes were intent on jumping their scoring averages more than anything else. Eight more times the puck was banged past the unprotected Varsity goalie. Then McPherson decided it was high time to score a goal and save the face of things generally. His tally came in the last minute of play.

The big ice sheet rather had the boys out of puff after that first period and being disorganised gave the winners their chances to sift in and out at leisure at top speed. Slipp was never called on to stop so many shots before in his net-minding career.

Saturday night, on the other hand, should provide a close and interesting game. Every student in the university who ever saw a hockey game or intends to see one should be on hand to show the Elis from New Haven that hockey is a national sport in Canada. Colgate is being entertained at London by Western U. tomorrow night and Yale plays in Montreal against the Redmen Friday night previous to their engagement here.

Can Varsity repeat their win of last year over Yale?

The McGill water poloists will accompany the Yale hockey team to Toronto Saturday morning for the return engagement to settle the resting place of the Herschel Trophy for the next year. A two-point lead on a 7-5 score last Saturday night which they bring along will be splashed into this year, is not being primed to cop the Big Six honours, but to attempt to wrest the intercollegiate crown from McGill. But the team itself is anxious to start off on the right foot in their initial Big Six encounter, so a ding dong battle is on the books. In addition to Willis, Sniderman and Collins of last year's team, Moe Mitchell, "Red" Gordon, Bill Bodrug, Phil Gold, Levy, Young, McCallum and Himmel round out the team.

Preceding the senior game Varsity juniors meet Y.M.H.A. in a regular Y.M.C.A. fixture. Saturday night's 31-21 loss to Broadview Y was far from being disappointing and Varsity will make things interesting for all comers. In the Y.M.H.A. team they face a squad always known for its speed and smooth combination. The line-up of the last game will only be changed in that Stewart will replace Zarsky. Coach McCutcheon has the team working more smoothly and if they grasp the close-in plays which are being drilled into them, the visitors will be in for a busy evening.

SKATING BEGINS AT VARSITY RINK

Delay in Preparing Stadium is Explained by Management

There will be skating at the Stadium Rink tonight if the weather remains cold, it was announced yesterday, and there will be a band in attendance. When it was pointed out that there had been skating at Little Vic Rink for the past two nights, athletic officials explained to The Varsity that the late date to which the rugby playoffs continued this year had delayed work on the rink.

SHIPS REPORT WEATHER

Almost 1,000 ships report their weather observations by radio every day.

the pool with them but it hasn't got the Blues down. They seem to think they can take it as they did last year and still come out on top. The McGill goalie will be at a disadvantage when he has to tread water in deep water in front of both nets instead of one. On the dope we would give Varsity an even chance right now.

BLUES SWAMPED BY TORONTOS

Five minutes after the teams returned for the second period a scoring spurge was exhibited by the Torontos, Bruce Paul starting it by going around Williamson to shoot a hard one which went into the net. Nice combination work on the part of Oliver and Shill made the score six nothing on the period.

It was mainly due to the efforts of the Varsity team to even up the score in the last part of the game which boosted the score. Ernie Rey and Al Campbell deserted their posts at defence and went up in search of goals. The attempts were unsuccessful, although very well executed and Shill and Grivel broke away fast to pass the puck into the Varsity goal. Seven goals in quick succession ended the last ten minutes of the game. In a ganging attack at the close of the game Cunningham of the Blue teams circled the Torontos net and sneaked the only goal past Durman.

The thirteen goals registered against the Varsity team were not all deserved and the Torontos were not the better team by that large margin. McLelland, Hendry and McPherson back-checked with the best of them although they were unsuccessful in actual scoring. Campbell and Rey on the defence stopped many well-meant attacks and were always dangerous men with the puck.

Varsity — Shipp, Rey, Campbell, McLelland, Hendry, McPherson, Cunningham, Sweeney, Williamson.

trivial. I do not see how any pianist can with serious intent include an arrangement of Weber's Invitation to the Dance in his concert—however attractive the original may be, and however much virtuosity the arrangement may require. None the less, it must be noted that Rachmaninoff played with great technical mastery. His concert here last year was somewhat disappointing. The performances last night should re-establish his reputation as a really important pianist, and one of considerable power.

It ought to be pointed out to audiences that they make a great mistake in practically forcing Rachmaninoff to play his own Prelude in C Sharp Major. He, least of all big pianists, is likely to do it very effectively. He deliberately restrains it, and doubtless for sound reasons. The work has its real merits, but since the composer is naturally ashamed of it, on account of its incredible popularity, he will take pains to avoid anything exaggerated or which might be regarded as over-dramatic. There are many ways in which he could, and would prefer to, provide the audience with more satisfaction than by playing this outrageously familiar composition.

makes to the University. At present we have been forced, in order to live within this grant, to cut the salaries of the faculty. An increase in the grant would make it possible to restore, in part at least, this cut."

With falling revenue the salaries of the members of the faculty have been cut several times in the last few years and fees have been increased. The University has been forced to make severe economies in its many departments and has effected savings by not only not augmenting staffs, but also by not filling positions that have been vacated. The cuts in the staff salaries have been progressive according to the amount of the salary received. It will be remembered that the last cut was originally rumoured at the time that the salaries of the civil servants were cut. The ability of the Board of Governors to restore the cuts will largely depend on the size of the University grant that has been so severely slashed the last few years.

EDITORIAL

The so-called intellectual journals of this country seem to take a special delight in paning the movies. Well, just let me tell you a little story, a true incident which happened not so many miles from the Great White Way, just the other night. A little old white-haired mother, whose nine sons had just been killed in a regrettable accident at the steel works, crept, inconsolable, to her neighbourhood movie house, trying to drown her sorrow in oblivion. The feature picture, as it happened, was The Sign of the Cross, that stupendous yet touching monument which the great religious mystic Cecil B. DeMille has created to the memory of early Christianity. And as this poignant drama unfolded before the little old white-haired mother, of a sudden she started, and all but cried out. For there before her, suffering agonies of torture at the command of the brutal Nero, who should she see but nine young Christian martyrs who bore a startling resemblance, from where she sat, to her own nine dear boys.

With a cry of joy the little old white-haired mother rose, left the theatre and walked lightly home, happiness flooding her heart, her anguish soothed, her deep wound healed. What a comfort to her had been that one beautiful glimpse of the nine martyrs! How thrilling for her to feel that her sons too were Christian martyrs, that they had not died in vain.

Night after night this heart-tugging incident is repeated. Wherever there is a steel works, wherever there is a little old white-haired mother, wherever there is a Sign of the Cross, this tender little drama is re-enacted. And if the movies have done nothing else, they have brought balm and joy to many little old white-haired hearts all over this fair land of ours.

Who says the movies perform no mission?

HOLLYWOOD HUMOUR AND GOSSIP

The sartorial influence of Darlene Mietrich is extending even to marine denizens, it appears. Report has it that a coast fisherman recently caught a female porpoise with pants on. And further down the coast another piscine correspondent tells of seeing a lady octopus wearing four dinner-jackets.

Of course we must regale you with a pun from one of the Barx Mothers. It seems that Chico and Diane attended the opera, and Chico took along his opera glasses. "Diane borrowed them during the first act, and at once exclaimed, 'Why, Chico, these glasses have a new focus tonight!'"

"Sure!" explained Chico. "I left the old focus at home."

They do say that, now that Jack Croquet is being seen places with Peggy Hopkins Juice, he never appears without his tuxedo, even for golf, and there's a story going the rounds about the first time he wore his tux recently. It seems that he and Miss Juice had just sat down to dinner in the "Drowned Baby", Hollywood's most popular restaurant, when what should fly out of Jack's vest but a moth. Considerable mirth ensued at Mr. Croquet's expense, but he took it nonchalantly. "What should I be nonplussed for?" he asked gaily. "That just shows what a steady dependable character I am!"

"How so, Jack?" queried Miss Juice. "Why, don't you know," he retorted, "that a rolling stone gathers no moth?"

I'M TIRED OF BEING A GOOD GIRL! says Jenn Arlow to Hildebretha Huggs, SCREAM SECRETS Ace Interviewer.

After looking behind the barn, in the petite maison, and everywhere else likely, I found Miss Arlow, like Achilles, sulking in her pouthouse. Clad in pretty blue gingham rompers, all ready for the next scene of Elsie Dinsmore, Gettera-Golden-Lyre's forth coming super-production, she had just come an hour to spare before taking aeroplane to Hollywood for the shooting. "I always fly home to lunch," she explained innocently. "Can't stay away from Park Avenue a whole day, or I get a fit of the blues."

"That's a very good fit of the blues you're wearing right now," I observed humorously.

Well, that tore it! With a short sharp laugh, more a bark than a chuckle really Miss Arlow flung away her cigarette and screamed (though never forgetting she was a lady): "I am tired of being a good girl! I want to be bad! I've always wanted to be a wicked soulless siren, and what parts have they given me? Pollyanna the Glad Girl! Anne of Clark Gables! Mae West—and now, to crown it all, Elsie Dinsmore! It's more than human nature can stand, I tell you!" And, tearing off her rompers, she stood revealing that famous figure eight which is probably

THE DAME ON THE COVER

Mae Wist, whom no less an authority than George Bernard Shaw has described as "just a wiggle", was born in Oklahoma, New Jersey, shortly before reaching maturity. At the age of two her mother, Ella Wheeler Filson, put her up for membership in the Hip and Thigh Club, one of Boston's most exclusive groups, and in almost no time she was president of that august body. Miss Wist, despite the somewhat sophisticated character of her screen portrayals, is in private life—well, not quite that, perhaps, but certainly comparatively chaste. Alcoholic liquor never touches her lips—as a child she learned the trip of pouring it straight into the gullet; and on the rare occasions when she smokes cigarettes they are de-nicotinized by a special holder which collects all the nicotine into a small bowl. When sufficient nicotine is collected Miss Wist employs it as a basis for a special cocktail of her own invention.

Mae Wist is also Good to Her Mother (see story on page 27, entitled "My Mother is My Inspiration")

***** I'VE NO ANGLES. Mae Wist does her famous impression of a circular staircase, and repeats her invitation, "Come up and see me sometime, and I'll spend your fortune." Not much real romance, and no heart throbs, but you'll probably like it.

er love in Ancient Rome, with many splendid orgies and a fine idealistic love story. Frederic Starch and Elissa Candy are the lovers, and they are thoroughly pure and wholesome. Charles Laughton (formerly of the Shakespearean team known as "Little Laughton and Les Grieg") makes of Nero a lovable old lecher.

NO POSSIBILITY OF DICTATORSHIP

nature of the Socialists precludes any radical innovations, for they are not Socialists in the accepted sense of the word. They are very mild and conservative in comparison with the Socialists in other countries and their aims do not go far beyond the type of Socialism which has been brought about in Ontario. Such ideas as the abolition of private property, etc., form no part of the Socialist philosophy in Spain. "Even the radicals in Spain," declared Professor Cano, "are comparatively conservative when they are contrasted with radicals in other countries."

"Do you think that the present conditions in Spain are liable to lead to a dictatorship?" The Varsity inquired. "Not at all," was Professor Cano's answer. "Nor is there a possibility of a dictatorship for a long time to come. The Spanish people are individualists, much like the English. The typical Spaniard is the agriculturist of southern Spain who wants only a piece of land, a home and the freedom to be as independent as possible. A nation of such people would not be at all likely to tolerate a dictator."

The possibility of the right wing, that is, the Catholics, undoing the work of the last few years is slight, Professor Cano thought. "The only work they may undo is that in connection with religious teaching. They will probably effect a change to permit religious teaching. The majority of the people in Spain are Catholics and they strongly favour the teaching of religious men. But the rest of the work which has been done will likely remain untouched, for the changes which have been made are very much in line with the ideas of the Spanish people and the Catholics as well as others approve of them."

After the usual preliminaries Mrs. Dow was introduced to the club, who very effectively led it in the singing of these charming songs. The carols were met with great approval and enthusiasm and were very much appreciated. All were sung twice, although the old familiar Dou viens-tu Berger and Les Anges dans nos Campagnes seemed to be the most popular. After spending an hour or so singing carols Mlle. At the end of the meeting games were played under the supervision of Mlle. Riese.

One-Page Supplement, No

Difficulty

The cancellation of the annual Christmas Literary Issue of The Varsity due to the small number, and second class calibre of the manuscripts which were handed in might suggest to the average a lack of interest and again it might suggest a lack of time on the part of the average student.

A co-ed in IV Arts, U.C., replied to The Varsity that she did not "think they will have as many contributions next time after such a sweeping condemnation as this. Even a one-page literary supplement with the best, if second rate efforts, and no prize award would have been satisfying.

Ken McArdle, I. Meds., expressed himself to the effect that, "Students are too busy with exams to bother with literary efforts and it is not due to lack of interest in general, but a lack of time."

A I.S.P.S. man, who stubbornly refused to give his name, said, "Literary contributions are expected from such courses as Arts. However, Christmas (Continued on Page 2)

At the meeting of the executive of the Board of Regents of Victoria University held recently, Miss Jessie Macpherson, B.A., was appointed to succeed Miss Margaret Addison, B.A., LL.D. Miss Macpherson is a daughter of the late Rev. Hugh A. Macpherson who was minister in Chalmers Presbyterian Church, Toronto, from 1903 until the time of his death in 1914. She gained her education in the Toronto Public Schools, in Oakwood Collegiate Institute and in the University of Toronto, graduating in the honour course of Philosophy, English and History in 1923. After a year in the Ontario College of Education, she was appointed Girls' Work Secretary of the Ontario Religious Education Council and has remained with that body until the present time. Since 1932 she has also carried on the work of the Girls' Secretary of the Religious Education Council of Canada. She has taken post graduate work in the field of psychology and has also studied at the London School of Economics. (Continued on Page 4)

The Moot Court Again

According to information received from a reliable source last night, the public and press will be excluded from the trial being conducted by the students in Law at the Law Building today. The decision to hold the proceedings in camera is understood to have resulted from a consideration of the serious nature of the charge to be laid against one of the students.

SUSPECT IS HELD FOR COPP MURDER

Province-Wide Manhunt is Conducted by Police

MANY ARE QUESTIONED

City and provincial police are still conducting the man-hunt for the slayer of Johnny Copp. The latest arrest in connection with the case was made in Cornwall yesterday. The prisoner held in that town has already given three aliases, but has been definitely identified as John Russell, who is wanted in Toronto on a charge of armed robbery. His description tallies in almost every detail with that furnished Toronto police by Johnny Copp before his death. No attempt has been made as yet to question Russell in connection with the shooting but it is understood that he will be brought to Toronto.

Russell is 5 feet, 7 inches in height, weighs about 160 pounds, is dark complexioned and pug nosed. He speaks English with a foreign accent and he claims to be a French-Canadian. He gives his age as 18.

Johnny Copp's description of the man was that he was about 5 feet, 8 inches in height, about 160 pounds, dark complexion, about 30 years of age and spoke with a foreign accent.

Since Copp was shot on the night of November 30th, an unrelenting search has been maintained by police. According to Inspector Mulholland, who is in charge of the case for city police, all police leaves have been cancelled, and sixty detectives are working day and night in an effort to trace the killer. Many persons have been brought in for questioning, but up to the present time no one has been held on any charge directly connected with the shooting.

FINAL SCORE 11-7

In a Y.M.C.A. Junior League fixture played as a curtain-raiser to the senior game last night the McCutcheon coached Varsity team carried off a 28-21 victory against Y.M.H.A.

The game was a ragged affair, with both teams showing lack of combination in their plays. Varsity had a big edge on the Hebrew lads in height, and were able to take advantage of this break in getting rebounds. The Y team put up an alright five-man defence which proved a stumbling block to the Blue team, so that most of their scores were of the long shot variety. Varsity took a 10-7 lead at half time with Miller and Kinsey sinking some beautiful long shots and Blackman being the Y threat around the Varsity hoop.

DEAN DELURY RECALLS GROWTH OF UNIVERSITY

Nothing Phenomenal Taken Place Since Federation of the Colleges

STEADY HEALTHY GROWTH

Professor Resigning After Forty-Two Years on Staff

Looking back on a lifetime spent at the University, Professor A. T. DeLury, who is resigning after having spent forty-two years on the staff, finds that there has been a steady, healthy growth of the University, but nothing phenomenal has taken place in its expansion since Victoria, Trinity and St. Michael's Colleges joined the Federation of the University of Toronto in the 1890's.

As far as he could remember, there were only two or three buildings on the University grounds when he began his studies here in 1886, but the addition of the library, Convocation Hall, Hart House and other buildings has been so natural as to almost pass unnoticed until today, as he looks out of his study window in the turret tower of University College upon the buildings comprising one of the largest and best equipped universities in the British Empire, he finds it difficult to remember, that open fields were quite common in this section of the city when he, President Cody, President McLean of the University of Manitoba and G. Howard Ferguson, among others, were students here together.

In discussing the students of an earlier day Professor DeLury thought that they could not be compared to students of today because they were living under such different conditions.

"The whole world has changed and the students with it," was his opinion, "but there are as serious, purposeful and able students today as there ever were and today they have the advantages of up-to-date equipment in laboratories, fairly complete libraries and other things which their predecessors lacked."

Co-education was not a new issue even in the days of the horse cars but the co-eds were much more single-minded than most of the modern girls and could not find as much time for extra-curricular activities it was learned. The same statement holds true. (Continued on Page 4)

FORMER SPORTS EDITOR IS CRITICALLY INJURED

A report from the St. Catharines Hospital at 4.00 o'clock this morning stated that Mr. Chorlton's condition is somewhat improved. He is suffering from a compound fracture of the skull and is delirious at times, but no further complications have developed.

John Chorlton, 24, sports editor of The Varsity last year, is lying in a critical condition in the General Hospital, St. Catharines, due to severe head injuries received when he was struck by an automobile as he stepped from behind a street car Monday afternoon. Chorlton, who left school last year to work in his home town of St. Catharines, had alighted from the street car immediately in front of his home and walked around the rear of the car to cross the street. He was removed to the General Hospital, where he is being attended by Dr. C. T. McGuire. It was determined the next day that he had suffered a fractured skull and the last reports received by The Varsity described his condition as being fairly serious. Provincial police are investigating the accident.

DURER'S WORK DISCUSSED

Professor MacCallum of University College, gave the final of a series of lectures on art yesterday at 5 p.m. in the Sketch Room at Hart House, to a group of followers of aesthetics.

Two main trends of art were quoted as being "towards life and away from life". Examples were shown, by means of a projection lantern and slides, of primitive African art which avoid life as it actually is and the highly developed bits of the school which held life as a standard for the artist to follow.

Gothic and Renaissance art was briefly touched upon and their effect upon later masters noted. Professor MacCallum remarked in passing that "abstraction gives dualism between man and the world".

Two examples were shown of how certain artists centred attention on the intensity of expression in place of organic beauty. The Renaissance school on the other hand emphasized organic flowing lines.

Durer, a master of line drawing, is said to be the first modern artist in the fact that he sold his works to the middle classes and not to the nobility.

The lecture gave a brief history of Durer's works in that as he grew older he ascended greater peaks of achievement and perfection which contained a necessary amount of thought.

A slide which reproduced the profound but simple lines of Durer's "Melancholy" and a discussion of it brought the enlightening address to a close.

Physics Seminar

The McLennan Laboratory, Department of Physics, will hold a Seminar in Room 43, Physics Building, on Thursday, Dec. 14, at 4.15 p.m. Agenda for the Seminar is as follows:

Viscosity Effects in Hydrodynamic Flow Forms. From Report of Committee on Hydrodynamics, Division of Physical Sciences, National Research Council (Washington, D.C.) Bulletin No. 84, (1932), by H. L. Dryden, F. D. Murnaghan, and H. Bateman. Mr. G. N. Patterson.

Blues Take Big Lead at Start of Game, but Irish Finish Strong

By W. A. Crochower

Big Six basketball made its bow to Toronto fans in the big gym at Hart House last night as the St. Michael's cage team took a heart-breaking 33-32 overtime decision from Varsity's St. A. quintet. The game, although not displaying the best brand of ball of which the teams are capable, was very colourful and exciting. Play raged furiously throughout the entire contest and as a result many free throws were handed out as Collins, Gold and Marks were ejected from the game.

The Blue and White cagers created a mild surprise in the first half as they initiated a system of fast ball handling which had the Storen-coached aggregation baffled. The Varsity defence pair, Gold and Sniderman, worked to perfection and half way through the period the Hayman-McCutcheon squad were commanding a 10-0 lead. However, the goose-egg score seemed to irk the Bay St. quintet and they displayed a complete reversal of form. Struggling along on more even terms the Saints crept up slowly and although both teams showed a lack of scoring punch at this stage of the game, half time found Bill Storens lads trailing by only two points, the score being 14-12.

The second half proved to be a continuation of the latter part of the first half. Play again continued at a fast clip and every now and again a beautiful play brought a shout of approval from the spectators. About halfway through the period Normie Hynes sank his lone basket to tie the score 22-22. This reversal roused Hayman's lads to a frenzy and in less time than it takes to write the Blue and White aggregation had rung up four quick baskets to make the count 30-22. Then it was the Saints' turn to take the (Continued on Page 3)

Carols and Christmas trees and white snow falling. Bright lights and cheery voices and merry silver bells. Gaiety,—friendliness,—that intangible force, the spirit of Christmas.

Cynics may be, sophistication our shibboleth, our attitude may be smug and blasé, yet at Christmas-time, whether we will or no, we are infected with the magic of the season. Even old Scrooge found it irresistible.

"Peace on earth, good will toward men."

There is still an inspiration in the song that is as old as Christianity. The shepherds' tale and the angel chorus still touch an inner chord in us. Why? Because they have an eternal significance. Something deeper and more abiding is concealed beneath the symbolism; and that is what makes it valuable. The star of the Christ-child is more than a poignantly beautiful sign in the heavens. It betokened the dawn of a new era.

The reason that Christmas-time touches our hearts is because we can stand on Reason and still make Jesus Christ the corner-stone of our existence. We shall never outgrow Christ because we shall never outgrow Jesus Christ. The loveliness of the Christmas story is interwoven with the life and truth of the twentieth century.

That is why Christmas touches the spring of love within our very souls. We remember and we rejoice. Christmas symbolises more than the birth of (Continued on Page 3)

THE MEN BEHIND THE SCENES

The University of Toronto has always been to the forefront in the field of scientific research, and has gained world-wide fame in this respect more than once. In fact during the past term no less than three outstanding achievements were announced by research men in our midst, and they are but an indication of the work which is being continually carried on. Yet the average student seldom reflects on the contribution which the University of Toronto is making to civilization in this way, the spotlight of publicity must be focused upon the patient and diligent white-clothed figures in the laboratory before we show any appreciation for their efforts.

It has been observed that the standard of academic research improves during a depression, as the brilliant research workers who would otherwise have no difficulty in finding commercial positions are "forced" advisedly, for it is understood that research workers are not at all adequately remunerated for their services. Undoubtedly the University benefits by the presence of these men, and they are given an opportunity to continue research along lines which otherwise might not be explored. Yet it is a fact to be deplored that there is not in a University the size of this one a fund substantial enough to permit the employment at a fair wage of men who give their lives to the improvement and development of science.

Then there are the men behind the scenes, the graduates working for further academic honours, or even the undergraduates specialising in some phase of scientific research. These men have done much in the interests of science, by continual experimentation and reliable recording of facts. Dr. Banting, when his discovery of insulin was announced by the University of Toronto, was careful to pay tribute to the men who had assisted him by carrying out routine work in this way.

These are the men behind the scenes, the men about whom the world knows nothing. Day after day their work goes on, while their names are unknown and their praises remain unsung. The International Critical Tables, used so frequently in the chemistry laboratories, were compiled, not by the work of any single great scientist, but from the work of thousands of students. And in the department of physics it is much the same story.

Thus the work of the world is done. Occasionally fame comes to some scientist, who undoubtedly deserves the plaudits of the world. But a great deal of the routine work of his research, the monotonous and detailed observing and recording of more or less trivial findings, is done by the men behind the scenes, the men who by their persistent labour make the greater developments possible.

BIOLOGY CLUB AT-HOME

Last night the Biological Club made merry at its annual At-Home, held at the Women's Union. A number of novel features marked the evening, not the least of which was the pre-arrangement of the first half of each dancer's programme. In this way the wily executive succeeded in getting the crowd "acquainted" right from the beginning. A Paul Jones completed its success.

The highlight of the entertainment was a skit by the members of the 3T5 Biology class, each of whom became a professor for the evening—possibly some particular professor, to judge from the enthusiasm and mirth displayed by the biologists in the audience.

There was bridge as well as dancing, and the presentation of prizes was made toward the end of the evening.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED

The Royal Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1881 have invited the University of Toronto to nominate a candidate, or candidates, for the three Scholarships to be offered by the Commissioners for award in Canada in 1934.

Information regarding these scholarships may be found on pp. 76 and 77 of the current Arts calendar. Applications accompanied by theses as evidence of the candidates' ability for original research must be received at the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall, not later than April 15th, 1934.

ever is responsible for the edition should push the work and spread the idea among students and let them know what it is all about. The notice should have been published earlier."

A 11 year Arts man who modestly refused to give his name felt that it was too bad that we cannot have the Christmas edition this year. "There is probably more than one cause," he said, "but lack of interest is the main one. Of course when there is lots of work, people will spend their time on recreation in preference to literary work."

Art, Music and Drama

Art Gallery

Side by side there are two exhibits at the Grange: one of water-colours by Scotch painters and the other a collection of oil paintings and water-colours by Canadian artists. As most of the subjects are landscapes the contrast is striking; but most striking is the difference in technique, especially in water-colours. Scotch artists have for their country an attitude of love joined to a reverence due to its long past and tradition. Reviewing this exhibit Mr. Lismer said "Design has no part in this painting, which embodies the infinite subtlety of English character and thought," but I do not think that the Scotch water-colours shown warrant such a statement, though it is true of many works, especially those dealing with sea and lowlands bathed in mist. On the whole it is evident that the artists of the Old Country have a technique, acquired through long study and an open understanding of the work of the past, which we do not find in most Canadian painters, although F. Carmichael and Bridge compare quite advantageously with water-colour painters of the other side of the Atlantic.

As there are over thirty Scotch artists represented it is not possible to review them all, aside from the point that many of them have little value or interest. David West is probably the best representative of the modern tendency in Scotland; his rendering of cloudy skies, or the sea are very impressive, and while realistic they are by no means photographic. In two of his landscapes we feel the whole sky to be moving and completing the lower land. In A. Faddey's work we can trace influences of Corot as well as of Cezanne plus the artist's own personality. With Scott Irvine we have a more decorative work, with design, distinct masses of colours; such is Martin Hardie's "Group of Trees" against a light background; he has a very sure and clever use of colours. Very characteristic also is the "Village with Castle" by A. E. Boothwick, made with very few colours, mostly grey and brown tones. While the above artists represent mostly the tradition—a tradition that is part of the Scotch character—there are also some more adventurous painters such as Ch. Dowey or Michel Dawson who handle their water-colours almost as if they were dealing with oil.

One point that is common to Scotch and Canadian artists is the almost complete neglect of the human theme which of course water-colours make more difficult. A. D. Muir has a fine study of an old man and Russel Flint "Nude girls on the beach", while showing more daring, lacks life and spontaneity though every figure, taken separately, as a study, is not bad, especially the figure in the foreground. Much of the work exhibited is too much influenced by tradition for tradition's sake, to be very interesting or show any distinctive personalities. Yet on the whole it is rather refreshing to look at these Scotch works, especially after having seen G. Roberts' water-colours in the Sketch Room, and it is to be hoped that Canadian artists will take whatever is worthwhile in this exhibition.

Space does not allow me to review the many oil paintings by Canadian artists, but this is quite a different medium than water-colours and students might be well advised to visit the Grange and draw their own conclusions.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By B. S.

What every woman should know—how to paddle her own canoe—picture yourself shooting turbulent northern rapids with the rhythmic assurance of a Redskin having the same Redskin absolutely appalled by and marveling at your skill, or visualise yourself as a tipping acquaintance of some of Varsity's most sought-after.

Thrills such as these come only to the members of the Varsity Canoe Club. (O yes, there is to be a Varsity Canoe Club and since you insist we are admitting men.)

Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf, or even of a snow-storm for that matter. No, we don't intend to paddle in the winter; but with these vivid imaginations for which Varsity coeds are noted even during a blizzard, we can dream of paddling. Seriously though, we intend to have a canoeing-out dance in the winter.

It is to be the real thing, this club—canoe trips, over-night excursions, war-canoes, regattas, and then too, that coveted pan, to say nothing of the inevitable freckles.

Food for thought—was it Dr. Alan Brown, baby specialist, who said that paddling was the safest and surest way of losing countless pounds!—and whoops, my dear!

A mere suggestion—if you don't know what you want for Christmas—try asking for a canoe, that's if your parents are built like that. Remind them that this gift need not be given till May.

We know all the answers—any questions, wise or otherwise, pertaining to the club will be answered at a meeting to be held in the very near future. (Don't bring your knitting, it's not that kind of a meeting.)

JUNIOR LOOPERS DEFEAT HEBREWS

Game Ragged but Fast, Height Factor in Varsity Victory

LONG SHOTS COUNT

Weakening in the last period and with the aid of some untimely penalties, Varsity Juniors went down before the powerful Young Rangers, by the score of 11-7 in a Junior O.H.A. hockey fixture played at the Maple Leaf Gardens last night.

The students put up a splendid showing against the highly touted Rangers, but could not cope with the fast three-man attacks launched by the winners. At times the Rangers had splendid opportunities to run the score up higher, but only to have Shipman, the Varsity goalie, pull off some spectacular stops.

Varsity's hopes were blasted by the efforts of Parsons, the Rangers' star centre ice man who garnered five of the goals and handed out three assists. It seemed that he had a mania to score while his team was a man short, bulging the twine three times via this route.

Varsity opened the scoring in the first period, when Upper beat Godfrey after three minutes had elapsed. A few minutes later Woods scored, but the goal was disallowed by Referee Mollenhauer because of an offside. Nevins tied it up in the midway mark of the period on a lone sally down the right boards. With "Pep" Kelly in the penalty box for chopping Parsons broke away from a scramble to put the winners on up on a beautiful shot that beat Shipman easily.

Morgan tied the score up for the students at the beginning of the second session, from a face-off in front of the Ranger goal mouth. With Walkey and O'Leary doing turns in the penalty box Parsons put the Rangers one up again, going in unopposed and beating Shipman from close in. The Varsity squad then tied it up.

VICS ELIMINATED FROM BOXLA SERIES

Knox Come from Behind to Win Thrilling Boxla Game

SCORE CLOSE AT 7-5

The Knox box lacrosse team eliminated Victoria from the playoffs by a 7-5 score in a thrilling game played in the big gym, Hart House, yesterday afternoon. Trailing Victoria 3-5 at the end of the first half the Purple and White players hit their stride in a sweeping rush which held their opponents scoreless for the rest of the game and netted them four goals. Since Knox won the first game from Victoria in the three-cornered final round the Presbyterians now tangle with the Trinity team, which drew the bye.

The winners drew first blood by jumping to a two-goal lead at the start of the game. The Victorians, however, were not long in coming into their own and at half were two counters in the lead. Team work was rather ragged on both sides and the passing of the Knox team was decidedly off. Most of the goals were scored from mid-floor. The second half produced some of the best lacrosse of the series with both teams travelling all out. Knox had the edge of the play but the Scarlet and Gold fought hard and well to the end.

Victoria nearly scored on several occasions but faultless goal keeping on the part of Varsity robbed them of almost certain shots. Davidson, playing his best game of the season both defensively and offensively, with Castor and Cochrane, were the pick of the winners. The last two were the standouts in the final periods and together formed a smooth combination.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By Paul B. Smith

Word was received yesterday of the unfortunate accident in which John M. Chorlton was seriously injured. Struck by an automobile as he stepped off a street car near his home in St. Catharines he sustained a fractured skull. Jack, as he was known to the sportsmen around Varsity, was Assistant Sports Editor of The Varsity in 1931-32 and then Sports Editor last fall until December when he was forced to resign because of the pressure of his academic work. All those who knew him at Varsity are wishing him a speedy recovery.

Last night's cage fixtures again proved that Coaches Hayman and McCutcheon have rounded out squads which are bound to cut a wide swath in Toronto basketball circles. The junior Blues playing a curtain-raiser to the senior fixture amply displayed that they form one of the best junior squads turned out around the University in recent years. Coach McCutcheon has the necessary material with which to work and a great deal is expected of his team. In men like Kinsey and Krakauer Mac has sure-fire senior prospects. Last night's win is only the first of a series which will be turned in by this young squad.

The senior fixture gave the fans a lot about which to get excited. The Blue and White team opened up with an unexpected attack as they handled the ball as though it were a red-hot ball of iron. They made floor-length passes and much to the amazement of their supporters, secured an early lead. However, this early lead proved their undoing as they only played in spurts, scoring only when pressed hard. In the overtime luck deserted them and when Sniderman and Gold failed to sink dogs the game was lost. In spite of their loss the Hayman-McCutcheon-coached quintet deserve credit for an impressive showing. Due to pressure of studies many of the lads have attended only a couple of practices. To prove this we can quote Gold, who during the rest period asked, "Do you know all your men, Lew?" To which Hayman retorted, "No, but from the looks of things, I've been carrying on a correspondence course."

On Friday Coach Hayman starts his lads off on the annual Christmas trip, the first game being played at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Sport lovers have an interesting week-end in store for them with the athletic teams of two rival Universities invading the Blue and White domain. The McGill water polo team will match strokes with the Varsity natators Saturday afternoon in the Hart House pool, while on Saturday evening the senior hockey team will play host to the Yale sextet. This is a very attractive sport programme and fans would be well advised to avail themselves of the opportunity to see both visiting teams, who, from all accounts, are adept in their respective lines of endeavour. The Yale hockey team will be the first American squad to display their wares on Toronto ice. Needless to say, a capacity crowd should be on hand to get their first peek at a highly reputed Yankee team.

Coached by Mr. Holcombe York and captained by Joe Gilligan, the Eli pucksters boast a powerful club, and from advance reports will cause our Varsity lads no little concern during the course of the evening. Yale have played three exhibition games to date, including an informal tussle with the New Haven Eagles. Six of last year's team are back again and coach Holcombe York has built up this year's aggregation around these stalwarts. Warren Stevens is optimistic over the possibility of his charges repeating last season's victory, when they defeated Yale in New Haven by the score of 3-1.

The Knox box lacrosse team advanced a step further towards interfaculty supremacy when they defeated the smart Victoria team by the close score of 7-5 yesterday afternoon. The winners were forced to come from behind to take the verdict from the battling Vic students, who at one stage enjoyed a two-goal lead. The game was replete with thrills from start to finish, with the outcome being in doubt until the very end. Lacrosse enthusiasts certainly missed the boat if they passed up this game, as they will wait a long time to see another that will equal it for speed, team play and excitement.

U.C. SPIKERS WIN PLAYOFF TILT

Defeat Senior Meds in First Two Games, 15-6 and 15-8

MEOS UNDER STRENGTH

The U.C. seniors proved that they are going to be serious contenders for the interfaculty volleyball championship when they displayed fine form to defeat the Senior Meds in the upper gym last night in two straight games. This victory gives the U.C. squad a stranglehold on the lead in the semi-finals, having won both games played in a four-game series. The game last night could not be held as representative of the Medicals' true form since several of their regular players were not present. U.C. swept both games with scores of 15-6 and 15-8.

Meds were forced to play the first game with one man lacking and U.C. made full use of the empty position to run up points. The playing of McKigan featured this game. The second game was more hotly contested but again the superior play of the college sextet proved sufficient to take the game without much trouble. Madders provided a display of overhand serving that gave their opponents some difficulty but it did not benefit them as they did not follow up with any decent playing. The spiking of Murphy was outstanding in this game which ended with U.C. on the long end of a 15-8 score.

For the Meds, Rosenberg and Robertson played well, while Applebaum, Murphy, Mutteroff and McKigan starred for the winners.

a wondrous babe in a lowly manger. It symbolises all that Christ means to us. We draw ourselves nearer to Him in this snowy month of December. And because we draw ourselves close to Him, we draw ourselves closer to our fellowman. There is a sense of brotherhood with all men at Christmas-time. We open our hearts and let down the barriers. Loving our neighbour as ourself becomes a reality. And if at Christmas, why not always? We only need the inspiration of the Great, the Supreme Ideal, and we love more warmly at Christmas only because we are more conscious of Him.

In the vesper service we hold next Monday, 5.10 p.m., in Knox Chapel, we gather to rejoice again in the birth of Him who gave to our Student Christian Movement its meaning and significance. It is fitting that we should end the term in this manner.

ST. MIKE'S DEFEAT BLUES IN OVERTIME

driver's seat and with about one minute to go Meagher, elongated Bay St. centre, sank a foul to send his team into the lead 31-30. As all looked bad for Varsity's aggregation Willis sank a foul five seconds before the full time ended to make the score 31-31 and send the teams into overtime.

The added session dished up some slow, careful ball as both teams waited for a break. Gold sent the Blue and White cause to the fore by sinking a foul. Hickey nullified this lead by sinking a long shot that proved to be the winning basket. As full time approached Gold and Sniderman missed on two easy attempts and the whistle blew with the Saints carefully protecting a single point lead.

Although neither team displayed a very good brand of ball, the game being more exciting than scientific, the contest proved that the two teams will be hard to beat in future Big Six fixtures.

The features of the game were the fine displays of Mitchell, Sniderman and Gordon for Varsity and Joe Connelly and Meagher for the Saints. Red Gordon was the most aggressive player on the floor while Meagher, a new man to Big Six fans, turned in a very pleasing display.

St. Michael's — Connelly 12, Hickey 5, Hyues 2, Meagher 6, Marks 7, N. Sullivan, D. Sullivan, Dorsey, Clooney 1, Masucci, Peck.

Varsity — Collins 4, Gordon 10, Mitchell 5, Sniderman 8, Gold 3, McCallum 1, Willis 1, Levy, Young, Bodrug.

But he really is such a dear boy!

As for the knitting. Well, Christmas is coming and her sweet papoose must have his mauve sweater!

And furthermore, it wasn't a "fairly large green silk handkerchief"; it was a fairly large green georgette handkerchief.

M. & P. men take note—she is going to write your term exam! Believe it or not, she is! Well, there is one point in her favour—she knows what "dx" means now, anyway.

I repeat, with vehemence, three cheers for the College Widow. Merry Christmas, dear, and good luck in your exam. "I hope we both get a hundred."

of the Lit. stated as a personal opinion that "whereas the Registrar has the right to enforce the ruling, a concession should be made, especially since the notification of enforcement was given at the end of the term. Time should be allowed until some time in January to give an opportunity to students to earn the necessary money during their Christmas holidays. Furthermore, extension of time should be made to students whose parents are occupied in seasonal occupations." With regard to the petition being circulated on the campus, Mr. Skilling stated, "It expresses dissatisfaction on the part of many students with regard to the ruling."

Mr. M. Wayman, a member of the Student League, and also a member of the committee handling the circulation of the petition, stated, "Students response has been most satisfactory. In spite of the groundless fear of many students that their signatures will involve them in 'trouble', several hundred students have already signed the petition."

SETTLE'S ASCENT ADVANCES WORK

Prof. Thompson Says Progress Possible as Result of Flight

"Settle's work is important because it lets us take up heavy apparatus, and get a good deal more accurate information," stated Professor Thompson, chief physicist of the Meteorological Bureau, referring to the ascension into the stratosphere of Lt.-Commander T. G. W. Settle, when interviewed by The Varsity yesterday. "It is to be hoped that more ascents will be made soon, especially in the region of the magnetic pole, situated in northern Canada. The problem on which Dr. H. Compton, University of Chicago physicist and Dr. Millikan differ, as to whether cosmic rays are molecular, or are light waves is at present a very open one."

Professor Thompson mentioned the work done on cosmic rays by Dr. Burton and Dr. MacLennan in the University of Toronto. He spoke of the visit to the meteorological office of Professor P. W. Burbridge, Director of the Physics Laboratory at Auckland University, New Zealand, who is giving a short lecture on the physics departments in New Zealand, on Thursday afternoon in the Physics Seminar. Professor Burbridge was associated with Professor Compton on intensity of the penetrating radiation in New Zealand, which showed that cosmic radiation was not constant over the earth's surface.

She comes to her new position with an intimate knowledge of educational policy and of the problems which the youth of today have to face.

As Dean of Women she will also have charge of the residential life of the women students of Victoria College. Miss Macpherson will assume her new duties at the beginning of the next academic year. Miss Addison, the former Dean of Women, resigned in 1931 after twenty-eight years' service in that position and since that time Dr. Norma Ford, assistant professor of Biology, has been Acting Dean. Dr. Ford now returns to give her full time to her work of teaching and research.

and two baskets scored in quick order by the Y team knotted the count at 11-11 after Krakauer had scored a foul shot for Varsity. The Blue squad came back with two nice baskets by Kinsey and Stoughton and from that point they were never threatened, running up a 23-11 lead before the fighting Y team could get organized. They came back strong to pull the score up to 23-16, but were weakened at this point by the loss of Blackman, their star defencemen through the four personal fouls route. In the last few minutes, both teams tired rapidly with the result that there was a lot of scrambling, Varsity finally pulling out a 29-19 win.

The Blues scored seven out of their fourteen foul shots, while the Y team made sure of eight of the fifteen donated to them. Miller, Kinsey, Stoughton, and Krakauer were the pick of the Varsity squad, with Dressler, Blackman and Litchen starring for the Y aggregation.

Varsity — Miller 5, Kinsey 7, Harlock 2, Stoughton 5, Krakauer 5, Gladish, Toole 3, Mullin, Stewart, Doan 1, Y.M.H.A. — Sherriff, Dressler 4, Pollack, Krieger, Blackman 5, Litchen 4, Nelson 2, Novack, Rubinstein 5, Reinhardt 1.

Referee — R. Mitchell.

Let us think for a moment of students who work their way through college.

Trying to make the pursuit of wealth assist the pursuit of knowledge. Some of them get up early every morning, Before the sun has even thought of dawning, And stoke the furnaces of their landladies (Probably cursing like Hades).

Or shovel the snow off side-walks with great big iron shovels, Even when afflicted with whooping cough, or influenza or snuffles, They earn their meals in restaurants by washing millions of dishes, Dipping them in and pulling them out with steady, monotonous swishes.

They dam their own socks

And press their own pants

And walk for miles of city blocks

To get a free dinner at some maiden aunt's.

They stuff their shoes with newspapers to save the price of half-soles them,

And even stop purchasing cigarettes, or try to save money by rolling them.

They almost never can raise enough lucre to blow it on movies or dances,

And girls who will go for a walk every night are scarcer than icebergs in Kansas.

Ah, well,

"Poverty is a blessing," says R. B. Bennett Prime Ministerly.

But they who know better merely mutter imprecations pretty sinistinely.

firemen can attach their hose without bending over. So what?

Well, we have a swell idea. Why not dig up the roads and jack them up level with the sidewalk. This would eliminate the possibility of anyone lying in the gutter. Then they might dig up the sidewalks and put them on the level of the second story windows, and you could fall into bed without climbing the stairs. Or better still, they might dig up the car tracks and stick them up alongside the trolley wires, thus eliminating unsightly trolleys, and giving everybody a better view. Now that we're digging things up generally, why not dig up the whole darn place and plant hollyhocks. Think of the vista. We vista guy who cracks all those puns on the back page could dig up something new.

NO TUBERCULIN TESTS FOR MEN STUDENTS

Not Usually Included in Ordinary Physical Examination

"No special tuberculin tests are carried out among men students," Dr. Porter, the University Medical Director, informed The Varsity in an interview yesterday. However, if any suspicion of infection with the tubercle bacilli appeared during the ordinary physical examination which is taken by all students of first and second years tests would be given by a specialist in this branch.

Dr. Porter declined to comment when asked if there was any likelihood in the future of compulsory tests, similar to those taken by the women, being extended to the men, but suggested that the present medical examination was responsible for discovering most of the ills with which the student body is likely to be afflicted.

The University authorities responsible for these tests, state that it is not through alarm of the health of the women students, that these tests are made, but because of a desire to ascertain the general health level. The tests are compulsory for women, taking physical training.

again when Ripley picked a beautiful pass from Lavery, his shot picking the goal nicely.

The third period turned out to be a scoring bee, with the red light flashing no less than nine times. Drillon opened the spurge after ten minutes of the period had gone by when he picked up Parsons' rebound to easily beat Shipman. Varsity had a great chance to start things rolling when they had a two-man handicap, but they failed to do any damage, when O'Leary and Ripley were penalised for the losers in quick succession. Cooper scored another for the Rangers with the Collegians under this handicap, after picking up Parsons' rebound. Morgan then netted the disc on a well-played pass from Ripley's stick. The Rangers then retaliated with two successive goals by Chipman and Parsons to put them up three goals. The losers cut into the Rangers' lead when Ripley and Upper scored, the latter's goal being a beautiful effort. The Rangers then put the game on ice in the last three minutes to play with Parsons, Drillon and Fowler scoring in rapid succession.

For the winners, Drillon, Parsons and Nevins starred, while Shipman in goal for the Varsity team, Ripley, Pouppore and Upper were the pick of the losers.

APPOINT COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER SPECIAL CASES OF UNPAID FEES

Difficulty of Certain Students in Meeting Fees Payment Recognised

STATE PURPOSE OF RULING

Said to be Over Four Hundred Students Have Signed Petition

The latest development in the current question of university fees centres on the statement of the Registrar, Mr. A. B. Fennell, who, when interviewed yesterday afternoon revealed that "A small committee has been appointed to consider the special cases." This is regarded by some as at least one decisive step towards concurrence with the student opinion which has been so frequently aired on the campus this last week. "I realise that there are some students who will find it difficult to meet their fees next week, but from what I gather, not having any authoritative figures on the matter, they are being paid up fairly well. I have received a few letters from students asking what they will be required to do in special cases, and ten or twelve have come to see me. The committee will look into these matters thoroughly."

When asked what his attitude would be towards the petition which the Student League has sponsored, he was inclined to be reticent, preferring to

COMMITTEE NAMED TO PROBE V.C.U. FEE

Move Follows Protest Voiced at Open Meeting of Students

AMENDMENTS PASSED

At an open meeting of the Victoria College Union yesterday afternoon the amendments to the constitution which have been under way for some time were unanimously accepted and final decision regarding certain problems of last week's discussion were concluded.

The recommendation which was made last week to the effect that the third year pass people who are graduating be allowed to hold senior offices was rejected due to the consideration that students must represent the year in which they are registered. A student may hold only one executive position during the first three years, but the same person may run for office in his fourth year.

In response to the suggestion made by Ted Avison that quibbling should be done at the meeting, not in the college hall, the question was raised as to just what does happen to the $10 union fee which every student must pay and why the women's fee is higher than that of the men. While all agreed that a fee was strictly necessary, it was felt that the necessity for so large an amount was very doubtful. Accordingly it was moved that the committee investigate the matter and although the women had insisted on making it a fixture when the first constitution was drawn up the chairman saw no reason why the women now could not change it.

Joint Executive Meeting

A special meeting of the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Council will be held today, Friday, in Room 82, University College, at 5 p.m.

ARCHAIC U.C. CHEER DOOMED TO PASS

"Undergraduate" is Sponsoring Contest to Obtain More Distinctive Yell

"RELIC OF VICTORIAN AGE"

The much lamented University College cheer is doomed to pass. Feeling that the largest college on the campus ought to have a more distinctive and colourful yell, The Undergraduate, organ of the U.C. Lit. and the W.U.A. is sponsoring a yell contest, first prize to be a purse supplied by the Lit.

Mr. J. Max Patrick, editor of the magazine, told The Varsity that, "The old yell is a relic of the Victorian age. It is dull, archaic and lacking in that verve that is characteristic of the U.C. man. The opening bars, 'Uni, Uni,' have a melody reminiscent only of the howlings of a milch cow. It is trite, tepid and tuneless. It must go," says Mr. Patrick.

The contest will close on January 10 and the selection of a winner will be left to the Lit. executive, but before the new cheer can become official it must be passed by a meeting of the whole society. Entries should be addressed to The Undergraduate and left either at the Lit. office or the women's Varsity office.

Contest for New Yell

The Undergraduate Magazine announces a contest to be run under its auspices for a new yell for University College. A prize of $7.00 for the best entry has been voted by the U.C. Lit. The contest will close on Wednesday, January 10. The Lit. Executive will act as judges and the prize-winning yell will be submitted to an open meeting of the Lit. for adoption.

Yells should be left at the Lit. Office or the Women's Varsity Office, addressed to "The Undergraduate Magazine".

Reduced Rates

The Railway Companies are issuing to students of the University round-trip tickets at the rate of a single fare and one-quarter. Students desiring to take advantage of this reduction are requested to leave their names with the Registrar of their College or the Secretary of their Faculty or Department on or before December 16th. The necessary certificates will be issued at the College, Faculty or Department Office at noon on December 21st.

Premier's Fiscal Policy Centre of Discussion Of January Debate

The motion to be placed before the House at the next Hart House Debate, which the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett will attend, will involve some phase of the Prime Minister's fiscal policies, it was decided at a meeting of the Debates Committee last night.

Mr. R. A. Bell, the president of the Macdonald Carleton Club will introduce the motion with Bruce Marshall, a prominent Liberal opposing. It was decided that only two speakers would be "on the paper" in order to give as many members of the House as possible a chance to speak from the floor. The committee would therefore appreciate it if those wishing to speak would hand their names and the side into the Warden's office as soon as possible. The debate is to take place on Jan. 10th. Only members of Hart House will be admitted, on the presentation of their registration cards.

STUDENTS ENDORSE ACTION OF U.C. LIT.

Popular Approval is Voiced of Resolution Drawn Up by Executive

CALL FOR LENIENCY

Student opinion generally heartily endorses the resolution drawn up at an executive meeting of the U.C. Literary and Athletic Society advocating leniency for those students who are finding it difficult to pay their fees before the end of this term.

"University education should be free to all those qualified for a higher education," declared F. Lasserre, V.S.P.S., "but under the present unfortunate system it is necessary that fees be paid according to the ruling. In order to mitigate the deficiencies of the capitalist system, a certain amount of leniency is advisable for worthy students. To that extent I am in favour of the resolution."

J. M. Patrick, IV Arts, was of a similar opinion. "I am in favour of the Russian system," he stated, "when students are paid for attending the university. The more they work the more they get. . . and why not? As regards the question of leniency, it has too many angles for a brief discussion. I would require at least 500 words."

"I am firmly convinced," declared Daisy Bruce, III Arts, "that the integrity of the student body is sufficient warrant to extend the time of paying until the end of the academic year if such a length of time were required."

J. E. Laycock, III Arts, declared he agreed with the effort to obtain leniency for students. "As the ruling has not been strictly enforced before, and as the students were allowed to enter this year with the impression that the former leniency would be continued, it seems unfair to try to enforce it for the present year."

Miss P. Sandiford, III Pass, declared, "Students know they will be called upon to settle for their fees

SPORTSMANSHIP PRAISED

"What do we owe to our University?" asked Gordon Culbertson, assistant dean of Centre House, as he solemnly proposed the toast to the University at the annual Yuletide Dinner in Knox College last night. "Fees!" answered a voice from the back of the hall. Mr. Culbertson went on in more or less serious vein to point out the value of a university preparation for life.

W. J. Dunlop, Director of the Department of Extension and Publicity in the U. of T., pointed out in responding to the toast that in addition to the seven thousand students registered in the standard courses there are some five thousand taking night classes and extra-mural work, which enables the University to be of immense influence in the life of the province. "We need to make sure that no one is going to misunderstand the University on our account," said Mr. Dunlop in referring to the impressions which outsiders have of the activities which are carried on within this University.

J. Y. Fraser, in proposing the toast to Knox College, emphasised the importance of loyalty to the college in after years, as well as now. Deputy

BULLDOGS ARE OUT TO AVENGE DEFEAT AT HOME LAST YEAR

Yale Anticipates Stiffest Opposition Here of Canadian Tour

MEET MCGILL TONIGHT

Blues Defeated Yale Sextette by 3 to 1 Last Year at New York

(Special to "The Varsity")
New Haven, Conn., Dec. 14.—The Yale University Hockey Team comes to Toronto, December 16, fresh from its game with McGill, on its first Canadian campaign in hopes of avenging the 3-1 defeat inflicted upon the Elis by the Northern Skaters in New Haven last year.

Coach Holcombe York has definitely been pointing toward this contest from the beginning of practice a month ago, realizing that the high powered Canadian teams would probably give his men the toughest competition they would have to face all season. What this year's team lacks in experience it hopes to atone for in speed, stamina, and drive. The lack of any brilliant individual stars will be counterbalanced by smooth co-operating combinations.

An innovation has been carried out here in hockey this year by putting the squad through an arduous set of specially applied exercises under the direction of Bob Kipphut, famous Yale swimming coach, who has built up outstanding teams just by this method. Results in the form of increased speed and endurance have already been noticed in scrimmages.

The Yale team had their first real competition yesterday when they played the New Haven professional team in an informal game. The pros came out on top, but three Eli goals which were disallowed by the referee gave evidence of real scoring power. Saturday the Bulldogs are scheduled to meet the St. Nick's Club of New York which is expected to be a pushover; then a game with Boston University and the team will be ready to show the Canadian outposts what they can do.

The sextet has been built up around six able returning lettermen. Captain Joe Gilligan is the centre on a fast, clever forward line which also includes Jim Mills, captain of last year's Freshman team, and Warren Colby, another veteran of the 1933 season. The second line has proved to be a powerful scoring combination which threatens to oust the first line from their starting position. It consists of Roger Shepard, Doug Robinson and Tom Rodd. Johnny Wilmerding and Cy Herrick are holding down the defence positions, while in the nets is a brilliant goalie, Johnny Snyder, who is counted on to stop those driving Toronto pucks.

Vesper Service

The annual Christmas Vesper Service, conducted under the auspices of the S.C.M., will be held in Knox College Chapel on Monday, December 18th, at 5.10 p.m. The singing of the Christmas Carols will be led by the Music Club of Victoria College, directed by Mr. T. J. Crawford, Mus. Bac, F.R.C.O. All students and members of staff are cordially invited to attend.

Game Hailed as Opening New Era in International Sport

BLUES WEAKER THIS YEAR

Visit Marks First Appearance of American College Hockey Team Here

Opening a new era in the history of intercollegiate international sport, Varsity will on Saturday night encounter the Yale Bulldogs in an exhibition hockey game at Varsity Arena. Never before has an American college hockey team appeared on Toronto ice and the occasion is causing an unusual amount of interest. The meeting of Yale and Varsity is the first definite step toward the formation of an international intercollegiate hockey series, and although it is not strictly speaking for this purpose that the game was arranged, it is certainly a step in the right direction.

When the teams clash here on Saturday there will probably be witnessed one of the best games of the season. The idea that American colleges and hockey were unacquainted with each other is now definitely a thing of the past. This form of pastime has enjoyed a rapid rise in popularity around the line and the colleges are playing real hockey. Intercollegiate hockey has been a part of the athletic program.

DUMBIE ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Sensational Mock Trial Ends as Jury Brings in Not Guilty Verdict

PRISONER DISCHARGED

In a trial that lasted nearly four hours, the Supreme Court of the University of Toronto at the Criminal Assizes last night in the Junior Common Room of University College found Percival Demon Dumbie not guilty on a charge of murder.

This trial which was one of the most sensational ever to come under the jurisdiction of this court, resulted in doctors, a Hindu star gazer, a carpenter, landlord, police constables and others being called to give evidence.

According to the facts, Dumbie, fearing that the deceased, Dr. Searcher, was going to try a new-fangled death ray upon him, attacked the doctor with a chair and killed him.

The defence counsel, Mr. Goldwin A. Martin and Mr. Eric L. Medcalf, pleaded that the accused, suffering from an insane delusion resulting from a practical joke played upon him, killed the doctor in self-defence.

Mr. S. M. Hermann and Mr. W. R. Sutton in prosecuting the case for the Crown, were of the opinion that such a dangerous character was not fit to be let loose in the community and they informed the jury that the evidence justified the verdict of guilty.

After deliberating for half an hour the jury, headed by Mr. Nathan Pivnick, returned a verdict of not guilty and the prisoner was discharged.

"PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARDS MEN"

Christmastide is a time for the return to the simpler things of life, a time when even modern youth drops the cloak of sophistication, which it so often delights to flaunt before the world. The very essence of the Christmas spirit is simplicity, and in order to enjoy the celebration of the birth of the Christ-child we become children at heart, we go back to the simple essentials of life.

To a group of simple-minded shepherds the message of Christmas first was given. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will towards men." The shepherds were not slow to grasp the meaning of the message, nor were they slow in their efforts to put it to a practical test.

After more than nineteen hundred years of so-called human progress the message comes to us just as full of meaning as then. It comes as a challenge to a sick and sorry world. God and peace and good will are much needed by mankind today, the Christmas season with its happiness and joy is but a reminder of the necessity of these things.

Let us look beyond the commercial and social stress which is too often placed upon Christmas, to the real meaning of the season. As individuals we may do much to introduce into all phases of life the true spirit of Christmas—reverence for God, peace on earth, and good will towards men. By these the world may be made better the whole year round.

BY WAY OF FAREWELL

With this issue the editor-in-chief severs his active connection with The Varsity, after three terms at the helm of the undergraduate newspaper. We wish to thank those who have facilitated our work by their interest and co-operation, especially the masthead and staff of The Varsity, the Publications Committee of the S.A.C., and the general secretary-treasurer of the S.A.C., who as business and advertising manager has worked at all times in close harmony with the editorial staff. We hope that our successor (as yet unknown) will be given the same measure of support and assistance as we have enjoyed.

One of the great privileges of the editorship is the opportunity which it gives to enlarge one's circle of acquaintances, most of whom we hope have become our friends. To them, and indeed to all our readers, we extend sincere wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

GRADUATE OF VARSITY GOES TO EDINBURGH

In order to fill the position of head of the Occupational Therapy Department in the University of Edinburgh, Mrs. Mabel McRae is leaving Toronto for that city in the first week of January. Mrs. McRae, who is a 1910 graduate of the University of Toronto, will replace Miss DesGrisay of the Toronto General Hospital, who started the department in Edinburgh last September and is now returning to Toronto. Although Occupational Therapy is a new department at the university, it is expected to grow to large proportions in the near future. Mrs. McRae, who graduated in Medicine at the University of Toronto last spring, is accompanying Mrs. McRae and will study at the University of Edinburgh and at the Royal Infirmary. The stay will last at least three years.

Art, Music and Drama

Art Gallery

The Art Gallery in Grange Park, Toronto, on Thursday evening, December 28th, will be the scene of a unique Yuletide Folk Celebration, when a galaxy of national groups in their native costumes will interpret in song, dance or folk scene the Christmas customs of their respective lands.

The affair, which promises to be interesting and very colourful from both the artistic and social angles, is being sponsored by the Toronto branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club as a means of establishing friendly relations with many citizens of foreign countries who have taken up residence in Canada, and also that funds may be raised for the club's Emergency Fund.

Some of the groups who will contribute to the programme are Ukrainians, Norwegians, Dutch, Russians, Italians, Hungarians, and Finns. In addition there will be illustrative scenes depicting the Christmas of Merrie England and of Old Quebec.

St. Thomas Church

Works of Mozart will be featured during the half hour of Choral music over CFRB on Sunday at 5:45 p.m. The Male Chorus will offer his setting of "Ave Verum", also the Mozart setting of "When I survey the wondrous Cross", arranged for Basses solo, sung by Maurice LaVoie and Choir, a musical setting of the "Parable of the Ten Virgins", by Dr. Eric Thiman with Baritone solo sung by William Mason, climaxing with the great chorale "Sleepers Wake" will be heard. Master Paul Foskett sings an Aria "The Sun shall be no more" by Greene. The Rector, Rev. C. J. Stuart, will give a timely message, the broadcast concluding with an a cappella work, "O Sacred Feast" by Toronto's own musician, Dr. Healey Willan.

Friday Afternoon Recital

Pearl Steinhoff Whitehead, mezzo-soprano, accompanied by Gwendolyn

Williams at the piano will sing two groups of Schubert songs and a Conservatory Ensemble Class under the direction of Harold Sumberg, will play a Schubert number at this week's recital, to be given at 5 p.m. today in the Music Room of Hart House. The programme has been arranged as follows:

Eaton Auditorium

Not since Palloff brought his Chausse Souris to Toronto have we seen anything so deliciously amusing as Victoria Podrecca's Trattori del Piccoli, or more explicitly his collection of synthetic entertainers so deftly suspended on strings presented last night at Eaton's Auditorium. Other critics or to conform to the orthodox viewpoint of some of our readers, critics have been unimpressed with their enthusiasm as the troupe of marionettes have wandered over the world and have been put through their paces over twelve thousand times. It is not only their popularity which commends them but even more the artistry of their conception.

We get fairly used to the annual visitations of artistic temperaments such as Kreisler, Rachmaninoff, Ponselle, Paderewski, yes, we get fairly used to all the usual programmes so readily presented and accepted in Toronto. But nothing will stand out so highly for a long time as The Piccoli. In the opera, The Barber of Seville, which was presented last night, the singers were not too fat, the villains were adequately villainous and the hero was unconditionally the "answer to a maiden's prayer". And it is an audience insists on showmanship when a great pianist performs, the temperamental wooden artist with the marionette company supplied everything that could be desired. For the vulgarist the disjointed edition of the chocolate Josephine Baker would satisfy all the demands of appetite. To the traditionalist of the dance the puppet ballet was able to satisfy even the most puny.

Ustinks it were a sweet and gracious thing, in this so generously belittled and be-mislead issue, to extend to all our readers and sympathisers the conventional salutations of the season. But somehow, we find ourselves reluctant to commit ourselves.

C-C

There are so many things that can happen in the next ten days. To probe the open wound, what about term exams? Yes, we repeat it loud and clear what about term exams? Are we justified in wishing anyone a Merry Christmas or even a Happy New Year when ninety per centum of our friends and associates are condemned to spend the next five days feverishly chewing the ends of pen-holders, and the next fifteen wondering whether to end it all in an orgy of Christmas cigars or hang themselves under the mistletoe with the yellow-and-mauve necktie which is Aunt Sophronie's annual contribution to the sufferings of humanity?

C-C

Not to mention the risible matter of fees. No, we prefer not to mention it. But we give no credence to current rumours that the movement may be traced to sinister influences operating from the Christmas Gift Department of Woolworth's.

The Women's Editor tells us that last remark was much too subtle, but when you start making up your gift list after forking out the major portion of your bank-balance to the fees clerk, perhaps you'll catch our drift.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

By Saturday afternoon at 3.30 either Varsity or McGill will be in front in the intercollegiate senior race for titles. It will be five and four, but for whom? That's the question that we hope the Blue water polo team is going to answer in a very satisfactory manner. The Redmen seem to have the problem partially solved with the two-point lead they are carrying into the fray, but it may be overcome by Varsity. It was last year in our home tank.

Yale was almost as hard to beat as Princeton last year in New York.

The big feature of the week-end besides the term examinations of which there are too many today, is the Yale-Varsity hockey match. The Athletic Association is making every preparation for a large crowd at this feature game for U. of T. and Toronto fans. The American colleges have never before ventured as far as Toronto to engage the Canadians at their own game. This is a very important venture on their part and much depends on the results. If the Blues play up to form they should take the Yale outfit. The Elis haven't many veterans at the game on their lineup but they boast of speed and stamina. Some of the stamina will be worn off after the game tonight with McGill in Montreal. The Redmen have a very potent machine that bids fair to go places and do things this season in the Allan Cup race. The Yale team will be entertained at Hart House during their stay here and will be guests of the Athletic Association. They purpose seeing the water polo game at 3.00 o'clock and will then be fed in preparation for the evening's contest at the Varsity Arena.

The score was 3-1 for Varsity in New York last year against Yale.

After the New Year the Varsity hockey team will make its annual trip to New York and New Haven to play Princeton, Harvard and Yale. Last year all these games were played in New York but this time the Yale contest will be staged in New Haven instead. The scores last Christmas were a two-all tie with Princeton, a 3-1 victory over Yale, and Harvard was trounced 8 to 1. The Blues' chances should be every bit as favourable this time even though the team has been weakened defensively. The American outfits have suffered by depletion also.

Cocher Lew Hayman takes his senior basketball team away today to Niagara Falls but it won't be any honeymoon the boys will be getting The Niagara U. team trounced St. Michael's College last week 44-12 in Niagara Falls and the losers of that game squeezed out a win in overtime over the Blue cagers in Hart House Wednesday night. After the Niagara game they go to Buffalo U., after which they have a night off before they stack up against Syracuse U. This game will be a real test and Hayman hopes to have a strong team lined up for the game. After that comes Alfred U., which will be tough opposition and then the boys should win their first game in several years across the border against Hartwick College at Oneonta, N.Y. We wish them a successful trip and hope they come back the wiser for their experience.

By accident we noticed a programme supplied by O.A.C. at their Victory Dance last Saturday night in Guelph. At the top they draw particular attention to the fact or supposition as it is, that the agriculturists are intercollegiate senior soccer champions of 1933. Varsity won the title in the senior schedule and O.A.C., being intermediate titleholders, are allowed the opportunity of playing the senior champs. This they did on Varsity's front campus in the snow one Saturday morning and somehow or other won the game. However, whether they deserved the victory or not, is beside the point. They were given to understand before the game that absolutely nothing was at stake and that no matter what happened they could not claim the title. Now they advertise themselves as the champions of both senior and intermediate series. That is going a bit too far. Perhaps they would like to advertise themselves as senior football champions too and challenge Winnipeg or something, or something.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

With only eight more shopping days left Christmas (my dear, have you bought those new slippers for Esmeralda?) and term exams looming large on the horizon, the fall season ends in a burst of activity. But then, activity has been a feature of the last few months as far as women's athletics are concerned.

When the old school bell first went ding-dong, co-eds arrived with tennis racquets and balls very much in evidence. A lively tournament was held on the courts of the Toronto Tennis Club where Agnes Garfield proved her superiority for the second consecutive year. St. Mike's came out on top with ten points and St. Hilda's trailed closely behind with nine.

In the first intercollegiate clash of the year, Queen's retained their possession of the tennis cup for another year. The tournament was held at Kingston in October when teams from Western, Queen's and Varsity, and for the first time, representatives from McMaster, competed in doubles and singles events.

Ball and bat next attracted the attention of those so inclined and a lively schedule was run off in Varsity gym, which the Scarlet and Gold won. There was an enjoyable amount of "play" attached to these games that did not exclusively deal with pitching and catching. Nothing like a real get-together, girls!

In the not far distant past, basketball was an important item in the sports world. There were three groups and many fast games were the result. St. Hilda's were successful in wrestling the laurel from Varsity Seniors, last year's champions, in two closely-contested games at Hart House gym. But the basketball season is far from complete. Western will be the scene this year of the intercollegiate tournament on February 23 and 24. So don't let the holidays upset your training rules too much.

Besides badminton and hockey which have already been started, the new year will see the annual swimming meets, and the interfaculty meet held in Hart House pool. January and February have every appearance of being busy months and some very interesting events will be forthcoming.

And so, my children, we raise our arms in blessing and wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. But a parting hint—for seniors only—there is no Santa Claus!

After defeating Victoria in the semi-finals of the box lacrosse playoffs Knox will play the first of a two-game series with Trinity today. The second game is booked for Monday, with goals to count on the round. Knox had a tough time downing the Scarlet and Gold as the Knox players will admit. There wasn't much to choose between the teams as the scores show. Knox has a very fast attack and their stick-handling is smart besides. The only chance Vic had to win was to check them off their feet. This they were not quite able to do and so dropped out of the race. Trinity is not considered to be as good a team as Knox and the latter will probably come through with the title. Trinity's threats are in Misan and Burchell, their two fast forwards who are crack shots. Knox will depend on their speed and stick-handling to win. This sport has shown a big improvement since its innovation and along with the added proficiency of the players there has been a big increase in the interest evidenced by the students who have turned out in considerable numbers to watch the games.

In the first issue of The Varsity, which will appear on Jan. 6th, you will find accounts of the games which are scheduled to take place during the holidays. The hockey team has a couple of O.H.A. encounters after the Yale game tomorrow night, the senior B and junior cagers play in the Y leagues here tomorrow night, and there will be accounts of the hockey and basketball trips to report. We hope that a goodly number of these will be favourable. Oh yes, and we hope Santa Claus is good to you too. Don't forget to get your fees paid because there doesn't seem to be much work floating around for the holidays yet. A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you all and may the best man win.

BASKETEERS LEAVE ON AMERICAN TOUR

Senior Squad Will Play Six American Colleges During Holidays

CHANCES GOOD THIS YEAR

The 1933-34 edition of Varsity's senior basketball team will entrain at noon today for Niagara Falls, N.Y., where they meet the strong Niagara U. quintet in the first game of the annual Christmas trip over the border.

The Blue team has mapped out a heavy campaign for itself, playing no less than six games in seven nights, with only a one-day stop-over at Syracuse, the home of Coach Lew Hayman's alma mater. After tonight's game at the Falls, they head for Buffalo, playing the U. of Buffalo five Saturday night. On Monday they take on Syracuse, and on the following three nights, Hartwick College at Orienta, N.Y., Alfred U. at Alfred, N.Y., and wind up at Ithaca, N.Y., with the powerful Cornell squad as their opponents.

Although they have not won a game in their last three invasions, Varsity has been putting up a stiffer argument every year, as their knowledge of the American style of play is increased. With Warren Stevens as coach of last year's Big Five champions, and Hayman at the helm this year, the Blue team has been trained in the American style of attack and should give a good account of itself on the tour.

Eight players will make the trip to Niagara Falls, Bodrug, McCallum and Sniderman being unable to accompany the team. Sniderman and Normie Newman are expected to join them in Buffalo, and will partake in the Buffalo U. and Syracuse games, while Mitchell and Collins have to return after seeing action in the first two games only. Red Gordon, Levy, Young and Himel, who are making the trip for the first time, should do much to strengthen the team this year, while Moe Mitchell, after his showing in the St. Mike's games, is a sure-fire bet to plug up the weakness at centre displayed on last year's trip. Gold, Collins, Willis and Sniderman are the only veterans of the squad who will be

WARDEN'S DINNER AGAIN A FEATURE

Students Unable to Return Home for Holidays Are Guests at Hart House

The annual Christmas dinner at Hart House will be given again this year, to the delight of the men who find they are unable to spend their Christmas vacation at their homes, chiefly because of the great distance which separates them from the family fireside. One of the chief purposes of the dinner is to supply that cordiality and friendliness of the Christmas season which students would otherwise miss by not going home.

When seen yesterday, Warden J. B. Bickersteth of Hart House gave the following statement to The Varsity.

"For many years, the Warden has arranged a Christmas dinner for those students who are undergraduate members of Hart House, who live in countries other than Canada or in such distant parts of the Dominion that they cannot spend any part of the Christmas vacation at home. This year, this dinner will take place at 6.45 on Wednesday, the 20th of December, when a real Christmas dinner will be served, followed by carols, presented by the Canadian Singers under the direction of Dr. Campbell McInnes. The Warden presents every man at the dinner with a small gift.

"The cosmopolitan character of the University is never more clearly shown than at this dinner. Every province of the Dominion is represented in addition to almost all parts of the British Empire, such as Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Great Britain, Scotland and Ireland. There are also groups from China, Japan, South America, and many European countries, such as Germany, Scandinavia and Holland."

CHRISTMAS JOBS ARE SCARCE AGAIN

Sale of Greeting Cards Proves Lucrative Undertaking for Some

The Employment Bureau of the University Alumni Federation reports that there have not been as many applications for Christmas jobs this year as there have been in the last two or three winters. This is not accredited to the fact that the depression appears to be lifting, however. In the past it has been the custom to have students who wished to work in the Christmas holidays fill out application forms when registering at the beginning of the term. This method has been discontinued, and those who want positions must apply in person to the Bureau. In this way a great many applications have been eliminated which, under the former system might have been made.

The Varsity also learned that it is only occasionally at the present time that the Bureau is called on for clerks by the large stores down town. Whereas in the past a definite order for clerks would be sent to the Bureau by the stores, today the most the Bureau can do is to send a student to the employment offices of the large stores to apply for a position in the same way as would anyone else.

An entirely new experiment was successfully worked out by the Bureau this year. Students who applied for work at the office were given an opportunity to sell Christmas cards to their classmates. The cards were sold at 75c a dozen, one-third of which went to the student selling the cards. In this way several young men were enabled to earn more than they could have by taking jobs down town. One of them indeed is reported to have added over $100 to his bank account by diligently canvassing his friends. The results of the experiment were so gratifying to all concerned that it is expected the same plan will be adopted next Christmas.

It is learned that a number of students have also been placed in part-time positions by the S.A.C. office, both during the term and for the Christmas holidays.

ENGINEERS TO HEAR DR. A. P. COLEMAN

Dr. A. P. Coleman, Professor Emeritus of Geology, and formerly Dean of the Faculty of Arts of the University, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Engineering Society in Room C22 of the Mining Building at 4 p.m. today.

Dr. Coleman, despite his seventy years, is extremely alert and active, and is intimately acquainted with his subject, "The Strange History of Lake Iroquois". The subject deals with the history of the territory where Toronto now stands, during the Pleistocene age. To quote from Dr. Coleman's book, The Pleistocene of the Toronto Region—"Lake Iroquois . . . an interglacial lake existing about 25,000 years ago where Lake Ontario now stands. Toronto and environs present the most complete history of the Ice Age in North America. The Don Valley and Scarborough Heights are famous among students of the Pleistocene age but Torontonians have never heard of them and take no pride in features that from a scientific point of view distinguish Toronto from all other cities."

SKI CLUB PLANS PROGRAM FOR COMING WEEK-END

At the meeting of the U. of T. Ski Club held in the Debates Room, Hart House, last night, it was decided that the trials to determine who would represent the University at the different ski meets to be held at Lake Placid, Lucerne and at home would be held this week-end at Caledon, the home grounds of the ski club.

The meeting was evidenced by more enthusiasm this week due to the heavy fall of snow, allowing ample facilities for a race.

For those who have not attended any meetings this year, the directions to reach the farm we will use as a temporary headquarters are as follows:—as it follows the same organization as the Orangeville highway out of Brampton to the Forks of the Credit which is about ten miles outside of Brampton. At the Forks, turn left and follow this road about a mile and a half until you see a piece of red hunting on a farm gate on the right hand side of the road.

BLUES MEET MCGILL TO-MORROW IN FINALS FOR WATER POLO TITLE

McGill Enters Game with Lead of Two Goals Secured in Montreal

HERSCHEL CUP AT STAKE

Redmen and Varsity Have Each Annexed Four Titles This Year

Next Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. will witness an important intercollegiate struggle in the Hart House tank, when McGill will attempt to wrest from Varsity the Herschel Cup, emblematic of intercollegiate water polo supremacy. They will bring with them a 2-goal lead which they acquired last Saturday in Montreal by outscoring Varsity 7-5. In sports between the two universities this year, the count is at present tied, 4-4. McGill having copped the senior tennis, senior track, harrier and golf, while the Blues annexed titles in senior rugby, senior soccer, English rugby (rugger), and rowing. Water polo, then, will provide the tie-breaker for the current calendar year.

After a poor start, the Blue and White team has been going great guns in recent city league games, and promise to make this important tilt quite interesting. This time the Blue home game, the Redmen will find it necessary to swim at all times when in the water, for both ends of the pool are deep. The larger pool, too, often makes it necessary for the visiting team to modify tactics to cope with the Varsity attack.

The home team will line up in the following order: McCarty at centre, Lealie Davey and Bancroft, forwards, Capt. Smith and Middleboro at defence; MacLeod, goal, Rogers and Hardy, spares. Opposed to this team McGill will be assured of a battle royal. So, even if we have only seven more shopping days until Christmas, let's turn out and give the boys a hand to what we hope will be another intercollegiate championship. Don't forget—the time, Saturday, Dec. 16th, at 3 p.m.; the place, Hart House pool; the teams, McGill and Varsity. Students (including women) are admitted by Coupon No. 39.

STUDENTS ENDORSE ACTION OF U.C. LIT

when they entered the University. In this respect the University is justified in demanding payment. However, to demand immediate settlement after the previous practice does seem to be too strict.

J. Graham, II, Pol. Sci., stated to The Varsity, "I am in entire sympathy with the resolution. Strict enforcement would be prejudicial to the poorer students who expect to earn some money during the Christmas vacation."

"This resolution," declared H. Lubinsky, a member of the Student League, "repudiates The Varsity editorial that the action of the Student League on this question was 'a gesture of contempt for authority.'"

Mary D. Salter, III, Psychology, was of the opinion that, in general, students should pay their fees when due. "However," she added, "worthy students having difficulties should have greater opportunity to obtain loans. Those students who expect to defray their own expenses should be able to pay on time."

None of the students interviewed by The Varsity declared themselves opposed to the resolution. It was generally felt that, if deferring the collection of fees would help any large number of students, the University should grant the extension. Several students declared themselves uninterested in the question but on further interrogation The Varsity discovered that their own fees were paid.

GAME OPENS NEW ERA (Continued from Page 1)

gramme of Harvard, Princeton, Yale and other universities for some time past and the possibility of their bettering the Canadians at their own game is not at all a remote one.

Last year the Varsity hockey team encountered Yale in their Christmas trip. It was only after a bitter struggle that Varsity were able to come through with a 3-1 victory. Varsity this season have yet to look as good as last year's edition did while Yale have improved considerably. Six of their last year's crew are back and a strenuous practice season has whipped them into a real hockey team. However, they will play McGill the night previous to their Varsity engagement and much will depend on the outcome of that game.

However, the fact that Varsity will have a decided edge in the matter of preparatory competition must not be overlooked. Their active season on the O.H.A. series has brought them to the peak of their power. Yale, on the other hand, will take the ice with only one engagement previous to their Canadian appearance, behind them. In this game Yale played a professional team and although they lost they demonstrated a hockey ability which will make things interesting for Warren Stevens' crowd.

Victoria, City of All-Year Summer

This leisurely and lovely city, more typical of Old-World restfulness than Canadian bustle, located in the heart of Canada's overgrown playground, is becoming more and more the Mecca of Canadians who, flying from the austere of the northern winter, have discovered that the Dominion offers climatic amenities for which in other years it was thought that Florida or California were the only solutions.

West of the Rockies and warmed by the Japan current, Vancouver Island presents some amazing contrasts with the rest of the Dominion. Winter climatic conditions are such that there are hundreds of hours of warm sunshine with ideal temperature, minimum rainfall and conditions at once restful and health-giving.

Canadian enterprise has been quick to see the advantages offered by Victoria for those who seek summer facilities and sports during the normal winter months. The city boasts one of the finest hostels of the Dominion, the Empress Hotel, overlooking the inner harbor and tree-shaded lawns; social centre and headquarters for varied sporting activities. These include golf on superb full length courses, tennis and swimming in the great salt water pool at the Crystal Gardens. At Christmas the pageantry of an "Old English Yuletide" is observed every year at the Empress with "Bringing in the Yule Log," "Boar's Head Carol" and a ball on Christmas Night following dinner. There is specially selected music every evening during Christmas week and the New Year's Eve Ball is a famous institution at the Empress. From November 1 to the following April 30 there are special low rates in force.

What has specially drawn continuous attention to Victoria, however, is the mid-winter golf tournament, an annual Empress affair to which many well-known amateur golfers from America and Europe are attracted. This season it will be played over the course of the picturesque Royal Colwood Golf Club from February 19 to 24, 1934. Events include the E. W. Beatty Challenge Trophy, open to all amateurs playing under club handicaps; Ven's Open Amateur Event for the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Trophy; Victoria Rotary Cup for ladies best gross; and the Inter-district team match for the Matsen Trophy. The E. W. Beatty Trophy event is divided into classes for both ladies and men. Dinner dances as well as other delightful entertainment are given every evening at the Empress during the competition, with the presentation of prizes at a Grand Ball on closing night.

Motoring is always a delightful form of entertainment in Victoria. The famous Malahat drive, winding for miles through some of the finest scenery in Canada, offers facilities to motorists which make it justly internationally famous. There are many other worthwhile roads stretching beyond Victoria at the choice of the motorist. If a short sea trip is desired, there is the triangle run by palatial coast steamers between Vancouver, Victoria, and Seattle. The Canadian Pacific Railway offers a schedule of new low fares from all points in Canada, east of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary, to Victoria, daily, from November 16 to February 28, with return built April 30.

STEVENS PRESENTS ARTS FACULTY CUP

Acting Principal Rev. William Barclay of Hamilton responded to this toast, contrasting student life of today with that in Scotland years ago, when "a little meal and salt herring, and perhaps a glass of beer on Sundays" was the diet of the average student.

"The sportsmanship and spirit of competition in Knox is representative of one of the finest colleges on the campus," said Warren Stevens, Director of Athletics, in presenting the Arts Faculty Cup, which has been won by Knox six times in succession. David Gowdy, captain of the soccer team, received the trophy on behalf of the college.

After delivering an address replete with wit and humour, H. K. Caslor, chairman of the Athletic Committee, announced the names of the winners of "K's" and medals, awarded for athletic competition. Rev. Dr. Stuart Parker, honorary president of the Knox College Undergraduate Association, presented them.

The Committee in charge of the Yuletide Dinner was as follows: W. Weir, chairman; R. E. Will, secretary; R. A. Sindjar, Dec. H. Rayner, F. G. Stewart and L. E. Jones.

tilious. And so on to the contentment of any witness to the remarkable thrills of the animated, almost life-size, so-called adult-marionettes.

The whole performance is imbued with a subtle humour of a most cosmopolitan flavour. One finds oneself sharing the laughter, and joys, and the thrills and successes of these fleshless individuals and in conscious moments feeling ashamed of human limitations. We cannot get over the envy we hold for the artists who control the destinies of these agile and super-witty performers in the palms of their hands. The Teatro dei Piccoli has well earned the reputation as the greatest show of its kind. No detail is forgotten, the spirit of the company depends on all the unseen artists, the manipulators and the vocalists, none of whom lack the glorious humour which is the fundamental characteristic of the performance. No one who claims to be alive and humanly appreciative can afford to miss the Piccoli puppets. They are staying here for the rest of the work and everybody ought to make an effort to see them.

Hart House String Quartet

The Conservatory String Quartet last night presented the third of their series of concerts—a series, by the way, which deserves to be better patronised by University people. It is a thoroughly enjoyable ensemble with a balanced, mellow tone: very capable in its interpretations, and in the habit of putting on interesting programmes. There is genuine pleasure to be obtained from its concerts, and it is unfortunate that more people do not attend them.

The Schumann Quartet, Opus 41, No. 1, is a melodious work, but not very strong and not consistently satisfying. It is beautiful enough, but by no means representative of Schumann's best work; besides, it is written in a rather pianistic style. The Quartet hardly did itself justice, except here and there, and there were many quite obvious flaws in the performance. The pizzicato work in the Scherzo, for instance, was decidedly weak, and the tone often became less than pleasing.

The major item on the programme was the Vaughan-Williams Song Cycle, On Wenlock Edge, in which Mr. Hubert Eisdell did the singing, and Dr. MacMillan supplied the piano part. This work requires a little more extensive comment. The lyrics are taken from A. E. Housman's exquisite volume, A Shropshire Lad, published towards the end of the last century. I have always wished that more people were familiar with this fine poet, and I looked with great interest to see what the composer would do with his lib.

retto. Vaughan Williams, perhaps more than any other contemporary musician, may be safely entrusted with poetry of this nature, because of his maturity, his restraint, his power of getting sure effects, and his distinctly English flavour.

Mr. Housman's lyrics are so simple and poignant that it is a task of no ordinary difficulty to set them to appropriate and equally effective music. Vaughan Williams has chosen to dramatise them, and to discourse tonally upon them, rather than to write the usual kind of setting. The poetry is his background, his raison d'être, and the quiet and moving cadences are more or less lost in the sound. Yet I find the work effective and well built. But I do think that the composer made a great mistake in employing the poem Is my team ploughing?—perhaps Mr. Housman's most powerful lyric—which is in itself extremely moving, by the simple force of its form and bare speech. Vaughan Williams' structure is good, but not good enough to enhance the verse—and it was Beethoven who said that the music must always surpass the words. The performance seemed quite adequate.

The last group was composed of a Wolf Serenade, and two Goossens pieces, By the Town and Jack O'Lantern. There is nothing very remarkable about the music—except, perhaps, the Wolf title—but it is enjoyable to hear. And the Conservatory Quartet has the happy faculty of playing this sort of work with grace and with gentle warmth. N.F.L.

To revert to our original subject, Christmas greetings are all very fine in their way, but we for one find it irritating in the last week or so to have every conversation end with a faltering, "Well, guess I'll be trotting along . . . uh-uh . . . well . . . uh-uh . . . well, Merry Christmas, Old Horse, and don't eat too much turkey. (Aside. Thank God that's over!)" We suggest, as a corrective, the following timely slogan "Do your Christmas greeting early . . . And avoid the gush!"

We have changed our mind. Just having realised that this is the last time we have to pound out fodder for the lino-type in Anno Depressioni 1933, we hereby stick our nose out of the alley long enough to utter three hearty shouts of joy and extend to all our readers, male, female or feeble-minded a Christmas undisturbed by essays overdue and a New Year without a hang-over.

Extension of Time to Today
Granted by Com-

MANY HAVE PAID UP

Plea of Students who Depend on Holiday Earnings Heeded

According to information given to The Varsity by Mr. A. B. Fennell, Registrar of the University, the power of the University authorities to suspend those students whose fees are not paid by the end of the term was not exercised at all during the holidays.

"The committee appointed to consider the cases of students whose fees were not paid held a meeting on December 21st," stated the Registrar, "and, in view of the fact that some thousand students had responded to the first letter sent out by paying their arrears in fees and also in consideration of the plea made by some students that they depended on work during the holidays to supply the funds needed, a decision was reached to send out a second letter, granting an extension of time to Friday, January 5."

"On December 21st," Mr. Fennell continued, "there were about 300 Arts students whose fees were still unpaid to date. Since that time, however, there have been students coming into the office every day to settle up their accounts. Just how many have not yet come in I cannot say, but there will be another meeting of the committee this afternoon to decide what will be the fate of those who have not met their bills during the period of grace allowed them. I have no reason to believe at the present time that the committee will grant a further extension of time, though I can make no definite prediction in this matter."

"Every year," concluded Mr. Fennell, "there is a substantial number of students who come into the office just before the final examinations and tell us they can't pay their fees. To prohibit these students from writing their (Continued on Page 4)

INTERNATIONAL GATHERING AT S. C. M. CONVENTION

Unemployment, Nationalism, Race, Dealt with by Delegates

Lloyd Reynolds of McGill, Miss Fosdick of Smith College, and Mr. MacDonald of Yale were the leaders of the three commissions which dealt with the problems of Unemployment, Nationalism and Race under the main question of the relation of the Christian Discipleship to these problems at the three day international conference of the Student Christian Movement concluded last Monday at McMaster University in Hamilton. In addition to the work done by these commissions there were three meetings addressed by Dr. T. Z. Koo of China on "The Meaning and Significance of the Christian Message."

The conference was a project of the World Student Christian Federation and was a gathering of international students. It was purposely limited to one hundred delegates, the idea being to have fifty students from the universities of the United States and a like number from Canada, with the division between the men and women students equal. In actual fact it worked out to fifty-seven of each, and with Dr. T. Z. Koo made the total attendance 115. Eighteen delegates from the University of Toronto, representing twelve different colleges and faculties, attended the conference.

LOAN FUND FOR UNDERGRADUATES NOW AVAILABLE FOR THIS YEAR

Out of its accumulated surplus the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Councils have added to their loan fund. This fund will be available for this year after January 5th, 1934.

1—The fund is available to all undergraduates of the University who belong to the Faculties, Colleges and Departments which are bona fide members of the Joint Executive.

2—Only students in the two final years of their course are eligible.

3—The maximum loan is $100. More than one loan may be obtained, provided always that the total outstanding indebtedness does not exceed $100 at any time.

4—If granted a loan, the student shall sign a promissory note endorsed by a person meeting the approval of the Loan Committee; said note to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum from the date of leaving the University or from the first day of June in the year of graduation.

5—All loans should be repaid as soon as possible, but shall mature not later than one year from the date of leaving the University or one year from the first day of June in the year of graduation, and shall bear interest after maturity at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, retroactive to the original date of the note.

6—Applications for loans should be made in person to the Associate Secretary, Room 82, U.C., for Women Students, and to the General Secretary-Treasurer, Students' Administrative Council office, Hart House, for Men Students.

The necessary forms may be obtained at above offices on and after Friday, January 5th, 1934. No applications may be filed prior to this date.

S.A.C. Appoints New "Varsity" Editor

Upon the resignation of De-Courcy H. Rayner from the editorship of The Varsity due to the pressure of studies, the Students' Administrative Council appointed Arthur C. Cochran, B.A., to fill the vacancy. Mr. Cochran is a second year student in theology at Knox College and has held the positions of Sports Editor and Associate Editor on the staff of the paper in former years. The new editor embarked upon his duties with this issue of the undergraduate publication.

M'GILL NATATORS TAKE POLO TITLE

REDMEN LEAD IN TITLES

McGill assumed the lead in the intercollegiate rivalry with Varsity, when, on the afternoon of Dec. 13, 1933, the squad of Red natators splashed their way to a 5-5 tie with the Blue and White representatives. Due to the 2-goal lead which they had accumulated in their home game the week before by outscoring Varsity 7-5, McGill became holders of the Herschel trophy for the ensuing year. The spectators, who numbered about 250, were given a close-checking, hard-fought exhibition of intercollegiate sport.

Shortly after the game was under way, Smith, for Varsity, was given a penalty shot which was not converted into a goal, and Leard's shot seconds later was just outside the net. Stein made a beautiful rush and gave Freeman a perfect pass, on which the latter made no mistake in placing the ball behind MacLeod in the Varsity net. McCarty, for Varsity, went right in on the goal but was unable to score. Davey was given a free throw, which he converted into a goal, and on the score of the game 1-1 and on the round 8-6 for McGill. Varsity had more shots, but their shooting was not as effective as that of their opponents.

Varsity suffered a penalty soon after play commenced in the second half. McGill made the most of this when French held Freeman, who was right in front of the Varsity net and he made no mistake in chalking up another goal.

GIFT FROM LONDON LINKS FACULTIES

Authority on Rheumatism Donates Collection of Lantern Slides

RESULTS OF RESEARCH

"A homely gift, given in a homely fashion, as a homely link, from a homely person" is the description given by Dr. F. J. Poynton of London, England, of a gift which he has made to the Medical Faculty of the University of Toronto, and which he further describes as follows:

"The original negatives illustrating those investigations into the problems of rheumatism in which the donor has taken a part and the volume 'Researches on Rheumatism' by Poynton and Paine are presented as a token of friendship and deep regard by Frederic John Poynton, M.D., F.R.C.P., London, Senior Physician to University College Hospital and the Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond Street, London, 1933."

The 107 lantern slides are packed in a beautiful box made by the carpenter at University College Hospital and the gift was sent with someone who was coming over to Canada from England. Hence the reference in the letter already quoted. The intention of the donor is to provide a link between the Medical Faculty to which he belongs and the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Toronto. In his letter he expresses much anxiety as to whether he may possibly give offense. He says, "That the Medical Faculty of a University fresh and strong, with a great future before it in a mighty country should accept this gift in remembrance of investigators from the Motherland will be for me a charming memory."

Dr. Poynton has given his life to the study of rheumatism, particularly in children. He now hands over to the Faculty of Medicine of this University all the results of his researches.

STRING QUARTETTE CONCERT POSTPONEO

The concert by the Hart House String Quartet, scheduled for tonight in Convocation Hall is postponed, on account of illness, until next Friday, the 12th, at 5 p.m. This is the first time the Quartet has had to postpone a concert during its career; a marvellous record for ten years, during which 600 concerts were played.

Claiming that statements he made at the annual convention of the National Federation of Canadian University students at London, Ontario, last week, concerning the protests lodged by the Communist group against the new ruling of the University of Toronto, were greatly distorted in the Toronto newspapers, Ted Avison, president of the Victoria College Union, declared that the reporters had misinterpreted his remarks.

"My explanation of the action of 300 students in applying for exemption from paying fees until after writing their examinations was linked up with my reference to the protest meeting which was sponsored by the Students' League," Mr. Avison explained to The Varsity.

RESUME CLASSES FOR PROSPECTORS

Large Registration Again This Year—Had to be Closed at 970 Last Year

DR. BURWASH IN CHARGE

The Ontario Department of Mines yesterday instituted a series of classes for those who are interested in prospecting and the search for precious metals. The course is to be conducted by Dr. E. M. Burwash at the Economics Building of the University, and is to continue for eight days, with five evening lectures, the first of which is to be delivered tonight on the subject of "The Constitution of the Earth."

Similar classes were held last year under the same auspices, with marked success. So great has become the interest in mining and its kindred problems that the enrolment was overwhelmingly large, and the registration books had to be closed at 970. Not all the students intend to participate actively in the search for gold, but many of those who attend the classes do so with the desire to acquire an intelligent understanding of Ontario's growing mining industry. The course is open to all who are interested in this field, and there are no definite entrance requirements, no entrance examinations, and no fees.

Other topics of interest upon which lectures are to be delivered are: Crystals and Minerals, Rocks and Rock Formation, The Geology of Ontario, and Mining Centres of Ontario.

Enrolment for these classes began yesterday afternoon at one o'clock at the Economics Building. From the signs of interest shown in this project of the Mines Department, it is expected that the classes this year will be as enthusiastically attended as were the capacity classes last year. The purpose of this work is to give instruction to all who desire information, without restricting the membership.

The stately chancel of St. Paul's Church, Bloor Street, was the setting for the marriage of Hon. and Rev. Dr. H. J. The wedding was a quiet affair with only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and their intimate friends in attendance. The former Miss Blackstock was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gibbs Blackstock. With Dr. Cody were Rev. R. B. McEldheran, Principal of Wyckiffe College, who read the marriage service; Prof. W. B. Horan, and Bishop Renison, rector of St. Paul's, who pronounced the benediction.

EMMANUEL PRINCIPAL SUFFERS BROKEN ANKLE

Despite intense pain from a fractured ankle suffered in a fall on the ice in Queen's Park yesterday, Professor Richard Davidson, principal of Emmanuel College, presided at the first chapel service of the new term. Following the service examination disclosed a fractured ankle. He was taken home first and later removed to St. Michael's hospital.

Says Appointments to Staff of Clinical Medicine Made on Social Basis

LAUDS BRITISH SYSTEM

Hospital Staff Positions Not Advertised, Applications
Not Received

By E. C. Phelan

When interviewed by The Varsity last night with reference to statements attributed to him by the daily press, Dr. James Cotton stated that some slight misrepresentation had been made in the article which was published. The statements were to the effect that Dr. Cotton alleged that additions to the medical staff were not selected for their medical ability or experience but rather on account of social or family relationships. Dr. Cotton was referring not to appointments to the staff of University professors in general, but rather to the staff of clinical doctors in the public hospitals who are appointed by the university. It is here in particular that the "family compact" exists.

"Under the British system," he stated to The Varsity, "when there is a vacancy in clinical medicine at a university, such an appointment is advertised as open, and applications are received and are taken up by a board and the outstanding applicant is chosen, whereas here, due to the fact that staff positions are not advertised, applications are not received in the ordinary sense. The result is that the field of choice is narrowed to those whom the person or board choosing know personally. This leads to more or less of a personality factor creeping in and I have reason to believe that relationship and similar factors have not been overlooked."

"I am speaking only of the system of appointments of doctors associated with clinical medicine at the University of Toronto, and who, on account of such association are staff members in the public hospitals of Toronto, although extension of the field possibly to the other branches would not be a detriment. All public patients in the hospitals are required to be treated by the clinical staff men (who are appointees of the University) and as the semi-public beds are very limited, this practically means that the working class of the city have to come under University appointees for treatment. This divides the medical profession into two groups, one of which cannot follow their patients into the hospitals, and the other group is almost a preferred class. This leads to a commercial antagonism between the two groupings which is detrimental to the profession."

"Anything which I have said," continued Dr. Cotton, "is not meant to criticize in any way the personnel of clinical medicine at the University of Toronto, but rather to introduce factors which will benefit our profession as a whole and our ability to serve humanity."

"A family compact has developed at the University," charged Dr. Cotton. "I think it arose more or less innocently and there is no particular individual to blame—there nevertheless the condition does exist. There are higher degrees than the professors in medicine and yet these physicians have no hope of ever getting on the clinical staff of the University simply because they are not properly related or connected. They're not born right," he added.

Dr. Cotton is a graduate of the University of Toronto, having attained his medical degrees in 1914-15. He also holds a master's degree in Physiology and Biochemistry from the Department of Physics and several other degrees.

BY WAY OF INTRODUCTION

The editor-in-chief and staff of The Varsity have one primary objective in mind when they publish the paper: to have it read. Most people relish the exhilaration derived from seeing their mental progeny in print, and in this respect the members of The Varsity staff are no exceptions. We are not primarily concerned that you agree with us—although it is gratifying at times to know that there are people of discernment—but we cherish the thought that you will at least read your own undergraduate publication. While it is true that the newspaper which most successfully manages to outrage the good taste of its readers enjoys the largest circulation in Canada, we hasten to reassure the students of this University that in our efforts to engage your unflinching interest we shall not change the colour of our printed page. Sensationalism should always be abhorred.

The Varsity is a medium for the dissemination of news and for the expression of contemporary thought. It is not sufficiently realized that both bear the stamp of transiency. What is news today is history tomorrow and cannot be admitted to the columns of the daily newspaper. Substantially the same thing is true of modern ideas, for what is modern now, rapidly becomes archaic. No serious philosophy today can avoid some account of its own inevitability and of the inevitability of the events which it seeks to interpret. Nor can any serious philosophy escape some recognition of its own relativity, and of the relativity of the various social, political, economic and intellectual movements existing today. This may be disconcerting to the cheerful apostle of progress, particularly if he is convinced that progress must be made in accordance with certain timeless principles.

It is essential that students in our day should seek to understand the historic significance of the vast changes taking place in the world. It is absurd to forge ahead in our optimistic endeavours to create a utopia after the fashion of our pet theories before we have clearly seen the relativity of all theories. The editorials of The Varsity, insofar as they may deal with art, literature, science and philosophy, or more concretely with economics and politics, will be, therefore, necessarily critical. That will free us from being dubbed Liberal, Conservative, Socialist or Communist; it will not deliver us from the charge of being destructive critics.

In keeping with this policy The Varsity will print articles of reasonable length on any subject, provided such articles are intelligently written, and are neither libellous nor offensive to the good taste of the fastidious reading public on this campus. At present the Student Christian Movement is the only organization which avails itself of space in The Varsity. There are possibly other standpoints from which Christianity might be presented. So far political propaganda has crept into this paper only through the news columns. We feel that many students at the University of Toronto would welcome brief, precise statements of the policies of some of the political parties in Canada, and the value of their application to present-day problems.

the important topics which came up for discussion. "Probably the most important item was that of finance," Mr. Skilling stated. "The effects of the depression have been felt by the federation as well as by other bodies elsewhere. Consequently, it was decided to reduce the annual fee of 10 cents per student to 5 cents, which rate will prevail for the next two years. This means, of course, reducing some of the functions of the federation. It was decided, as a measure of economy, henceforth to hold conventions only every two years, instead of annually."

Discussion on initiations was introduced by delegates from the University of Alberta, and the experiences of the different institutions represented were compared. Finally, a resolution was passed viewing with disapproval any compulsory physical training. The matter of tuition fees was introduced by the representatives from Toronto. It was found that the students here are in a favourable position. The majority of the universities either insisted on payment before enrolling or at least payment before examinations. Few of the universities were found to have libraries or loans for students unable to pay fees. McGill, Universities of British Columbia and Montreal were exceptions.

Discussing the value of the students' federation, Mr. Skilling said: "The chief value of the federation is that it is one of the few forces that brings together the various regions of Canada. Canada is divided up, economically and politically, into several distinct regions. Any institution that successfully links together its parts and helps to create a national feeling is one of great value and that the federation certainly does by its convention and exchange of undergraduates and its debating teams."

The student delegates were guests of the University of Western Ontario while the meetings of the convention, which lasted three days, were held at Huron College. There were representatives from all the Canadian universities except Queen's and Western.

A movement is on foot in Scotland to abolish the "cast-iron" nature of course restrictions.

Mount Allison University has a new well equipped physics laboratory.

Tenders for the construction of the new library of the University of Western Ontario are being called.

Hart House Theatre

Hart House Theatre is again presenting The Wizard of Oz: this week by popular request, and large and delighted audiences are proving that the revival is justified. As a children's pantomime it leaves little to be desired and not even the imaginative author of the famous stories could have found anything lacking in their interpretation. The costumes, since they followed the book drawings did not disturb preconceived ideas of the character, a fact that often mars a production of this kind. The necessity for numerous scenes evidently presented some difficulty; in the second act this was admirably overcome by allowing the Witch of the West to describe the tortures that she inflicted on Dorothy and her companions, as she saw them reflected in the cauldron. This and the lighting effects, made the second act superior in every way to the other two. The first especially seemed to lack integration. Many sprightly dances helped to produce an air of festivity. Gaiety and good humour pervaded the whole performance. The characters were all well cast but special mention must be made of Robert Christie who as the Cowardly Lion was nothing more or less than a lamb, the blue hair ribbon probably doing it. Peggy Rhoades as Dorothy acted with just the right degree of childish self-confidence and Fred Mallet as the Scarecrow and Leslie Floyd as the Tin Woodman were properly unreal. If you have not already seen The Wizard of Oz you will have an opportunity to do so either tonight or tomorrow night.

SR. 'B' CAGERS PLAY WEST END 'Y' AT CENTRAL TO-NIGHT

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By E. H. S.

With a working formula developed for answering holiday questions, we have a clear course before us in which to direct our attention to athletics—hoping you are the same. Some of those much-needed resolutions ought to include a few ideas about exercise and there is no time like the present for putting them into effect.

The major event of the term will be the intercollegiate basketball tournament at London in February. Miss Marion Ford who, in the past, has coached the team to three consecutive championships, will be in charge of training activities for this year. It is a welcome appointment and hopes are high concerning the future of the Bronze Baby.

Yet it is a rather obvious fact that everyone cannot play intercollegiate basketball, or intercollegiate hockey either, for that matter. But there is still room for you in the swimming pool—not much we admit (especially if more than ten come at once). Faculty swimming meets are not far off so this year, instead of attempting to get into condition in one practice night, why not do something in the mermaid line immediately?

And don't forget the active and interesting game of badminton—it has an appeal all its own. Then hockey practice will soon be starting for those encounters with Queen's. We foresee your difficulty is going to be in deciding which sport to take up first. We hope it is.

LONE WIN RECORDED BY CAGERS ON TOUR

Is First Victory of Recent Years Over an American Team

University of Toronto's touring basketball squad returned to their home stamping grounds after gleefully pulling one of those rare things—a Christmas trip victory. The lone victory, although not the first of its kind for Blue and White cage warriors, is the only one of recent years and was recorded at the expense of the Hartwick U. quintet.

Starting the series of contests at Niagara Falls, N.Y., Varsity's cagers were handed their first defeat, at the hands of a capable Niagara U. squad. Led by Hogan, a star guard, the Power City University team easily defeated the Blues by a 32-33 score.

Moving on to Buffalo the U. of T. aggregation absorbed a bad trouncing, being overwhelmed by a 41-16 count. In this game the Blues were badly handicapped by 20 fouls, most of which were not deserved.

At Syracuse the Blues ran into the worst defeat of their trip, being downed by a count of 49-22. The Syracuse U. coaches unmercifully trotted out five complete teams which literally ran the Blue squad into the floor.

Against Hartwick University the Blues determined to do or die. Led by Normie Newman's inspired work the Blues were able to maintain a two-point advantage to the final whistle and as a result carried off a 35-33 victory.

Moving on to Alfred University Varsity's little band of warriors ran into an undeserved loss. Had they not been travel worn they no doubt would have made a better impression than the 30-22 score against them would indicate.

Against Cornell a tired Blue team just went through the motions and suffered a 30-13 defeat. The gym floor at Cornell is one of the largest in the United States and this situation was too much for a leg-weary Blue squad.

BLUES FARE BADLY

IN O.H.A. HOCKEY

tie, giving them a total of three points in twelve starts is the standing of the Blue team at the end of the first half of the O.H.A. schedule. Poor indeed is this figure as compared with the nineteen points of the leading Toronto seniors. The juniors have met with little success in their campaign. One victory in three starts is their total. The battle in this series will probably be fought between St. Mike's and Young Rangers, with the former out in front at present.

Despite the lowly position of the Varsity seniors they invariably make each game a real contest. They have probably set a new record in the present season for their ability to come close and yet fail to win. Only once during the season have they been outclassed and that was against the colourful Hamilton team some time ago. Seldom is there more than a single point separating the teams when the final whistle goes but each time Lady Luck turns her back and the students are left on the short end in spite of the territorial advantage they usually enjoy throughout the period of play.

Sailing into Port Colborne on Dec. 19, Warren Stevens' charges stepped into the then league leading Sailors and after 70 minutes of exciting hockey in which Varsity looked much superior they wound up with a 2-2 draw. Two rather lucky goals in the first period gave the Sailors the lead and Varsity had to come from behind to tie it up. Two days later they tangled with the West Toronto Nationals and after a close hard game finished on the short end of a 2-1 score. Niagara Falls were the next to take a win at Varsity's expense. On Dec. 28 last year's O.H.A. champions invaded Varsity Arena and were

By John T. Stubbs

To begin with we wish all the readers of this column a Happy and Successful New Year. For the coming term in sport at the University of Toronto it will be an uphill grind to hold McGill in the race for intercollegiate titles. The Redmen already have five to Varsity's four with the former's capture of the water polo title here on Dec. 16th when the score in the return game was a 5-5 tie. The 7-5 victory in Montreal served to win for McGill. With the hockey crown a surety in McGill's collection Varsity will have to battle for the basketball, B. W. & F., and gymnastic titles. Our chances in the cage battles are favourable and the same can be said of the gymnastic possibilities with the prospects for the B. W. & F. title rather doubtful. As usual Coach Barton's proteges can be counted on for most of the points in the fencing events. Perhaps this is the reason why some of the other colleges concerned would like the fencing events eliminated from the meet. Varsity will have to take these three titles to win the annual race by one championship if we concede the Redmen the hockey crown. And we do. Then we have to eliminate the other contestants from a title. Queen's, O.A.C., and McMaster are not to be ignored in the B. W. & F. and cage competitions either.

Rumour around town seems to have it all cut and dried that this is U. of T.'s last year in the O.H.A. Sr. schedule. When questioned on the matter, Mr. T. A. Reed, Secretary of the Athletic Association, remarked that it was news to him. That should be enough. Most of the fans seem to have forgotten that it was only as far back as 1930 that Varsity won the O.H.A. and they did the same thing in 1929. If every club that failed to win the title once every three or four years was expected to drop out, there would be a lot of insulted teams around this neck of the woods.

Then there was the Yale game. Some or perhaps most of the fans seemed to experience that very delectable sensation that is produced by the insertion of hot lemon juice in the oral cavity of the human being. To say the least it was a disappointment. The Blues are capable of trimming that team easily if they went about it the right way. That was just where the difficulty rested. They didn't. And the result was a serious blow to the reputation of Canadian hockey in general. We hear and we hope that Varsity's attacking tactics have undergone a change since then.

The senior B basketball team tonight will attempt to stop the unbroken winning streak maintained by the West End Y cagers at Central Y. At present the students are tied with Central for second place. Jack Prince will be in uniform for the first time this season after recovery from injuries and will be a valuable addition to the lineup. Last year he was one of the most effective men on the second squad. His addition may be just enough to down the West End quintet.

The seniors made a more favourable impression at Niagara U. on their Christmas tour than St. Mike's did in their exhibition tilt at the Falls. Varsity was beaten 33-23 and the Irish went down on the short end of a 44-12 score in their game. Varsity showed in winning from Hartwick besides, which is the first game they have won in about nine years across the border. However, contrary to the ideas held by present-day fans, the Toronto team has won twelve games since they began their annual invasion of the Eastern States in search of basketball experience.

WEST END JUNIORS

TRIMMED BY BLUES

Greatly Improved Form Displayed by U. of T. Basketball Stars—Kinsey Stars

On Saturday, Dec. 16th, Varsity juniors met West End Y juniors on the latter's floor in the curtain-raiser to a Big Six league game. Varsity won rather easily 30-23, and displayed much improvement over their early season form.

The high scorer for the evening was Kinsey, Varsity forward, whose shooting eye brings him on top. He and Miller were Varsity's best while Valentine and Hamilton stood out for the Y. The game was fast throughout with the Blues playing a close-checking game all the time. Their offensive plays were breaking faster than in previous games and began to take effect.

Varsity — Kinsey, Miller, Staughton, Krakauer, Dean, Gladish, Harlock, Davidson, Stewart, Toole.
West End Y — Marr, Pina, Valentine, Gillespie, Cronie, Oliver, Whitt, Hamilton, F. Valentine.

very lucky to get a 4-3 decision. On the play Varsity had a distinct advantage, and only three lucky goals by the Cataracts kept Varsity off the victory list.

Bill Dewar's juniors, after opening the season showing considerable promise, failed miserably in their encounter two nights ago. The 12-4 defeat absorbed by the juniors came as a surprise as they were expected to take the Natives.

CENTRAL Y CAGERS TRIM BLUE SENIORS

Victory Gives Centrals Tie with Varsity for Second Place in Standing

Taking sweet revenge for the defeat handed to them the week previous by Varsity's Senior B team, Central Y seniors downed the Blue quintet by a 28-24 count in a regular Y.M.C.A. basketball fixture played at Broadview Y on Saturday, Dec. 16.

The game was a hard fought saw-saw struggle, that saw both teams fighting hard to remain in the hunt for league honours. Central ran into an early lead which was soon overcome by the students and half time found the score deadlocked at 10-10.

Central sank a basket in the last minute of the half to keep on even terms with the Blue team. Stronach for Varsity and Wagman for Central were particularly impressive in this half both accounting for two of the five baskets gained by their teams.

Play continued at a fast and furious clip in the second half, with Varsity outplaying their red-shirted opponents but a couple of bad breaks and nervousness on the part of the players when winning scoring range cost them the game. In the last 30 seconds of the game with the score 25-24 in favour of Central, Varsity had four shots in a row on the Central basket which just rimmed the hoop, and in the fifth Normie Newman was fouled, but he failed to take advantage of the two gift throws. Central then broke away to score baskets, and ended the game with a foul shot, that gave them a 28-24 victory, and put them into a tie for second place with the Blues.

Central Y—Oggy 1, Shields, Wagman 8, Reynolds 2, Melville 6, Haebler 4, Reeves 4, Blues 1, Aken 2. Varsity — Applebaum 2, N. Newman 7, Magwood 1, Skolko, Vanderlick, H. Newman, Gibson, Stronach 8, Henderson, Mitchell 6.
Referee — Percy Miller.

examinations after putting in a whole year seems to be too severe a penalty. The custom has been to allow them to write and then withhold their results until their fees are paid up. This is a source of great inconvenience to the University, however, and the present tightening up is an attempt to prevent a recurrence of this practice."

This announcement comes as the climax to a considerable amount of student agitation due to the possibility of those who are unable to pay their fees having their registration cards cancelled. Many students felt that such a move on the part of the Board of Governors was unfortunate, especially in view of the precarious state of the finances of the families of many of the students in times such as these. The Student League called a meeting of protest which was attended by about thirty students. They also succeeded in collecting several hundred signatures for a petition asking for leniency in the matter. The executive of the University College Literary and Athletic Society, representing eight hundred students, passed a resolution backing up this agitation. A letter was written to the Registrar of the University expressing the regret of the executive that such a move had been made in view of prevailing conditions, especially since the rule had not been enforced in previous years.

lyses it intensely, then reconstructs it according to what seems to him to be its most striking characteristics—whether forms or colours; in this sense his painting is more essentially a creation, or re-creation based on his feelings and his intellect. Kathleen Daly's approach and rendering is different; she seems to see more the beauty of the whole as it is, and therefore her work is on the whole realistic—which does not mean that the result is necessarily less beautiful than the more impressionistic work of her husband. One is struck by an evident difference in force, in depth too, perhaps; it is due probably to the fact, not yet fully accounted for, but none the less true, that somehow it is not given to women to be great painters, musicians or writers, even if there, too, as in grammar, there are a few exceptions to confirm the rule! Women's qualities seem to be mostly of a different order.

Another noticeable difference between the paintings of G. Pepper and K. Daly is in the choice of subjects, though, in technique both had a similar training on this continent, then in France and Italy. G. Pepper chooses by preference landscapes and omits human subjects; his wife on the contrary is more inclined to paint houses, interior scenes, portraits even. Though neither of them belongs to the Group of VII, K. Daly seems instinctively to be in harmony with the newly formed Group of Canadian Painters which aims at introducing the human element in Canadian painting—incidentally some of the best works exhibited by the latter group were by Mrs. Paraskeva-Clark and Miss H. M. Way.

Most of the subjects of the exhibit were found in Quebec and Nova Scotia, K. Daly showing among others a group of five Quebec winter scenes which have great charm and reminds one of Jackson's painting. Her still-lives are not as successful but she has two interesting portraits; the only thing which seems to lack is the feeling of floating and living air, for which Rembrandt is justly known. On the north wall, together with her work is a small unsigned painting of two trees springing out of a rocky soil and in silhouette against a river and its bank, a very fine work. Though some details make it likely that this is the work of G. Pepper it might be by K. Daly, and for it I am quite willing to forget all her still-lives or interior scenes.

The best paintings of G. Pepper are exhibited on the east wall, five fine landscapes with a very strong character and beauty. The composition of opposing planes, the contrast between light and shadows, joined to a good command of colours, make these paintings singularly attractive, even though one's mind cannot always help asking whether rocks are naturally of such regular geometrical forms. On the opposite wall is a small painting of a Nova Scotian village, which is much better than the larger similar work shown at the Grange, and into which human beings had been added.

I would strongly advise everyone to examine closely the brush stroke of G. Pepper especially, which reveals much of his art.

NOTABLE VISITORS FOR ITALY WEEK

Will Give Series of Lectures in Convocation Hall

FIRST LECTURE TONIGHT

Today marks the beginning of Italy Week, the second in a series of International Weeks conducted by the National Council of Education under the presidency of His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada. It will be comprised of a series of addresses by distinguished Italians to be delivered in Convocation Hall each evening at 8.30 p.m. and there will be a number of exhibitions designed to illustrate the educational, cultural and economic life of Italy.

The guests of the Council will be Don Mario Colonna and his wife, Commendatore Luigi Villari, M.C. (Continued on Page 4)

Dr. Kilgour Honoured

In recognition of his brilliant work in connection with the Psychiatric hospital, Dr. A. J. Kilgour, a graduate in Medicine of the class of '22 has been awarded a fellowship by the Rockefeller Foundation entitling him to study in Europe.

Dr. Kilgour obtained his degree in Pharmacy in 1913 but entered the first year of Medicine in following year. He enlisted in February of 1915 with the machine gun section of the 19th Battalion. Re-entering Varsity at the end of the war, he graduated in '22. For the past eight years he has been connected with the Government Survey.

CHARGES OF "FAMILY COMPACT" ARE ELABORATED BY DR. COTTON

Acting Dean of Medicine Will Demand Facts to Prove Charges

SAYS CLAIMS "RIDICULOUS"

St. Michael's Physician Sees No Evidence of Such Condition

By Arch Crossley

Last week medical men throughout Toronto were startled from their cool medical calm by the serious charges of Dr. James Cotton, well known Toronto physician, against the system of appointing clinical doctors to the public wards of University-controlled city hospitals. When vacancies appear, says Dr. Cotton, they are not advertised, but are filled by the University from members of a "family compact". Experience is a consideration minor to relationship in the compact, he states, which means that "many physicians with more ability and higher degrees than the professors in medicine have no hope of ever getting on the clinical staff of the University."

Seeking corroboration of Dr. Cotton's allegations, The Varsity questioned three consulting physicians of high repute in this city, Drs. J. K. Latchford, W. P. Caven and Julian Loudon. Dr. Latchford, at present recovering from illness, felt that he was "not in condition to jump into controversy", and Dr. Caven, confined to his home with a cold, reported that he had not read the newspaper articles thoroughly enough to make a statement.

Dr. Loudon, however, was specific on a number of points: "As far as I can see, there is no evidence of such a condition. Of course I do all my teaching at St. Michael's hospital, and I am not closely in touch with affairs at the University. At St. Michael's we make appointments from our own men without interference from the University, although we consult with the University occasionally. No, as far as I can see, speaking for St. Michael's at least, the kind of thing you mention does not exist."

Approached by The Varsity Saturday evening, Dr. Cotton emphasized his statements:

"The condition is so well known that corroboration is unnecessary. The whole thing is this: It is provided by law that any public hospital in Toronto of more than 25 beds and supported by the government, can be taken over (Continued on Page 4)

MEN OVER FORTY UNFIT TO TEACH

Claims of Dr. Neville Are Refuted by Profs. at Varsity

UNSYMPATHETIC TO YOUTH

Life begins at forty! Or does it? In a recent address given by Dr. Neville, dean of Arts and registrar of the University of Western Ontario, he remarked that men over 40 years of age should have no business in education since by that time they have grown away from the modern viewpoint and can neither understand nor sympathize with the needs of youth.

"Professor Neville is simply reflecting the well known idea expressed twenty years ago by Sir Wm. Osler that all people over 40 should be chloroformed except that Dr. Neville would restrict the process to teachers," was the opinion of Professor Pratt of Victoria College. "The only other comment on this statement is that it is an exaggeration inflated into a speech to keep the audience from going (Continued on Page 4)

MUTILATED BOOKS SERIOUS PROBLEM

May Lead to Withdrawal of All Except Usual College Texts

WANTON DESTRUCTION

An exhibition of fifteen badly mutilated books has been placed on display in the University Library to call attention to the wanton destruction thus being practiced by certain students. Furthermore, these are but a few of the large number which have been similarly maltreated.

Possibly the worst example is a valuable edition of the poetical works of the Earl of Rochester, from which a number of complete pages have been deliberately cut out with a knife and others have been partially cut away. Whether the person who removed these portions objected to the poems they contained or desired to possess them for himself, W. S. Wallace, Chief Librarian stated would be difficult to determine.

Many other volumes although their pages are not torn, have been defaced by heavy underlining and the insertion of marginal comments. "The nature of these inserted remarks plainly indicates the low mentality of those responsible for them," exclaimed Mr. Wallace. The tearing of certain pages (Continued on Page 4)

ENGINEERING SOCIETY TO HEAR W. M. TURNLEY

Mr. W. M. Turnley of the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation will be the guest speaker at the Engineering Society in Room C22 of the Mining Building this afternoon. Mr. Turnley is a graduate in Electrical and Mechanical Engineering of the Alabama Technical College, and is at present engaged as engineer in connection with the above corporation.

The subject of the address will be "Anti-knock Fuels and their Relation to present-day Motors". Mr. Turnley will demonstrate the principles with a small working model of an internal combustion engine, and will illustrate the address with lantern slides.

Members of the Engineering Society are again urged to be present at 4 p.m. sharp, in order that as much time as possible may be given the speaker for this interesting subject.

LOAN FUND FOR UNDERGRADUATES NOW AVAILABLE FOR THIS YEAR

Out of its accumulated surplus the Joint Executive Students' Administrative Councils have added to their loan fund. This fund will be available for this year after January 5th, 1934.

1—The Fund is available to all undergraduates of the University who belong to the Faculties, Colleges and Departments which are bona fide members of the Joint Executive.

2—Only students in the two final years of their course are eligible.

3—The maximum loan is $100. More than one loan may be obtained, provided always that the total outstanding indebtedness does not exceed $100 at any time.

4—If granted a loan, the student shall sign a promissory note endorsed by a person meeting the approval of the Loan Committee; said note to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum from the date of leaving the University or from the first day of June in the year of graduation.

5—All loans should be repaid as soon as possible, but shall mature not later than one year from the date of leaving the University or one year from the first day of June in the year of graduation, and shall bear interest after maturity at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, retroactive to the original date of the note.

6—Applications for loans should be made in person to the Associate Secretary, Room R2, U.C., for Women Students, and to the General Secretary, Treasurer, Students' Administrative Council Office, Hart House, for Men Students.

The necessary forms may be obtained at above offices on and after Friday, January 5th, 1934. No applications may be filed prior to this date.

GRANTING TITLES LEADS TO GROWTH OF ARISTOCRACY

Would be Good Thing if Money Were Not Involved

TITLES TO WEALTHY?

Class Distinction Subject of Great Deal of Discussion

With the revival of title granting to Canadians recently, class distinction and their value have been the subject of much discussion. The question is whether an aristocracy will grow up or not as a result of titles which are backed up by the holder's wealth.

Prof. L. A. MacKay of the Classics Department, U.C., when asked his opinion by The Varsity stated that "Titles would be a good thing if it were a distinction outside of money. The average person will not deny there are existing class distinctions. Social status changing with income would amaze a properly brought up person. Titles would not make any difference in social standing. The idea that titles should be bought or sold should not make any difference. It is better to buy or sell titles than natural resources. Besides it is entirely the business of the person who receives the title. The staff, for instance, would feel no difference in approaching Sir Robert Falconer whether he had the title or not. I don't believe The Varsity staff would feel any difference in approaching their editor if he were Sir Arthur Cochrane."

There is a possibility according to reports of local papers of titles encouraging class distinction more than ever. From this it is concluded that there is a danger of a class distinction episode similar to that of the Hoover administration when the government lent heavily to the moneyed industries and neglected the poor.

Prof. Endicott of the English Department of U.C. replied that, "Titles in Canada seem to me rather foolish but I don't think it matters much since we already have distinction by wealth."

J. M. Patrick, IV Arts and editor of the U.C. Undergraduate Magazine, expressed himself to the effect that titles were "A splendid thing". It is an insult to the king not to be able to give titles to Canadians for achievements in scientific and educational (Continued on Page 4)

PROBLEM OF FEES MAY COMPEL TWENTY-FIVE TO STOP STUDIES

Bennett Unable To Attend Debate

Owing to the fact that his presence will be required in Calgary, the Right Honourable R. B. Bennett will be unable to attend the next Hart House debate as previously planned. He has assured the Debates Committee by a long distance telephone call, however, that he will attend the debate to be held on February 14th.

The next debate will take place on the 24th of this month. The subject for debate, The Varsity was informed, will be "Delendum est De Valera", implying a discussion on the Irish Free State. McGill University has been invited to send speakers on the paper and although definite word has not yet been received, it is expected that they will accept. Mr. S. M. Hermant will occupy the Speaker's chair.

SIMPSON'S VICTORY NOT DUE TO C.C.F.

Attributed to Personality and Platform of Civic Improvement

JOBLESS SHOULD VOTE

"I think Controller Simpson's victory can be attributed first of all to his fine personality, and secondly to the extensive platform of civic improvement he was advocating," declared H. Gordon Skilling, president of the University C.C.F. Club when asked about the significance attached to the results of the recent civic elections by the local organization. "Controller Simpson," he continued, "was admittedly a C.C.F. candidate, and although no one could say that he owed his victory to that affiliation, it at least shows that the Toronto people are not to be frightened off by the term C.C.F. and what it stands for."

"Do you think that the C.C.F. will have a candidate in the mayoralty contest next year?" The Varsity asked. "It is impossible to predict that at the present time," Mr. Skilling replied. "It obviously depends so much on what happens in the current year, as well as who the other candidates will be."

"I think such a ruling is decidedly unfair," Mr. Skilling stated when questioned about the regulation that those persons on civic relief forfeit their vote. "The Council should represent the entire city, not merely those fortunate enough to have jobs."

NEWS REPORTERS WANTED

There are several vacancies on the news staff of The Varsity. Here is an excellent opportunity for enterprising undergraduates to learn modern journalism in a practical way. Whether you are desirous of entering the newspaper profession, or merely intent upon a first-hand knowledge of how a daily newspaper is produced, experience on The Varsity will prove invaluable. A member of the news staff gains experience in the manifold methods of news-gathering, interviewing and editing of a daily newspaper.

Applicants for positions on the staff will meet with one of the news editors in The Varsity office, Hart House, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. No previous experience is required; the editorial staff of the paper gives to each newcomer to the staff a complete training in journalism.

Over Hundred Students Are Still in Arrears, Says Registrar

RIGID ENFORCEMENT

Will Cancel Registration if Fees Are Not Paid Up Immediately

"At present in the University there are under 100 students who have not met their fees requirements," stated A. B. Fennell, University registrar, when interviewed by The Varsity. "Acting on the recommendation of the committee, letters are being sent these people informing them that, under the regulations of the Board of Governors, their registration cards will be cancelled unless the fees are paid. Before the holidays, Dec. 21 was made the final day for settlement, but an extension was granted. During this period a large part of the 300 in arrears paid up. With the circulation of this last letter, the number will narrow down still further, so that there will be a possibility of 25 being forced to withdraw. It does seem rather hard but it is only fair to those students who have already paid up, to have this rigid enforcement. It has to be carried through."

Members of the Student League were questioned by The Varsity. They consider the granting of an extension a victory for their cause. If students, who are really interested in their work and anxious to continue, but are financially up against it, are forced to leave, the Student League intends to hold another meeting to see what can be done.

Some students were asked to air their opinions on the fees question. "Some of the students will evidently be forced to drop out, but I believe that anyone that is willing to learn should not be deprived of an education. The ruling should not be strictly enforced; rather someone should find out the real conditions in the case in question and act accordingly," stated I. Shiner, 1 M. and P.

In my opinion," replied M. G. Whilans, 5 Meds, when questioned by the reporter, "a student should have a good idea of his ability to meet the expenses of the academic year before he starts his course. I am not against leniency, but I believe that it is unfair to those that have already met their requirements."

BEES, COCKROACHES SHOW INTELLIGENCE

Have Memories and Thoughts Declares Prominent Entomologist

STILL AN OPEN QUESTION

"Under the old conception of separate creation intelligence was considered a quality possessed by man alone and perhaps by a few animals such as dogs, horses and foxes, while all other creatures were regarded as being governed by instinct. But the idea of evolution brought with it the vexing question of the origin of intelligence." With these words Dr. F. E. Lutz of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, introduced his lecture in Convocation Hall Saturday evening, on "Testing Insect Intelligence". Dr. Lutz quoted the opinions of some great scientists on the difference between intelligence and instinct and then proceeded to illustrate his discussion by reference to experiments conducted by himself and others. The cockroach, a primitive insect, dislikes light. But when a number (Continued on Page 2)

NEW TEST FOR PATRIOTISM!

A University is the usual place for the trial of new ideas and theories, but occasionally we become burdened with the abstract and, as in this vital subject of world peace, public opinion outstrips us.

For there is a steadily increasing number of instances to show this growing consciousness of the danger and horror of war. Recently, in a news reel, we saw Canadian veterans yielding up their war medals as useless metal, vain, empty rewards. Also, during the armistice celebrations in November, there were numerous reports, especially concerning Oxford and Cambridge of huge student demonstrations for peace. Most important of all is the fact that Cry Havoc by Beverley Nichols is the season's best seller, which decidedly shows modern trend.

Then comes President Roosevelt in a vivid address given at the birthday celebration of Woodrow Wilson, to summarize the hundreds of loose threads. He says: "The imagination of the masses of world population was stirred as never before by President Wilson's gallant appeal to them—to the masses—to banish war. His appeal meant little to the imagination or the heart of a large number of the so-called statesmen who gathered in Paris to assemble a treaty of so-called peace in 1919..."

If the masses are facing in this forward direction, the task of bringing the leaders into line, even in these days of doubtful democracy, may not be too impossible, especially considering that men of President Roosevelt's calibre, and many of the English statesmen, pacifists mostly, have much authority in international affairs.

Mr. Roosevelt has a practical suggestion: "It is clear, of course, that no such general agreement for the elimination of aggression and of the weapons of aggression and of the weapons of offensive warfare would be of any value to the world unless every nation, without exception, entered into the agreement by solemn obligation. If, then, such an agreement were signed by a great majority of the nations on the definite condition that it would go into effect only when signed by all the nations, it would be a comparatively easy matter to determine which nations in this enlightened time are willing to go on record as belonging to the small minority of mankind which still believes in the use of the sword for invasion of and attack upon their neighbors."

We might go further and apply the same test to the citizens of the various nations, demanding pacifism for patriotism. So we would find, in the first instance, who were the Makers of War, and be able to answer Arthur Henderson, where he is quoted in Cry Havoc: "The League is what we choose to make it. If you are dissatisfied with the League's progress, don't blame the League. Blame the government behind it. And blame the Press that moulds the opinion of those governments. And blame the secret influences that mould the opinion of the Press!"

We have plenty of peace-desiring statesmen. We have any amount of peace-loving citizens. To combine their forces and squelch the discordant elements would seem a simple task—almost!

of these insects were subjected to electric shocks on entering a dark place they learned to avoid it. Caddis flies, whose larvae are aquatic and build themselves cases out of foreign material of a particular kind, when dispossessed and placed in an aquarium without the proper material, showed themselves capable of meeting a situation new to the species in a way which suggested something more than instinct. Experiments with bees, insects higher in the evolutionary scale, proved that they are able to differentiate between colours, even between colours beyond the violet, something the human eye cannot do. Bees seem to have memories, and thoughts which they are able to communicate to others.

In conclusion Dr. Lutz stressed the need for more tests along these lines and summed up the results of his experiments as showing that insects have adaptability if not intelligence. He believes it still an open question and it is just as well to keep the word "intelligence" in quotation marks when referring to insects.

COMMERCE CLUB AT-HOME WILL BE HELD FRIDAY

The Commerce Club commences activities for the spring term on Friday, January 12th with the annual at-home at the Roof Garden of the Royal York Hotel. Fred Elliott's popular ten-piece orchestra will provide the music from 9 till 2. Those who were present last year will undoubtedly be the first to sign the lists which are now posted in the Commerce Building. The executive pointed out to The Varsity that there is a limited number of tickets.

The second event of the year comes at the latter part of January when the banquet takes place. Sir William Clarke, British High Commissioner to Canada, who is to be the guest speaker will take as his subject "Changes in the conception of the State's relation to business".

The beginning of February will see the second issue of the "Commerce Journal" which was in such great demand last year.

Art, Music and Drama

Friday Afternoon Recitals

Lovers of Schumann must have found much satisfaction in listening to Friday afternoon's recital. Those who were not aware of any predilection for that composer, could not fail to appreciate the peculiar charm of Schumann's works.

The programme, composed entirely from the works of Schumann, was given by Mr. Lambert, well known baritone of Toronto, and Mr. Norman Langford, undergraduate pianist of the University. Mr. Lambert's contribution consisted of three groups of songs from the famous Dichter Liebe. These songs were graciously performed by Mr. Lambert with a considerable amount of dramatic emphasis.

Mr. Langford presented the Forest Scenes, an Arabesque and the Songs of the Dawn. The latter work is of particular interest in that it is probably the last written in the pen of the composer. We may be forgiven for making a few particular observations on Mr. Langford's work since he is an undergraduate and the appearance of a student on a Friday afternoon programme is something of an event.

The pianist's best work was done in the Forest Scenes. The Arabesque suffered slightly through nervousness. But one fact was much in evidence—namely, that Mr. Langford has a natural feeling and sympathy for Schumann. His readings are essentially lyric—simply pure, beautiful piano playing marked by touches of genuine artistry without the extravagances of sensationalism. The performance of Schumann's works is always exacting because it requires the delicate balancing of objectivity and subjectivity in music and performer. Mr. Langford's work is not flawless, but it is indeed creditable for it shows the possibilities of greater achievement.

Toronto Symphony

The Toronto Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Ernest MacMillan, will give its fifth concert of the series at Massey Hall on Tuesday evening, January 9th at 8.20 p.m. The programme is chosen entirely from the works of Richard Wagner. The great success achieved by the orchestra in the All-Wagner programmes of other seasons, heralds a particularly fine performance on this occasion.

The orchestral numbers include: Overture ("The Flying Dutchman"); Prelude and "Love Death" (Tristan and Isolde); Siegfried's Funeral March ("The Twilight of the Gods"); Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla ("The Rhine Gold"); Wotan's Farewell and Magic Fire Music ("The Valkyrie"); Overture and Bacchanale (Paris Version) "Tannhauser".

Eaton Auditorium

On Friday evening at Eaton's Auditorium a large and pleased audience was witness to a rather delightful dance recital given by Nina Theilade, famous as Max Reinhardt's premiere danseuse. Miss Theilade is as yet hardly nineteen and has already attained one of the most enviable peaks in the realm of the dance.

Friday's programme gave the young and extremely beautiful danseuse an opportunity to display her great versatility even if she did not particularly live up to concert standards. Though the latter might seem to be harsh criticism it is better understood when it is realised what the dancer must be capable of to be a theatrical dancer. To relate off-hand Miss Theilade has performed in Reinhardt's grand production of Midsommer Night's Dream and the same producer's gigantic presentation at Salzburg of Everyman; that is, she must be able to fit her dancing into many different forms. For this kind of work this dancer has adapted herself to varying conditions by being conversant with practically all styles of dancing.

In one number entitled "Pizzica to Arabesque" the dance form is the classical ballet, using the regular classical steps done mostly on the toes. In another selection, "Angel at the Tomb" from the Everyman production, Miss Theilade with apparent ease dances with extremely modern technique bordering on Wigmanism. A bit later she dances a dance with Scandinavian background and with a spirit similar to that shown here recently by Angma (Continued on Page 4)

Curst be the ties that bind.

Especially that one that Aunt Fanny gave us (Editorial us) for Christmas.

The darn thing faintly resembled an October sun rising over a bowl of spaghetti seasoned with green peppers. We knew it was meant for a tie, because it came in a tie box, all scented, and covered with little whatnots.

It must have been made of asbestos, 'cause it refused to burn in the fire-place, in fact it nearly put the fire out. There was only one thing to do—we resolved to exchange it. And there's a tale told to that.

Down in the big department store we waited in line for three-quarters of an hour while frantic women dug their elbows into our innards, and walked all over our dogs. At last we slid up to the little brown wicket, with a guilty look written all over our features, and blushing as red as the offending article itself. The young lady behind the counter handled the thing with all the affection one would bestow on a dead mouse. "What is it?" she asked sweetly. We stammered and stuttered an inarticulate something that sounded like "Ulp-gloop". The sweet young thing smiled some more. "Your wife should have told you," she cooed. "Women don't wear these things much now-a-days."

The schoolgirl embarrassment conquered us completely, and we began to feel like we had been caught under the bed in the wrong apartment. We snatched the thing and beat it for the door.

Next we tried the lingerie department just in case. It took three hours to work up courage but we finally did it. Here the response was short and snappy—"Try the wallpaper."

The wallpaper sent us to the drapes, the drapes to the chintzes and the chintzes to the awnings. Finally we reached the kitchen accessories and still no one would take it as a gift. So we tied it up again and started for home.

That night the wise guy next door offered us five bucks if we would wear it for a whole day. Five bucks is five bucks... so we did.

Some ponderous individual met us next morning about a block from the house. One glance at that monstrosity and he was all geniality. He slapped us on the back, shook our hand, and exclaimed with fervour. "She's a great faculty, son. I graduated in Medicine myself in '09. Stick to it, and you'll be a great doctor some day." This was the last straw.

That afternoon we tied it around the cat's neck for a hair ribbon, and a couple of hours later the darn cat strangled itself. Then the Humane Society sent us a summons for cruelty to dumb animals.

Personally, we think the cat wasn't so dumb at that... there's always one way out.

Now Aunt Sally phones us up to thank us for the beautiful cuspidor we gave her for Christmas (the ad said they were flower pots), and ask us if we like the little shoe shiner she sent us.

Anyway we buried it with the cat, which probably was the height of humiliation for any self-respecting feline. But it's gone, and we hope that's one cat that won't come back! Kugur.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

Hockey looms on the foreground now that the interfaculty basketball series has been completed, the laurels going to St. Hilda's after two hard fought games with Victoria. But basketball has by no means become a dead issue for there are to be two women's intercollegiate teams selected in the near future. Practices will commence immediately. Muriel Atkin is the only member of last year's senior team who is not back, but Pat Palmer and Helen Smith will definitely not be playing. However, with the material left from the '33 squad, supplemented by the excellent players who will also be competing for positions on the team, Varsity has every chance of regaining the cherished Bronze Baby which was lost to McGill last year for the first time in years.

The prospect for women's hockey this season is very bright. Authorities are looking around to procure a third team to join the City League which has previously consisted of the Toronto Ladies and the Varsity team.

There is another attraction—a possibility of getting exhibition games with the Western Ontario Group of the Ladies' Ontario Hockey Association, which includes Preston, Brantford, Port Dover, London and Guelph. This is a strong group and should such an arrangement be possible the games will be a highlight in women's hockey annals.

Early in February the schedule for the intercollegiate hockey games will be posted. It will include the usual home and home games with Queen's, Jimmie McPherson, IV U.C., forward on the Varsity senior team, will be the coach this year. The first practice will be held at 1 p.m. on Wednesday in the Arena, so bear this in mind anyone who has any ability or desire to play intercollegiate hockey. Margot Thomson, Janet Gow, and Dot Starr have left vacancies which it will take real playing to fill—Mary Rous, E. Sanson, and Pat Thompson can not do it all.

M'GILL PUCKSTERS COVET ALLAN CUP

Undefeated Red Team After Highest Hockey Honours This Year

NO PLAY-OFF HINDRANCES

By DeC. H. Royner

"On to the Allan Cup!" is the slogan at McGill University, where the Red and White boast a hockey team which has yet to be defeated this season. Coached by Dr. Bobby Bell, and with practically the same personnel as the team which took the intercollegiate championship from the University of Toronto last season, the McGill puck-chasers are out for big game this year.

During the holiday it was announced that the sanction of the Athletic Board and the Faculty has been received and there will be no playoff obstacles should the Redmen regain the Quebec championship which they won in 1932 and dropped to Royals (M.A.A.A.) in 1933. At present the McGill team is leading the senior group, and has defeated the four leading American colleges as follows: McGill 5, Yale 1; McGill 8, Harvard 1; McGill 7, Dartmouth 1, McGill 7, Princeton 0; McGill 3, Yale 2.

Presuming that they take the Quebec title, the Redmen will have an easy schedule ahead of them, playing only one game away from Montreal prior to the actual finals for the Allan Cup. The struggle in the Maritimes at present centres around the Moncton Hawks, Allan Cup holders, and the Wolverines of Halifax, who have beaten the Hawks three times in succession. Following the Maritime-Quebec series, the survivors will then meet the winners of the O.H.A.—Ottawa District series, one game in Toronto or Ottawa and one game in Montreal.

The Allan Cup finals will be played on March 30th and April 2nd, during the Easter vacation, and would not necessitate a great deal of time away from studies. The optimistic McGill supporters have these things all figured out in advance; to them the intercollegiate series is just a little diversion along the way which leads to the Allan Cup.

The strength of the McGill sextet is seen in the fact that four of their players are on the reserve list of professional clubs, which means that these clubs have the right to negotiate for their services. Nelson Crutchfield and Hugh Farquharson are on the list of the Maroons Club, while Canadians claim first rights on Jack McGill and Farmer. Dr. Bell has an aggregation of puckchangers at his command that know how to play hockey, are as yet unbeaten, and are inspired by the determination to win the highest amateur honours in the Canadian sport for their alma mater.

SENIOR LOOPERS TAKE COUNT 32-17

West End Y Trim Blues in Ragged Game by Big Margin

HALF TIME SCORE 13-3

In a Y.M.C.A. Basketball League fixture, West End Y stretched its string of consecutive victories to six at the expense of a weak Varsity Senior team, winning by a 32-17 count at Central on Saturday night.

The game was a very ragged affair with a lot of loose play and scrambling that proved very uninteresting to the small crowd of spectators. Varsity never had a chance to get organised on

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Art Squires, manager of the senior hockey team, sent us a wire yesterday afternoon with the glad news of Varsity's 4-1 victory at the Madison Square Gardens against Harvard Saturday night. This is their second win in two starts on the annual tour, having defeated Princeton 4-2 on Thursday night in overtime. The wire says that Varsity looked the better team right from the start and two quick goals resulted, being secured by Captain George Hendry in the first period. In the second the game was more even with both teams getting a goal. Hendry again was the scorer for Varsity. In the final stanza Harvard staged a great battle but nevertheless the Blue pucksters failed to give way and came within scoring distance several times. McConvey succeeded in getting the final counter when he batted in the rebound from a smart play by Swecney. Shipp was a star in the nets. Tonight sees the U. of T. squad stacked up against the Yale team that handed them a 5-3 defeat at home on Dec. 16th. This time it will be a tough battle and the Blues are determined to avenge their loss at home. The game will be played in New Haven and we are hoping that word of the results speaks well of the Stevens-coached outfit.

It is probable that Coach T. R. Loudon will again coach the Varsity Rowing crews this year. He has had an enviable record in the past few years with the continually unbroken record of the senior crew in the intercollegiate race against McGill in Montreal on the Lachine Canal course. There will again be four crews open for competition. The lineup of oarsmen for the coming season shows many vacancies which means an opportunity for many new men to try out. The crews begin their indoor workouts in the Rowing Room in Hart House this week and those who wish to turn out are invited to do so immediately. The practices will begin down at the water front some time in May.

Now that the holidays are over the senior basketball team will begin to take itself seriously with a hard schedule in both the intercollegiate and Big Six series ahead of them. Considerable interest is being centred around the senior cagers as they enter the Big Six league as last year's champions against stronger competition. In the opener against St. Mike's they dropped a close decision in overtime. They look to be a bit better than the runners-up of last year even though they did lose their first game which was their first real scrimmage of the season. Coach Lew Hayman will be whipping them into shape now for the grind that lies ahead. The material looks very promising to date and Hayman can be counted on to turn out a smart machine if the men do their part and turn out to practices regularly and give everything they have. Before Christmas academic pressure prevented this but even at that a weakened team put up a good showing across the border.

The second team failed to prove a match for the smooth West End Y senior quintet Friday night and dropped the decision in a ragged encounter. Normie Newman provided the class of the game and was high scorer for the Blues. It is the first season in senior competition for most of the boys and as a result their showing to date is very commendable. At present they stand tied for second place with Central in the Y.M.C.A. senior league.

This week will see the interfaculty basketball and water polo teams shaping up in practices in Hart House. The hockey sextets are hard at it too and the prospects in all three leagues promise to be very good. Last year's hockey schedule met with difficulty due to lack of ice obtainable for both practices and games but this year the Athletic Association is doing everything possible to arrange for all games at the Varsity Arena. This will increase the interest among the students and should lead to an increase in the crowds who support their faculty teams. The upper gym in Hart House has been a hive of industry for some time now and even during the holidays the floor was crowded every day it was open for use. The basketball league should be as closely contested as it was last year when Jr. Meds came through the tough playdowns with the Sifton Cup and the title.

Knox College turned the tide in the interfaculty lacrosse finals in the second game after Trinity had secured a sizeable lead in the first encounter. In the three years of competition the cup has not been won by any one faculty twice yet with Victoria taking it the first time, O.C.E. last year, and this time Knox. Jr. Victoria succeeded in taking the first of a two out of three series against U.C. in the interfaculty volleyball finals Friday and look confident of taking another. This new interfaculty sport seems to be taking hold very quickly and the interest evidenced would indicate that it will increase in popularity as rapidly as did lacrosse when it was introduced a few years ago.

the attack, as they were being bottled up in their own defensive area, with the result that they had to resort to long passes, many of which were intercepted by the Y team or went astray. Due, either to the superiority of the West End quintet, who have beaten them three times this season already, or to the fact that the young squad is incapable of senior basketball, Varsity showed a complete lack of scoring punch, and they will have to be strengthened in this department if they expect to finish in the playoffs, as Central and Broadview are coming strongly.

The first five minutes of the game were not productive of any baskets, both teams being outlucked on shots from close in. Collicie Gillespie, one of the shining lights on the Y team, opened the scoring when he intercepted a Varsity pass and dribbled unopposed to the Blue hoop where he made no mistake. The students then seemed to go to pieces West End piling up a 9-1 lead in short order with the T players unable to break away from their close-checking opponents. Coach McCutcheon substituted his men freely in an attempt to halt the Y attack, but he was unable to get any combination that could cope with them. The half time score was 13-3, a foul shot by Stronach and Magwood's basket representing the scoring efforts of the Blues, while Sainford, Butler, and Gillespie helped pile up the Y total. West End started its second string team in the final canto but even against them the Blues were unable to cut down the Y lead, as Ernie Goble ran amuck to score four baskets in the half. With Normie Newman, Stronach and Applebaum showing flashes of their best form, Varsity put on a better exhibition but too much dribbling and wild passing ruined their play. West End winning in a romp, the final score being 32-17. The students were also off in their foul shooting, scoring only 5 out of 18 free throws, while West End made good (Continued on Page 4)

After Loss of First Game, Take Next Two from U.C.

TEAMS SHOW CLASS

In the first match of the interfaculty volleyball finals, Junior Vic defeated Senior U.C. after a hard battle by the scores of 14-16, 15-11 and 15-9. The game, played Friday night in the upper gym, was productive of some excellent play and both teams showed real class in their play. This game was the first of a two out of three series to determine the interfaculty champions for the year. The next game will be played tonight at the same place.

The Victoria squad took charge of the first game from the start and looked to have the game in the basket with the score at 14-9. The U.C. six dug in, however, and ran up seven consecutive points to win the game 16-14. The second game started with U.C. taking the lead. The spiking of Levy and McQuiggan for the U.C. team featured this point of the game. Vic took on new life and tied the score at 8-8 and thereafter were never headed, finally taking the game by the score of 15-11.

In the third game, neither side could gain much of a lead with the Vic team playing a fine defensive game to offset the U.C. attack. With the score 8-7 in their favour, Vic suddenly overwhelmed U.C. with a smashing attack that quickly gave them the victory with a 15-9 score.

For the Vic squad Kearns and Colmer were outstanding, while Murphy and McQuiggan starred for U.C. Junior Vic — Cronin, Hamilton, Wallace, Devitt, Colmer, Kearns, Iron religion and ethics, the property of Trinity College Library, he went on to denounce as "gross vandalism". When the latter incident was reported to Professor Brett, Dean of the School of Graduate Studies, he desired to know if the deleted pages dealt with religion or ethics.

"If these actions continue, the only course we can adopt will be to withdraw from undergraduate circulation all books except the ordinary college texts," stated the University Librarian. "At present there are already a certain number of more valuable volumes thus withdrawn, the replacement of which is impossible or extremely expensive."

"However, I believe the greater part of the defacing and damaging of the books is merely due to the thoughtlessness of careless students. I hope that this appeal will result in a considerable lessening of this unfortunate practice."

by the University. When this is done, the men in charge of the public wards are displaced and university students installed.

"This means that the working classes of the city, when in hospital, are forced to accept the services, in rotation, of these students. It also means that the doctors who have sent these people into the hospital and who know their cases directly and personally, cannot follow them through."

"The same thing has happened at all the city hospitals when the University has taken them over. At St. Michael's the experienced men of the clinical staff were let out and University appointees installed. At Western hospital, although a large part of the staff was from the University to begin with, the story was much the same. In order to provide vacancies for students, men were displaced who had 'grown up' with the hospitals under their founders. A serious result is that educated, experienced, valuable men are unable to obtain positions on clinical staffs."

"The thing that brought up this whole controversy is the matter of the proposed five-yearly examinations to which the medical men of the city would be submitted. It was suggested that these examinations be prepared by the medical staff of the University."

"To me such a proposal appears highly unjust. The most valuable thing in medical practice is experience. The doctors most valuable to humanity are those who have grown old in the profession. Where they might not be able to answer an examination question based on the latest methods for certain kinds of analysis, no one will doubt for a moment that they are at the same time of much more service to humanity than young men fresh from medical school."

"University examinations are not a fair criterion of a medical man's ability at all. The business of the University as I see it is not to turn out a walking encyclopaedia, but to awaken in the mind of a young man that faculty for reasoning and for learning from the experience of others which is the only true education."

"This is particularly applicable to medicine. The education of a medical man should fit him to profit from the experience of the old men in the profession. He should go to these old men, consult with them, profit from the mistakes they have made, learn how they 'killed their quota', and how to avoid killing his."

"And yet it is these very ones, these old men whose experience makes them of most value to humanity, who would be discriminated against by the carrying out of the examination idea. Their knowledge is of a kind not suited to academic tests. Yet it is undoubtedly the greatest practical service. It would be almost an insult to ask one of the old established, highly respected consultants of Toronto to write a University examination."

"My counter-proposal would be this: to have the Public Health Department keep a record of the death-rate of every practising medical man, and if it begins to get high, to investigate his methods closely, and, where it is indicated, remove him from practice. Such a scheme would react to the benefit of those whose services are most valuable, for their death-rates are naturally the lowest."

In answer to the charges of Dr. Cotton relative to appointments, Dr. E. S. Ryerson, acting Dean of Medicine at U. of T. in absence of Dean J. G. Fitzgerald, said he "would ask Dr. Cotton to produce facts to prove his charge that additions to the staff were selected not for their medical ability but rather on account of their social or family relationship." Dr. Ryerson termed the charges "ridiculous" and explained, "the new staff members are recommended to the Dean of Medicine by the department heads. The Dean then advises the President of the University and the Board of Governors makes the appointment. The best man gets the greatest consideration."

Dr. Lawrence Irving, associate professor of physiology, regarded the charges as "quite unfounded and biased."

MEN OVER FORTY ARE UNFIT TO TEACH

ing to sleep. His statement can be taken as indicating the need of greater emphasis upon the contribution which youth should make to the social and economic changes of the world.

Professor Robins, also of Victoria College, considered that "only men over 40 should be allowed to teach, except as apprentices. To be sure the world is advanced only by the reckless impetuosity of youth but in education, except scientific, possibly the most important function is conservation and that requires the over-forty temperament. Moreover the man of 45 is more likely to understand the viewpoint of youth than is the man of thirty. I am heretic enough to say that a man has no business in anything else except education after forty."

On the other hand Professor Nordwood of the Classics Department of University College was inclined to agree with the principle of Dr. Neville's speech but for slightly different reasons. He would suggest that the retiring age be earlier, not so much because of the discrepancy in viewpoints, but in order that the teacher may have time to devote to other pursuits and that younger teachers may have a chance.

"I am inclined to feel that the whole question depends entirely on the individual case," thought Mr. Shore of the German staff. "It stands to reason that a man of 45 who has been conscientiously carrying on his academic pursuits has behind him fifteen years more experience than the man of thirty and therefore should be in a far better position to understand youth and impart his knowledge to students under him."

member of the C.C.F. Club in response to similar questions, voiced his entire disapproval of a federal political party entering the forum of civic elections. "The C.C.F. has to watch its federal organization before everything else," he stated, "and civic politics are not directly in that field, but a deflection of energy."

"However, as it is," he continued, "if the C.C.F. had been more careful in choosing the candidates supported in the civic elections, more of them would have been elected, instead of two out of the half-dozen or so."

"What is the status of the C.C.F. in Toronto, now?" The Varsity asked.

"The C.C.F. is definitely gaining ground, but at present it is chiefly among the poorer classes. In order to attract the more suitable intellectuals (for Socialism necessitates an intelligent body of supporters) the calibre of the civic candidates as a whole should have been higher. If this lesson has been brought home to the organization in Toronto, the several defeats will not have been useless."

"Do you think the C.C.F. ran the best candidates they could find?" The Varsity inquired.

"No, I shouldn't say that was true," was the reply. "There are probably many more capable men and women in the organization who, for some reason refused to run for a civic office. But the really encouraging thing is that there are many highly intelligent people becoming affiliated with the C.C.F. This is particularly true of the youth, who will be the candidates and supporters of the future, and among these many University students are prominent."

Enters. This dance portrays the fun a young girl supposes she will enjoy when she meets her lover whom she is waiting for, all dressed up in her prettiest costume. These three dances were perhaps the highlights of the recital, the other dances Nine Thelade carried off to the pleasure of the audience because of her abundant enthusiasm and her inherent ease and grace of movement but the total conceptions of many of the dances was inadequate and often fell short of conveying the desired symbolic effect and the effort to inject so much meaning in the dance often resulted in interfering with the smoothness and the rhythm.

It is not a matter of prophecy but almost mathematical certainty when discussing the future that lies before Nine Thelade. She has taken unto herself almost a mission in the field of art to reunite with more stability the art of the dance with the art of the theatre. No one is better equipped than Thelade for she possesses an amazing versatility, immense enthusiasm and incomparable beauty and charm combined with the major quality of youth.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Hon. Dr. J. D. Monteith died last night as the result of a stroke received at the funeral of Andrew Malcolm. Dr. Monteith was the Minister of Public Works and Labour in the Ontario House.

Great Britain will reduce the imports of timber from Russia, was the claim of a London paper this morning.

Attorney-General Price notified authorities near Toronto that they were expected to assist in enforcing the law with respect to gambling.

The "Pawshop Scandal" in France resulted in the attempted suicide of Stavisky, the alleged instigator of the plot, and the resignation of the Colonial Minister, Albert Dalimier, from the Cabinet.

A search plane was being prepared last night at Montreal to fly through the district east of Hudson Bay where four people have been missing since December 20th on a flight from Moose-Port to the district around Ungava Bay.

Dr. G. F. Rogers, speaking to the Victoria College Alumni Association, criticized the over-departmentalization in Ontario schools and lack of personal touch between teacher and student.

President Roosevelt who has strongly supported the St. Lawrence Waterways Plan will probably have ratification of the treaty to announce by tomorrow.

Final recognition of Russia was completed last night when Roosevelt and Ambassador Troyanovsky of Russia pledged friendship between the nations.

McGill's hockey team overwhelmed Harvard last night 12-2.

Vienna authorities announced today a ruthless suppression of Nazi propaganda.

Sabotage and violence accompanied Chicago's milk strike yesterday and tremendous damage was done by insurgents.

Missing Western U. student was located at Vancouver yesterday.

Dr. Munro, Boston brain specialist, stated Ace Bailey must not play hockey again.

COLUMN WELCOMED BY BUSY STUDENTS

News Briefs Facilitate the Perusal of Morning Papers

SUGGEST LONGER RESUMES

"I'm more interested in the French cabinet tonight than I was this morning, because of The Varsity article. This is not a justification for the column. It should be self-sufficient," said Ted Walton, IV U.C., when questioned Mr. Walton was very enthusiastic. "Two years ago," he said, "they started to run extra news articles. I was in favour of those. It is essentially a good idea." He suggested that they might be too short. "Extend the column right down the page and instead of five lines make them fifteen," he said.

"The column ought to be encouraged," said Mr. S. L. Hermant, III U.C. He suggested that it be put under one capable person. "Sport should not be put in it. It is like a" (Continued on Page 4)

ITALIAN CONSUL INITIAL SPEAKER ON PROGRAMME

Commendatore Luigi Villari on "An Italian Looks at Canada"

LECTURES TO BE CONTINUE

Pres. Cody Answers Speech Giving the Canadian Viewpoint

"Italy is now following the British tradition of government more truly than ever before, by evolving a unique un borrowed system, through experience, as Great Britain did through the ages," Commendatore Luigi Villari stated in his address at Convocation Hall last evening, initiating Italian Week at Toronto. This address by Commendatore Villari, distinguished diplomat and former Italian consul to the United States, was answered by Canon H. J. Cody.

"Italian interest in England goes back to Julius Caesar," the visiting speaker continued. "English men of letters have gained much from their acquaintance with the arts of ancient Rome; and at a time when all Europe was invading wealthy Italy, England was her friend. An Englishman was one of the greatest historians of Garibaldi's campaign. An Italian ambassador was intent upon seeing Sir John Russell on the subject of England's co-operation. Refused the audience of that worthy Englishman, he asked to see his wife, who, however, was confined to her bed through illness. He contrived to have the following note delivered to her: 'For the love of Italy forget your English prudery and see me for a few moments.' Sir John" (Continued on Page 4)

OPINIONS DIFFER ON TITLE AWARDS

Titles Only Another Step in Emphasizing Present Class Distinctions

IMPORTANT AT ELECTIONS

Student opinion with regard to the current controversy over the desirability of titles for Canadians acts as a supplement to the article published in yesterday's issue of The Varsity in which members of the staff aired their views on the matter.

Unable to get an authoritative statement from the C.C.F. Club of the University, H. Gordon Skilling, one of its prominent members was asked for his personal opinion, which is: "I have no complaint to make with the choice this year for I think titles are quite justified if given for true service; for example, that bestowed upon Chief Justice Duff. The idea of a title is to distinguish a man from among his fellows but this will not lead to any class distinction in the real sense, that is, any more than there is at present. The difficulty that arises is that the naming of those to be so honoured is almost entirely in the hands of politicians and it is quite likely that the titles will" (Continued on Page 4)

FESTIVE YEAR PLANNED FOR CITY

University Closing Handicaps Participation in Celebration

EXTENSIVE SPORT PROGRAM

"The University will be rather handicapped in taking part in the city centennial. The height of the celebration will be during the summer, when the University is closed. But if the University finds any way in which it can contribute, we will naturally be only too glad to co-operate." Such was the answer of J. B. Hay, publicity man of the Toronto Centennial Committee, questioned by The Varsity yesterday as to how U. of T. might join in the hundredth anniversary observances.

The programme of the committee is exhaustively comprehensive, according to information from Mr. Hay. Every conceivable form of entertainment and amusement will be provided, and provided on a grand scale, from sloughy racing to a great military tattoo. The entire calendar of sports will be covered, not leaving out cricket (in (Continued on Page 4)

KREIGHOFF FATHER OF CANADIAN ART

Illustrated Forcefully on Canvas Beauties of His Adopted Land

LEADER OF NEW SCHOOL

"There never was a finer 'Quebecer' French Canadian or even English Canadian than Cornelius Kreighoff, for he was the spokesman and means of expression of those people," said Dr. Marius Barbeau in a lecture delivered at the Art Gallery last night. "Not merely a magician and spell-binder from abroad, this artist was one who loved and cherished Canada—and one who set the glories of his adopted country upon canvas in an exultant and thoroughly understanding manner." His life is itself indicative of those qualities.

Kreighoff was born at Rotterdam in 1815 of Dutch and German parentage and received his general education in that city. "Trained in music primarily, at the age of 18 he decided to see the world, and, sometimes as a musician and sometimes as a craftsman, he managed to travel throughout the chief countries of Europe." ### HYGEIA HALL SCENE OF LECTURE FROM ANARCHIST

Miss Emma Goldman Sees Methods of Communists Detrimental to Party

OPPOSED CONSCRIPTION

Imprisoned in Penitentiary and Deported from U.S. for Her Views

Even one not in agreement with anarchism is forced to admire the spirit of Miss Emma Goldman, who opens a series of lectures on Monday evening, January 15, at Hygeia Hall, with "Germany's Tragedy, The Forces that Brought it About". A disciple of Kropotkin, this world famous protagonist of anarchism has been a campaigner for over forty years for the realisation of her convictions.

In 1919 after spending two years in a penitentiary for articles published in "Mother Earth", against the conscription act, Miss Goldman was deprived of her citizenship by the simple legal act of disenfranchising her dead husband, and together with several hundred comrades was deported to Russia. She stated in an interview with The Varsity, "If I held hopes in the potentialities of the Russian Revolution I was greatly disillusioned by the tactics of the Bolsheviks."

"The very methods have defeated the end of the Communist Party. No revolution can ever succeed as a factor of liberation unless the means used to further it be identical in spirit and tendency with the purposes to be achieved. In this lies the great mistake made by the Communists. So glantly did they believe in their his torical mission, that they thought that all that was necessary was to take over the State, and that eventually, the State, having lost its functions, would become obsolete and would disappear. "From the beginning they took strong steps to set up an all-dominating state, steps incompatible with the creative energies and the broadening impulses of the revolution. From the first day" (Continued on Page 4)

Sunday Evening Concert

Representatives from the various colleges and faculties are requested to call at the Warden's office on Wednesday, 10th January between 12.30 and 1.30 p.m. for their allotment of tickets for the Sunday Evening Concert on 14th January.

NEWS REPORTERS WANTED

There are several vacancies on the men's news staff of The Varsity. Here is an excellent opportunity for enterprising undergraduates to learn modern journalism in a practical way. Whether you are desirous of entering the newspaper profession, or merely intent upon a first-hand knowledge of how a daily newspaper is produced, experience on The Varsity will prove invaluable. A member of the news staff gains experience in the manifold methods of newsgathering, interviewing and editing of a daily newspaper.

Applicants for positions on the staff will meet with one of the news editors in The Varsity office, Hart House, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. No previous experience is required; the editorial staff of the paper gives to each newcomer to the staff a complete training in journalism.

Dr. Robinson Passes

Rev. Dr. Thomas Rutherford Robinson, for the past thirty years a member of the staff of the University and former president of the Community Welfare Council of Ontario, succumbed to a heart attack last night.

Dr. Robinson graduated in Arts with first class honours in classics and philosophy in 1895. After graduation he took his theological course at Knox College and entered the Presbyterian Church. For a few years after joining the staff he lectured in apologetics at Knox. Later his interest in social work led him into research. The University has lost a man who was highly regarded by his associates as a solid thinker and the possessor of a great judicial mind.

NEW PROPOSALS AT U.C. PARLIAMENT

Questions of Vital Interest to Students to be Brought Before House

REFORMS ON PROGRAMME

With all the customary ceremony of an opening of parliament, the University College Parliament will convene on Thursday, January 11th, at 4 p.m. in the junior common room. This will be the second session of the second parliament.

At 4 o'clock, the Speaker, Right Hon. R. A. Bell, will take the Chair of the House. After a short preliminary, His Excellency the Governor-General, Right Hon. H. Gordon Skilling will attend the House and deliver the Speech from the Throne. ### AVUKAH SOCIETY HEARS MR. GELBER

British Mandate in Palestine Discussed Before Open Meeting

QUESTION DEBATED

"Resolved that the continuance of the British mandate in Palestine is in the best interests of Zionism" was the subject of a debate at an open meeting of the Avukah Society held last night at the Women's Union. The speaker for the affirmative was Mr. Leibel, who pointed out that "England's presence in Palestine acts as a stabilising force. The British have had the interests of the Jews at heart in educating the Arabs, for as they become educated their fanaticism decreases. No better protection could be had than that afforded by Britain. Conditions internally and externally have improved. Trade has increased because foreign countries can trust England. Jewish immigration into England was given its start by Sir Herbert Samuel, and has increased under the British mandate. All justice in Palestine is absolutely of English origin. Out of chaos England has instituted a regular system of laws."

Mr. Newman on the negative side contended that England undertook control of Palestine in a mood of idealism, but a general reaction is felt all over Europe as well as in England. After 13 years of English administration in the Promised Land, many are disappointed, because the English officials in Palestine have not" (Continued on Page 4)

YALE DOWNED ON HOME ICE BY BLUE TEAM

Strong Defence of Visitors Deciding Factor Last Night

GEORGE HENDRY STARS

Crowd of 1,500 Watches Home Team Go Down to Defeat

Varsity took revenge on Yale last night at New Haven for the pre-Christmas game, by taking the home team into camp 2-1 before a crowd of about 1,500.

The defensive power of the visitors was the deciding factor in the long run, after McConvey in the final period had unknotted a tie score, the result of goals by Wilmerding for Yale and McPherson for Toronto in the second period.

Johnny Snyder, Yale goaler, played brilliantly as did Ship for Toronto. But the hard checking of the Canadian defence continually broke up the Yale attack.

Although he was kept out of the scoring summary, George Hendry turned in a stellar game. He was powerful in backchecking, rushing the Elis out of the play, in addition to being a near-constant menace to the Yale net while on the ice.

Yale — Goal, Snyder; defence, Wilmerding and Herrick; centre, Gilligan; wings, Colby and J. Mills; subs, Robson, R. Shepard, Roid, Cooke, Steadard, Robinson and Fawcett.

Varsity — Goal, Ship; defence, Campbell and Rey; centre, McClelland; wings, Hendry and McPherson; subs, Cunningham, Sweeney, Jeffrey, Fullerton, McConvey and White.

Officials — R. Marchand and W. Cleary.

FRENCH-CANADIAN LITERATURE TRACED

Literary Movements Influenced from the Beginning by the Political Struggles

THREE DISTINCT FEATURES

In his lecture yesterday afternoon at Wymilwood, Professor Ford traced the development of French Canadian literature from its significant origin in 1760 to 1900. He pointed out that the literature was characterised by three distinct features, logical, patriotic and religious.

The first efforts in literary lines appeared in the guise of clubs and societies, which, though influential, could hardly be considered literary as they consisted mainly of newspapers, journals and reviews, the majority of which remained in existence for only a few months. Early attempts at poetry appeared in the form of chan. (Continued on Page 3)

Engineers Cavort

Members of the sophomore class of the little Red Schoolhouse will besport themselves at the Parkdale Canoe Club this evening, when the snappy music of Nels Kelly and his Varsity Kampus Katz will furnish the rhythm for their winter dance. Among the notables expected to be present is Boobinoff and Hiss' violin, a direct importation from Puddlegub Centre.

R. B. McIntyre and G. H. Maynard are in charge of the arrangements, and have a few tickets still available. Admission will be by year card. The patronesses will be: Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, Mrs. T. R. Loudon and Mrs. W. J. T. Wright.

PRINCE CHARMING

The age of chivalry is not yet dead! Canada boasts of a prime minister whose gallantry has won for him a warm place in the fluttering hearts of the so-called weaker sex. Knighthood is still in full bloom. And what a brave, bold man our premier was to permit His Majesty to bestow special New Year's honours when a tiny, tiny spark might send Canada's thousands of unemployed into a blazing revolution. How daring it was of Mr. Bennett to ignore the hungry masses, snub the Canadian parliament, flout the advice of his ministers, and contravene the good wishes of Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. J. S. Woodsworth. Scathing ridicule and barbed attacks were insufficient to deter the glamorous Mr. Bennett in the prosecution of his romantic task.

That Canada's bachelor premier knows how to win his way to feminine hearts better than the unmarried leader of the opposition can no longer be questioned. Perhaps Mr. Bennett has taken his cue from the priceless Mr. Disraeli who flattered an English queen with a title, "Empress of India". Mr. King would seem to be a replica of the stolid, stodgy, unromantic Mr. Gladstone. History presents some amusing analogies.

Most certainly Mr. Bennett receives the palm for his courage. Palman qui meruit ferat! Not only did he have the audacity to ignore parliament;—he actually trusted thirty-two women with the secret that they had been made the recipients of honours from the king. No man ever gambled for higher stakes, no man ever placed in jeopardy the premiership of a vast country, no man ever risked his whole political career as did Mr. Bennett when he took his lady friends into his confidence. That Mr. Bennett is a fool—and a fool for luck at that—is abundantly clear to every male in this Dominion. No other man from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Great Lakes to the North Pole would have so much as contemplated reposing so stupendous a secret with one woman, let alone thirty-two. Truly, Mr. Bennett is a remarkable man.

The amazement of the public, occasioned by the premier's child-like trust in women, is only increased by the fact that the women did not give the show away. Here surely is a phenomenon without precedent in the annals of political history. Let all quibbling cease! Let the honours to the thirty-two be unanimous! Let one and all rejoice, let all loyal Canadians sing the praises of the tongue-tied thirty-two! Whatever they may have previously done to merit signal recognition by the Crown, we are convinced that they are fully deserving of the highest honours that could conceivably be bestowed upon them for this revelation of the paradox of their masculinity.

There may be serious aspects concerning His Majesty's donation of titles to prominent Canadians but we are not disposed to observe them at this time. No doubt those who have received royal recognition will take themselves seriously, but if we are to believe a certain facetious professor in our midst, the rest of us will not regard them with undue gravity and awe. After all, a consciousness of class distinctions arises from inferiority complexes rather than from any degree or title conferred upon others.

NEW PROPOSALS AT U.C. PARLIAMENT

duced in the House of Commons every year to signify that the Commons can consider its own business before that of His Majesty. Debate on the Speech from the Throne will then ensue, led by the Leader of the Opposition, Hon. G. T. Bissell and the Prime Minister, Right Hon. Arnold C. Smith. It is expected that such well known parliamentarians as J. M. Patrick, M. B. Gelber, T. C. Keenan, S. M. Hermant, G. K. Drynan and M. Wayman will participate in the debate.

The Speech from the Throne is said to contain some exceedingly advanced proposals, such as a complete reconstruction of the economic organisation under a planned economy, partly by state-owned industries and partly by state-controlled cartels. Sales taxes are to be abolished and income taxes steeply graded, and a scheme of controlled reflation of currency and credit is proposed. Reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations will constitute a large part of the new government's programme, which also includes support of the League of Nations, prohibition of nickel export and the nationalisation of armaments.

From the University student's point of view, probably the most interesting proposals are the abolition of tuition fees, the payment of wages to university undergraduates and the proposal to make economic and current events compulsory in high schools. Also, it is stated, the government proposes to make politics a learned profession, of such a nature as the legal or medical professions, where one has to pass certain examinations and be called to the practice of such profession. Certainly, an expansive programme is promised for the University College parliamentarians during their coming session.

ANTI-KNOCK FUELS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Mr. W. M. Turnley, of the Ethyl Gas Corporation, was the guest speaker at a packed meeting of the Engineering Society yesterday afternoon. The timely topic "Anti-Knock fuels and their Relation to Present-day Motors" was the subject of his address, which was vividly illustrated with lantern slides.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Turnley demonstrated the value of

The Royal Alexandra

I regret not having had the opportunity of reading Women Kind before seeing it at the Royal Alexandra last night; it is distinctly one of those sparkling creations which is improved with familiarity. It is one of the few plays which genuinely deserves to outlast a single season; for however well you like it the first time you see it, you are almost bound to appreciate its finer nuances and subtleties the second.

The finest humour of Women Kind is found in the characterisation of Laurence Brooke (Barry Jones), a gentleman who, while retaining a strictly amateur status, has devoted his life to "understanding" other men's wives, till finally, as might be expected, he falls a victim to Elsa Frost (Renee Gadd) who, to quote her own words, "not being married, is not impressed by the necessity of being understood."

I am not sure whether it was by deliberate intention of the authors or not, but Women Kind is in many respects a beautifully subtle take-off on the "problem play" of the Scandinavian school, particularly in the first two acts. The hacknied situation of the sensitive, high-strung woman married to an unfeeling, materialistic husband in the best bourgeois tradition, is given a delightful fillip with the substitution of a wife (Lily Cahill) whose sensitivity and intellectual malaise exist purely in her own imagination.

Barry Jones is his usual suave, polished self, and succeeds in imparting an almost Shavian character to his part. The two feminine leads, Renee Gadd and Lily Cahill, are delightfully different but equally delightful, both in characterisation and in physical attractiveness.

Maurice Colbourne has been reported as saying that good plays are unusually plentiful this year, and that those which can succeed in surviving for the difficult first months should be well away for long and successful runs. If the enthusiasm with which Women Kind was greeted last night is any criterion, it is earmarked for success.

The Chinese are a delightful race; they have a true spirit of generosity in their hearts. At least our private laundryman has. Every Christmas he presents us with a neat but gaudy package of Chinese tea, artistically bedecked with beautiful maidens and the indecipherable crows' feet which he naively considers to be writing. This year's donation also boasted a label in the best Sino-English, which is reproduced hereunder:

"One ounce of this young leaf tea should be made with one pound and half of boiling water. This strictly pure tea is guaranteed to be without any foreign material and coloring. To drink one ounce of this natural product is strongly recommended to those who want to enjoy sound health."

Student Verse

Ah vessel, fresh billows will bear back to ocean.

O what is the matter? Regain your port-haven!
See stern stridings of screws and the vaults
Depressed by shrewd bankers' defaults;

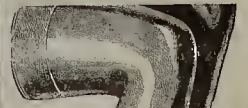

And hear how the turbines are constantly groaning;
Behold how stout rivets won't stifle the moaning
Of girders that strain on storm's rack,
Until every bulkhead may crack.

You haven't self-commerce to weather such tempests,
Nor gods to invoke, should misfortune make conquests:
Although built of ease-hardened steel,
A daughter of F.D.'s New Deal,

You boast of your race and your Blue Eagle slogan—
The timorous gob is as leery as Hogan;
Unless you are bound for wind's sport
Take care of the way you cavort!

Disgusted with graft in the civil dominions,
I'm now deeply anxious for N.R.A.'s pinions.
May you find a channel between Those rocks that overlace ocean's green.

Tivoli—

One hesitates to display too much enthusiasm about a picture already several years old, but the only thing that it is possible to say about Disraeli, featured at the Tivoli, is that it's tremendous. George Arliss is not an actor who has ups and downs, but the role of Disraeli, being what it is, has made him appear, if possible, greater than ever. The minor members of the cast are sometimes noticeably inadequate, but it is an unimportant matter beside Arliss's magnificent performance. You may not think you are interested in politics, but the sort of politics we find Disraeli playing in this picture are able to provide as great a thrill and as much excitement as one can comfortably endure. It is not often that an audience begins to applaud a movie, but this is one of the times.

The short pictures are better than the Tivoli usually offers—even the news reel is interesting, and there is a good comedy showing the Easy Aces.

M.M.C.

Imperial—

We just can't enthuse over the feature picture at the Imperial this week. It's called Mr. Skitch and when you've seen it you don't wonder that there isn't a better title. The plot, if one was really intended, is feeble: Mr. and Mrs. Skitch (Will Rogers and Zasu Pitts) and family lose their home in Flat River, Missouri, tour the country out to the coast where Mr. Skitch makes three thousand dollars in a casino, loses it, is financed by one Cohen to establish a motor camp back home, and all live happily ever after. Will Rogers does his best, Zasu does little and Harry Green is good as Cohen. Rochelle Hudson and Charles Starrett provide the love interest satisfactorily. There are quite a number of laughs, however, and who doesn't like to laugh? A Grandland Rice sport reel depicting the art—and it is an art here—of swimming, is well worth seeing.

The vaudeville is much better than the screen show. Our vote goes to Raymond Wilbert for his marvellous antics with hoops. A smart chorus soothes the eye. Lita Grey Chaplin provides a couple of songs which the audience seemed to like. Jack Arthur's presentation of "Evolution of Dixie" by the orchestra is another feature that adds to the success of the stage show.

G.H.J.

Shea's—

Bette Davis, Lewis Stone and Pat O'Brien star in the leads of a fast-moving movie called Bureau of Missing Persons, on the screen this week at Shea's Hippodrome. Mr. O'Brien finds Miss Davis among those missing and then finds that she is charged with murder. Of course, she didn't kill the man but her innocence was only demonstrated when her detective hero found another missing man, the murderer. Plenty of people are lost and found in this picture but all the episodes are cleverly woven together to produce a highly entertaining show. The vaudeville was up to the usual Shea's standard, which may or may not be your standard. There are tappers, wisc-crackers, a revue, a juggler, and a pair of trapeze artists. The dialogue and pantomime by Rome and Gaut is the best thing on the programme.

Loew's—

Dinner at Eight is continuing to draw large houses at Loew's, having established itself as one of the films of the year by common consent of the critics and the press agents. It manages by means of an overpowering array of stars and dialogue that is worthy of Noel Coward in spots to disguise a very ordinary story. The producers evidently had difficulty in introducing these super-stars in order that none might be insulted for the beginning of the picture has a jerky nervousness that betrays the state of affairs. The integration soon takes place however as soon as this painful business is completed and we roll along smoothly until Marie Dressler's famous line is successfully perpetrated. No—we are not going to tell you what it is.

FESTIVE YEAR

PLANNED FOR CITY

the costumes of last century), Indian lacrosse, and archery. The Allan Cup hockey finals will be played in Toronto. The international dinghy race between Canada, United States and England, held on Long Island Sound last year, will be run on Toronto water this June.

"The first of the year's significant observances," said Mr. Hay, "was of course the New Year's Eve service at the City Hall, when the Centennial Year opened. The next will be on the eve of the sixth of March, the city's real birthday. At midnight, on March 5th, Big Ben will strike in the second century of the city of Toronto."

"On the occasion of Victoria Day, May 24th, the city will celebrate for three days. The outstanding ceremony will be the re-opening of Fort York, restored to the same plan on which it was rebuilt in 1816 after its destruction by the Americans in 1812. The blockhouse of the restored fort will be the identical building put up by Governor Simcoe in 1793. So sturdy is its construction that it came through the American invasion with no more than a shaking. Its timber, cut from the virgin forest in this neighbourhood, is still in excellent preservation. We have reason to believe that several more of the buildings in the restored fort are of earlier date than 1816, but we have no historical proof of it."

"July 2nd, 3rd and 4th are set aside for the next celebration on a large scale. As well as being the Centennial Year of Toronto, 1934 is also the sesquicentennial, the hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of the coming of the Loyalists and the founding of Upper Canada in 1784. In observance of this, the mayors and reeves of all cities and towns in the province are invited to Toronto to meet the Lord Mayor of London and enjoy the huge programme of sports, music, theatricals and other entertainments scheduled for those three days, on which programme one of the most notable items will be the great rowing and paddling regatta on the city course. The Exhibition grounds will be used to capacity for these events."

"On the 4th of July, the American Daughters of 1812 will present to the city a statue of Zebulon Pike, great American explorer and discoverer of Pike's Peak, who commanded the American forces attacking the town of York in 1812."

"Another historic significance of the date 1934 is that it is the twentieth anniversary of the commencement of the Great War. In consideration of that fact, the 4th, 5th and 6th of August have been set aside for the celebrations and ceremonies connected with a huge national gathering of Canadian ex-servicemen, the first since the war. Most of the observances will take place in Riverdale amphitheatre, the greatest natural auditorium in Canada, capable of accommodating 200,000 persons with convenience and perfectly clear vision. On the Sunday, a great drum-head military service will be held in the amphitheatre, and the other evenings will see a grand military tattoo. In these the entire garrison of Toronto will take part."

"These, you remember, are only the official activities, arranged by the actual Centennial Committee. The duties of the committee come to an end with the August celebrations, after which the next big event will be the Exhibition, where the special observations of the Centennial will be in the hands of the Exhibition directors."

"In addition to all these, there will of course be innumerable unofficial affairs of all kinds."

CHEMICAL ASSOCIATION MEET ON THURSDAY

The second Industrial Meeting of the Toronto Chemical Association will be held on Thursday, January 11th at 8 p.m. in the large lecture room of the Chemistry Building of the University of Toronto on the subject "The Practical Application of the Refractometer in Industrial Chemistry". Following a short paper on The Theory of the Refractometer, presented by a member of the staff in Physics, several members of the Association who are using the refractometer in the various industries to a great advantage, will discuss and demonstrate the apparatus used in their plants.

KREIGHOFF FATHER OF CANADIAN ART

covered that Europe was not large enough for him and proceeded gaily to America, mandoline under arm. Shortly after landing in New York, Kreighoff fell violently in love with a young French Canadian girl from Longueuil and married her. This proved to be the pivotal fact of his life in the new world, for his wife introduced to him the fascination of French Canada. For four years he lived at Longueuil and those years were of momentous importance in his life. "He was changed into a Canadian; Canada had taken hold of him and would never let him go." This sojourn also provided a great stimulus towards the direction which he had made his own, for, at this time, engineers, bridge builders, contractors, railway backers—men who dreamed dreams and had visions of a united Canada, had made their headquarters at Longueuil. These men inspired and encouraged the young artist, and in later years, in the role of patrons, were of great assistance. His productions during this period were undeniably crude and lacking in any sense of colour or design; they show, nevertheless, that he had come to Canada with his technique yet unformed, and that he had come as a man whose ideas had matured under the set principles and rules of continental doctrines.

"Kreighoff moved into Montreal as soon as he felt that he could make a living there," Dr. Barbeau continued, "but Montreal was cruel in its criticisms. Permeated by the belief that things from abroad were infinitely finer than any home productions, it denied existence to him." At this juncture, in stepped John Budden, Quebec auctioneer, patron of artists and unusual people, who, in a somewhat conceited and self-satisfied way, took Kreighoff under his wing. A firm friendship sprang up between the two men—a friendship which resulted in the artist going to Quebec.

"Kreighoff, Budden and several English officers who were stationed at the citadel, would roam through the woods, hunting, canoeing, collecting botanical specimens, conversing with and studying the Indians—they gloried in the sheer beauty of the country which rose in sloping hills, on all sides of the city. For Kreighoff, it was his salvation."

"By about 1890, the artist had about shot his bolt," Dr. Barbeau went on to say, "and it was suggested that he go to England, France and other European countries to study. He painted there—yes, but what did he discover? The new movement which urged, under the leadership of Constable and Turner, that artists should paint from nature itself in order to achieve the greatest perfection. When he returned, Kreighoff learned that he could face the country as he found it, and interpret it to the fullest degree." After 1892 and his daughter's move to Chicago, his art declined slowly and gradually all thrill and exuberance died; his pictures were merely canvases on which were displayed the technique of an aged painter. He followed his daughter to Chicago, but never really existed there, made few contacts and retained a continued longing for Quebec.

In closing Dr. Barbeau emphasised the tradition which has been handed down by the "father of Canadian art" and which is the birthright of every painter.

after their ascension to power, they showed they had no faith in the people—the people whose social needs this libertarian spirit had created. These—the Red Army—turned back the Allied forces from all sides, and who had been permitted to develop in freedom would have created a federation of autonomous Soviets, where new fluent ethical standards would have been established such as would have set the world ablaze with the struggle for freedom.

The subjugation of the people to the state had as its prerequisite the destruction of the revolution—and the Communists consequently became violently counter-revolutionary, concentrated, stagnant, hatred-provoking, perverted in their conception of ethical values—a perversion which soon crystallized in that predominant slogan of the Communist Party: "The End Justifies All Means." The Communists are further than ever from Socialism and they admit it."

The Italians admire British political development and customs, especially the respect for law and order, and the universal love of sports. An incident was mentioned which took place during the general strike in England of 1926. In Southampton, a much more serious development was prevented by the good spirits resultant of a football match between the police and the strikers.

operated for success. Every point of the Empire means law and order, and a good trading port for Italy. Italy will never fight against Britain.

Canon Cody spent a month last summer in Italy. To him this country has always been a land of fascination and romance. In the words of St. Paul: "I must see Rome also," always in student days had expressed also Canon Cody's sentiments.

"I am deeply interested in the political and social experiment now going on in Italy," Canon Cody stated. Every country must find its own type of government. At the bottom of Fascism is the great and eventual past of the Roman Empire, especially in art and the Roman Catholic Church a glorious tradition. Therefore no exact replica of Fascism anywhere is possible.

One splendid point in the system is that the state represents the common good, and so the individual has duties towards it. There should be no antagonism between the people and the state. On the contrary they should perform their work to the best of their ability as their contribution to the individual good, through the state.

the capacity nor the desire to grapple with the situation and the Jewish sentiments for the revival of their home land.

Mr. Lionel M. Gelber, Rhodes Scholar, and guest speaker, pointed out with authority that it is in the best interests of Palestine to have England as a mandatory power. The Zionists have achieved a great deal despite the economic and political conditions under which they are struggling. He expressed the opinion of many that he thinks no other power could do its duty towards the Jewish cause as well as England. Himself an English Imperialist, he attacked Lord Beaverbrook's position in England as the most eminent Canadian in the Old Country because of his racial intolerance. But the majority of English people do not support his political tendencies.

be used to reward those in the good graces of the leaders. Personally, I dislike the title "Sir", being more in favour of some of the other orders granted in which letters are applied after the person's name. The issue will undoubtedly harm Premier Bennett's position in the next election, since some of the newspapers are already using it as a point against him."

Mr. B. Gold, an active member of the Student League, said: "I quite agree with the criticism that is being offered to the effect that titles create class distinctions. It all narrows down to the fact of wealth buying the titles which is, in itself class distinction. As far as Mr. Bennett is concerned, I think he realises that his chances of being returned in the coming elections are very few and he is doing more or less what he pleases regardless of its effect on his re-election."

Saul Rae, II U.C., also approved of the choice this year, saying that as long as they were awarded for merit they would be tolerable things but he feared that they would be used as the thin edge of the wedge, leading to the selling of titles to the uplift and benefit of campaign coffers. "If money can buy a title, we don't want them."

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

A public demonstration that resulted in a riot near the Chamber of Deputies in Paris took place last evening, requiring heavy reinforcements of police to restore order. Angry Royalist mobs milled about the Parliament in protest against the alleged high-handed actions of government officials in the Bayonne pawnshop scandal. The Premier promised reform of the Police Department.

Discoveries

Professor H. A. Thompson of the Archaeological staff of the Royal Ontario Museum is on his way back to Greece to resume his duties with the American School of Classical Studies which is carrying on excavation work in the Agora market place of ancient Athens. The Agora was the area in which the principal public buildings of the city were located, including the Senate House and the temples of Apollo and of Demeter. There, too, were the altars of the gods and innumerable statues of gods, heroes and illustrious men. Because of the importance of the site of the Agora in antiquity the region has long been designated by the Greek government as an archaeological terrain.

Some of the more important discoveries have been numbers of terracotta lamps which prove the skillful work of the Athenian craftsman and his ability to hold the supreme position in the home market as only occasional imports have been found. Coins of which several thousand have recently been unearthed, also add to our knowledge of ancient Greek civilization. The coinage of Athens is as unique in the histories of coinage as the drama or sculpture of the Athenians.

Professor Thompson has also discovered some very interesting inscriptions known as ostraca, which range in date from the sixth century. The inscriptions are of various kinds, those of particular interest being those which are the records of "ostracism". This peculiar device employed by Greek city-states for getting rid of prominent citizens who had become undesirable was carried out by vote. The votes were recorded on fragments of pottery (ostraca), and when 6,000

"The chief conquest of Italy during the Great War was a moral conquest and a revelation of our own imperialism," stated Signorina Amy Bernardy in her address on "Social Reconstruction in Italy" at Convocation Hall last evening, where the second in a series of five addresses for "Italy Week" was presented by the National Council of Education.

Mrs. Plumptre, representing the Board of Education, introduced Dr. Bernardy, distinguished scholar, author and journalist.

"We have only tried to bring back to our legitimate boundaries our much disputed territory," the speaker continued. "The moral lesson has been good for us, but now we are entitled to our own good. We feel we can, without intruding on other's rights, speak also of our own rights, our legitimate consciousness of what we have done for the world. I am not giving it out as any form of advice or vanity—I am simply here to tell our story." And that story was one of the nationalism and patriotism of Italy so long dormant, and so surprisingly stirred into awareness during the War, and the years following.

Glasgow, Scotland. — "Is economic peace desirable?" was the subject of an address delivered here recently by Sir George Paish, the eminent economist.

Sir George said that the present economic chaos was due mainly to the policy of currency depreciation which was being followed all over the world. Britain, for example, had gone off the gold standard, and Japan had gone even further, reducing her coinage by sixty per cent. The result was to make other nations follow the same course. America, since she could not offer the low prices of her competitors could sell almost none of her products and had therefore depreciated her coinage to her level.

Teams Tonight

BOTH TEAMS NEED WIN

Junior Team Have Improved
Steadily Since First Game

Tonight in the big gym at Hart House Varsity supporters will be given a chance to cheer for two of their teams. The juniors line up with Broadview Y at 7.30 and the Senior B team takes on Central Y at 9.00.

The seniors need a win to regain a tie with Central for second place. When they lost to West End Y the other night Central trounced Broadview to break the tie existing tie. On the face of it they should take this game because of the two already played against Central, they won the first easily and lost the second by only four points in the last minute of play. The starting lineup shows Newman and Applebaum on the forward line, Vanderlick or Mitchell as centre and Stronach and Prince on the defence. Earlier in the season Prince sustained a sprained ankle in practice and has been out of the game since then. However, it has responded to treatment and when he does get in this, his first game, he will show them all how it is done.

The juniors are in worse case than the seniors, needing a win to stay in the series. They have won two (Continued on Page 3)

MARKING OF LIBRARY BOOKS ANNDS MOST STUDENTS

Student opinion is somewhat varied regarding the mutilation of books as demonstrated by the exhibit in the University Library. While most of those questioned displayed a common disgust towards the perpetrators, some saw in the underlining of paragraphs a help in digesting the contents of the books.

In a light vein, Mr. George Stewart, Trinity, said that he found the comments in the margins of help in amusing himself during the tedious hours of study. Some of these remarks show a remarkable analytical insight as well as a keen sense of humour.

Students Slither in Slushy Mire Park Paths Raise Victorians' Ire

For the past few days students of Victoria College have been obliged to wade through icy water and slush when they cross Queen's Park to attend lectures in other parts of the University grounds. Over a large part of the area where the paths are supposed to be the water comes over the top of the unfortunate students' footwear and when questioned yesterday by The Varsity they expressed their opinion of the condition of the paths in no uncertain terms.

"Insufferable!" was the terse comment of Hall Gregory, III Vic, and this seems to express the sentiments of those students interviewed without exception. Jim Baker, III Vic, said that he thought the city was falling down on its job. Eric Hehner, IV C. and F. observed, "My friends are weary and their cars are very comfortable; apart from that I think the condition of the paths is damnable." Ruefully surveying his dripping extremities, Ed Heeney, Vic II, stated, "Any-thing I have to say about the paths wouldn't look well in The Varsity."

Constructive suggestions as to a remedy of conditions were lacking in nearly every case. One Vic student, Mel Curtis, said, "Possibly they could put board walks, raised about four inches from the ground, across the park which could be of a temporary nature and lifted in the spring." He also suggested that if the city would see fit to lay a cement sidewalk around Queen's Park Crescent from Wymwood to Trinity College, it would be of considerable benefit to the student body.

Most students, however, could offer no further ideas for a solution than to observe, "The paths are terrible. Something should be done about it." The paths across Queen's Park are not, naturally, under the supervision of the University but of the city of Toronto.

DR. CURRELLEY LECTURES

A Roman rubbish mound is the source of much interesting information regarding the times of Christ, Dr. Currelley, curator of the Royal Ontario Museum showed in his lecture there yesterday afternoon. Buildings of the time were of mud brick, a material of only thirty or forty years' durability. All debris was thrown into the street, so gradually it became necessary to descend one, two or more steps into the houses from the street level. However, when a house decayed it was trampled down and another built on top, and so in rapid stages a town would rise into the air. One century made an appreciable difference.

Sometimes by fire a whole town would be levelled, and another built on top. Thus a great deal of trea-

BIBLE ANALYSED BY DR. C. D. ROLLS

Each of the Testaments Has Special Quality of Its Own

GIVEN BY REVELATION

"The two testaments must have a theme; they must have an objective," said Charles D. Rolls, D.D., in opening his address to a meeting of the T.L.C.C.U. yesterday afternoon. "If you cannot describe the origin of the Testaments or if you deny what the internal evidence gives as to their origin, nevertheless they still exist. I myself accept the idea that they are given to us by revelation."

To each of the five parts of the Testaments, Dr. Rolls designated a special quality. The Old Testament is the preparation; the Gospels are the manifestation. In the Acts of the Apostles we have the propagation and in the epistles the interpretation. Finally, the Book of Revelation is the consolation. "Then," declared the speaker, "the word that fits these five things is the theme of the Testaments and that word is redemption."

Passing rapidly over the books of the Old Testament, Dr. Rolls illustrated his statement that it is the preparation. All the lines converge towards one centre—the Christ who is to come. At this point, he remarked

GERMAN FASCISM DIFFERS GREATLY FROM THE ITALIAN

Conditions in Two Countries
Compared by Commandatore
Villari

GERMAN FORM SUPERFICIAL

League of Nations is too
Unwieldy, Thinks
Italy

"German Fascism is only an outward expression of Italian Fascism," asserted Commandatore Luigi Villari yesterday in attempting to compare the governments of the two European countries. Commandatore Villari, who is in Toronto at present, is a distinguished diplomat and a former Italian consul to the United States.

Continuing in his remarks regarding the differences in the political systems of Italy and Germany, Commandatore Villari explained to The Varsity that conditions in the two countries are very different, largely due to the fact that the war has differently affected the various classes of people in those two countries. A group of men, of a type little evident in Italy, has come forward in Germany to assume the government of the country. But these men who make up the Hitler regime, have copied only the outward features of the Fascist form of rule in force in Italy without adopting its more fundamental principles and features.

"Will there be a relaxation of the laws in Italy suppressing freedom of expression?" The Varsity inquired. "It all depends upon what you mean

DRUG CONTROL UNDER LEAGUE

Canadian Drug Act Altered to Comply with New Regulations

LIMIT SALE, PRODUCTION

The world's first experiment in restricting the manufacture and distribution of any product went into effect at the beginning of this year when the League of Nations assumed control of the earth's legitimate production and sale of harmful narcotics.

Through its recently created Narcotics Supervisory Board, the League fixed the world's maximum requirements for morphine, heroin and cocaine in 1934 at 47 tons and no more legally can be manufactured or sold. The League was given this dictatorship in the 1931 treaty, limiting the manufacture and distribution of drugs "to strictly medical and scientific requirements". The accord has been ratified by 41 countries. Japan, China, Soviet Russia and Argentina are the only major countries which have failed to ratify.

Dr. R. B. J. Stanbury, secretary of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, when interviewed by The Varsity said that Canada had altered her Opium-Narcotic Drug Act in order to comply with the regulations defined by the League of Nations. Morphine, cocaine and heroin are the chief drugs used in this country and the Act forbids their sale except under a signed prescription from a doctor, dentist or veterinary surgeon. There are certain exemptions to this rule. Preparations containing a small amount of these drugs, provided they have other beneficial ingredients, can be sold to the public.

The League has fixed a rigid system of import and export licenses whereby

THE PRIMITIVE IN SPORT

All students at the University of Toronto rejoice in the knowledge that "Ace" Bailey, Maple Leaf hockey star, will recover from the serious head injuries received in the now notorious hockey war at Boston. But yesterday's announcement that the "Ace" would never play again was not so joyously received. The accident has definitely given a black mark to sport in general and hockey in particular.

The conscience of a thrill-crazed sport public required a near-tragedy such as overtook Bailey before it reacted to the deplorable conduct which colours most of the exhibitions in our arenas and stadia. Hundreds of equally barbarous and equally disgraceful games were, and still are, sanctioned, aye encouraged, by the plaudits of the spectators. One player had to enter the valley of the shadow of death before the public could be horrified by events which transpire practically every night in a week.

This accident emphasizes the increasing tendency of competing athletes to forget the principles of sport in the desire for victory. One might expect such an attitude in professional sport where the competitors depend upon victory for an assured livelihood, but actually statistics show a greater percentage of accidents among the simon pures.

Hockey is not the only sport which engenders primitive behaviour. We instance the experience of the Hamilton senior lacrosse team, winners of the Mann cup. During the championship series in Vancouver scarcely a Hamilton player escaped some serious injury; most of the men were badly cut and smashed about the face and head. The number of fatalities and injuries to occur each fall as a result of rugby encounters is well known. The fact that these are for the most part accidents and "part of the game" does not nullify but rather confirms the charge that rugby football is legalized physical combat. Indeed, the restrictions are not nearly so stringent as those obtaining in boxing.

One has only to attend one of the weekly wrestling shows which attract thousands of Toronto's citizens to be convinced of the general depravity of the so-called sport-loving public. Shrieks from feminine throats mingle with the hoarse shouts of men, exhorting the combatants to mangle one another that a verdict may be delivered by the referee. The more blood-thirsty and the more gruesome the struggle the better pleased are the patrons.

Back of the brutality characteristic of modern sport is the degenerate mind and will of the people. College students are as culpable as any other group in society when they exonerate one of their own players who trips an opponent to save a goal. Eddie Shore did nothing so despicable when he charged Bailey, yet his action nearly culminated in the latter's death. The immediate cause, however, of the roughness in games is the laxity of officials both on and off the playing fields. Refereeing can save or ruin any sport. Quite naturally the officials in charge of the Boston-Toronto game were absolved from all blame. Nevertheless, had they been more strict in restraining the natural tendencies of players in the heat of a crucial struggle, the minor war might never have materialized.

GERMAN FASCISM COMPARED TO ITALIAN

by freedom of expression," Commandatore Villari replied. "There is, at present, no restriction of freedom of expression as long as it does not tend to incite a revolution. However, after the state is built up to a certain prescribed condition, restrictions against freedom of expression will quite probably be relaxed."

In discussing the reason for Italy's wanting a renovation of the League of Nations, the Italian statesman declared that the League has been found to be unwieldy with so many nations comprising its membership and Italy favours a reorganisation of the League to permit of its more effective action on various questions. As constituted at present, he pointed out, a vote by one of the numerous small countries may hold up action on an important question.

A question of who are likely successors to Mussolini elicited no names from the Italian diplomat, but he explained that the Grand Council holds a list of names which, in the event of the death of the Prime Minister, they will submit to the king and the latter will choose from this list the name of the man whom he desires to succeed the deceased leader.

the work of many different classes," he continued. "For many years he divided with Professor Tracy the work in Ethics in University College, and since the retirement of Professor Tracy he had continued in the same field, though his appointment was from the first in the University and not in the College."

"Professor Robinson began his academic career at Toronto thirty years ago; he was closely associated with a group of men of whom some are in other fields of work and some have retired. For most of the time his department was under the direction of Professor Hume. He was precise in his ways and very reliable, a colleague who could be relied upon to accept all his responsibilities and to fulfill them adequately. Though often reticent, he appreciated the opportunity which is offered by the sincere student and many undergraduates and graduates owe him debts of gratitude for careful guidance and conscientious training. Professor Robinson showed the same qualities in the extensive part he took in the work of the Social Welfare Council. Both in the University and outside his death will be mourned by many who appreciated his ability and his devotion to his career."

Art, Music and Drama

Toronto Symphony

Overture, "The Flying Dutchman"
Prelude and "Love Death", "Tristan and Isolde"
Overture and Feinsberg Music, "Tosca"
Wotan's Farewell and Magic Fire Music, "The Valkyrie" Siegfried's Funeral March, "The Twilight of the Gods"
Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla, "The Rhine Gold"

Rarely does the Toronto Symphony give anything as popular as its Wagner concerts. As usual, the event last night drew a large house, and although the ovations were not as remarkable as on some former occasions, the music was certainly well received. The reason is obvious enough, for whether one approves of Wagner or not, there is no denying his impressiveness. Leaving aside the legitimate controversy which has always raged about Wagner, the composer has undoubtedly been exposed to much annoying and ignorant amateur criticism. The excessive adulation he has received from many concert-goers is manifestly of little value: though it does illustrate his singular effectiveness. But even more worthless are specious terms like "cheap" and "vulgar" which people with much superficiality and little insight apply. Wagner may be, as one modern critic has recently suggested, a gigantic fraud; but there is unquestionable genius in every line.

The Overture to The Flying Dutchman is an early work—melodious, but not especially important. The music from Tristan is, of course, very moving indeed, and representative of Wagner's greatest work; but it is quite well known, and there is no space for further comment here. The Tannhäuser music played is interesting, not only for itself, but because it is the Paris version, revised from the earlier and more familiar Overture, and not very often heard. It should logically supplant the original composition. The almost hideous conclusion of the Overture disappears, and a masterful piece of Bachanalian music takes its place. This, as the programme notes pointed out, is an example of Wagner's mature powers of composition, and makes of the whole an extremely gripping work. We are indebted to Dr. MacMillan for giving us this music in its more impressive form.

Some found the second part of the programme monotonous, perhaps even an anticlimax. Yet the music played was of very great splendour. The Funeral March from The Twilight of the Gods is heard frequently enough, but I doubt if its profound power is generally appreciated. In all of Wagner's mature works there is no question that he got exactly what he wanted, that he wrote with an almost infallible technical grip. This is his claim to respect which even his opponents recognize. His artistic ideas are dubious, and argument about them will probably continue for a long time; quite rightly, too, for it is exceedingly difficult to view Wagner's work with any clarity or certainty at all. But that he was a master of powerful effect, and of deeply stirring drama, is obviously open to no debate whatsoever. And of all this, the Funeral March is a first rate illustration. Certainly, too, its strength and effectiveness cannot be put down to anything which can in a real sense be called "cheap." This sort of music, say what you will, must be considered a product of very great intellectual power.

The performance was remarkably good. Dr. MacMillan handled the music with mastery, and the orchestra was well disciplined. Even the gentlemen of the brass section acquitted themselves creditably, and the string work, as is most often the case, was excellent. N.F.L.

We are confused. In fact, we are frankly bewildered. We have finally accustomed ourselves to driving three miles in the downtown area every evening looking for a place to park our car, and we no longer shudder at those neat admonitions the Police Department put up in the best constabularian grammar? Go Slow, School Ahead. But the other day we ran into something that has us completely baffled. Tooling merrily along a cross-street, we suddenly noticed a sign

STOP. THROUGH STREET. Cursing not loud but deep, we slowed down to eight miles an hour and proceeded with all due caution. Imagine our astonishment, however, when the very next block revealed another polite intimation

STOP. NOT A THROUGH STREET C—C And after that the dark. C—C

Apparently the psychology business is looking up. Gone are the dreary days when nobody knew what psychology really was, and even its most devoted disciples were prone to seclude themselves in back rooms and dodge into the nearest alley every time the word scientist was mentioned. All that is gone. Psychology has at last come into its own, and established itself on an equal footing with chiropractic, numerology and the kindred arts. Witness a little yellow card that was surreptitiously inserted in our letter-box the other day:

The Editor,
The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Having attended the first meeting of the Anti-War Society I was filled with enthusiasm that at last the University of Toronto was going to take its rightful place in the struggle against the havoc and carnage that is known as war. I had great hopes that the S.C.M., the C.C.F. Club and the Student League would co-operate magnificently in their common abhorrence of war. Mr. Coburn's definite assurance that the programme of the Anti-War Society would be one of action; the fact that such outstanding students as Mr. Skilling, Mr. Coburn, Miss Sally Lunn and the leader of the S.C.M. were on the provisional committee led me to believe that we could expect action. However, two months have passed and I am beginning to be assailed by grave doubts. Perhaps (I am almost forced to believe) the provisional committee have secretly been bribed by the munitions manufacturers or perhaps they have become convinced that all the present preparation for war is mere child's play and that we can all rest assured that we shall never be troubled by such catastrophes as that of 1914-18. The provisional committee might quiet these doubts by announcing whether and when they expect to carry out their programme. In case they may have forgotten some of their aims, let me enumerate a few of them:

1. To awaken all students to the immediate danger of war by organising a strong anti-war movement on the campus.

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

A third women's hockey team has joined the City League! It was only yesterday that final financial arrangements were made, bringing into being the very team for which the Toronto Ladies and the Varsity squad were searching hither, thither and yon. It is being backed by some benefactor who wishes to remain anonymous, but whoever he is he certainly deserves a hearty vote of thanks. As yet no name has been decided upon for this outfit, but it will soon be forthcoming, we understand. The original desire was to form a team of Varsity grads. However there are others than U. of T. grads among the players—hence the difficulty concerning the name.

A splendid goalie has been lined up—T. Homfray, a Toronto grad of some three years' standing. Fran Crooks, Westman, J.T., Margot Thomson, J.T., and probably Dot Starr of the same year will also be playing.

Practices will begin next week. We will be waiting to see just what the calibre of the team turned out will be. It will be worth waiting for, if it is only to see "Crookie" on the ice again.

According to schedule the first intercollegiate basketball practice was held last night at 6.30 at the O.C.E. gym. Bea Longley, Eleanor Wallace and Al Butler were very decidedly among those present. Already they are displaying tactics which make Varsity's chances appear very bright. But only fourteen players turned out. This falls four short of the number required to make up two squads, and does not allow for any eliminations. Let's go, everybody! Only one freshe appeared; U.C. freshies are allowed to participate in intercollegiate contests, so come on Freshies, we need you!

There is an important intercollegiate hockey practice at 1 p.m. in the Arena today.

RESPIRATORY SYSTEM IS SUBJECT OF TALK

A lucid discourse on the gentle art of respiration in all its scientific refinements was delivered by Henry Gibson at a meeting of the Trinity College Science Club last night. Dealing with its physiological aspect, he gave a detailed description of the respiratory system. Then followed a comprehensive analysis of the chemical action which takes place at the tissue walls of the lung.

The talk terminated with an experi-

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR GYMNAST MEET

January 25th Date Set for Interfaculty Gym Contest

WILSON CUP IS AWARD

With the opening of the new term the gymnasts of the University are getting down to serious work. They are practicing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday in the upper gym so that they will be in first class shape by the time the interfaculty meet takes place, which occurs on January 25th. The interfaculty meet is of great importance because it is from the winners of this meet that the intercollegiate team is selected. Last year the first six men were picked and they beat McGill by over a hundred points. This year the first eight or ten men will be chosen and then the best picked from these at a later date.

This year there is an abundance of material and the prospects look to be better than last year although we have lost Williamson, who was the intercollegiate champion last year. The interfaculty meet is for the Harold A. Wilson Cup, which has been won by School for the last four years. This time, however, they will have some opposition from the other teams, which will be Meds, U.C. and Trinity. Meds have Stew. McDonald of St. Andrews, who has won the Canadian junior championship for the last two years. In addition to the teams, there will be entered some individuals, one of whom is Farrar of Forestry, who was second to Williamson in the intercollegiate. Besides having excellent material the team also has the advantage of having two very fine coaches in Allan Keith and Charlie Zwargard, who has won the Dominion senior championship for the last four years.

JACKSON DISCUSSES CANADIAN ARTISTS

Victoria Literary Society Hear of Kreighoff Collection

Yesterday afternoon the Art Appreciation group of the Victoria Literary Society visited Mr. A. Y. Jackson's studio. Mr. Jackson spoke of the Kreighoff collection now being exhibited in the Art Gallery and of the development of distinctively Canadian art. He told the group about the work of several prominent Canadian artists, mentioning Lawren Harris and Arthur Lismer in particular.

Mr. Jackson exhibited his own pictures and explained how various effects such as calm or movement were gained. "Diagonal lines produce a sensation of restlessness," he said, "while horizontal and vertical lines are restful. Arthur Lismer's pictures are lively. Every line is moving. This effect is gained through the use of diagonal lines." Mr. Jackson said that he usually painted snow scenes in Quebec in the winter and spent his time in Algonquin Park and Georgian Bay in the summer.

ment performed on a member of the club. He was instructed to breathe deeply for about five or ten minutes and at the end of that time to make no effort to continue breathing or to keep from breathing. The subject stated that he was able to cease breathing for a period of a minute and a half voluntarily, without any effort. Breathing resumed at the end of the time of its own accord. Mr. Gibson explained that this was possible due to the excess oxygen stored up during the period of forced breathing beforehand.

The meeting was brought to a close by an informal discussion amid congratulations to the subject on his rapid return to normalcy.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By John T. Stubbs

Tonight in the Big Gym of Hart House there will be staged a basketball doubleheader with Varsity juniors and Broadview's younger cagers fighting it out in the first fixture at 7.30 o'clock. Then at 9 p.m. the Blue and White senior B team takes on the Central Y quintet in another crucial contest. The U. of T. outfits need a win each to stay in the running in their respective leagues. The senior Bees need a win to get back into a second place tie with Central and the juniors need a win to stay in the running of their series. Central lost the first of their games to Varsity on a long count but squeezed out a decision in the last few minutes of their second game with the students by a four point margin. The juniors played Broadview in the league opener and lost 32-23. Coach McCutcheon claims that the first loss was not an indication by any means of their present calibre. Such being the case the games tonight should both be close. The juniors have improved plenty. This lad Kinsey has been making big counts on the scoring sheet lately as high scorer for both the team and the game. The senior Bees seem to be in a slump and what they will do tonight can only be decided by the performance they put up in the game. Saturday night the Hayman-coached seniors will be playing Yolles A.C. and the former Lizzy aggregation are counting on a win in this Big Six game.

The Varsity senior hockey team after returning from New Haven, will be driving to Kitchener for an O.H.A. senior game tomorrow night. In view of this very recent travels and brief rest the game was postponed from tonight to Thursday. With the exception of the present cellar student outfit, the Kitchener team is the least potent of the O.H.A. sextet. Another win in Kitchener would do no harm and every two points that the students snaffle in the series is an addition to their prestige. As everybody says, they aren't a high class senior team but those who have seen most of the games will admit they are not outplayed as much as it would appear in the published standings. Saturday night at the Varsity Arena they will play the Torontos.

Student opinion seems to be rather divided on the question of hockey these days and some of the arguments pro and con that are offered to our humble ears are rather interesting to say the least. There are a large number of men students in the University who know and have seen a lot of good hockey in the last decade. They are in a position to express an intelligent opinion on the matter because they know hockey when they see it, they know amateur hockey when they see it, and they know a good player when they see one. In the interests of hockey as it concerns the University we would like to offer an opportunity at this time for constructive criticism on the problem that confronts the University of Toronto. If you are interested and have an opinion that is worth while which includes at least one constructive suggestion in the way of a remedy of Varsity's present apparent insignificance in O.H.A. competition, both senior and junior, address your remarks to the Sports Editor and we will do our best to present your suggestions in print as a consensus of student opinion on the matter. All contributions must be signed and handed in to The Varsity office in Hart House by Saturday noon.

ASSAULT TRAINING IS IN FULL SWING

Freddy Smith Only Veteran to Return to Ranks of Boxers

CONSIDER OUTSIDE BOUTS

The B. W. and F. men are working overtime these days preparing for the coming senior interfaculty assault. The wrestlers grunt, groan and grapple under the excellent tutelage of Mr. Martin, while in the next room the boxers learn how to fake and lay their man on the canvas. The latter are certainly fortunate to be coached and trained by Dr. Les Black, assisted by Harry Henning.

The wrestlers look to be a fine aggregation of grapplers and can be counted on to easily hold their own in any competition. Four of last year's men are back in the fold and three of them are intercollegiate champions at present, namely, Gray, Dimitric and Johnson. Bannister, intercollegiate champion of the 135 lb. class in 1931 is also in training.

The two Varsity coaches stepped into a tough assignment when they undertook to develop a boxing team which would repeat the achievements of last year's squad. Graduations and examinations have so depleted the ranks that only one veteran has returned to action this season. Freddy Smith, clever 126 lb. performer and holder of the intercollegiate title is the only one of last year's championship team to return. Competition is particularly keen among the lighter classes where McCatty is the 135 lb. champ; Powell in the welterweight, has been turning in impressive performances. However, there are several other batters at this weight who will, no doubt, be heard from before the intercollegiate team is selected.

The heavier classes are sadly in need of material although the men who are turning out have shown considerable ability.

Negotiations are being carried on for bouts outside of the club and with the possibility of several of the men making their first appearance in Streetsville on Jan. 24. However, no definite arrangements have been made but it is certainly a step in the right direction as the boys would receive experience which they would be unable to get in their own club.

The coaches are desirous of new material turning out and there are plenty of openings for any ambitious youngsters in the boxing and wrestling games.

BASKETBALL GROUPS PARTLY ARRANGED

Fifteen Teams Entered in Interfaculty Group Schedule

The interfaculty basketball season is to open next week, and there is every indication that it will be as good or better than last year. Considerable interest is being shown as some fourteen or fifteen teams are being entered. The schedule has not yet been drawn up but it will probably appear tomorrow. The group is, however, partly arranged. The four small faculties of Wycliffe, Knox, Forestry and Emmanuel will be bracketed together, as will the junior teams from Victoria, School, Medicine and University College. A strong team is expected from Guelph. Last year's champions, the Junior Meds, will be back with about half of their former players while the Senior S.P.S. team will rate about the same. The Meds won by a narrow margin only so it is anyone's cup.

STRATA OF OEBRIS REVEAL SECRETS

sure, not only in the eyes of historians, but in worldly wealth, was buried. The banks were private affairs, in holes in the ground, the whereabouts of which was known only to the father of the family. If some unexpected calamity overtook him the treasure would probably be lost for many years. By recent excavations the intimate everyday life of the times of Christ has been pieced together. Now we know among other things, that the tunic, a basis for modern dress in many lands, originated then. Children played with wooden and stuffed linen dolls very similar to those of a few decades ago, and the jewelry is not unlike that of today. Cosmetics were nearly as popular with ancient Roman women as with us.

Because papyrus was too expensive a writing material for everyday use, bits of broken pots were not only the schoolboy's slate, but were commonly used by their parents. For business and social letters the shoulder bones of sheep made a good writing surface. It is said that the Koran was written on shoulder bones of different animals, and put in a box. When put in book form later the smaller chapters were placed at the end, because it is natural to take the larger pieces out of a box first.

Alabaster bottles, called boxes in the Bible, of precious ointments, were ground in ash to paper, and must have been tremendously expensive. They were broken when empty, according to custom.

BLUE BASKETEERS MEET 'Y' TEAMS

lost one. There are no playoffs in their series and their one loss was to Broadview in the first game of the season 32-23. Since that first game they have improved steadily and now present a formidable front to any opponent.

In Kinsey, their high scorer, and Miller, they have a pair of fast, clever forwards who team well with Harlock or Toole at centre. The regular defence line of Krakauer and Stoughton are in there all the time and prove a real stumbling block to would-be scorers. All in all, the evening promises to produce some nice basketball and since admission is free the teams ought to get some real support.

DRUG CONTROL LEAGUE UNDER LEAGUE

only certain persons may handle narcotics and only through certain ports. Dr. Stanbury doubts the ability of the League to force countries, which did not ratify the Act, to comply with the regulations.

In Canada the growth or manufacture of harmful narcotics is forbidden by law. China is the greatest producer of crude opium while Germany makes more manufactured drugs than any other country.

upon the necessity of viewing and interpreting the Bible in its entirety. Nothing can be gained if one small section is interpreted without any reference to its background or surrounding incidents.

"In the New Testament," said Dr. Rolls, "each of the four Gospels is a portrait manifesting the Redeemer. After the redemption came the propagation, when the Apostles spread the gospel abroad, triumphing over racial and national barriers as well as class barriers. The Epistles interpret the whole plan of the redemption and in the Book of Revelation, the consolation, we find Christ the priest, king and prophet."

In conclusion Dr. Rolls declared, "Christ is the one mediator between God and man; the glory of the redemption can be gained only by the acceptance of Christ."

NATIONAL FEELING

OF ITALY AROUSED

"Our children are being patriotically trained in great schools non-existent a century ago. Do not let yourself be deluded into thinking that mass training is anything but good in itself—for the underlying motives have not yet been published. One hundred thousand men carry muskets, each musket in remembrance of one who fell in defence of his country. This homage and deep reverence form a basis for the new moral state and every man in Italy feels it would be idiotic to oppose that government when it is so much his government."

She went on to tell how a spirit of cheerfulness and hope pervaded her people; how the state instils a sense of security in parent and child by its consistent and far-reaching protection, and how the spirit of the people is turning to the past, not in vanity but in the simple dignity that only centuries of racial continuity can give.

In closing, she spoke in proud ringing Italian to her compatriots in the audience, and a sudden burst of applause was followed by attentive silence. Even those, to whom the words were meaningless, were stirred by their intensity.

COINAGE REDUCTION

AT BACK OF CHAOS

By following this course, each country had a short period of prosperity; but it was not permanent, and a relapse was inevitable. The result was to make foreign goods dearer, and home goods cheaper abroad.

America had reduced her foreign buying, especially since 1929. Since then, her home trade had become appallingly depressed: her farmers could not sell their goods at home or abroad; prices were low; and practically everybody in America was bankrupt. Her income was reduced, and there was no confidence in the country.

This policy of economic nationalism was hampering trade. It meant world suicide. Europe was too much overpopulated to support herself—Germany, for example, could produce enough for only two-thirds of her population and Great Britain had to import almost all of her raw material.

M. AND P. SOCIETY

In lieu of the M. and P. annual skating party, an informal dance will be held at the Women's Union, 79 St. George, Thursday, January 11. Novelty dances, Refreshments. Orchestra in attendance. Dancing from 8.30-12.

The statesmen of the world, said Sir George, did not understand economics. They tried to offset things as they happened, instead of taking a broad view.

Recovery depended on the use of capital to increase production; but it must be used intelligently. The apparent recovery today was a temporary one, due to the use of our last reserves. It must fail, unless advantage were taken of the increased confidence to bring about a more permanent revival.

RECITALS ANNOUNCED

book being underlined was pointed out by Bill Sutton, II Law. He believes the emphasis given by this marking makes it easier to comprehend the meaning during the initial study of the volume. Mr. Sutton was quite vehement, however, in his denunciation of those malefactors who deliberately removed portions of a book.

Don Treadgold, also a Law student, professed complete disgust towards those who in any way marked up copies of books belonging to the library. Students ought to respect the property of the University and treat it with respect.

Literature Dispensary

By Paul Gardner

May I help you choose something, madam?
No, thank you, I'm just looking.

Will you send me a copy of the complete works of William Shakespeare, C.O.D.?
Certainly, madam.

And be sure it includes "The Lady of the Lake"—I specially want my little girl to read that.

Mrs. Green, could you help me decipher this phone order? I can't make anything out of it but "The Bottle in the Still." Ever heard of that?
"The Bottle..." Let me see... Why, it's Nina Moore Jamieson's Christmas book, "The Cattle in the Stall."

Is there such a book as "Lost in the Woods" by Mrs. Trall, or was my wife pulling my leg?

It does seem incredible, but it actually exists.

I'd like "Little Women" in the Everyman Library.

Yes, madam. Here it is.

Oh, but that has a red cover!

I'm sorry, but this is the last copy we have left.

Oh, I'm afraid I wouldn't care for the red cover; I think grey is more aesthetic for a gift, don't you?

May I assist you, madam?

No, thank you, I'm just looking.

I think that will be about all...

No, just a minute! You haven't a good Russian novel you could recommend, have you?

Yes, sir, here's an excellent one by Nicolai Gubsky—"The Gladiator."

Thank you. I'll just glance through it...

No, I'm afraid this deals a little too frankly with sex for me; I don't agree with this modern psychological trend...

But I'll tell you what I would like—the Shorter Oxford Dictionary.

I'd like to get a Bedford "Peter Pan."

This is not the House Furnishings Department, sir.

Have you got a book of poems by the author of Guesst?

Well, little one, are you doing some shopping?

Yes; mummy told me to get her a book called "Antony Adwerps."

What do you think would be a suitable book to give an invalid lady of eighty-two?

Well, could you give me any idea of her tastes?

Why, she's rather religious, but she seems to like to read fiction, as long as it's good, you know. Someone suggested "Thirteen Women," but I've never read it, have you?

No, I'm afraid I haven't.

Well, of course, you're a man...

Any book by Louisa May Alcott ought to be safe, though, don't you think?

May I serve you, madam?

No, thank you, I'm just looking.

Have you the sequel to "Arizona Ames"?

Do you know the name of it?

Yes, "Arizona Fires."

Ah yes, of course; and have you read the earliest of the series—"California Lodes"?

Some Elsie books? Yes, madam, here's a whole table of the 1—little treasures. (Half an hour later.) Have you decided which you'll take?

We—ell, I think, perhaps, these two. Yes, madam; you want "Motherhood" and "Children" do you?

Sir!

We want to settle an argument. Who wrote "Alice in Wonderland"—Dickens or Shakespeare?

I'm afraid you are both wrong; it was Theodor Dreistoevsky.

This "Martin Chuzzlewit", now—can you tell me, was it written from the educational or the recreational standpoint?

I'd like to see a copy of Shakespeare's "As You Desire Me."

I wanna book by D. H. Lawrence. Yes; is it for yourself?

No, for my ma; she reads good books, like D. H. Lawrence and Upton Sinclair and Will Durant.

Could I be of any assistance, madam?

No, thank you, I'm just looking for a book.

Could you show me—er—"The Adverse of Anthony"?

"Don't you mean 'The Obverse of Anthony'?"

Well, perhaps...

I'm sorry, madam, but Anthony is a little reticent about displaying it in public.

I want a book for a gift for a University professor.

Yes, madam. Do you think he would have read all of Edgar Wallace's?

Oh yes, I'm sure he has. He's reading the Tarzan series now, I think.

Well, I always say Grace Livingston Hill out-Tarzan Tarzan, for a real good love story.

I guess you're right. I'll take "Silken Threads" by Wilhemina Stich.

Very well, madam... Then of course there's the Bobbsey Twins...

(A little timid-looking man, deserted for the moment by his large and bulging wife, opens "Cannibal Quest" and turns the pages. Coming upon the full-length portrait of a handsome Balinese maiden who wears no bandeau—though she does affect a banjo—he scrutinizes it closely for several minutes. Meanwhile his wife comes up silently behind him and follows his gaze for a moment, then says quietly:)

Well, Eric, shall we be going on now?

(Eric... goes on.)

May I aid you in your search, madam?

No, thank you, I'm just looking.

- To secure the widest possible publicity of war plans and anti-war activities through personal propaganda, meetings, contributions to the press and sale of anti-war literature.
- To work for the stoppage of the manufacture and transport of munitions and all materials of war and to support anybody who takes similar action.

I have taken the liberty to emphasise a few words which I think the provisional committee might take strongly to heart. There is on the campus a large number of students who are determined that the sacrifice of their fathers, brothers, uncles and cousins shall not have been in vain and these students would be eager to co-operate in an organisation with the express intent of exposing the war mongers and promoting peace. These students have been looking to the provisional committee for leadership. Will they be forced to look elsewhere?

I sincerely hope that this letter will call forth some action from the committee.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Washington—President Roosevelt addressed a strong plea to the Senate for ratification of the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty. The fate of the pact was considered extremely doubtful.

Paris—Defeat of the Chautemps Government was foreseen as a sequel to the recent collapse of the Credit Municipal Bayonne.

Washington—Still further reduction next month in hours of labour per week in coded industries was predicted by Gen. Johnston, if the present revival of business continued.

Chicago—A truce has been declared in the milk strike, and a mediation board named to work out an agreement between producers and distributors.

A report of Dr. Jackson, M.O.H. for Toronto shows one of the best health records in history for this city in the past year.

Controller McBride stated last night that he is ready to move that city council ask for the resignation of the T.T.C. Commission if street car service does not improve.

Tilden beat Vines in straight sets in the professional tennis matches before a record crowd in Madison Square Garden last night.

Six navy seaplanes set out from San Francisco for Honolulu yesterday.

A screaming mob attempted to attack seven men arrested in connection with the murder of Archbishop Tourian in New York.

WRESTLERS PROVIDE LITTLE BRUTALITY

Brutal Holds Have Been Eliminated from Amateur Wrestling

ACCIDENTS INEVITABLE

"There is no brutality in amateur wrestling," was the definite statement made by W. H. Martin, instructor of the sport at Hart House, when questioned by The Varsity with reference to yesterday's editorial.

"Professional wrestling is altogether different,—professional wrestlers are actors putting on a good show," continued Mr. Martin, who was of the opinion that most of the apparent "rough stuff" in the professional sport was "put on" as a crowd pleaser.

"All the so-called 'brutal holds' have been cut out of amateur wrestling, and beyond that the referee has power to bar any hold which in his opinion 'endangers life and limb.'" Mr. Martin admitted that there was the possibility of the wrestler in the heat of the match accidentally injuring his opponent, but the power given the referee in the above ruling prevents any such occurrence.

"Accidents in contact sports are almost inevitable," replied T. A. Reed, questioned in the same connection. Asked if he thought there had been any increase recently of intentional roughness in amateur sport, Mr. Reed replied emphatically in the negative. "At no time during my experience in intercollegiate competition have I witnessed any deliberate brutality between players or teams, nor have I seen any recently."

PATHOLOGY STUDENTSHIP ANNOUNCED AT OXFORD

The Professor of Pathology at the University of Oxford gives notice that an election to a Studentship in Pathology will take place in the first week of June next.

The Studentship was founded "for the furtherance of original research in Pathology". It is of the annual value of 200 pounds, which may be increased at the discretion of the managers to any sum not exceeding 300 pounds, and is tenable for one, two or three years. The student may be of either sex, and need not necessarily be a student at Oxford. While holding office, the time of the student must be devoted to original pathological research.

Intending candidates are requested to send letters of application, along with three testimonials (one of which should vouch for the candidate's personal character and general education), to "The Registrar of the University, University Registry, Oxford".

Should you desire further particulars, they can be had on application to the Registrar at Simcoe Hall.

NEED NOT REVISE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Professors Against Standardization of the English Language

MUST RETAIN DIALECT

"Standardization of the present spelling or pronunciation of the English language would in no way help the language itself and I am against any such standardization, if it can be helped." Such was the opinion of Professor Mackay, of the classics department in University College to a recent statement made by Dr. Arthur G. Kennedy of Stanford in last month's issue of American Speech. "The English language is for the English speaking peoples and we do not encounter as much difficulty in English as Dr. Kennedy points, and therefore standardization is unnecessary."

When asked about the dialectical and slovenly pronunciation of today referred to by the Stanford professor, Mr. Mackay believed that standardization (Continued on Page 2)

U.C. PARLIAMENT TO OPEN TODAY

Abolition of Fees, Salaries to Students, to be Proposed

EXPECT HEATED DEBATE

At the opening session of the University College Parliament this afternoon, the Speech from the Throne will be delivered by His Excellency, Right Hon. H. Gordon Skilling. His Excellency will arrive shortly after 4 p.m. and after the usual ceremonies will deliver the speech.

Debate on the Speech from the Throne will ensue, and it is expected that the Leader of the Opposition, C. T. Bissell will launch a vigorous attack upon the Smith Government and ask the House to turn them out of power.

A stirring debate will doubtless ensue, for the Prime Minister will launch a counterattack with all the fury at his command. As forecast exclusively in The Varsity, the speech will contain many radical proposals, among the chief of which is the abolition of tuition fees and the payment of salaries to students as in Soviet Russia. Support of the League of Nations, the nationalization of armaments and prohibition of the export of nickel will be the government's proposals for preventing war.

STUDENTS CONDEMN T.T.C. SERVICE

When Cars Finally do Come They Are Generally Overcrowded

MANY MISS LECTURES

The general opinion of the students interviewed by The Varsity yesterday was that the T.T.C. street car service was deplorable.

G. R. Brisley, IV Forestry, stated that students travelling the Yonge St. cars in the morning get off at College St. expecting to transfer to a College car but find that after waiting 10, 15 or 20 minutes that the College cars are all overcrowded. By the time a car which will accommodate them puts in an appearance half of the first lecture has passed and they might just as well curse the car and walk.

The Harbord St. service is by far the worst of the lot according to Miss Betty Clawson, III Philosophy. She asserts that the crowded conditions on this line make it utterly impossible to be sure of getting to lectures on time. Miss Clawson stated that when transferring the second car always tried to out-distance the passengers by more or less giving them a run for their money.

A graduate of '30, Mr. G. H. Buckland, makes use of the Harbord line every day and he says the cars are (Continued on Page 2)

Students May Fret About Examinations But Slides Still Provide Recreation

By Sally Go-Round-the-Sun

Poeme Moderne
To the Fit who Survived
A slide it is a Fearsome thing
God wot.
(Miss Dickinson pads, why can't we?)
Yet joy it does to students bring
Or not—
As the case may be.

Extra-murally, as it were, there has been an all-encompassing joie-de-vivre on the campus. Staid professors; serious disciples of Kant; naive freshmen, careless of the fact that someone will mistake them for freshmen; everyone joyfully skims from one sheet of ice to another. According to the connoisseurs of deliberate sliding, the longest, fastest, and best slides are in the vicinity of Knox or Victoria. But we know a better one. Applications for information re the slide used by the majority of the professors will be received at the Varsity office until 12 midnight the night of the thaw. All inquiries treated confidentially.

Both those who fell by the wayside, and those who picked them up, are agreed that the gentle recreation found in sliding from one college to another is the only thing which makes life tolerable in the intervals of getting back examination results. As one gentleman (III M. and P.) told us from the depths of a veal cutlet at the Lantern (adv.). "I lead a sedentary life, but I keep fit by sliding twice around U.C. every morning before breakfast."

We remember seeing:
—a portly professor slide majestically down the pathway at Knox, bump into the turnstile, and clinging wildly to it, turn around three times. He refused to be quoted.

Not of Type Who Attend with No Intention of Paying

NAMES NOT DIVULGED

Petitions for Reinstatement to Have Individual Attention

"The majority of the defaulting students are genuinely unable to pay their fees," said Mr. A. B. Fennell, Registrar, in a special interview granted to The Varsity yesterday. "Unlike previous years, these students are not of the type who spent the whole year at the University without intending to pay any fees or write any final examinations."

Mr. Fennell declined to divulge the names of these students for obvious reasons, but said that they were fairly evenly distributed through the four years of the Arts course. A number of those students, who received the final letter informing them of the cancellation of their registration, have already visited the Registrar's office, and the petitions for reinstatement which each student must present, will receive individual attention.

The fact that only students of University College were affected by this ruling was strongly emphasized by Mr. Sidney Jones, bursar of Trinity College. All finances and the administrative duties are handled by the individual federated colleges, Trinity, Victoria, and St. Mike's, and are quite independent of the University. Mr. Jones was satisfied that there would be no student registered in Trinity who would be unable to pay his fees by the end of the academic year.

"The Loan Fund, details of which were recently published in The Varsity, is the answer of the S.A.C. to this question," said Mr. E. A. Macdonald. "To date we have received about thirty applications, from members of different faculties and it is likely that some (Continued on Page 4)

INK IS TOPIC OF ADDRESS GIVEN TO CHEMICAL CLUB

"Ink is the base upon which modern civilization rests." With this statement Mr. G. O. Morrison of the Canada Printing Ink Company opened an address to the Industrial Chemical Club at Hart House last night. Mr. Morrison gave a detailed description of the manufacture of printer's ink and the raw products from which it is formed.

The composition of the ink must vary not only to supply the various colours, but to suit a large number of different types of printing presses and a wide divergence in the character of the papers used. The pigments used are chiefly aniline dyes. These are ground extremely fine and intimately mixed with certain vegetable oils. Some substance must also be added to increase the rapidity with which the ink dries.

The inks must be carefully tested for resistance to fading and other necessary properties. Mr. Morrison illustrated his talk with a number of coloured slides showing various operations in the manufacture of his product.

STUDENTS SUPPORT ANTI-WAR SOCIETY

Felix H. Walter as Guest
Speaker

ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

"The Anti-War Society is by no means defunct," stated Miss Sally Lunn, when questioned by The Varsity as to the activities of this organization. Yesterday morning in The Varsity's correspondence column a letter appeared, challenging the provisional committee of the society to carry out the programme formulated at the organization meetings of this group.

The Anti-War Society held two meetings before Christmas, and is planning one in the near future, with Prof. (Continued on Page 3)

UNIVERSAL CRISIS FOUND IN ITALY

Don Mario Colonna Gives Third Address at Convocation Hall for Italy Week

ORIGIN OF BLACK SHIRTS

Under the auspices of the National Council of Education, Don Mario Colonna gave last night the third in a series of addresses for Italy week. "We are making a big effort to face the universal crisis," said the speaker. "We have won the war—we must win the peace. It is the spirit of our work that matters—every man for the community, not merely for the state, or for himself. A man is entitled to privileges, not as a man but as a function in the community."

"The evolution of 12 years ago was created by law, and has resulted in the stressing of service, and has since been fostered by the military spirit which is different from militarism."

The origin of the Black Shirts was in 1915 with the entry of Italy into the war. They were composed of roughnecks to whom was entrusted some of the stiffest fighting. Chaos after the war was resolved into a new order by Mussolini's entrance into Rome in 1922, at the head of 50,000 Black Shirts; all this, however, without any bloodshed.

"Trade unionism grew from the old guild system," explained Don Mario, "and is a socialization of the means of production. There are unions of employers as well as those of em-

SENIOR B'S LOSE CAGE STRUGGLE BY TWO POINTS

Varsity Defeated by Central Y in Five Minutes of Overtime

SCORE IS 26-24

Newman, Applebaum and Stronach Star for Blues

In an overtime game which had the spectators sitting on the edges of their seats throughout, the Varsity Senior B basketball team were defeated by the Central Y quintet by the score of 26-24 in the Hart House gym last night. The tilt had everything one could desire from a spectator's standpoint and was played at a fast and thrilling pace throughout, both teams displaying good form.

Varsity started the game off slowly but play was quickly speeded up after Haerlein sank a foul shot which opened the scoring for Central. Both teams were checking each other closely and clear shots were few and far between. Varsity were pressing hard but the Y team were intercepting many of their passes. Two foul shots and a basket put the Blue team in the lead while the Centrals countered with a basket of their own. A fast combination play by the Blue team right down the floor ended in another basket.

Play kept going very evenly and neither team could score for some time. The Y team made a spurt, scoring two baskets and a foul to take the lead from Varsity but Applebaum sank two quick baskets to put them in front by one point. Their advantage was short lived and only by looping a bas-

S.C.M. Corner

"When you feel a south wind blow, you say 'There will be heat,' and so there is. You hypocrites; you know how to decipher the look of the earth and the sky; how is it you cannot decipher the meaning of this era?" It was to try and "decipher the meaning of this era" that 115 students from all parts of the U.S.A. and central Canada gathered at McMaster University at the close of 1933.

And during four days of patient discussion of the world problems of unemployment, nationalism and race much knowledge was shared, and many new ideas gleaned, and many problems seen more clearly; but it was realized that an effective attack on those problems would be made not by dispassionate analysis alone, but by "knowledge working through love".

And the conference itself was a living testimony to that conclusion. For during its time, individuals born of antagonistic races and brought up in nations between which there is continual friction, nevertheless felt no antagonism. In other words, although the conference studied the general problems of race and nationalism, the particular personal problems of race and nationalism which would have arisen between individuals was absent. There was a mutual understanding and a common fellowship which seemed to have absorbed all racial and national differences. "Knowledge working through love" had solved the problems of race and nationalism on the McMaster campus.

Was this due to the common factor of Christianity? As in the swing of a magnetized needle one has an intuition of how the universe is motivated in one of its aspects of force, so in the fellowship of the Hamilton conference one caught a glimpse of a power by which the relations of all men in society might be made more harmonious and orderly.

POLITICAL RECONSTRUCTION

The desire for progress, in the mind of youth, is a natural one. Exuberance of animal spirits and supreme intellectual confidence, untempered by the solemnising influence of experience, create dissatisfaction with existing systems. All that is, seen in the disillusionment of actuality, compares unfavourably with the idealistic conception of that which might be. Youth, living mentally in the future, criticises the present, for which it is not responsible, in the light of the ideal state, based primarily on humane principles, which it desires to create.

Our present economic system has many absurdities which expose it to attack. The most obvious is the disparity between production and consumption; producing more food than we can eat and permitting unfortunate individuals to starve. Many men, anxious to work, are unable to do so. The right to live is assured but the means are often withheld. Money, created as a servant, has become a tyrant and controls, not only the destinies of individuals, but the policies of governments. Democracy has surrendered itself to a fortunate few who, either by birth or attainment, have created wealth for themselves. The ideal of youth is to reconstruct the state on a higher appreciation of human values and the eradication of all injustice and inequality by an artificial levelling of classes into a society in which intellect, attainment and not wealth will represent the only distinction.

This ideal must commend itself to all who value principles more than policies, and the temper of our modern civilisation suggests that it does. The problem centres, not on the end, which all desire, but on the means for attaining it, and here there is great divergence of opinion. Fascism and Communism, the most self-assured saviours of society, agree in their fundamental doctrines of "Total depravity" and cataclysmic reconstruction, but quarrel violently for the right to redeem. The more prosaic members of the community disavow their main tenets and view, with alarm, their poetic fervour.

The pages of history reek with the blood of those who died for political ideals which proved abortive when realised. Fascism and Communism stress the ultimate character of their ideals and, by so doing, have their systems on a narrow view of history. H. G. Wells aptly describes the republic of Plato as "A young man's dream"; an excellent academic exercise but too perfect in structure for imperfect individuals. Modern political panaceas are open to the same criticism.

Democracy, despite its imperfections, has been, during the past century, steadily progressive in the revision of injustices. It upholds the right of free speech which both Fascism and Communism will suppress and by the power of the electorate to criticise and control the policies of the government, permits further progress. The methods of sabotage by impractical dreamers hinders the full development of this evolution by terrorising the sane citizens. Fascism and Communism are, at the present time, hindering the cause which they profess to advocate and would do more effective work by co-operating with the present system and correcting its defects by legitimate methods.

NEED NOT REVISE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

would only make our language more slowly. He went on to say that if a standard English language were evolved from the many dialects of today it would be slowly pronounced by different sections who now have their own dialect which they speak proficiently. He also stated, however, that there was room for the revision of the English language, that the vowel system ought to be brought upon the same level as the rest of the languages of the world.

"I am against the elimination of any English dialect," Professor Mackay continued, "for our language would lose most of its vitality and life by such a step." He also thought that if in the future there should come a separation between the language used by the people of Great Britain and that spoken by those in United States, the Canadians could not help but follow the Americans in their mode of speech.

"I am against any such step as standardization of the language," said Professor Knox of the English Department of University College, when interviewed by The Varsity, "and I don't see how such a thing could be done with a living language like English." Dr. Kennedy believed that the English language should be simplified in order to make it more easily understood by foreigners, which statement was severely attacked by Professor Knox who said that "the English language is not for foreigners but for ourselves."

STUDENTS CONDEMN T. T. C. SERVICE

invariably jammed and delayed. He believes this is due to inefficient service on the part of the T.T.C. "Just last week," stated G. W. Manning, III B. and M., "I had to walk from Yonge Street carrying a microscope and a brief case because there were no street cars in sight."

It is the opinion of some students that the weather has much to do with the inefficiency of the service. J. Allen, I Meds, believes that the slushy state of the streets hindered and made worse the crowded lines. He says he travels by street car every day but has never been late on account of faulty service from the T.T.C.

If the citizens or students of Toronto would go to a small town and compare the hours of waiting there to the few minutes in Toronto they would gladly praise, not criticize, the street car service, was the opinion of A. West, II Architecture.

Art, Music and Drama

Art Gallery

It would be easy to make fun of the actual exhibit at the Grange showing the beginning of Canadian art in a conventional Victorian period and glorifying Toronto's past, which groups of dignified ladies, or old gentlemen come to admire every afternoon, pointing out to their friends with pride and inner contentment, either a poor portrait of some stiff ancestor, or the lock of hair belonging to some early Canadian officer or politician. Yet this would not be quite fair and there is more to be said about this exhibition of paintings, pottery, jewelry, drawings, even Insane Asylum—a huge and imposing building seventy years ago already—furnitures or flowers, miniatures. Such an exhibition gives a glimpse of the inner life of Canada's early settlers, and as such, is most interesting to lovers of history. Though such a period was rather conventional in its social expression we can notice from the paintings of Cornelius Kreighoff, 1812-1872, that there was plenty of fun, good times even. (see the many paintings of parties at L'Auberge "A Jolibois") and a disrespect for the law that is very evident on this continent (see the paintings of speeding sleighs passing a toll house).

Of Dutch and German origin Kreighoff came to Canada "with a mandoline under his arm", married a French-Canadian girl, and after some years spent in the province of Quebec roaming, sketching and painting with some friends, he moved to Montreal, then Quebec, where he did the best of his work. At 48 he went to study in Europe, but from then on his art declined and his works done either in Canada or at Chicago where he finally made his home, are little more than poor reproductions of his visions of a younger age. If we realize that he was a self-trained painter, intending first to devote his life to music, we shall be more ready to forgive much that seems childish and poor in his works. Most of his paintings are of landscapes, but, contrary to the Group of VII, he fills them with personages, crowding them even. There is certainly plenty of material there for a study of the costumes worn by French Canadians, Indians or settlers some eighty years ago. He has certainly a gift for colours, and some of his skies are really beautiful. We may reproach him for his lack of imagination,—or are we to blame the choice of paintings exhibited?—for his countless works are for the most part reproductions, with little variations, of a few themes, or landscapes.

There is also a very fine collection of Flowers Miniatures, by Lorna Burgoyne, that are really fine and worth seeing.

Of the innumerable portraits there is little to be said, yet three little portraits—one of Mr. Goldwin Smith, and one of his wife in her wedding dress—are perfect, and excellent examples of this kind of art done at this period, whether in Europe or on this continent—the portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Goldwin Smith are both done by British artists, Mary Carpenter and C. Lyons. Then, if you crave for paintings of popular festivities have a look at the one representing the official opening of Uxbridge, at the time of the construction of the Toronto-Nipissing Railway.

U.C. French Club

Special interest is being taken this year in the annual dramatic presentation of the U.C. French Club to be given February 13th at Hart House Theatre. According to the president, for the first time in their history the club is undertaking to put on a classic, and are taking the greatest pains, in the matters of costuming and staging, to run true to the established tradition of the plays of Moliere. "Le Malade Imaginaire" remains today one of the most popular of his works, and always plays to a packed house. As this is the first time, so far as we know, that a Moliere play has been presented in Toronto, the reaction of the Toronto public will be interesting to observe. The full support of those students who are studying French and especially those of the first and second years who are actually studying this play, is expected, as it is entirely for their benefit that it is being presented. The success of the plays presented under the direction of Professor Finch in the last two years has been

NOW 10¢
HURRAY!

"Gentlemen—because so many of my fellow Canadians are smoking Picobac, it has become the largest selling buccary tobacco in Canada—and because of its great popularity you benefit. You can now buy Picobac for 10¢ and get still more tobacco for your money."

"I urge every pipe smoker to buy one of the handy pocket tins of Picobac and get acquainted with a tobacco that's friendlier, more sociable in a pipe. As a matter of fact, you'll hardly recognize the old pipe, once it's loaded with Picobac, lighted and drawing well. Sweet? You bet! Mild? You can smoke it hour after hour and never get fed up. Cool? You'd travel a thousand miles and never find a cooler, cooler smoke!"
Picobac is the pick of Canada's buccary crop, grown in sunny southern Ontario... always cool... mild and sweet in your pipe.
Good for making cigarettes, too.
—and don't forget, you get more tobacco for your money.

Handy pocket tins now 10¢.

NEWS OF THE UNDER WORLD IN TORONTO

With today's issue, a new feature column appears in "The Varsity". This column will record in brief the outstanding cracks of the day, night by night. As "The Varsity" is the only paper available for many students, this column has been introduced with the following slogan, "In one car—out next garbage collection".

C—C
EXTRA, EXTRA,
HUGE SEA SERPENT SEEN IN TORONTO BAY.
C—C

Reports early this morning state that several reporters from one of the largest of the Toronto papers distinctly saw a huge green monstrously cowering about the Port of Toronto on their way home from a little private poker party that lasted to the wee small hours. The gentleman who took them home and put them to bed is alleged to have heard many of the gentlemen state that they also saw several alligators, purple snakes, and a mauve camel with polka dots, but due to the severity of the local weather, this latter statement was discredited by authorities.

SR. A BASKETBALL SQUAD PLAY VOLLES SATURDAY NIGHT

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

The School of Nursing will be represented in the interfaculty badminton tournament this year for the first time, and will send a member to the first meeting of the Badminton Club which is to be held on Monday. Eleanor Smith is the leading light in stirring up enthusiasm, and is getting very encouraging results. Practices are already being held at the St. Stephens' Church courts. Although none of the aspiring champions have played in some time, they are displaying the spirit which leads to the finals.

There was a splendid turnout for the intercollegiate hockey practice yesterday and everyone was showing up in fine style. The players are evidently of fairly even calibre and as yet no one has distinctly starred. According to Marnie Faulds, the manager, prospects for this year are decidedly encouraging. The next practice is to be held on Friday at 1 p.m. in the Arena as usual, and it will be of vital importance.

A few more would-be swimmers have put in an appearance at the Lillian Massey pool since Christmas but from the numbers there you would never guess that the interfaculty meet is only two months away. Mr. Cochrane has not as yet discovered any new talent but he is still hopeful. Without Betty Edwards and Nan Ord, who have previously walked away with all the honours, the meet will be decidedly flat unless someone appears to fill the breach. U.C. is particularly lax in this sport; surely Molly Stevens and Joan Knowlton, are not the only swimmers among the scores of women at University College! Dent Casson and Ruth Knowlton gave Betty and Nan some very keen competition last year, but unfortunately only Ruth graces the big bowl of H<sub>2</sub>O.

Mr. Ross Workman has promised at least one outdoor cushion for interfaculty practices. This will solve the difficulty of not being able to get the Arena to some extent. Now that the weather is willing, nothing should prevent these practices from getting under way immediately.

MEDS DEFEAT U.C. IN BASEBALL GAME

Score Four Runs in Final Frame to Win Close Game

Scoring four runs in the final frame of a four inning game, Junior Meds nosed out Junior U.C. in a close baseball fixture staged in the big gym yesterday afternoon by the score of 7-6. Entering the last half of the fourth inning the Meds squad were three runs behind, but aided with three free passes from Ganz, they scored four runs with one man out.

Ganz, the U.C. hurler was practically invincible for the three innings previous to the fateful fourth, being picked for four scratch hits and claiming six victims via strike outs. On the other hand Stevenson for Meds was touched for four hits besides being very erratic at times which accounted for several of U.C.'s tallies. Gould, who succeeded him, showed much more improvement, striking out three in the one and a half innings that he was in.

U.C.'s big inning came in the second frame when they registered three runs, three walks and an error, making this possible. In the fourth frame they counted twice more to put them three runs to the good, but their lead was short lived when Meds drove in four runs to win the game.

VARSITY TO MEET KITCHENER TONIGHT

Blues Meet Their First Senior Opponents After U.S. Trip

BOTH TEAMS IMPROVED

Tonight the Kitchener Empires take on as hosts to the U. of T. in a Senior O.H.A. fixture. This will be the third meeting for this season of the old rivals for the cellar position, each team winning one, on their opponents' ice.

Since the last encounter Varsity has been much strengthened by its exhibition games with American colleges and a decided improvement has been noted, especially in the defence. An example of this is the defeat handed the Elks the other night in New York, after they had defeated Varsity here. Kitchener, however, has been bolstering its weak spots since the teams last met, by using three re-instated pros, and have been making the pace-setting teams sit up and take notice lately. Another win tonight will greatly please the home fans who still have hopes of seeing their team go places.

In the first match between the two Kitchener won because Varsity lacked polish around the nets and were rather weak defensively. The second time, Varsity nosed out its first win of the season. Since then both teams have improved by leaps and bounds and tonight's battle promises to be a royal one.

Tonight will show just how much Varsity has picked up during its tour of the States. The Blue team is a hard fighting, never-say-die outfit and have a knack for making every game interesting, even though they come out on the short end of the score. Don't be surprised if good news comes back from Kitchener.

BROADVIEW CAGERS DEFEAT JUNIORS

"Y" Team Retains Group Leadership by 31-13 Win

Broadview retained their lead in the local Y.M.C.A. junior basketball group when they defeated Varsity last night at the Hart House gym by the score of 31-13. To date Broadview haven't lost a game while Varsity have dropped two in four starts.

As the score indicates the east-enders were superior to the Blues. Varsity not having the lead at any point during the whole game. Varsity's main weakness was in failing to check the Y team while on the other hand Broadview repeatedly broke up the student attacks.

In the opening minutes of play Broadview quickly ran up the score to 8-1 with Bredon getting six of the points. Miller sank a couple of long shots to tighten the score but the Broadview boys started clicking with Carter being on the scoring end of most of them. Play became quite ragged and after some haphazard shooting the half ended 15-7.

Broadview started strongly in the second half and ran up five points while Varsity could only net a foul shot. Varsity then staged a mild rally with Toole and Kinsey combining for six points. However this was quickly nipped in the bud and from then on the east-enders had all the play. They easily ran up their score to 31 while Varsity were unable to break the thirteen jinx.

Broadview — Martin, Carter 9, Chessum, Moores 3, Sammie 4, Bredon 9, Andrews, Back 6, Black, Rand. Varsity — Kinsey 1, Miller 4, Harlock, Krakauer 4, Stoughton, Doan, Toole 4, Mullin, Stewart, Gladish.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By W. A. Crocker

Tonight at Kitchener, Irving Erb's Kitchener Empires take on a determined band of Blue battlers in what promises to be a very interesting O.H.A. senior struggle. The last time these two teams tangled was the occasion of Varsity's first O.H.A. victory and only success to date. Since then however new blood has been injected into the Kitchener lineup in the form of re-instated pros. The effect of adding the pros has been clearly shown in the surprise wins which Erb's lads have been pulling off recently. However, fresh from a victorious American tour, Stevens' lads promise to tear in and cut a wide path on the road to victory. The long-sought-for scoring punch on the Blue team seems to be gradually becoming evident and with a little luck the U. of T. squad should cause the little red light to glow frequently.

Incidentally while on the subject of hockey it occurs to us that the Senior Blue squad has been the recipient of a lot of unnecessary, irrelevant, and unconstructive criticism on the part of so-called experts. A very important feature has been neglected in summing up the pros and cons of the situation. A weak team which is included in an undoubtedly strong grouping and which nevertheless has refused to take matters lying down and has fought in every game as though a title were at stake certainly deserves more praise than has been forthcoming to date. The true spirit of the Blue team was clearly shown when in the face of much adverse criticism they stepped into strong U.S. college hockey squads and carried off the verdicts. After all it is the spirit of a team that counts.

Last night's basketball programme in the big gym at Hart House amply rewarded the handful of Blue supporters who saw a most interesting brand of ball displayed by three of the four teams taking part in the proceedings. We certainly can't understand why the cage squads are not getting more support than they are receiving at present. There was no admission charge and yet no more than fifty fans attended. The Senior B fixture was one of the most interesting and exciting games which has ever been seen in this city. The Varsity and Central squads were so evenly matched that it seemed impossible for either team to obtain a sizeable lead and as a result the advantage was first held by one team and then by the other. In the overtime only one basket was needed to win the game. All this tended to increase the excitement and towards the end of the game the frenzied shouts of the spectators were heard quite often. Although the loss which was a hard one for Coach McCutcheon to bear, puts the Blues out of the running temporarily they still have hopes of getting into the playoffs since the Central team is scheduled to meet the group leaders from West End Y in three more engagements and this should help the Blues considerably.

The only disappointment of the evening was the display of McCutcheon's junior squad. Once before we have found it necessary to report weak and dispirited play on the part of a Blue and White squad and the same was true last night. The junior Blues are undoubtedly capable of a better brand of ball than they displayed last night and why they resort to listless play is a mystery to us. However a pleasing feature of the night's play was the work of Krakauer on defence for Varsity. He seemed to be the only player on the Blue squad who knew what it was all about. Of the remainder of the team, two had an off-night, while the rest went through the motions.

On Saturday night at Hart House the Senior A cage squad play hosts to the strong Volles A.C. squad, the rejuvenated and disguised Lizzies. The Furniture quintet is now under the guiding hand of Bob Abate who recently led them to their first Big Six victory of the current season. The Blues, fresh from a fairly successful Christmas tour, promise to tear in and register their first Big Six victory. The benefits of the American trip will be judged by the performance of Hayman's lads in this struggle.

STUDENTS SUPPORT ANTI-WAR SOCIETY

Professor Felix H. Walter of Trinity College as guest speaker," continued Miss Lunn. "The students who attended the two previous open meetings were very keen, but the letter in The Varsity is misleading in that it would indicate that all the students of the University are waiting eagerly for any move made by leaders. The numbers were not so great, but the response was enthusiastic."

Miss Lunn went on to explain that the society was hampered by the fact that it has not yet been officially recognized by the Caput as a regular University organization. It is continuing to hold meetings and is attempting to get out some literature, but further difficulties arise from the fact that the provisional committee is composed of students busily engaged in other activities as well. The various political affiliations of the members of the committee have naturally meant some differences of opinion, but members of all political groups have joined in this organization, all prepared to meet half-way in the common desire to maintain peace in the face of imminent war. One of the next duties of the society is to elect a regular committee to replace the provisional one. For this purpose and for the discussion of further plans a meeting will be held this week.

Mr. Gordon Skillling, another member of the provisional committee, pointed out that the society had planned an anti-war demonstration for Armistice Day but had been deterred from these plans by the Caput's non-authorization of the organization. Mr. Skillling also deplored the fact that the two open meetings had been sparsely attended.

"The students are interested in this movement," declared Mr. C. Evan Macdonald, IV English and History, U.C., "but their interest is more theoretical than active. They would support any action taken by such a group, but hesitate to devote too much time and energy to outside activities. There seems to be so much to do, he explained. Besides this, suggested Mr. Macdonald, many students hesitate to affiliate themselves with any organization which has radical tendencies, for fear that it might involve them in difficulties. They do not feel completely free to make their political alliances."

kelt with ten seconds to go were they able to tie it up at 13.13 at half time.

In the second half Varsity tried to get back their slow, steady style of play but in the heat of the game they soon forgot all about it and were back at a break-neck speed before long.

Some nice passing attacks were displayed by both teams and the lead kept changing hands time and again. Central again got out in front but with a great effort the Blues managed to again tie it up. The game ended at 24.24.

The five minute overtime produced a cautious style of play by both teams but just as good basketball was displayed. Blues proved to be the hero for Central when he scored a beautiful one-hand shot which proved to be the winning counter.

Newman, Applebaum and Stronach gave sterling performances for Varsity, while Blues was the star for Central.

of these have been received from those students who received letters from Simcoe Hall." However, since he had no information as to these men, Mr. Macdonald was unable to say whether they would receive any special discrimination in the allotment of the loans.

M. Wayman, president of the Student League, expressed surprise when informed that U.C. students were the only ones affected and said that he had been informed that many of these students, when they had received notification of the loss of their registration, had dropped out of the University and had not even applied for the S.A.C. loan. In general, Mr. Wayman thought that students showed a deplorable lack of interest in the matter, and cited the case of a fourth year student known to him, who after managing to pay his way through the University for three years, had now been compelled to drop out, in his graduating year, through inability to pay his fees.

Here and There

The Canadian Pacific Railway supply farm, Strathmore, Alta., had the best Holstein cow in the four-year-old or over (not in milk) class at the Royal Winter Fair recently held at Toronto.

Banff Winter Sports Carnival will be held from January 31 to February 4, it is announced. The carnival will be followed by a series of sports week-ends, each being devoted to one particular type of sport.

The problem of truck-rail competition was declared a national one by S. Hayes, M.A., in a recent address before the Engineering Institute. He saw regulation and restriction in areas where the truck does not belong as the only solutions.

Christmas festivities this year will be enlivened by Japanese oranges of which 38,400 boxes arrived at Victoria recently aboard the Empress of Canada, for distribution to a number of Canadian cities. 5,000 boxes were left at Victoria and the fruit will doubtless feature in the Empress Hotel Yuletide celebrations.

Since October 1, 1930, a total of 101,765 people have been settled on Canadian farms or given farm employment under the auspices of the Dominion Department of Immigration and the two great transcontinental railway companies, according to a report issued by the Department of Immigration. 89,236 of these people were settled without financial assistance.

Expression of confidence in a brighter business outlook in Canada, coupled with definite improvement in conditions throughout the Dominion, was made recently by H. J. Humphrey, general manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, eastern lines, in an interview during his trip of inspection to the Maritimes prior to the opening of the winter navigation season.

Five ports hitherto not touched at by world cruises—Panama, Straits Settlements, Senarangs, Java, Bodejone and Padang Bay, Bali, and Zambouanga in the Zula Archipelago—have been added to the 1934 itinerary of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, sailing from New York January 4. The cruise will cover 133 days and 30,916 miles and will return to New York May 14.

Special low fares with generous time limits for the return trip will be available on Canadian railroads for the Christmas and New Year holiday periods. It is announced by C. P. Riddell, chairman, Canadian Passengers' Association. These low rate tickets will be good between all stations in Canada and also between points in Canada and certain United States connections.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Honolulu, Hawaii.—Six United States navy planes completed the most ambitious mass flight in aviation history yesterday when they landed in Pearl Harbour, Hawaii, just twenty-four hours after leaving San Francisco.

A gasoline war will commence in Toronto this morning with drastic cuts in prices, some of the large companies threatening to sell at less than cost.

Berlin, Germany.—One German Protestant Church pastor was arrested last night, and the homes of several other members of the Pastors' Emergency Federation were raided by Nazi secret police.

Paris, France.—While Royalists rioted outside the Chamber of Deputies, Camille Chautemps, Premier of France, revealed an alleged plot to overthrow the Government by a coup d'etat and set up a dictatorship.

Washington, D.C.—President Roosevelt is rumoured to be considering the calling in of $3,250,000,000 in gold now held by the banks before devaluing the dollar, so that the Treasury instead of the banks will receive the profit from the revaluation.

Geneva, Switzerland.—The International Labour Office, affiliate of the League of Nations, is planning international action to check Japan's inroads on world trade by underselling, made possible by low Japanese labour costs.

Washington, D.C.—The debate on the St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty will open in the U.S. Senate today. Ratification was considered more remote as Government circles refused to exert pressure in favour of the Treaty.

Provincial Treasurer's Department Threatens to Revoke License of Standard Theatre if Play Presented There

DEALS WITH IMPRISONMENT OF COMMUNISTS

"We Just don't Want It On," Is Only Explanation Given When Theatre Manager Called to Parliament Buildings

Mr. E. Cecil-Smith informed The Varsity last night that the production of the play "Eight Men Speak" has been cancelled because of "a threat on the part of the Provincial Treasurer's department to close down the Standard Theatre if it was rented to the Progressive Arts Club." We put this play on there December 4 and turned away a couple of hundred people." This was to be the second presentation of this play about the eight men serving long terms in Kingston Penitentiary under Section 98 of the criminal code.

According to the story given The Varsity by Mr. Cecil-Smith, the manager of the Standard Theatre was called to the parliament buildings yesterday afternoon and told by Mr. Buckley, Inspector of Theatres, that his license would be "cancelled forthwith" unless the production of the play was cancelled. When asked why the play could not go on he was told, "We just don't want it on. That's all."

The club has incurred a good deal of expense for this second production by having new scenery made. Tickets have already been sold, several hundred having been distributed on the campus. The club will make arrangements to refund the money in the next few days.

Charges of "Red Flag" Singing Vehemently Denied By Students

"Telegram" Reports Arrival of Governor-General at Wycliffe Was Marked By Singing of Communist Song

DR. McELHERAN CORRECTS REPORT

May Take Action to Force Paper to Retract Statements Which Caused False Impression, Says Principal

A sensational news story in a late edition of The Evening Telegram last night, charging under double-column headlines that the arrival of the Governor-General yesterday afternoon at Wycliffe College was marked by the singing of "The Red Flag" by the greater majority of the student body, was indignantly denied last night, both by Dr. McElheran, the Principal, and the entire student body. Action may be taken to force the paper to correct the false impression made by its story.

The Varsity was informed by Dr. McElheran that a reporter from The Telegram had approached him and asked him a number of questions, which he answered, and that the reporter then proceeded to mingle with the body of students. Apparently three or four students did chant a song in scarcely audible voices prior to His Excellency's arrival, but the song was not "The Red Flag", and the whole story as related in the downtown paper was an absolute distortion of what actually happened.

SCARLET FEVER

One of the residents of East House, University residence, has been removed to the Isolation Hospital with an attack of scarlet fever. The Varsity was also told that there are two other members of the residence under observation but was unable to verify this report. The unfortunate student's room has been fumigated and all possible precautions taken against the spreading of the disease. The residence has not been quarantined.

TRADE RECOVERY NOT ACHIEVED BY HIGHER PRICES

Mr. Plumptre Agrees with English Economist re Roosevelt Plans

NOT CLEAR-SIGHTED

Making Good Expensive Will Not Raise Price of Food and Clothing

One of the most popular topics of discussion at the present time is the titanic effort at economic recovery that is being made in the republic to the south of us. Recently Mr. J. M. Keynes, the noted English economist, lent his voice to the discussion and, in an open letter to President Roosevelt, expressed disapproval of certain features of the programme. Seeking enlightenment on the justification of these criticisms, The Varsity yesterday solicited the words of an authority on the matter, Mr. A. F. W. Plumptre, who lectures in Money, Credit and Prices at the Economics Building.

Mr. Plumptre was terse and to the point, and seemed to substantiate the (Continued on Page 4)

REGISTRAR OPTIMISTIC RE DELINQUENT FEES

Satisfactory Arrangements Daily Made by Those Suspended

"I am quite hopeful with regard to payment of fees," Mr. W. G. McAndrew, Registrar, University College, told The Varsity in an interview yesterday. "Twenty-seven students of this college are suspended for non-payment of fees. I have been talking to some of those who have come to the office, and I am confident that of this number, some will arrange payment within the next few days, and thereby be reinstated."

Mr. McAndrew mentioned that in (Continued on Page 4)

The story printed by The Telegram was as follows:

"For the first time a Governor-General paid an official visit to Wycliffe College, University of Toronto, this afternoon and the students marked the occasion by chanting 'The Red Flag'."

"The intention, apparently, was to sing the Communist anthem as Lord Bessborough entered the lecture hall where he later addressed the gathering on the use of the voice in public speaking, but courage waned, and the Red hymn was sung five minutes before His Excellency's arrival."

"It was not sung enthusiastically, it was not sung by all the 50 or so theological students. The greater majority, however, chanted it in a half-hearted, bantering manner to the 'hush hushes' of the others, as they filed into the lecture room. The voices, perhaps, (Continued on Page 4)

STUDENTS FAVOUR EARLY CONCERTS

Inconvenient for Non-Residents to Attend Evening Programmes at Hart House

GENERALLY POPULAR

In regard to the concert being held in Hart House today at 5 p.m. the general opinion of the student body seems to be that this should be made a permanent arrangement. D. W. Coin, first year Pass Arts, when interviewed, said that the afternoon concerts would be much more suitable for him since he lived too far from the University to make it convenient for him to come back at night.

A Science student, who refused to divulge his name, stated that 5 o'clock would be the best time as far as he was concerned because his course kept him busy at night. However, he strongly objected to cutting out the Sunday evening concerts altogether because they afforded a pleasant way to spend an evening as well as an opportunity to hear good music.

P. Farrell, first year Pass Arts, St. Michael's, said that owing to the fact that he was not in residence the afternoon concerts were more convenient for him.

U.C. PARLIAMENT SUPPORTS LEAGUE

Abolition of Tuition Fees and Payment of Students Advocated

MANY RADICAL REFORMS

With all the pomp and old world ceremony which has always characterized this occasion, His Excellency, H. Gordon Skilling, as representative of His Majesty, opened the proceedings at the U.C. Parliamentary Club, with the speech from the throne. Wrapped in a seal skin coat, despite the excessive heat of the junior common room, His Excellency outlined the policy of his ministers, which included among other radical reforms the heavy subsidization of educational establishments, the abolition of tuition fees, and the payment of students. War is to be prevented by the support of the League of Nations, the nationalization of armaments and the prohibition of the export of nickel.

After His Excellency had vacated the chair, the Speaker had been installed, the Prime Minister showed his ready sympathy with the people of Quebec, by his fluent command of the language when questioned by one of the members of the Opposition in French. A vote of thanks was then passed to the Governor-General for his excellent speech.

Even if News Must be Suppressed Student Views to be Expressed

By Ken G. Robb

Replete with a llama coat, last year's scarf and a Sergeant-at-Arms. His Excellency the Governor-General H. G. Skilling, of the U.C. Parliament yesterday pried open the House with a can opener and a speech from the throne, while members maintained a noisy and boisterous silence.

Under the regime of the new government, students will no longer be required to fork over for the privilege of University education, but will receive an unstated remuneration. Don't fool yourself—it ain't worth it at any figure.

This is what they are going to do with The Varsity.

"The institution of machinery for 'suppression of the news' While still allowing freedom for expression of their views." That seems to be insinuating that this journal contains some of each, which probably will be news to some people.

Most of us are content to cuss in French, but the opposition tried to enote in French. The Prime Minister, being unable to get the drift replied in the same tongue, and everybody was satisfied.

Mister-speaker-Sir

Hon. Bissell was going to make a clean sweep of something or other but Hoover heard of a Bissell nowadays. Apparently the opposition was trying to put a bit of fistic into pacifistic, at least that was the only part in evidence.

Mister-speaker-Sir

Then they are going to educate the politicians. This ought to be a real revival for the manufacturers of Kindergarten equipment and suchlike.

Mister-speaker-Sir

Even Hon. Beamish has a price. Six times that price, and a pound of pretzels would serve to enliven the proceedings considerably. Unfortunately, the Government was on the water wagon, even if the Opposition wasn't.

Greatly Improved Blue Team Outscores Empires 5 to 3

SHIPP OUTSTANDING

Many Bright Spots in Game, Brilliant, Sparkling, Throughout

(Special to "The Varsity")

By E. B. Griffith

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 11.—A vastly improved Blue hockey team last night outplayed and outscored Kitchener Empires in Kitchener, taking the game by a 5-3 verdict. This was Varsity's second consecutive win over Kitchener and on the play deserved the victory.

The first period opened with both teams playing a fast, hard checking game. Kitchener went into the lead after about five minutes of play when Roth scored after a clever combination that completely bewildered the defence. Cunningham soon after tied the score on one of the cleverest goals rushes of the game and Varsity went into the lead four minutes later when MacPherson on a pass from McClelland, beat Berner from close in. Kuntz again tied the score on a shot from the defence.

Varsity started the second period a man short and put in a hectic two minutes. However, they soon became organized and Campbell put them again in the lead when Kitchener had a man in the penalty box. From that time until near the end of the period Kitchener pressed hard. Varsity held their opponents in their own end of the rink.

No sooner had the third period begun. (Continued on Page 4)

FASCISTS' ADVENT RESCUED ITALY

Italy, Germany and Japan Interested in Country, not Individuals

MR. LAUTENSLAGER SPEAKS

"The national reconstruction of Italy is only possible under the Fascist rule. Italy had to strive tooth and nail for all she obtained in the Peace Conference," declared Commandatore Luigi Villari in his address in Convocation Hall last evening under the auspices of the National Council of Education.

Although Italy saved the alliance and made the way open for an invasion of Germany from the south and thus hastened the end of the war, she was not suitably repaid for her loss was great. The small parties and coalitions which were formed after the war were incapable of solving post-war questions with pre-war mentality.

"The manias of Moscow greatly influenced the political conditions. Under socialist and communist influence strikes were prevalent and progress was hindered and it was not until Mussolini and the advent of the Fascists that order was restored and productive work and national reconstruction revived.

Following a succession of feeble, weak cabinets and administrations, the Fascists marched on Rome and with the support of the king, determined to avoid civil war, set up a new form of constitution. They determined to reconstruct Italy in the interests of (Continued on Page 4)

POLICY OF NO POLICY

The class of 1934 has witnessed the advent of a new generation—a generation that will be distinguished from its predecessor by its incessant interpretation of everything in terms of Marxian Philosophy. No matter what phase of life one approaches, whether it be the arts, literature, history or politics, one is met by the one-sided interpretation of the Marxist. We learn that all art must be propaganda; that literature if written by or about the "decadent bourgeoisie" is sufficient indication of the rottenness of capitalism; that history unless it is interpreted in terms of economic factors is stupid and meaningless; that politics is all class struggle and that men enter the political arena with no higher ideals than to pass laws militating against the proletariat. While we admit that the "proletariat" have considerable justification in raising their outcry against exploitation and lack of privileges yet to make Marxism the sole canon of criticism in all these fields is lacking in balance and sound judgment of values.

While we have no particular quarrel with Marxism "per se" or with any other ism or ology, yet to advance a theory as infallible and maintain it as a criterion of all values points to a pathetic narrowness of mind. There is no interpretation of history or art. Interpretations are only advanced by some person or persons seeking to grind a partisan axe. The theory that art is propaganda is our old friend the theory of Art with a Purpose, faintly reminiscent of the Pre-Raphaelites, which is no longer entertained by intelligent thinkers. It might with equal validity be argued that all literature and art should be interpreted from a spiritual standpoint or from the attitude of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Thus the policy of having no policy is the only attitude open to the intelligent man. It is the question of attaining a scale of values, which is not a set of particulars but a universal. A set of values which will not fluctuate with the next passing phase of the "new thought". The superficial thinker will interpret this as stagnation; but it is not the indecision of the uncritical mind, nor the flabby latitudinarianism of the indifferent; it is the only attitude worthy of men endeavouring to see all questions in a proper perspective and not through the myopic lenses of Marxism.

Correspondence

Correspondents are reminded that all letters must be accompanied by signatures, and they are requested to limit themselves to approximately 300 words.

To the Editor,
The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

According to reports in The Varsity 60 students have been expelled from the University because they are in arrears in fees. This step on the part of the University authorities is a direct continuation of the policy of retrenchment begun last year. Last year fees in the Faculty of Arts were raised $25. This year a ruling never before enforced is used to deprive 60 students of the possibility of continuing their studies. Even students of the fourth year have been dropped within a few months of their approaching graduation.

According to The Varsity this method of dealing with fees in arrears has only been applied to University College. The other Arts colleges have not expelled anyone. Students in these Colleges are being given added time in which to pay up. It is certain that this will not be the last step in the policy of retrenchment. The registration fee of $5 which was added this year has not as yet been collected but the authorities may yet attempt to impose this additional fee on the student body. Mr. Fennell has stated that he would like to see the University demand payment of all fees in advance at the beginning of the term. Next year there will probably be additional fees and a further worsening of the difficulties of students. Because the attendance at the University has fallen the University will be forced to raise finances in some new method. What is the student body going to do about it? The question of expulsion of 60 students? The Students' Administrative Council, the supposed representative of the students, has expressed its agreement with the policy of the authorities. The student committee on question of fees is attempting to find out who the expelled students are. These students should meet and determine a common plan of action. For this purpose an arrangement has been made for a meeting of all expelled students on Friday at 1.15 p.m. at Room 6, U.C. All those who have been expelled and all others who are interested in helping these students to be reinstated are urged to attend.

The Student Committee on the Fees Question.

W.U.A. INSTITUTES NEW SYSTEM OF MUSICALES

Regular Monthly Programmes Will Feature Local Artists

An entirely new system has been inaugurated with regard to the W.U.A. musicale. In contrast to last year when only two were held, this year musicales are held every month. Increased formality and the introduction of printed programmes are decided improvements.

The W.U.A. executive is anxious that all U.C. women should take advantage of this splendid opportunity of hearing Toronto musicians of the highest order. These musicales are open to all the women of the college and their guests, both male and female, and to all faculty members and their wives.

The next musicale is on Sunday, Jan-Union. Enid Gray, soprano, and Ed-uary 14 at 4 p.m. in the Women's ward Maughan, pianist, will be the joint artists while Dr. and Mrs. Wallace, Dean DeLury and members of the German Department will be special guests.

Art, Music and Drama

Massey Hall

The artist at the next Tuesday Evening concert at Massey Hall, on January 16, will be Lily Pons, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Miss Pons is one of the most celebrated figures in the operatic world today, famous not only for voice, but for her personality as well. Her programme, which is too long to quote here, is most attractive. Especially interesting is a group in which she will be accompanied by Mr. Walter Whittaker, first flautist of the Toronto Symphony. This concert is representative of the high standard which the Massey Hall management has maintained this season.

Eaton Auditorium

On Saturday evening at 8.30 p.m. St. Thomas Choir are assisting Carl Weinrich, the distinguished American organist, and will sing one group of Motets and Madrigals, including "Ecce Concepit" (Gallus), "Ave Maria" (Rachmaninoff), "Madrigal of Spring" (Fletcher), "Down in a flowery vale" (Vesta); concluding with a rousing Male Chorus.

THE OWL

There passed a man by an old oak tree,—

"To whoo," said the owl, "To whoo?"

His hair was wild and his gait was free;

"He must be a lover," said the owl in the tree,

"To whoo, to whoo, to whoo."

"Whither away?" asked the owl as he passed,

"Whither away, fair sir, so fast?"

"I go," quoth he, "A maid to woo,"

"A maiden fair and young and true."

"To whoo?" said the owl, "To whoo?"

"Is there anybody true in the world, to whoo?"

"Ha! Ha!" said the lover as away he sped,

"So very like an owl," he said.

There passed a man by the old oak tree,—

"To whoo," said the owl, "To whoo?"

His face was long as long could be;

"He must be married," said the owl in the tree,

"To whoo, to whoo, to whoo?"

His gait was neither fair nor fast;

He shook his fist at the owl as he passed.

During their Sunday half hour of Choral music over CFRB, at 5.45 p.m. the Choir will sing an excerpt from Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise", the duet and chorus "I waited for the Lord". Masters Paul Foskett and Barry Jones sing the duet. A three part setting of "Lo, how a rose", by Praetorius, will be sung by the boys. Two unaccompanied works, "O taste and see" (Nikolsky) and Dr. Noble's setting of "Breathe on me breath of God", will be included on this programme, which is one of the features of the Sabbath.

Friday Afternoon Recital

Ernest Seitz, pianist, will be the artist at this week's recital to be held at 5 p.m. today in the Music Room of Hart House. The following Chopin programme has been arranged:

I

Fantasia F minor

II

Valse Brilliant, Opus 42

Etude, E minor.

Ballade, A Flat Major

III

Impromptu, F Sharp Major

Prelude, F Major

Scherzo, B Flat Minor

EARLY CONCERTS FAVOURED

On the contrary, a student in honour Law who wished to remain anonymous, has lectures all afternoon and therefore would prefer 8 o'clock concerts.

Several other students who have not as yet attended any of the concerts excused their lack of interest by saying that if the concerts were held regularly at 5 p.m. they would be more liable to turn out for them.

"Oh! Oh!" said the owl, "It's you, it's you,

"And haven't you been the maid to woo?"

"To who?" said the man, "To who?"

"There's nobody fair or young or true!"

"Ho! Ho!" laughed the owl as he went to bed,

"So very like a man," he said.

VARSITY TEAM MEETS TORONTOS

Saturday's Match Promises
High Class Hockey
Contest

EXPECT WARM RECEPTION

Saturday night the Varsity puck-chasers entertain Art Halliwell's once highly-touted Torontos. This fixture bids fair to be a good game, and not a replica of that December night when the Torontos kalsomined the Blues to the tune of 13-1.

Since that time the reorganized Marlboro team has fallen into a temporary slump and has slipped back into a second place tie with Port Colborne. The Torontos have a high class squad with a number of men on the professional list but they cannot combine to get the goals these days.

This is much in evidence by the fact that Port Colborne took them 2-0 in the Church St. palace Tuesday night. Earlier in the season the same Toronto team plastered the Sailors to a 7-1 defeat.

Meanwhile Varsity has been going ahead in no uncertain manner and the front lines are just beginning to click around the nets. If the defence can give Shipp the necessary protection, the visiting Torontos are in for a warm reception. The Blues are a never-say-die outfit, and the game is one that should not be missed.

U.C. SENIORS DEFEAT KNOX IN ONE-SIDED GAME

Losers Badly Outclassed in Interfaculty Baseball
Contest

Sending 11 runs in in the first stanza of a three inning game, Senior U.C. swamped the Knox nine in an interfaculty baseball game staged in the big gym, by the score of 15-8.

Led by the masterful hurling of Robbins, who weakened slightly in the third innings, the U.C. aggregation were never seriously threatened all through the short game. On the other hand, Stewart, who served on the mound for the losers, got off to a very shaky start, allowing eleven runs to cross the plate in the opening frame. After this rather fateful beginning he tightened up but the damage was already done.

Of the two teams the victors were far superior, taking advantage of the breaks, and bunting their hits they made everything count. The losers however, played ragged ball and when the breaks were with them, especially in the third inning, when they scored three runs, they faded badly, when it looked as if they might get somewhere.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Having drained the dregs of defeat for most of the O.H.A. season, Warren Stevens' gallant band of warriors, fresh from a successful American invasion, stepped into Kitchener last night and took a 5-3 victory from Irving Erb's Empires. The Twin City squad got a new lease on life when the O.H.A. ruling permitted them to use three former pros. As a result Kitchener have been topping the leaders in their last five starts. Honey Kuntz and Dutch Hamel, two of the former members of the great unwashed were in action last night but even this did not deter the Blue team, who surprised the Kitchener team by taking the victory. All this emphasises the fact that Warren Stevens has taken a group of stout hearted youngsters and produced a real team out of them who now look to be going places.

Back in town with three victories, about one thousand miles of landscape and plenty of refreshments under their belts, Varsity's wandering hockey hopefuls are full of enthusiasm over the prospect of an international inter-collegiate hockey league. The much mistaken idea that American colleges and hockey were not on friendly terms has been entirely discredited by the ability displayed by U.S. teams. These outfits play real hockey in that part of the world which is not so hard to understand when we consider the length of time they have been playing the game. Just twenty years ago a Syracuse team defeated a Toronto Argonaut hockey team in Syracuse which would indicate that the winning of games against Canadians is not new. Frank Carroll, formerly of Toronto, and at one time prominent around Varsity, is now in charge of Yale and with his supply of material is certain to have a good team. Yale in particular are anxious for the formation of an international league and Harvard and Princeton are also behind the idea. One noticeable thing about the American teams according to reports is the enthusiasm they put into their game. Everybody appears satisfied with this rough shod type of game, including the referee. The result is that a person has to be knocked up into the grey section, row E before a penalty is imposed.

Coach Les Black and Harry Henning still have their SOS hanging out for new material. The possibility of the meet with Syracuse here on Jan. 20th appears rather slim at present but it is still hanging fire. However, with the interfaculty meet and the intercollegiate fixtures not so far distant the cauliflower harvest will soon be in progress. Queen's will entertain Ottawa on Friday night and although Merv Peever will not be in action it will be interesting to note how the Tricolour squad performs. And here's an idea for Mr. Martin. Purdue University, who lost considerable prestige when Helen Kane insisted on singing Poo Poo Purdue, has decided to climb back to its former position by achieving fame in the athletic field. Coach Hugo Ottopalish, who handles the wrestling, reins has taken precautions to avoid his grapplers developing star gazing tendencies. Accordingly he had the ceiling inscribed with the following inscription, "If you can read this, you are a flop; keep fighting." That should keep the old fighting spirits up and if the boy on the bottom could just try pronouncing the name of the author he would have a better test as to his condition.

Interfaculty sport will be underway again Monday when the basketball and water polo schedules open. Jr. Meds will be defending the Sitton Cup, emblematic of the water polo championship, while Victoria holds the Eckhardt trophy in the basketball series.

Two of Varsity's senior teams go into action on Saturday night. Lew Hayman will send his basketball team out in quest of a victory over Yolles on the Varsity floor. The hockey team will be given a tough assignment when they meet the Toronto squad. Right now the once powerful Torontos are on the toboggan and with the Varsity crew still on edge after tasting the tonic of success in their American invasion and in last night's Kitchener game, it would not come as a surprise to have Warren Stevens bring his hard fighting crew through to a victory. Both these games should be well worth seeing and a good turnout of students is expected.

Italy is encouraging the same spirit by giving the Blackshirts the war rifles of the Italians killed during the Great War. "Italy, Germany and Japan are all living in an atmosphere created by the government making people interested in the country and not themselves," said Mr. Lautenslager.

"It is evident that this country is being strangled for the benefit of the bondholder," he stated with reference to the article in the Weekly Sun on the weak financial condition of the Canadian National Railways. They owe fifty-five million dollars to shareholders. They have cut wages fifteen per cent during the past year and have fired twenty thousand employees during the last three years. Freight rates are just as high as before thus making farmer and manufacturer pay what they did in "good times".

REV. C. R. H. WILKINSON CHOSEN REPRESENTATIVE

President H. J. Cody has received a report from the Rev. C. R. H. Wilkinson who was appointed to represent the University of Toronto at the Convocation of the University of the Punjab on the occasion of its Jubilee Celebration. "Along with delegates from many other universities," writes Mr. Wilkinson, "I presented to the Chancellor the address from our University which you had sent to me, and was requested by the Vice-Chancellor on behalf of the Chancellor and Fellows of the University of the Punjab to convey to the Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor and Fellows of the University of Toronto their greetings and sincere appreciation of this expression of goodwill."

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By M. A. F.

All members of the Badminton Club are especially requested to be present at the meeting on Monday at 5 p.m. at 105 St. George St. It will be difficult to draft a constitution without a full attendance, and we do not want to let this year go by without securing official recognition for the Badminton Club.

Probably it is the weather, but no matter what is responsible the various faculties are beginning to take distinct steps towards getting their hockey teams organized. Hockey has not as yet reached the same degree of excellence as an interfaculty sport as basketball has done, but perhaps if it continues to be reasonably cold for a month or so there will be a chance to raise the standard of hockey considerably and make the games truly exciting and skilled rather than mere jokes. For after all even the final game in the series last year between Vic and St. Hilda's was distinctly on the funny side.

All U.C. women who are interested in playing hockey are to sign the list posted in the cloakroom of U.C. Please do this promptly, for arrangements can not be made until this list is completed. Before Christmas St. Mike's succeeded in arousing sufficient interest to get enough players out to make up a team, but as yet no real practices have been held.

Billy Fowler coached the Vic team in its first practice last night, and if she sees her way clear to it she will continue to act in this capacity. She is very enthusiastic about the turnout and the general ability displayed, and still expects that several of last year's players will put in an appearance. The ice was in too poor a condition for anyone to be able to show up to the best advantage, but in spite of this Molly Sclater and Jean Gordon displayed their well known ability. Anne Scott is also expected to be outstanding. The Freshies were almost entirely conspicuous by their absence.

The St. Hildeans have not had an actual practice as yet, but last night the coach, Jerry Wesley, gave them a "chalk talk", so to speak, which should set them off on a real start. Certainly plenty of interest is being shown but the test will come when they get out on the ice. Kay Symons, Mary Morris, and Marg McDonald, who were the chief strength of last year's team are still right on hand which is a very good thing for the Saints.

The Victoria Seniors who have been taking part in a series of exhibition basketball games sponsored by the McGill Y.W.C.A. in their Health Week Programme, were eliminated last night in a closely fought game with the McGill "Flyers" who secured a two-point lead in the last minute of the play, making the final score 36-34. Victoria had it all over the "Flyers" in the first half—their plays clicked, their shots found the basket, and they were in the lead at half-time with the score 24-12. The Y team staged a speedy comeback, and Vic's condition was not quite up to par, and the second half told a different story.

Bea Longley's offensive and defensive playing was outstanding about that of any other player, but both teams gave it all they had. It was regrettable that Pat Palmer and H. Smith, two of the strongest Vic players in the interfaculty playoffs, were not participating in this game. The Vic lineup was as follows: Bea Longley, Marion Bernhardt, Mabel Curisan, Grace Becker, Jean Fenton and Jo Harley.

U.C. PARLIAMENT MEETS

Mr. C. T. Bissell, in opening the debate on the speech from the throne, attacked the government on their materialistic attitude, preferring to see some encouragement to Canadian literature rather than to underserving students.

Mr. A. C. Smith, Prime Minister, begged the House to confine the debate to the present lines of the governmental policy, and promised them free entertainment when the Hon. Member from Walker Ave. rose to address the House, from the Opposition benches.

Mr. W. E. Beamish, the gentleman in question, boomed his views to the House at some length, but the Prime Minister evidently valued his opinions so slightly that he left the room during most of his speech. This was probably due to the rumour that the Hon. Member's services could be purchased for a quart of beer.

U.S.A. PLANS CRITICIZED

criticisms levelled by Mr. Keynes. He said, "Mr. Roosevelt's efforts at raising commodity prices in a sense are being expended in the wrong direction, since he is bringing about the rise by increasing the costs of production. In order to bring back prosperity, he must increase the profit which goes to manufacturers, and thus induce them to increase their production and re-employ the men that have been laid off since 1929. Apparently Mr. Roosevelt does not see that the net effect of increasing costs along with prices is to leave the manufacturer's profit the same as before the rise."

Mr. Plumptre was critical also of the gold buying policy that is being carried out. On the advice of Professor Warren, he said, "The President has been raising the price of gold by extensive purchases in the hope of starting a rise in commodity prices. At the present time, however, there is little or no relation between the price of gold and the prices of other things. The mere phenomena of making gold expensive is not going to raise the price of food and clothing and boots and shoes and so on. The prices of these things are set by quite different factors than is the price of gold. This is another matter that the President does not seem to understand very clearly."

COMMERCE CLUB AT-HOME

The Commerce Club At-Home takes place this evening in the Roof Garden of the Royal York Hotel. Music is being supplied by Stan St. John and his orchestra. It is expected by the executive that many graduates will be present and that there will be a good staff representation. Altogether it is hoped that one of the club's most successful formal dances will be this year's At-Home.

all. Strikes were put down, production increased, finances improved, and currency was stabilized. This new system was a new outlook on life. Experience is leading to new reforms. gun than White again pulled Kitchener even. Then began a see-saw struggle with both teams displaying an extremely high brand of hockey, with speed to burn and clever back checking. McConvey placed Varsity ahead again on a combination play and Fullerton put the game on ice with three minutes to play when he scored on a pass. Varsity's trip through the States certainly has improved the team. They are much faster, their back checking had Kitchener tied in knots at times, their defence is clicking much better and they seem to know what to do around the opponents' nets.

McClelland and Shipp were the outstanding men for Varsity even though the whole team deserved honourable mention. For Kitchener, Roth, White and Fellbaum stood out.

Kitchener — Goal, Berner; defence, Lederman, Kampman; forwards, Roth, Zinch, Fellbaum; spares, Hamel, White, Mackie, Kuntz.

Varsity — Goal, Shipp; defence, Rey, Campbell; forwards, Hendry, MacPherson, McClelland; spares, Fullerton, Sweeney, Cunningham, McConvey.

were not loud enough for Dr. H. J. Cody, the president of the university, and Rev. Dr. R. B. McElheran, the principal of the college, who were waiting at the door for His Excellency, to hear.

"Why was the 'Red Flag' sung? 'No one seemed particularly definite about it, though various excuses were given by some of the students."

"The main idea seemed to be a 'rag', not directed personally at His Excellency, who was declared to be 'as popular as any governor-general', but merely a stunt."

"Another suggested that it was to show antipathy towards the restoration of titles in Canada."

"And still another excuse was 'a protest against the principal's playing up to the 'big-wigs'."

"Of these explanations the one that appeared to be common was—'just a rag'."

The sensationalized report quite shocked the college and the Student Body prepared the following statement which was given to The Varsity last night, by the Rev. Leonard F. Geary, president of the student body.

"The student body of Wycliffe College most emphatically deny that the 'Red Hymn' was sung at any time before, during or after the visit of the Governor-General to the college on Thursday afternoon. It appears that part of another song was sung by four students before the Governor-General's arrival, but the student body, or 'the greater majority' as reported in The Evening Telegram, was certainly not involved. His Excellency was enthusiastically received by the students without a single exception."

Wycliffe College was honoured by a visit from His Excellency the Governor General of Canada yesterday afternoon. Lord Bessborough was welcomed by the Principal, the Rev. R. B. McElheran, D.D., supported by members of the Council and staff. His Excellency was accompanied by Mr. action is taken.

Rupert Harvey. His Excellency addressed the student body on the art of Public Speaking. By way of illustration he related a few personal reminiscences of his parliamentary experience which were both instructive and interesting. Mr. Harvey followed His Excellency with some humorous aspects of elocution. After a short inspection of the college, tea was served in the Reading Room. The students showed their appreciation of the visit by most enthusiastic cheers.

PROFESSOR CHAPELON

Professor Jacques Chapelon was appointed by President Cody to represent the University at the celebration of the 500th anniversary of the founding of the University of Poitiers in France. Professor Chapelon reports that he presented the address on that occasion which President Cody had prepared for the purpose.

FORCED TO CANCEL "EIGHT MEN SPEAK"

The club is not going to take this attack lying down and intend to organize the various dramatic societies in the city in protest against this attack on the freedom of the stage. Mr. Cecil-Smith told The Varsity that in his opinion such action would only be duplicated in Nazi Germany and that even in Japan the workers' theatres are not interfered with.

As the notice was only served late yesterday afternoon no counter plans have as yet been formulated but the club is considering taking legal action, especially in view of the fact that no specific charge was levelled at the play.

The Varsity understands that there is a Board of Censors in this province, but apparently this action was initiated by the man who issues licenses to the theatres and the Standard Theatre paid nearly three hundred dollars for their license. Legal advice will be sought before any definite action is taken.

An illustrated address on the "Arts of Italy" was given by Signor Eugenio Croizat at Convocation Hall on Friday night. By means of slides in photographic colour, for the production of which he was responsible, Croizat was able to bring before the audience actual pictures in their original and authentic colours.

Hurried glimpses of masterpieces and a few modern works produced by non-Italians preceded a more detailed showing of the artistic productions of Italy. Here the lecturer stressed the works of Leonardo da Vinci whom he called the greatest genius of Italy. The slides of the famous pictures, Mona Lisa and The Last Supper brought forth loud applause from the almost totally Italian audience, as did also a picture of Mussolini greeting Commander Balbo on the return of the Italian air fleet from its spectacular crossing of the Atlantic.

"Subject to the provisions of The Theatres and Cinematographs Act the granting or refusing of a license to any person to carry on a particular trade, calling, business or occupation, or of revoking a license under any of the powers conferred upon a council or board of commissioners of police by this Act, or any other Act, shall be in its discretion, and it shall not be bound to give any reason for refusing or revoking a license, and its action shall not be open to question or review by any Court."

This was the impasse The Varsity encountered in its investigations into the causes of the refusal by the provincial authorities to allow the performance of the play Eight Men Speak scheduled for tonight at the Standard Theatre.

Licensing of theatres, it was learned in an interview with Mr. Buckley, provincial inspector of Theatres, was in the hands of both the province and the municipality. The license obtained from the province obligated the municipality to grant a license. "My department," he continued, "usually works in conjunction with the Police Commission in Toronto, which has supervision over the type of plays performed in the city's theatres. We were requested by the Commission to warn the manager of the Standard Theatre of the consequences if the play is performed on his stage. His license will simply be cancelled," he concluded. "That is all I have to say on the subject."

Mr. J. Palmer Kent, Secretary to the Police Commission, when questioned by The Varsity as to the reason for the Commission's request, stated that "The Commission considered it in the best interests of the public to recommend that the license be cancelled of any theatre in the city which allowed the reproduction of this play."

"What is the exact meaning of the phrase 'in the best interests of the public'?" The Varsity asked. Mr. Kent declined to elaborate, however.

"What is the authority for this action of the Police Commission," he was then asked.

"Their authority is to be found in the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 233 (Municipal Act) Section 262 (4)," was the answer. It is this section that is quoted above in full.

Mr. Edgar Stone, Director of Hart House Theatre, when questioned by The Varsity for his opinion on the question of the power wielded by the Police Commission, declared that Hart House Theatre had never been affected by such regulations since it was situated on University ground over which the Toronto police has no jurisdiction.

"What do you think of the right of a Police Commission to thus censor dramatic productions?"

"The Commission is obviously acting from what it considers is beneficial for the people as a whole. I do not feel qualified to say definitely that such (Continued on Page 4)

Suppression of Play "Eight Men Speak" Considered Undemocratic

STUPIDITY IS CHARGED

Students Believe Progressive Arts Club Doing Creative Work

There is general indignation on the campus over the cancelling of the Progressive Arts Club production Eight Men Speak, scheduled for tonight at the Standard Theatre. It is alleged that action was taken by the Treasury on the request of the Board of Police Commissioners.

From the Law Department The Varsity learned that in 1930 an amendment to the Theatre Act made it possible for the Inspector of Theatres on his discretion, to refuse to grant, or revoke for cause, or suspend the license of a theatre. But any such decision of the inspector may be subject to appeal to the Provincial Treasurer.

Interviewed by The Varsity, Mr. Ross Parmenter, a graduate, said, "If you are going to have moral and artistic censorship it must be intelligent. It must be in the hands of a properly educated body. It is highly doubtful that either the police force or the treasury department has received the required education."

AUSTRALIAN CRISIS FINDS NEW POLICY

Copeland Discusses Methods of Attack on Deadly Depression

INSTITUTE LECTURE

"This lecture is to be regarded as momentous for it has illustrated the resources and courage of our people and has shown that we may depend upon human nature rising to an occasion and coming through a crisis a greater people than before." In these words Sir Robert Falconer expressed the nucleus of Professor D. B. Copeland's address on "Australia in the Crisis," a Royal Canadian Institute lecture held last Saturday evening.

Dr. Copeland explained why Australia was the first country to be affected by the depression and why in 1930, thousands of people in Australia were saying "I told you so." In eighteen months Australian export prices had been cut in half and there was a sudden drastic reduction in income. The world as a whole, of which Australia was a party was responsible.

To meet the situation national income was measured on a new basis, not on the gold standard. "Deflation," Dr. Copeland stated, "has persisted in many countries until it has nearly throttled the world." Australia inflated by making the currency cheaper in terms of gold but not in terms of goods. The position of nations on this question is like that of the man at the crossroads, asking his neighbour the way to Cincinnati. First the traveller was told to go to the right, then after a slight delay he was informed that the left was the shortest road. When he had journeyed some distance in that direction he was called back to the starting point and his adviser stated, "To be quite frank, if I were going to Cincinnati I wouldn't start from here at all."

But recovery not accomplished by inflation alone. Interest had to be reduced and in Dr. Copeland's opinion (Continued on Page 4)

RETRACTION

The Toronto Star has requested The Varsity to publish the correction of an erroneous statement published in The Star on Friday, January 12th, to the effect that M. Wayman, II U.C., had been dropped from the University through non-payment of one dollar in fees. The Star's retraction is as follows:

"The statement that Wayman was dropped from the University roll through non-payment of one dollar is entirely untrue. Actually, the name of the student thus dropped is not yet known. It is Wayman who makes the statement. The error was made in the composing room of The Star. We regret it extremely, and hope that no undue inconvenience is caused Wayman thereby."

VIC CLUB OPERA NOT STAGE SHOW

Production of 'Merrie England' Has No Connection with Imperial

CHORUS OF FORTY-FOUR

"It should be clearly understood that Hood and German's light opera, Merrie England, which the club is presenting next week, has absolutely nothing in common with the stage show of the same name produced at the Imperial Theatre last fall," stated Marsh Lavery, president of the Victoria College Music Club, in an interview with The Varsity Saturday. "A number of people are under the impression that the two are the same. This is emphatically not the case. Our production is in no sense similar. Indeed the Imperial presentation did not even sing excerpts from Merrie England, but apparently merely used the name."

The Victoria College Music Club is presenting in Hart House Theatre next week the immortal masterpiece of Basil Wood and Edward German, Merrie England. The production is under the direction of Mr. T. J. Crawford, Mus.Bac., F.R.C.O., who has given a new and elaborate interpretation to this beautiful opera. A number of novel dancing numbers are being produced under the direction of Miss Marjorie Drake, dancing mistress. Hart House stage will be taxed to capacity with a chorus of forty. ### BEER AND WINE ISSUE TOPIC FOR LUNCHEON

Macdonald-Cartier Club to Hear Wilfrid Heighington
Today

One of the youngest members of the Ontario Legislature, Mr. Wilfrid Heighington, K.C., M.L.A., will address a luncheon meeting of the Macdonald-Cartier Club in Hart House today.

Mr. Heighington is the representative of Toronto St. David's in the Legislature and during his term, has been much in the public eye due to his advocacy of the sale of beer and wine in hotels. Mr. Heighington has not hesitated to make his views quite clear on the floor of the Legislature.

As a result, his address at the Macdonald-Cartier Club is arousing some interest. He proposes to discuss the probable issues of the next election campaign, with particular reference to beer and wine. With an election within the next six months quite certain, the political pot in the University is beginning to boil. This address of Mr. Heighington is the first of a series in which prominent Conservatives will defend Conservative policies and explain the attitude of the Henry Government.

National Motor Show

The National Motor Show of Canada which opened in the Automotive Building Saturday is the greatest preview of cars ever seen in Canada. Many of the models are hand-made and are several weeks ahead of production.

The entertainment features are better than ever, the accommodation for dinner dancers having been greatly extended by the building of the new and attractive Terrace Garden.

Among the highlights this week will be the annual dance of the Toronto Flying Club Tuesday evening and "Garrison Night" on Wednesday.

LEAGUE NOT LOST SAYS TRINITY LIT.

Motion Condemning League of Nations Defeated by 9 to 12

"NEVER WAS ANY USE"

"Germany is the craziest nation politically in the world today," said J. P. Woods at a regular meeting of the Trinity Lit. on the motion "That the League of Nations has outlived its usefulness," which was lost 9-12. Composed of a personnel of statesmen who only desire to further the national interest, and whose decisions, when reached, must be ratified by the individual governments, it is not surprising that the league's actions are not taken seriously by the nations of the world.

A. R. Tilley, opposing the motion, accused the Hon. Member from Winnipeg of considering only the political aspect of the league's activities and of passing over much important duties, as the administration of the International Labour Office, the suppression of the illegal drug traffic, the International Court of Justice, and other benefits to civilization. The Hon. Member concluded his speech by misquoting John McCrae.

A. F. Knight did not believe that the league ever served any useful purpose, and considered that the mistakes made at the Peace Congress at Versailles could only be rectified by another world war. "History is the only science which can put present events in their true perspective," said Sam Hughes. "The delegates to the Versailles Conference avoided the mistakes made by their predecessors about a century previously at the Congress of Vienna, by setting up a central machinery for the administration of world problems, which is our present League of Nations."

Plenty of Excitement in First Period as Teams Score
Five Goals

REY STARS FOR VARSITY

Torontos Now in Second Place in O.H.A. Battle for Supremacy

By C. C. Pare

Although showing a decided improvement in their play the Varsity senior O.H.A. entry were forced to accept a 7-3 defeat at the hands of Art Halliwell's Torontos at the Blue Arena last Saturday night. The visitors proved to be a faster skating, faster breaking outfit and this gave them a slight edge in the first two periods when both teams were hot after goals.

The first ten minutes of the initial period were featured by wide open hockey and the small crowd was kept in a frenzy of excitement. Five goals were scored by the racing pucksters in thirteen minutes. The first tally came when Shill took a pass from Hodgetts to score in the first minute of play. The fighting Blues came back fast, and after a short scramble around the Toronto citadel were rewarded when Hendry found the upper corner of the net to tie the score 1-1. Hodgetts earned his second point of the evening when he put the Torontos back in the lead on a pass from Shill. McPherson, crafty Blue wingman, missed a fine chance to score when Goldie bobbled Rey's shot and seconds later Mann rifled home the third Toronto goal, with Kitchen getting the assist. Fullerton closed the scoring of the period when he banged Rey's rebound past Goldie. Varsity's stiff back check disorganized the enemy's attack and held them in centre ice until with two minutes to go, McPherson went to the cooler for the alleged tripping of Shill and the Torontos put on the power play. However, Varsity tightened up and the period closed with the score remaining 3-2.

VICTORIA GRAUQUATES PASS ON EXPERIENCES

Series of Lectures to Assist Undergraduates Begins
January 17

For the fourth consecutive year the Victoria College Alumni Association is sponsoring a series of addresses in vocational guidance to aid undergraduates in the selection of their careers. This year the lectures will commence on Wednesday, January 17 and will be held in the college chapel at 5 o'clock.

Graduates of the University are usually obtained as speakers and this week Mr. A. M. Miller, advertising director for Chrysler Motors of Canada is to speak in regard to choosing one's life work. This is the first of a series and lectures will be given every few weeks throughout the term. The Victoria Alumni Society aims to place the experience of the graduates at the disposal of the students. "It is different from the high school organizations as we presuppose an Arts degree," Mr. W. S. Little, the bursar of Victoria College asserted. "We particularly desire to emphasize the fact that the lectures are open to the whole University and are not restricted to students of Victoria College."

Mr. Little pointed out that for the last three years a regular series of talks have been provided by over 30 graduates who are engaged in varied careers. "Last year alone there were 14 different groups held treating such subjects as advertising, accounting, finance, teaching, ministry and law, and we will continue with such a plan this year," Mr. Little stated.

THE RELATION OF THE CHURCH AND STATE

Few public pronouncements on matters of universal concern have met with such ill-considered criticism and superficial judgment as that of the Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody when he declared that neither church nor University would do their best work if they leaped into the arena of practical politics or active economic and industrial questions. As a former rector of St. Paul's and Minister of Education in this province, and as the president of the University of Toronto, no man should be more qualified to speak on the relations of the Church and University to the State. Any statement upon a question so vital to every nation in the Western world, by a man of such singular attainments as those possessed by our president, deserves careful consideration, and ought to be weighed for its value as a contribution to the discussion. It is cheap jingoism to dismiss the words of Dr. Cody with the quip that "he is either the greatest minister in politics or the greatest politician in the ministry." We may be sure, moreover, that Dr. Cody himself was well aware that he would lay himself open to the charge of inconsistency when he advised the Church and the University to remain outside the sphere of practical politics. And we may also be certain that Dr. Cody realized that he would be accused of "playing politics" in the present instance, since a quiescent clergy and a dormant University faculty would be appreciated by the governments in power at Ottawa and Queen's Park. Without descending to the platitudinous, it surely becomes a great man to change his mind after mature and considered thought, and an open declaration of it in the face of inevitable ridicule betrays an inordinate intellectual honesty and moral fearlessness. Therefore, we look upon it as a matter of regret that even a prominent churchman should stoop to personalities and prejudices in a reply to Dr. Cody upon this subject.

The fate of the Church in Russia, the extraordinary success of Communism in China, the subjection of the Church to the authority of the State in Germany, the clashes between Church and State in Mexico, Spain and Italy, have thrown a succession of scares into the whole of Christendom. The Church is no longer invulnerable. It has fallen, is falling, and may well continue to fall. The Church as a temporal power cuts a sorry picture today. This is the seriousness of the problem of the relation of the Church and State.

Most people derive satisfaction from the fact that the relations between the Church and State in America are not so strained as they are in Germany. We may well ask ourselves whether the amicable relationship which obtains is desirable and whether it is a tribute to the Church on this continent. The reason for the peaceful relationship between the Church and State in America lies in the fact that the two have almost everything in common. They have the same end in view, the same ideals and employ practically the same methods. The Church and State see eye to eye. Here there is no conflict, no tension. Peace reigns, and that is satisfactory to both parties. Strife per se is acknowledged by both Church and State to be evil.

Enormous difficulties lie in the way of a solution of the problem of the relation of the Church and State. In vain do we look for an answer from the religious and political thinkers of our day, although we should hardly expect one from the latter. It would seem, however, that the chief stumbling-block in the way of a clear definition of the relation of the Church to the State is the want of an intense and universal consciousness within the Church herself of what she really is and precisely what constitutes her mission in the world. When the Church understands herself, the problem of her relation to the State will be solved; it will be solved for her! We must face the fact that the Church today has no such widespread consciousness.

The consciousness of the Church is that it is a part of the State, albeit a sanctified part. No natural opposition need exist between the two. The ends of the Church and State are thought to be identical, namely, the enabling of every individual to realize to the fullest his own personality in society, that is, self-realization. John Stuart Mill, on behalf of the state, gave it admirable expression. The Church calls it the Kingdom of God, and co-operates with the State, and with God, in the realization of that end. The truth is that the ends of the Church and State are diametrically opposed: the State seeks the social good as an end in itself whereas the Church seeks the social good to glorify God and in obedience to His will. Thus while the purposes of the Church and State on the surface appear to be the same, and congenial to one another, they are as far apart as the poles, and ever at war with each other.

The ideals of the Church and State have become the same. The trinity "truth, beauty and goodness" are readily embraced by the State and easily dispensed by her schools, humanitarian organizations and press. But the Church knows, or at least has an opportunity of knowing that these ideals are not synonymous for the Righteousness of which she must speak.

The State seeks to establish the social good by means of education and legislation. That education has likewise come to be regarded by the Church as the supreme instrument in the attainment of its

Art, Music and Drama

Sunday Evening Concert

The artists at last night's Hart House concert were two musicians well known around the University—Mr. Leo Smith and Mr. J. Campbell McInnes. In fact, so familiar is the work of these gentlemen that extended comment is superfluous. Both musicians are noted not only for their wide experience and technical skill, but for their great musical scholarship. The programme last evening of course bore testimony to the merits of their work in both regards.

Mr. Smith opened his programme with an 18th century Sonata, played with all his customary charm. His popular group consisted of three Irish pieces, including a Jig of the racy character which so captivates audiences and a representation of a Horse Race, written by Mr. Smith himself.

Especially beautiful was the group of Elizabethan songs which Mr. McInnes gave first. His mastery of song literature of this period is complete and entirely satisfying. The rendering of the requested songs, familiar to all listeners, but sung with all the wealth of Mr. McInnes's skill and knowledge, brought perhaps even more enjoyment to the audience. The Cello accompaniments were lovely throughout, but most satisfactory, it seemed to us, in the Elizabethan group. Hart House is once more deeply indebted to these musicians who have played and still play, so vital a part in the artistic life of Toronto. G.H.J.

Hart House String Quartet

The third concert of the Hart House Quartet series, given this week-end, was devoted entirely to modern English music. The works presented are not extraordinary abstruse, and I am unable to see any reason why this music should be anything but satisfying to anybody. The Goossens is the least inspired of the three compositions, though exceedingly clever. The vigour of this work was well carried through by both quartet and pianist—the pianist being the masterful Mr. Reginald Stewart.

The Delius work is one of unusual beauty, and evidences his undoubted genius—undoubted, whether or not one agrees with the superlatives of Sir Thomas Beecham. I have not a very adequate acquaintance with this composer's works, but judging from this Quartet, and a few other masterpieces of his, I should say that he manifestly achieves what he is striving for: and it is not easy to say that of many modern writers. The whole work is to me quite moving, and each part, each individual dissonance, seems to be wrought with much subtlety. It should be made possible for us to become more familiar with the work of perhaps the most important modern English composer.

I have had occasion to remark before on the certainty of Vaughan-Williams' technique. The Quartet in G Minor is one more piece of evidence (Continued on Page 4)

According to a Vancouver astronomer, the earth has been travelling for billions of years at a velocity of 711,000 m.p.h. We can't believe it. Surely if we'd been going that fast for all these years, by this time we'd have got somewhere.

C-C

An interesting experiment was conducted down in Washington the other day. After weeks of assiduous research Secretary of the Deficit Morgenthau succeeded in gathering together representative specimens of legitimate and bootleg liquors. He then called a conference of newspapermen and asked them to judge the quality of the various samples. After a long period of assiduous judging, the jury decided that the bootleg liquor was better.

C-C

Probably they were the only samples they recognized.

Still, it's nice to see that even if the Brain Trust is taking charge of all the vital functions of government, they're willing to call in men of practical experience to advise them.

end is clearly demonstrated by the whole paraphernalia of modern evangelism. Sermons usually consist in the most up-to-date ideas on morality and comparative religions, to say nothing about sociology and economics. Sunday Schools, study groups and conventions are organized according to the most advanced educational and psychological theories for the dissemination of religious ideas to the youth. The professors in the department of Oriental History know far better than does the Church that they do not teach religious knowledge but history. The Church knows, however, or at least has an opportunity for knowing, that it is not a purveyor of ideas but a broken, imperfect witness, not to truths which it possesses, but to the Truth which is always above it and the world.

Thus has the Church sold her birth-right and suffered her identity to be swallowed up by the State. The State ought to be unbearable to the Church, nay, an impossibility,—not from any pious desire to reform the State but to purge herself of the State. For the arch sin which the Church must combat is the sin of the State—the pursuit of a social good for its own sake.

Thus when Dr. Cody advises against the Church participating in practical politics he is not speaking of any conflict between the Church and State but of a conflict within the State itself. The Church finds herself not in conflict with the State and all that the State stands for, but with factions within the State, of which she herself is one.

Note: The Varsity will discuss editorially in tomorrow's issue the Relation of the University to the State.

Loew's—

Samuel Goldwyn gives us another epic of Hollywood's own interpretation of history in his production of Roman Scandals, starring Eddie Cantor, at Loew's this week. It may not be good history but it is certainly spicy scandal. The usual bevy of feminine beauty is even more beautiful than ever and the censors must have been looking the other way when some of the scenes were shot. The songs are catchy and Eddie Cantor's humour is well above par. If you are a Cantor fan you won't be disappointed by Roman Scandals. The shorts are also good. C.L.C.

Shea's—

It's dawning on us why people go to Shea's. That is if the Shea policy of majoring in the stage show manages often to turn out the sort of material we saw Friday. Mind you, we're not tossing bouquets with reckless abandon, but out of the eight acts, five are genuinely worth while. A trick dog skit (Whitey and Ed Ford) is great. Bellet and Lamb in a sort of slapstick affair are just darn fools and much better for it. Karre le Baron puts on a modernist adagio dance, complete with silver curtains, silk shirts and Manhattan Serenade, which is decidedly un-ordinary, largely because the tiny girl they throw around (Continued on Page 4)

VARSITY JRS. PLAY LIONS TO-NIGHT AT VARSITY ARENA

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By J. B. H.

Can it be true? The mercury has been falling all day. Those interested in intercollegiate hockey will now be wondering about the possible chance of enough prolongation of the present weather conditions to enable their teams to get in some practice. In view of the unpredictable changes that have taken place this winter and every winter for the past three years it seems extremely problematical. It is unfortunate that indoor practices could not be arranged as the teams are left entirely dependent on this capricious weather.

Will those players who have been turning out to intercollegiate basketball practices, read the Sport Notices to-day? A tentative division of those trying out for the teams has been made and in the future separate practices will be held.

The intercollegiate tournament in the fall proves itself again an invaluable aid in preparing the way for the intercollegiate team. The players are more or less automatically weeded out as may be seen by a glance at the first line-up where the names of those of the two finalist teams predominate. It means that the players have plenty of real experience and all that remains is to weld individual stars into a smooth working combination. It would be a boon to the hockey team if such an arrangement were possible.

Again we make note of the meeting of the Badminton Club at 5 p.m. this afternoon at 105 St. George St. For a while there seemed to be some misunderstanding as to who belonged to the club but by now representatives of the different faculties have been notified to attend.

TORONTO DEFEAT BLUES BY 7 TO 3 MARGIN

and Shill made the score Toronto 6, Varsity 2 after the first five minutes of play. The first counter came on a scramble, the Blues protested it but Jerry Denard took the goal umpire's word. The Varsity defence looked weak and disorganized on the last two counters. With the clock at twelve minutes Roy scored Varsity's last goal on McClelland's rebound. Lough closed the scoring when he eased the rubber past Shipp after snaring B. Paul's pass. The game became rough and before the period ended Lampert, Farrant and McClelland were all given two minute rests.

By the third period both teams were feeling the effects of the gruelling pace but the plucky Blues never let up and only Lady Luck (all bad) kept them off the score sheet while the Torontos seemed satisfied to lay back and wait for a break.

Shill, Hodgetts, Kitchen and B. Paul were among the best for Torontos, while Rey, Fullerton and Hendry stood out for Varsity with Campbell playing a nice defensive game.

VARSITY JUNIORS SUFFER DEFEAT

accounted for both Varsity counters. Art Upper ran into a hard body check from Barnes and sustained a torn ligament in his shoulder which will keep him out of action for at least two weeks.

A penalty to Graboski in the opening minutes of the game paved the way for the opening goal, Shipley flashing the light to give the Blue team the lead. Their success however was short lived and before the period ended they were down 3-1. Graboski, the tow-headed centre from the Motor City was the most dangerous man on the ice, netting two of Oshawa's six goals.

BLUE BASKETEERS AGAIN DEFEATED IN BIG SIX TILT

Yolles Hug Varsity Basket and Maintain Lead Throughout

HANDS OUT 49 FOULS

Shanahan Displays Fast Work with Hands, Feet and Tongue

By W. A. Crockett

Absorbing a 41-31 decision, University of Toronto's white clad Blues suffered their second Big Six defeat at the hands of a fast red Yolles A.C. squad in a furious basketball tilt played in the big gym at Hart House on Saturday night. The Yolles aggression, formerly known as Lizzies, had speed coming and going and found it a simple matter to elude their Blue checks with their tricky style of play and beautifully executed blocks.

Although the game was by no means of the slam-bang variety. Referee "Bud" Watson handed out 49 fouls—23 to Yolles and 26 to Varsity. Each team was called on 17 fouls. The Furniture squad geefing in addition six technicals and Varsity nine. Watson's little pastime often tended to slow up the play but as a rule his little touts on the whistle came as pleasant diversion from Yank Shanahan's chatter.

Play started fast right from the opening with the Furniture quintet fairly buzzing with speed around the Blue basket. Hanna, Yolles' elongated star centre, opened the scoring by sinking a foul shot. From this point on Yolles was never headed although Varsity surprisingly came close at times. As the period progressed a poor brand of ball was displayed by both teams, with the Red squad flashing good form occasionally as Sugar, a former Varsity stalwart, Hanna and Eisen combined to score on well-formed blocks. Hayman's Blues, on the other hand, showed no semblance of team play, shooting long shots whenever the chance arose. The half ended with Yolles leading 18-11.

The second half was almost a repetition of the first except that a poorer brand of ball was shown, the Blues especially getting in some weird passes which the speedy Red flashes quickly turned into baskets. Halfway through the period the inevitable happened when Referee Watson ejected Harold Sniderman, Kaplan, Yank Shanahan and Eisen to the tune of "We're afraid of the big bad wolves" gleefully tooted on a shrill-sounding whistle. The remainder of the period saw the Blues trying hard to span the gap with the Yolles cagers drawing ahead almost at will whenever threatened.

On the evening's play Orin Hanna, the centre for Yolles, was by far the star of the game. In addition to being the high scorer of the game he executed many skilful plays which his forwards, Sugar and Eisen, made good. These three formed the best line on the floor all night as they seemed to be able to get clear of checks quite easily. Yank Shanahan is still undoubtedly the league's best talker and arguer in addition to being one of its best guards. For Varsity, Bodrug and Gold showed flashes of good form at times, while Levy played heads-up ball in the few minutes that he was used.

Yolles—Eisen 6, Sugar 6, Hanna 10, Sapiro 7, Shanahan 5, W. Sniderman 1, Sone 1, Gallander 2, Sibilash 3, Minocvitch, Abrams, Pearson. Varsity—Bodrug 6, Gordon 3, Willis 4, Prince 2, Mitchell 4, H. Sniderman, Gold 5, Young, Levy 5, Kaplan 2.

Referee—Bud Watson.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Mac McCutcheon's intermediates and junior basketball squads brought the only ray of sunshine in the athletic life around Varsity over the week-end. Both these teams chalked up wins in the Y.M.C.A. League. Other results were not so gratifying as the senior basketball team was defeated by Yolles and the two hockey squads were handed rather humiliating defeats. Warren Stevens' senior hockey team came to the end of their winning streak when they clashed with the Torontos, while the juniors took theirs from Oshawa.

The junior hockey team were rather unfortunate on Saturday when besides losing the game they lost one of their most valuable players, temporarily at least. Art Upper figured in a collision with Barnes and was assisted to the dressing room from where it was reported that his shoulder was fractured. An examination however disclosed nothing more serious than a torn ligament. However even this will keep him out of action for at least two weeks and it is not certain whether or not he will be able to get back in the game at the end of the season. Incidentally Art has quite a reputation as an athlete. He played on two dominion championship football teams in two consecutive years, being with Varsity juniors when they swept through to a Dominion title in '32. Last year Art lined up with the Toronto Argos and played an active part in their victory over the Sarnia team. In addition to this he is rated as one of the best hard ball pitchers in the city.

Tonight at Varsity Arena the juniors tackle the Lions in another double header O.H.A. fixture. In the second game St. Mike's meet Parkdale. This Irish squad is shaping up like the Dominion champions and this will be a good opportunity to see them in action as well as lending a little support to the Varsity juniors. The Lions have a real classy outfit and although they should win, Bill Dewar's squad even without Upper should make it interesting.

Two of Varsity's tennis players will be battling for honours against the best on the continent tomorrow in Montreal. Bill Pigott, first ranking Varsity player and Sid Herinmat, captain of the intercollegiate team, have been invited to compete in the Canadian indoor tennis tourney which starts on Tuesday, January 16th. The impressive list of entrants which includes the leading players in Canada and U.S., indicates a rather brief career for Herinmat and Pigott, but they can both be depended on to give everything they have when they start battling the cotton covered pill around tomorrow night.

We don't know just what it is but there must be something very attractive for Varsity athletes in the good old U.S. First the basketball team went over for treatment and came back showing considerable improvement. The hockey team then went in search of a building-up tonic and came back completely cured from losing games, for a time at least. Now we have a lacrosse team which is making the trip. Oh yes, we all have a lacrosse team around here, or will have shortly. It is composed of an all-star aggregation picked from the stars of the intercollegiate series. The teams will travel to Rochester on Friday night for their first and probably last game.

SENIOR B CAGERS BEAT BROADVIEW Y

Rally in Last Half Wipes Out Large Lead and Takes Victory

FEATURE LONG SHOTS

Pulling victory from almost certain defeat by a marvellous show of fight and gameness, the Varsity Senior B cage experts downed Broadview Y on Saturday night at West End. Sitting on the short end of a 13-21 score at half time, they emerged victorious to the tune of 36-24.

Varsity started off with everything it takes to win a game. The centre jumped all over the Broadview man, their combination was snappy and their defence was almost airtight. Yet after their first basket they dropped behind and stayed there. Their basketball in the first half was spasmodic but depended for score mostly on long shots. The result was that Broadview led at half time by 13-21.

After a short period of very sloppy passing by both teams Varsity settled down and ran in five baskets and a free throw to tie it up at 24-24. The pace became fast with both teams vying on the superhuman in their efforts to draw ahead. Varsity did do so mainly on Gibson's work with rebounds and led 32-26 with about eight minutes to go. The Y team came back strongly to tie it up at 33-33 with two minutes left. A free throw by each team and it was still even. Then Normie Newman slipped one in just as the gong rang to pull his team out on top.

Throughout the game, he and his brother Harry, together with Apple-

FORESTRY SECURES WIN OVER TRINITY TEAM

Lapse in Third Inning Costs Anglicans Victory in Softball Game

Forestry succeeded in nosing out the classy Trinity aggregation by the score of 5-4 in a well played softball game in the big gym at Hart House Friday afternoon.

The game was closely contested throughout and as indicated by the score, the outcome was kept very much in doubt until the last frame. Both pitchers started off well and no runs were scored in the first two stanzas. Hayward, the pitcher for Trinity, weakened somewhat in the third inning and Forestry was able to collect three runs in that frame, followed by two more in the fourth. Trinity almost succeeded in overcoming the winners' lead in the concluding stanza, but lacked the necessary luck to put across the tying run. Jolubue was the heavy hitter for the winners. Hayward and Futley played well for the losers.

STUDENTS PROTEST SUPPRESSION OF PLAY

tifiable, if you don't allow it, then it is. Personally, I don't know whether or not complete freedom of speech is desirable. But I do know this: that you must have complete freedom of speech if you want great works of art. It is a question of whether works of art are more important than the stability of the governing power."

Mr. Martin Loeb, president of the U.C. Players' Guild, looked upon the cancellation as partly the result of unfavourable attention drawn to the play by Mr. Dickson-Kenwin in the morning papers. "In spite of what Mr. Kenwin says," Mr. Loeb continued, "the Progressive Arts Club has been doing the only really creative, progressive dramatic work in the city. The play was certainly propaganda, but that is the form that all worthwhile modern art is taking, and the appearance of the Fascist attitude and methods is to be deplored by every fair-minded person. As dramatic art Eight Men Speak has possibilities of being a very great expression of the people. It was hampered by the inexperience of the authors and producers."

Mr. M. Long, II Arts, U.C., disagreed with Mr. Loeb. "The purpose of art is entertainment," he said, "not to be a vehicle of political expression. By suppression greater publicity has been given to the play than its importance warrants."

Mr. F. W. Burton considered the removal of a play from the boards for other than moral or artistic reasons, as would seem to be the case in this instance, to be contrary to democratic principles.

Miss Jocelyn Moore said it was further evidence of the stupidity of the Canadian people at large and the Canadian government in particular.

"The Student League," declared M. Kaplanski, a member of that organization, "has no official connection with the Progressive Arts Club, although we are in sympathy with their aims. Personally, I am absolutely opposed to the action of the police authorities. I believe that the club has every right to produce this play, and is prevented by a purely autocratic ruling. If the Commission is allowed to continue such supervision, it is impossible to say where it will stop. And apparently there is no means of redress. There is no need to go to Germany for unjust persecution when here in Toronto we have an instance of Fascist arbitrariness."

Important business and imprudent debate. Tea will be served.

action, while irksome to many of us, does not serve its designed purpose. Anyway," he concluded, "I do not as a rule like propaganda plays. Plays written with an ulterior motive are rarely able to fill the demands of good drama, as the characters tend to become mere caricatures."

When interviewed by The Varsity as to what action had been taken by the Progressive Arts Club, the sponsors of the play Eight Men Speak since its performance has been prohibited by the Police Commission, Mr. E. Cecil Smith, secretary of the club stated,

"Mr. I. J. Weinrot, the manager of the Standard Theatre has not yet signified in writing his absolute refusal to allow us to perform the play in his building. Of course we expect to receive such intimation from him unless we can guarantee definite assurance from the authorities that their previous decision and warning may safely be disregarded. It is in the hope of achieving this result that a delegation representing the club will wait upon Col. Price, Attorney-General, and other provincial officials Monday morning."

"What action will you take if they merely repeat their refusal to allow the production of the play?"

"In the first place," Mr. Smith replied, "we shall have to refund the money for the tickets sold, and for that purpose we will be present at the theatre Monday evening at 7.45. In addition we plan to hold a mass meeting on Wednesday in Hygeia Hall as a definite protest against the ruling. To this meeting both members of the University staff and of the student body are cordially invited."

WITH THE THEATRES

really tosses her head and laughs and gets the spirit. None of your dish-water stage smiles, we mean. And the Six Somebodies-or-other (we'll remember in a day or so) go through a terrific tumbling act with some breathtaking three-decker stuff.

Then there is Harriet Hutchins. We wish to expatiate on Harriet. She is a titian-haired young lady who does comedy impersonations extremely well. She is very much better looking than the run of stage-show femmes (little enow to say for the child, God wot), and in her face and her actions is a spontaneous liveliness that makes you pretty certain she never does a routine quite the same way twice. Which will find a warm spot in our hearts for anyone. We especially recommend Harriet.

And so to Clara Bow in Hoopla. We're not going to pan this Bow comeback (she'll thank us from the bottom of her little heart, beyond a doubt); in fact the thing gave us a jolt at the stony cynicism we seem to have developed over these years, towards the cinema. After getting all set to lay for it from start to finish, we suddenly noticed about twenty minutes along that the piece was showing no small promise. Miss Bow is of course the tough little bonne-a-rien who makes the fine clean youth fall hard, then reveals her gold as she falls herself and slaves that he may make good. A setting in the travelling show racket gives scope, and there's a swell free-for-all about half way. The icy hearts thaw at the end and pretty smiles creep through the tears. But what we like about Clara Bow is her power to make us live through things with her. We noticed it six years ago in Wings at the Princess—remember the Princess?—and we were only little little kids then. It's always a bit hard at one of her pictures to get worked around to our comfortable after-all-this-is-only-a-show frame of mind. To take us out of it in the first place is no mean historic accomplishment, believe you us. On Friday night we had reached quite a friendly glow by the time the lights turned up, and went home and ate an apple.

in favour of this opinion. It lacks the rare and subtle beauty of the Delius Quartet, but like that work it is distinguished from Goossens' Quintet in its comparative smoothness of execution and richness of conception. It is not always easy to judge the performance of the quartet in Convocation Hall, but it seemed to possess all the purity and technical perfection—almost defying analysis, and on which it is idle to write so repeatedly at any length—which characterize this ensemble's celebrated work.

Friday Afternoon Recitals

Hart House had, for its Friday afternoon recital, a distinguished guest in the person of Ernest Seitz. Mr. Seitz is a pianist of international renown, and one of the leading teachers of the Toronto Conservatory Piano Faculty.

This year, the Friday afternoon recitals have been planned with the idea of presenting the works of some of the major composers in chronological order. The programme, this week, was an all-Chopin one. Undergraduates of the University owe to the Warden and the Music Committee, an expression of appreciation for the fine recitals, which have, so far, been presented in the series. This method of approach affords an opportunity to students of increasing their knowledge of "things musical".

While playing Chopin one must read between the lines: there must be a definite sympathy for the composer. An over-sentimentalized reading of his works is as unwelcome as an unfeeling technical performance is inadequate. It was not mere fancy that called Chopin "The Poet of the Piano". Only an ignorant "jumboism" would depreciate the genius of a composer who confined himself to the smaller forms, especially when such striking originality manifested itself. One short Prelude of Chopin's is worth two poor symphonies.

Mr. Seitz is a masterful pianist. His playing is characterized by brilliancy, clarity and accuracy. The programme was such as gives ample opportunity to display a dazzling technical equipment and a complete command of the instrument. We would especially remark on the effective playing which Mr. Seitz did in the Ballade and the Scherzo. An enthusiastic audience was rewarded with two sparkling encores, the Minute Waltz and the Black Key Etude. F.B.S.

But we have our own quests which we would hereby inaugurate.

For instance, we would like to discover:

The oldest living Siamese twins to have taken a horse-car ride together on the evening of June 9, 1903.

The oldest living chorus girl to have belonged to the Floradora Sextet.

The youngest living schoolboy to have memorized the inaugural address of President Roosevelt (Franklin D.). C-C

Although extremely busy, the members of the editorial board of The Varsity will be pleased to receive evidence on these points, together with

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Moscow—Along with twenty Russians, six foreign engineers have been held in prison for the last two months by Soviet authorities on charges of sabotage and economic espionage, it was revealed yesterday. They are being held incommunicado, even their embassies being refused access.

Declaring that drastic action must be taken to avert the destruction of our economic fabric, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, yesterday attacked unethical practices on the part of large concerns, denouncing specifically the big stores, the flour millers and their subsidiaries, the meat-packing industries and sweating in the clothing industry.

New York—Prophesying that Repeal will "fill the streets with staggering, reeling, maudlin, stewing drunkards," Billy Sunday has inaugurated a new Prohibition Crusade.

Ottawa—Premier Henry of Ontario and Attorney-General W. J. Major of Manitoba have expressed themselves as prepared to endorse an unemployment insurance plan and optimistic as to the attitude of the other provinces. Premier Patullo of British Columbia is non-committal; the Maritime representatives declared themselves more concerned with the matter of increased federal subsidies.

Paris—Ten persons, including the Governor-General of Indo-China, were killed in the crash of an air-liner last night.

Geneva—France has invited Germany to send a representative to the League of Nations Council in connection with the Saar plebiscite next year, which is construed as an invitation to retract gracefully her withdrawal from the League. Hitler is expected to refuse.

Washington—Senator Lewis of Illinois yesterday told the United States Senate that "Great Britain's" primary objective in the St. Lawrence Waterways Plan was "the privilege of a military avenue through the United States, its Great Lakes and its centre territory."

Langley Field, Va.—The design of an aeroplane expected to fly 544 miles per hour, 121 miles faster than the present record, was made public yesterday.

Ontario's $400,000 provincial loan which went on sale yesterday morning, was oversubscribed at 3 p.m. Premier Henry was "highly gratified."

By a vote of thirteen to one last night, fifteen hundred women garment workers in Toronto decided to go on strike today. A thousand more are expected to follow suit.

Havana—Following the forced resignation of President Grau San Martín, Carlos Hevia, Secretary of Agriculture, accepted the Presidency of Cuba last night. Student supporters of San Martín threatened renewal of a terroristic campaign.

Hollywood—Greta Garbo is rumoured married or about to be married to Rouben Mamoulian, her director.

COST OVER A BILLION

Sectional Interests in U.S.
May Prove Block to Ratification

"If President Roosevelt's plan, ratifying the St. Lawrence Waterway project goes through, it will be most disastrous to both Canada and the United States," said Professor Jackson, who lectures in Transportation in the Economics Department. "The engineering estimate," he went on, "is placed at a cost of $270,000,000, but of course in actual construction, it will go well over the billion dollar mark. The state of finances in both countries is in a very precarious position at present. Taxation at present is very high and people are having real difficulty in meeting tax payments. It would be foolish and useless to add more weight to the people's burden."

Sectional interests in the United States will probably hinder the plan from receiving the ratification of the Senate. New England has definitely changed its stand within the last few years and is now positive in opposition.

IS VARSITY GRADUATE

Tomorrow evening, undergraduates of the University will have the opportunity of hearing one of Canada's outstanding advertising executives when Mr. A. M. Miller, advertising advisor for Chrysler Motors will speak on Vocational Guidance in the Victoria Chapel at 5 o'clock. The meeting is sponsored by the Victoria Alumnae Association.

Mr. Miller was a graduate of 1913 from U.C. in honour philosophy. During the hectic war years he took a strenuous part in Red Cross work. His executive work in the raising of the Patriotic Fund, in the launching of the Victory Loan and other war-time causes was extensive.

After the war he continued in the same line for several years and in 1923 joined Moore and Hughes, Dodge dealers in Toronto, as sales promotion (Continued on Page 4)

Mr. Tomalski to Lecture on

"All students are essentially politicians in Poland," stated Mr. S. Tomalski, a local student, when interviewed by a Varsity reporter, after his return from a trip to Poland sponsored by the Polish organization "Rade organizacyjna Polakow z zagranicy," of Winnipeg. Mr. Tomalski, with three other students who were from Winnipeg, spent three weeks in Europe travelling through England, France, Germany and Poland. They especially studied the educational and industrial systems of Poland.

Further commenting on student life in Poland, Mr. Tomalski mentioned that girls comprise about 15 per cent of the number taking the architectural course and about 35 per cent of those in medicine.

Their whole system of education is very much different from that existing in Canada. After a child completes his elementary schooling, which is usually at the age of 12, he enters the "gymnasium," which corresponds to our high school. Here he studies (Continued on Page 4)

PRESENT REPORT

The first regular meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society for the Easter term will be held this evening at 8.15 p.m. in the junior common room of the college. The members will be privileged to hear Commendatore Luigi Villari discuss present-day Italy.

Commendatore Villari is head of the delegation of prominent Italians visiting Toronto in connection with Italy Week held under the auspices of the National Council of Education. A distinguished diplomat and former consul to the United States, he has written many books dealing with such varied topics as "Italian Life in Town and (Continued on Page 4)

Arts Ball

The ticket list for the Arts Ball will be posted in the junior common room of University College Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

The undergraduate body of the college is especially interested in this year's Arts Ball, to be held in Hart House on Friday, January 26th, because it comes so shortly before the celebration of the Lit's eightieth birthday. Of additional interest to many, according to Mr. Frank Woods, the social director of the college, is the return this year of the Arts Ball to Hart House, the successful locale of the party for so many years. In short it was Mr. Woods' opinion that all indications point to a very successful party. Those planning to attend are advised to lose no time in signing the lists.

OLD PRINTS, SLIDES SHOWN

Part of the old Parliament Buildings, down by the waterfront of Toronto, was the scene of the first lectures of the University of Toronto, Mr. Reed, of the University, told the audience at the Art Galleries last evening. With the aid of interesting old prints, Mr. Reed drew a vivid picture of the growth of Toronto, from its humble beginning as "Muddy York".

At this time John Gault wrote of the town, saying, "Of all the places in the world, the vilest is Dover in England, with the possible exception of York, in Upper Canada." Gradually however, reports grew more favourable, until finally York became and remained the capital of Upper Canada instead of the previously more popular London.

An extension of the University when downtown was at one time used for a lunatic asylum, and the doors separating the two sections kept carefully locked in case someone should stray into the wrong one and be lost.

College Street was a private roadway into the present university grounds which were so far removed from civilization that although University College took three years to be built, many (Continued on Page 4)

Toxoid May End Ravages of Infantile Paralysis

PRODUCES IMMUNITY

Dr. Morris Brodie, 1928 graduate of McGill University, has discovered a vaccine which he believes will be a preventative for infantile paralysis. Dr. Brodie made his discovery while working in the Willards Parker Hospital, now near East River, in a shabby section of New York. Other doctors have fought vainly for years for this vaccine. Dr. Brodie is credited with the discovery of this toxoid which is expected to end the ravages of the disease.

When injected into monkeys it produces an immunity to infantile paralysis. It remains to be seen what degree of immunity will be obtained and how long it will last. Within a month or two it is hoped that an announcement of this injection for use in the human body, will be made. Apparently now it is quite as effective as diphtheria toxoid or that used in any other disease.

"The individual, that thing which we have loved to look upon as the glory of democracy, has turned out to be the hindrance to its success," maintained Miss Nora Henderson in an address to the members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at the Round Room at luncheon yesterday.

The anarchy that pervades every phase of our civilization she blamed for this condition and also the fact that we as members of communities that foster ignorance and indifference in looking after this democracy, should express disappointment when our representatives display human weaknesses, was expressed with tinged disapproval. In Miss Henderson's own words "The destiny of looking after ourselves has brought us into this middle."

Examples such as that of Miss Rae-side of Hamilton were cited to show the work that women are doing in "cleaning up the messes arising from a faulty housekeeping system in world governments."

It was pointed out that all this is entirely futile—Red Cross, soup kitchens, and all the other manifestations of this work if the source of the trouble is to be continually neglected. "It is not enough that women be the nurses and charwomen of the world, (Continued on Page 4)

MIGHT RUN WEEKLY

When told by The Varsity yesterday that there was a possibility of inaugurating a radio column in the paper in the near future, the general opinion of the student body was that such a column would be a definite asset to The Varsity.

Interviewed by a reporter yesterday, Gordon Cuthbertson, IV Commerce, stated that in his opinion any innovation would be welcome, and a column devoted to radio would be particularly well received. "You can read a log in any of the daily papers, but what we want in The Varsity is a column which would feature programmes of special interest to University students, such as the series of talks that are now being given by various members of the faculty on Wednesday evenings."

George Gale, I Pass, thinks that a column such as that suggested should appear weekly instead of every day. Asked his reasons for this opinion, he assured The Varsity that he was especially solicitous for the already overworked staff and that the labour of putting out a daily column would be too much to expect. "And anyway," he said, "nobody would read it if it was published every day."

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE STATE

The primary purpose of education—the only purpose in the final analysis—is to provide training for social participation. It may be a pretty delusion of those who seek in academic life a retreat from the bustle and competition of the outside world, that their function is rather to educate the student for his own sake, to create an inner fortress of the mind and spirit, a haven of peace and quietness to which he may retire when the strain of practical living becomes too great. But the overwhelming majority of those who pass through the modern university do so merely as a prelude to entering into the greater sphere of citizenship, and in practice students reject much that might be of value to them in later life, merely because they cannot see how it will help them to earn a living when they graduate. And while it is highly desirable that the less ulterior side of education should receive its due emphasis, the fact remains that the primary function of the university is to make better citizens. The university, in other words, should be the breeding-ground of the highest elements in the state, and the whole process of education should be determined by the needs of the state with respect to the quality of those who are to take the reins of leadership.

However, the state is not a simple entity. On the one hand we have the state as a functioning organism, a body of men and women trained to think for themselves as a group bound by ties of sentiment and necessity into a single whole, possessed of certain common aims and ideals and striving together for their realisation. A large part of university education is devoted to a study of the state from that point of view, a study of its needs and of the processes by which they may best be satisfied; a study of its ideals and of the processes whereby they may not only be realised, but may also be raised.

But on the other hand we have the state as viewed from the political point of view, the state as government. Most people, if you asked them the primary qualification of citizenship, would define it not as the realisation of oneself as an integral functioning unit of the state, but as the possession of a vote, the right to delegate one's authority in all vital matters to a governmental body. The inevitable result has been that we think of the state as government; when the government acts, we say that the state has acted; when governments proclaim an attitude on any question, they proclaim it as the attitude of the state.

Unfortunately, government is traditionally carried on by cliques, political factions, whose interests are not those of the state, who gain control by processes far removed from those of good government and who make a career, not of government, but of politics.

This situation vitally affects such a university as ours, because it is dependent for financial support upon a government grant, and the government therefore feels justified in supervising and, indirectly it is true, in controlling its activities. If it were not for this governmental interest in the university, the question of its right to interest itself in active economic, industrial and political problems would never have arisen.

Is the opposition to teaching on such matters justified? Obviously not, if it is admitted that every citizen should be interested in them, and that the primary function of the university is to create better citizens. With regard to economic problems particularly, it is highly imperative today that every university graduate, at least, should be trained not only to understand them, but to criticise intelligently the existing economic order. If such criticism so invariably runs counter to governmental interests, and the interests which our political leaders do represent, that they are prepared to condemn it in toto, surely this is evidence that the government is not meeting the needs of the state. If the conclusions which seem inevitably to be drawn from a critical study of economic problems oppose so consistently the tenets of our political leaders that professors of economics are continually laying themselves open to charges of tampering with political matters, the fault is not that of the economists, who generally speaking know their jobs, but that of politicians and financiers, who from the point of view of the public weal obviously do not know theirs, as witness the state of the public weal today.

The question still remains, as to the right of university professors to take an active part in politics. Professors of economics, political science and history, particularly, as students of those problems with which good government is most concerned, are clearly better fitted than the average public man to accept positions of responsibility, and if their talents lie in the field of political activity, the state is well advised to accept their advice and leadership. As far as the danger of their promulgating purely political doctrines in the classroom is concerned, any student in the History or Economics departments can bear witness to the illusory quality of this politicians' bogey.

The Royal Alexandra

"Telling the truth," says one of the characters in J. B. Priestley's play Dangerous Corners, to be seen all this week at the Royal Alexandra, "is like skidding round a corner at sixty miles an hour." And after seeing Mr. Priestley's brilliant expose of truth telling and frankness and then to be shown the convenience of keeping mum, the audience can only agree.

Imagine the horror of discovering when the truth is pumped out of a small gathering that your wife doesn't love you, your secretary does, your brother who has committed suicide you find an obscene dope-fiend, your brother-in-law is a homo-sexual (delicately put, mind you), your business partner is a thief and a cheat, and your brother-in-law's wife whom you had pictured as the symbol of purity is your cheating partner's mistress. That briefly is what happens in the very tense action of the amazingly amusing play at the Royal this week. The acting was at times very capable, Gavin Muir as the searcher after truth gave a very vivid portrayal, as did Beverly Bane as his secretary. The humorous lines were exclusively given to Jack Hartley, the genial cheat who carried his lines with great ease. The remaining women's parts were played by Virginia Stevens, Agnes George and Jane Wheatley, who directed the production of the play. If no one has realized it previously my opinion of the play is that it is excellent entertainment and well worth seeing.

M.B.L.

That irrepressible spirit, Cherub, has been questioning us as to why the women who drift vaguely into Hart House generally look for the Hall Porter in the Squash Courts. We cannot tell. Architecture or instinct?

Or just bare necessity?

In answer to numerous requests, the Cat is providing its own survey of the week's best entertainment. Whether or not this feature is continued depends entirely upon the goodwill of our readers, and the price of chin. rests for bass viols in Peru.

C-C

First on the list is Mr. Geo. Worthing, who will supervise the performance of his own celebrated composition, Two American Salesmen in A Paris Diva. On the same programme will be heard the clinking melodies of Mr. Worthing's Rhapsody in Glue.

C-C

If you are highbrow, and read Frank Chamberlain's column in Canada's Greatest Newspaper, you may prefer Mr. Joseph Hofmann-Hofmann, the eminent zither virtuoso and circus celebrity, performing here by special arrangement with Mr. P. T. Barnum.

C-C

In the dramatic world, there is an announcement of special interest. At the personal request of the Prime Minister of Canada, the Fascist play Great Men Reck will be given as scheduled. The Prime Minister has guaranteed that none of the actors will be deported until he himself has seen the play.

C-C

With the co-operation of the T.T.C. the Funeral Theatre is presenting a timely performance of the famous opocretta, The Student Sprouts. As the well-known critic Mr. Rolling Bung has said "It is not only one of the most excellent, stupendous, exalted, and perfect shows ever brought to the Funeral, it is also one of the best."

C-C

Then, by special arrangement with Dr. Robert Jackson, Eddie Cantor will give a demonstration of Roman Meal, with Ruth Eating.

C-C

And when you come around to The Varsity office to thank us, bring your Champus Cat contributions, and avoid overworking that unfortunate individual.

Imperial—

Even more intriguing than the good old detective thrillers are the new marriage puzzlers. It is really terribly difficult to see how the vicious triangle will ever decide which side is superior. In As Husbands Go the time factor lends an added zest to the problem, because the director made the first part of the picture too long, and had to finish it up in about five minutes. Anyone who saw When Ladies Meet will realize that the logical name for this picture would have been When Gentlemen Meet. The only difference was that there were two men in this triangle. In spite of the weak plot and some poor dialogue, Warner Baxter and Helen Vinson manage to make good entertainment out of the poor material, assisted by Catherine Doucet and Warner Oland.

The stage show is a tuneful and colourful tableau version of The Student Prince. While it does not rank as a fine performance of The Student Prince, it is better than the average vaudeville show.

ANNOUNCE PLANS OF LIBERAL CLUB

Prominent Men Will Present Liberal Viewpoint on Problems

LEWIS DUNCAN, THURSDAY

Announcement was made yesterday by the Liberal Club of a series of meetings to be held this term in the Music Room at Hart House. At each meeting there will be several prominent men who will present the Liberal viewpoint on present-day problems of general interest.

In an interview with The Varsity, J. A. Harley, vice-president of the club, stated that poster announcement was being made of the three meetings already settled. Mr. Lewis Duncan will speak at the first meeting on Thursday evening on "Liberalism and Combines". Mr. Duncan is an authority on the subject, having been counsel for the commission under the "Combines and Fair Trade Act", designed to control rising prices after the war; when this Act was declared ultra vires Hon. James Murrdoch and Mr. Duncan were invited to draw up the present Combines Investigation Act. Upon its adoption Mr. Duncan was a commissioner under the Act on several occasions, the most notable being the investigation into the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Combine, when convictions were obtained against four of the parties involved.

Mr. Harley said that Mr. Duncan would be accompanied by several of the graduates who would assist in the discussion, and that interested undergraduates should come prepared to participate.

VARSITY SENIORS PLAY IN NAGARA FALLS TO-NIGHT

THE SPORTSWOMAN

By J. B. H.

Marion Forward put the seniors through a vigorous workout last night. Things look promising for a real team with the pick of the interfaculty teams trying hard for positions. There seems to be a dearth of guards with only six trying out and a possible five finally winning places.

The coach is stressing the six-man defence. This has always been a strong point of the Varsity team. Once this system is undertaken it must become as much a part of every player's basketball as her A B C's in writing. She must know her position so well that she is no longer bound by the rules, but can use them without having to think twice, or break them at her own discretion.

Al Butler and Eleanor Wallace are old stand-bys and have the advantage of knowing this system inside out. They should prove a steady influence and after all a steady dependable defence is what every coach prays for.

The forwards were more or less on the spot last night. By the time they get proficient at working up to the basket through the formidable double lines that Marion Forward puts in front of them, we will predict a triumphant return of the Bronze Baby this year.

The Badminton Club met yesterday afternoon and elected their officers. Lolo Boehmer is president; Agnes Gardiner, vice-president and Peggy Glasco, secretary-treasurer.

The interfaculty tournament won't be taking place until the end of February so there is lots of time for some real form to be worked up by the enthusiasts.

TORONTO LIONS DEFEAT JUNIORS

Both Teams Displayed Poor Brand of Hockey at Times

REMINISCENT OF SHINNY

Sixty minutes of hockey which were peculiarly reminiscent of their paternal ancestor, shinny, found the University of Toronto juniors again on the receiving end, this time receiving a 7-2 trimming from the Toronto Lions. The game was the curtain-raiser to last night's O.H.A. double header at Varsity Arena. With St. Mike's meeting and defeating the Parkdale Cnec Club in the second game of the session.

The Varsity-Lions game was pretty much of an ordeal for the few spectators who turned out. It was absolutely devoid of anything which in any way resembled good hockey. There was no combination and little speed displayed by either team. Lions, however, tried to make a fight of it but failed. The seven goals they tallied represented only a minute percentage of the opportunities which were offered. On the game they were full value for their win, but it was durability rather than finesse which gave them the victory. Summerville in the Lions nets might have been good but had little or no opportunity of proving it.

Ripley was perhaps the best of the Varsity squad, giving the Blue team their first goal. Poupore accounted for the second and concluding tally for Varsity. George, with two, Good with a pair, and Bentley, Geddes and Powell figured on the scoring sheet for Lions.

Lions — Goal, Summerville; defence, Powell, Wright; forwards, Bentley, Geddes, Good; subs, Nicholson, Waters, George, McLeod, Kelly.

Varsity — Goal, Owen; defence, Wainwright, O'Leary; forwards, Poupore, Ripley, Lavery; subs, Sisson, Morgan, Walkey, Hamer. Referee — Lampert.

SENIOR VIC LOSE TO SENIOR S.P.S.

Engineers Superior Both in Speed and Shooting Ability

DOUGLAS HIGH SCORER

The interfaculty basketball series got under way in the upper gym last night, featuring an auspicious start by Senior School, who romped through to a 23.9 victory over Senior Vic. It will be recalled that last year's title was won by Jr. Meds.

The Engineers had it their own way from the opening whistle. Starting fast they rushed the Vic team off their feet to conclude the first twenty minutes leading 14-9. Both squads displayed the lack of condition and combination usually prevalent in the opening game of the series. School, however, were the more finished and accurate shooters which, along with their edge in speed spelled defeat for Victoria.

Douglas on the School forward line was the high scorer, topping the list with six points. The rest of the points were well split up with eight out of the nine School players figuring on the score sheet.

The Vic defence was a little tighter in the second half but their scoring power was very limited.

S.P.S. — Waldon 4, Douglas 6, Reid 4, Cooperman, Wagerman 2, Caldwell 1, Black 1, Cahoon 2, Hall 3. Senior Vic — Parminter 2, Nech, Richardson 2, Barry 1, Read, Walker 2, Tylor, McKibbin 2, Aylesworth. Referee — "Red" Gordon.

RUSHING BOOK BUSINESS

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By B. J. McGuire

Tonight Warren Stevens will lead his student hockey team into Niagara Falls in the hope of taking a fall out of Gene Fraser's Cataracts. The last time these teams met Varsity had considerable edge in the play and only their inability to get their sights trained on the Falls kept them off the victory list. Tonight it will probably be different as Varsity have since learned what it feels like to skate off the ice on the long end of the score and according to reports they sort of like the idea. However, Gene Fraser's white scarf is not an indication that he has surrendered the idea of two senior O.H.A. titles in a row despite the formation of a Niagara Falls Alumni with headquarters in Ottawa.

Last night's double header up at the Arca produced a rather mediocre brand of hockey despite the great display of the St. Mike's team. The Varsity-Lions game was the answer to what is wrong with hockey around the town. It wasn't even a good burlesque. The most exciting thing about the whole affair was when Waters went into a clinch with Owen, the Varsity goalie and required two assistants to unravel the pair. The only lion-like thing about the Lions was the yellow on their sweaters although Waters at centre did show a tendency to travel on all fours. If the show was saved last night it was St. Mike's who saved it. This fast travelling squad are the most colourful team in junior hockey and should be out there showing their wares in the Dominion finals. Despite the one-way traffic they encountered against Parkdale they gave a pleasing exhibition. Just to see Metz, Kelly and Jackson in action was itself worth the price of admission.

Varsity juniors were considerably weakened last night as they were without the services of Art Upper. Art had a tendon hurt in his left arm when he collided with Barnes of Oshawa. Last night in this column we stated that Upper would be out of action at least two weeks, but unfortunately the time has been extended and it is quite unlikely that he will be performing again this season for the Blue team. The tendon in his left arm will have to be nursed carefully if he is again to turn in the brilliant performances he did in the past season on the baseball diamond. Upper with his portside delivery is considered the best professional prospect in amateur hardball in the city.

The all-star assembly of lacrosse players will be out to practice again tonight in preparation for their invasion of Rochester on Friday night. The boys are full of confidence in their ability but it is a long jump from interfaculty lacrosse to the type played in Rochester at present and Varsity will probably find they have a lot to learn. However the attempt certainly won't do any harm and any attempt to arouse interest in this once popular pastime will be favourably regarded, particularly by those of the alumni who once made Varsity a power in the lacrosse world.

VICTORIA OUTPLAYS GRADUATE STUDIES

Poor Team Badly Beaten in One-Sided Ball Game

SAUNDERS, VICTORIA STAR

Playing behind the masterful hurling of Saunders, the Victoria baseball nine romped over the struggling and disorganized Graduate Studies team to win handily by the score of 11-1 in an interfaculty baseball game played in the big gym yesterday afternoon.

The losers lacked the polish that the Victorians had, especially in fielding and a great deal that went for hits and then runs for the victors, should have been easy outs if the Grads played anything that could be termed baseball. At the plate Victoria showed the way with the willow, pounding out no less than 12 hits while their opponents nicked Saunders for only two scratch hits.

Victoria scored in every inning, having their big session in the first frame, scoring five runs, while the Grads got their lone tally in the first inning, Cowie scoring.

Victoria — Amos, Cumming, Grills, Willis, Colmer, Hamilton, Edwards, Clipperton, Saunders, Cronin, Gastle, Hills.

Grad. Studies — Cowie, Wong, Miller, Duffel, Edmonds, Rogers, Ney, Clark, Braaten.

Umpires — Gould and Cragg.

INTRODUCTION COMMITTEE TO FUNCTION AT RINK

What does the Student Introduction Committee mean to the skaters at the Varsity Rink? To understand and use this convenience will be of benefit to you. From the senior years of every faculty of every college (and from the different large residences) representatives, both men and women, are selected to act as ice breakers, figuratively speaking of course, and their sphere of this popular recreation. If a student or graduate of the University wishes to make the acquaintance of someone, he or she need only confide the desire to a lady in a white beret with the University crest, or one of the gentlemen of the blue beret, and the thing is done.

Following a meeting today of this year's committee, a list of the members will be published in The Varsity. Just pick out the Rep. from your own faculty, whom you will doubtless already know, and now in spite of your lack of acquaintances among the skating fraternity, you are all set for an enjoyable social evening.

Mr. Workman, the manager of the Varsity Skating Rink, stated that the Introduction Committee was of about five years standing, and was first originated not only to make the students acquainted with one another, but also to eliminate the inevitable easy and at times objectionable camaraderie usually caused by rowdy outsiders, and always prevalent when there is no other form of introduction.

WATERWAYS PLAN MOST DISASTROUS

This opinion is shared by lower New York State. The states around the Mississippi are afraid that the development of the St. Lawrence would drain water from the Mississippi as well as detracting from its trade.

"Since the St. Lawrence is predominantly a grain route the movement of grain constituting eight per cent of its traffic, and since the western grain is being shipped in proportionately greater volume through the Pacific ports, any large expenditure upon the St. Lawrence waterway could scarcely be justified on economic grounds."

"There is very little likelihood that the plan will pass the Senate," said Professor Innes, also of the Economics Department. "The sectional interests," he added, "are very large and important in the United States. Those states of the middle west fear that the development of the St. Lawrence will detract from the Mississippi trade. Of course, it is very difficult to say what will happen since there is greater pressure than ever before for the plan to go through. We will have to wait until next week to see what actually happens, before I can say anything more."

exchanging products or services, operating industrial enterprises, etc.)
3. The place of co-operative societies within the socialist state. (By this is intended that the essay should develop the arguments for and against such control of agriculture, industry and distribution in a state wholly socialistic or in the process of becoming such.)

This contest is open to all Canadians under thirty years of age. The essays must be mailed to the president, Mr. H. E. Langford, 91 Gothic Ave., before March 15, 1934. The name of the writer should be submitted on a separate sheet, together with a note stating address, occupation, place and date of birth, and education received. Decision regarding the prize award will be final. The essays will become the property of the Robert Owen Foundation and may be published by it as it sees fit.

been a set policy on the part of the party to besmirch the Conservatives with the same brush." He discussed the attacks made upon the government in connection with the Hydro and Abitibi "scandals", and more recently the adverse criticisms of the Attorney-General and the claim of Mitchell Hepburn that a perverse verdict was delivered against him recently on instructions from the government. Mr. Heighington asserted that in all these matters the members of the Conservative government could not be justly criticized. "It is just a question now of when the public is going to be weary of this series of unfounded and reckless charges against the government," he said.

Neither can the government be accused of maladministration and extravagance, as is so often done, stated the speaker, and quoted figures to prove his statement. "It is true that there was a deficit shown on last year's account," he said, "but this was due to unforeseen circumstances." The "unforeseen circumstances" were the exchange payable on New York bonds, the Jarvis fines, and the $33,000,000 spent on unemployment relief. "They can't point to a mispent dollar," he said.

Touching on the matter of reform of the Liquor Control Act, Mr. Heighington said, "It is no longer a question of whether we shall have liquor or not. Twice the people have shown by an overwhelming majority that they approve of the L.C.A. All we have to decide now is whether that system is the most reasonable and the most effective." The speaker cited briefly the suggestions being made at present about the liquor control problem which have led the government to consider the whole question. "It is a question of whether the people feel that for about six years and only then is he qualified to enter a university. There is no course in the university, that is in Jagiellon equal to our Pass course, but in its stead those who desire to enter the teaching profession go into the "Politechnika".

The chief student's organization, further continued Mr. Tomalski, seems to be the "Legion of Polish youth", comprising about 50,000 members all of which are university students. Its main purpose is to direct student politics. The executive is composed of students.

There is also a student newspaper at Warsaw, called the "Kuznia Mlodych", and is mainly political. It has for its contributors many of the government officials.

He also mentioned that the Polish Sejm is vigorously interested in the education of its students and is chiefly responsible for the organization of the present student life and its activities.

Throughout the whole interview Mr. Tomalski seemed to be most enthusiastic about Poland, and very favourably impressed by the student activities there. He has intimated that in a short time he will give a series of talks about conditions there.

A work of this kind increases the reputation of a university for those qualities in the members of its staff in which it may well take pride. It represents research on the literary side. Professor Green will leave for England in May and will return to his work in the University of Toronto at the beginning of January, 1935.

the circle of each home must be enlarged to include society at large and society at large must be recognized in its relation to the home." Isolation is no longer possible.

A firm belief that the spirit of rationalization is spreading today was evinced in all Miss Henderson's remarks. "Wouldn't you expect it to spread after these three years, when millions have waited in breadlines while the world's dinner table has almost sunk under the weight of its abundance." While the speaker did not uphold the belief held by so many that the depression was beneficial she did state that if one good thing has come from it, it is that it has purged us of unintelligent thinking. "We have become tired of thrusting the good of the world down a well and then weeping crocodile tears. The need was new men and women, who will give not mere lip service or who are too lazy, indifferent and self-centred to manage things well, men and women who realize fully that we cannot live to ourselves but we must be vital. For the benefit of our own kind and kin," maintained the speaker, making the appeal more personal, "we must realize this need and act accordingly."

Doraty scored three overtime goals to enable the Leafs to beat Ottawa 7-4 last night.

ORIGINAL FEATURES FOR SCHOOL NIGHT

Revue of Humorous Skits Will Be Centre of Attraction

'HELL POPS', TITLE

With customary Engineering wit, enthusiasm, and ballyhoo, the boys from the little Red School House are hard at work in an effort to make this year's School Night, which is being held in Hart House on Friday evening, January 19th, up to, or above the standard of its predecessors, which have proved so popular with students and friends of Applied Science.

According to various members of the Engineering Society Executive, when interviewed by The Varsity, the preparations for the School Night of 1934 are as elaborate as they are complete. A revue of skits, with such imposing titles as Hell Pops, Pansy the Wonder Horse, will provide a surplus of humour, diving and water polo will feature the performance in the tank, and soft lighting and sweet music under the direction of John Crawford and his orchestra, will soothe the exam-worn feeling of the Engineers as they dance in the big gym, the east and west common rooms and the reading room. A buffet supper will be served in the Great Hall, and as is the custom, the Chemical Department will dispense gallons of cider, cigarettes and chocolate bars from the booth in laboratory style.

Ticket lists have been posted in the Engineering Society's store, and have been signed practically to the limit. It is expected that a supplementary list will be posted in the event that all of the tickets are not claimed.

When interviewed by The Varsity, W. S. Smith, vice-president of the Engineering Society, was confident that the party, which is among the largest and most economical on the campus, would uphold the tradition of former years in all respects. "It's the big informal party for everybody," said Mr. Smith, "and there is always plenty of fun. This year, of course, we expect it to be far ahead of any of the previous years, and we are hard at work to make it just that."

The patronesses will be Mrs. R. R. McLaughlin, Mrs. E. A. Smith and Mrs. E. A. Alcott. It is expected that the attendance this year will be about fifteen hundred.

VILLARI CLAIMS FASCIST REGIME BASED ON YOUTH

Refutes Charges Levelled at New Growth in Italy

AT U.C. LIT. MEETING

Much Business Transacted at Meeting Held
Yesterday

"The new regime in Italy is essentially based on youth—it is in fact a worship of Youth," exclaimed Commendatore Luigi Villari, emphatically denying that the youth of Italy are largely opposed to the Fascisti. The youth are unanimous in their support of the regime; its opponents are mostly the middle aged men.

Speaking to the first meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society for the 1934 session, Dr. Villari gave a brief resume of Italian history, illustrating the development of the State towards political independence. An open discussion then followed, during which certain phases of conditions in "Present-Day Italy"—the Commendatore's subject as first announced, were brought out.
